The movie enthusiasts are not downhearted because they are segregated or not allowed in the white theatres. The famous players of "Shuffle Along," "Strut Miss Lizzie" and "Creole Follies" appear at the Lincoln and the Howard Theatres.

The Dunbar and the Foraker Theaters have the second run of the big New York attractions.

Although the capital has a separate school system, the colored students have two up-to-date modern and well equipped prep-schools. The Dunbar high school offrrs a complete academic course; on the other hand the Armstrong high school is equipped to offer courses in manual training, machine shop, etc. Students whose work is in both schools must spend a part of the day at Dunbar and the remainder at Armstrong. They do not have the R. O. T. C. at these schools but they do have military training.

The annual drill competition at the Washington American baseball park creates qquite a sensation.

Probably the greatest Negro higher institution of learning is at Washington. Howard University has on its roll students from all parts of the United States. Those who are there from Los Angeles relize the value of the association but they are not satisfied in many other respects. Every year more and more students are completing courses in business and various professions, to follow their line of endeavor in different parts of the country. Many graduates are employed immediately in government service at the capital.

The athletes of Howard do not receive the publicity tht the colored athletes of mixed colleges receive. It is because Howard has not the prestige of Harvard and other mixed colleges. Many star football plyers are to be found on Hampton, Howard and Lincoln elevens, but w do not hear of them because the International News Service does not carry news of the colored athletes in colored colleges. In the Howard-Hampton football game, Dabney of Hampton played a game that would win him a place on most any eleven in the country. But we do not hear of these athletes here in the West as we do Gourdin, Pollard, Butler and others.

The Y. M. C. A. of Washington has a our-story building with rather modern equipment. It has a good gymnasium, a lunch room and three floors are given over to dormitories.

The large race newspapers are the "Washington Eagle," the "Washington Colored American," the "Washington Tribune" and the "Tattler," a society weekly edition.

These papers have a basket ball team to represent them in the colored eastern basket ball championship.

On thewhole the Negroes of Washington are progressing quite rapidly along every line of achievement, although there is more prejudice than would be expected.

COMMUNISTS BACK N. A. A. C. P. WITH FUNDS, DECLARES KLAN HEAD

"Emperor of Invisible Empire Says Du Bois Got $20,000,000 for Race Cause.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20.—(Crusader Service) "Col." William J. Simmons, founder of the Ku Klux Klan, in a speech before the recent Imperial Klonvocation of the oathbound disguised anti-Negro, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-foreigner and anti-radical order, mde the amazing declaration that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had been given $20,000,000 by the Bolsheviki for the purpose of securing political and social equality for the Negroes of the United States, in line with the resolutions to that effect passed by the Fourth Congress of the Third International in one of its recent sessions in Moscow, at which Negro delegates from the United States reported on the condition of the race in this country.

The speech of "Col." Simmons, former Imperial Wizard, but now Emperor of the Invisible Empire, as reported in the Atlanta Searchlight for Dec. 2, 1922, is an ill-informed, intemperate diatribe against Turks, Catholics, Reds Japanese, Radicals and Negroes.

The part regarding Dr. Du Bois' organization reads as follows: "In the South there are 11,000,000 Negroes, enfranchised in 18866 while still speaking the jargon of the jungle, nd were given lordship over anglo-saxon civilization in the Southern States. The vast population, but one generation removed from savagery, has been the constant prey of scheming, designing, selfish, polluted politicians. Organizations have been formulated and financed by unscrupulous men to further their particular fortune, political and otherwise, through offering the Negro political or social equality, or both. More recently the Bolsheviki, organized in Russia, have proclaimed their purpose to bolshevise America, beginning with the Negro race, and for the preliminary purpose of organization it is alleged, $20,000,000 were appropriated nad placed under the direction of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

The above declaration from such a source shows that to the K. K. K. Bolshevism and Negro freedom are somehow associated. Perhaps the good "Colonel" who boasts of his 100 per cent Americanism may be unintentionally showing Negroes a way of escape from their present oppression.

SHADOW OF KU KLUX FALLS OVER CONGRESS AND NATION

Seventy-Five Members of The House Reported Elected by Its Votes. N. Y. Banker Backer. Amazing Growth in Indiana and Other Northern States Reveals Klan Drive for Conquest of National Power.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(Special to the California Eagle) That the Ku Klux situation in this country is paralelling the Fascisti situation in Italy a few months ago, which developed in the seizure of the nation by Fascism, is rapidly being recognized by thoughtful people throughout the country. It may be said that when the New York Times recognizes in a reactionary organization such as the Klan a menace to the country that organiztion is a menace indeed. And, while the editorial staff of the Times cannot be said to have any wide reputation for intelligence or deep thinking, the fact that the Times should attack the Negro hating Klan, rooted sa both Klan and Times are in the traditions of the South, makes the following article, which appeared in the columns of the Sunday Times, Dec. 10, all the more significant:—

(From the N. Y. Times)

The seriousness of the Ku Klux Klan menace in certain parts of the United States was brought home when it became known that John M. Parker, Governor of Louisiana, had gone to Washington seeking help of the National Government in combating the "invisible empire."

It is common talk in Washington men who are members of, or in symthat the next Congress will have many pathy with, the Ku Klux Klan. According to one report, probably seventy-five men in the new Congess will owe their election in large part to the support of the masked organization. It is established that there will be Representatives in the Congress who come to Washington with Ku Klux endorsement. Whether they are members is a question which cannot be answered, for the Klansman, as a rule, does not dmit his membership. ****

That the Ku Klux problem has assumed nation-wide proportions cannot longer be denied. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Chairman of the National Democratic Senatoril Committee Sentorial Committee, has charged on the floor of the Senate that "the Klan showed its heinous and venomous character here and there in recent elections," and that, encouraged by its own power in some States, the organization "is threatening control of the political machinery of our political parties."

The words of Senator Walsh were startling, but what he said has been borne out by reports from all parts of the country, particularly the South and West, where the growth of the Klan has been greatest. In at least two states—Texas and Oregon—it has proved its strength; in one case by the election of a Senator alleged to have been a member of the Klan and in the other by the election of a Governor. Instance after instance in which members fo Congress, State officials and lesser officials have been defeated because of Klan opposition re cited in political circles.

Because of the position Governor Parker assumed, the situation in Louisana is the most talked about of all the States in the Union, but conditions in Louisana are no worse than in a number of other States. In Louisana the Klan is charged with the kidnapping and murder of several persons; it is alleged that it has elected the Mayor of one of Louisiana's largest cities (not New Orleans) and in some sections in the northern part of the state it has assumed a dominating position.

Louisiana, if Washington reports is typical, and the evidence is tht the Klan has not been exaggerated, the Klan has made more headway, from a political point of view, than in any other State in the Centrl West. The Klan in Indiana exerted its influnce in a large number of instances in the recent election. The defeat of Milton Kraus, a veteran member of Congress, was attributed to the activities of the masked organization. Another reported victim of the organization was William J. Oliver, Republican candidate for State Treasurer. A third was Patrick J. Lynch, who stood for reelection as Clerk of the Indiana Supreme Court.

The only known ground for the opposition to these men was that of religion. Kraus is a Jew, Lynch a Catholic, and Oliver was said to have married a member of that Church. Had the rest of the Republican State ticket gone down to defeat the charge that the Ku Klux had contributed to the defeat of Oliver and Lynch would have collapsed, but the remainder of the Republican ticket, in all important instances, was elected.

The greatest strength of the Indiana organization is in the cities. Indianapolis is, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne and Logansport. The Negro population in Indianapolis is proportionately one of the largest of any city in the North.

In the neighboring State of Ohio the Ku Klux is als oat work, if information in Washington is correct. Two Democratic candidates there for the House of Representatives, whose election was practically conceded, were said to have gone down to defeat because of Klan opposition.

Out in Missouri it was the Ku Klux Klan and not the Woodrow Wilson influence which threatened to defeat Senator Reed.

Across the line from Missouri is Kansas, another State where, if reports are true, the "invisible empire" has been making great hedaway. Representative Philip Campbell, Chairman of the House Committee on Rules was head of the House Committee which investigated the Klan last year. He was badly defeated when he stood for renomination and will not be in the next Congress.

To the South of Kansas are Arkansas and Oklahoma, and in both of those States the Ku Klux is admittedly gaining strength every day and it has become a commanding influence in the political affairs of large sections of both Commonwealths. In Arkanss at the recent election every candidate fo roffice in Pulaski County, the seat of which is Little Rock, the State capital, who had the endorsement of the Klan was elected. Every man who stood for office on an anti-Klan ticket was defeated. Governor McRae, said to have had the Klan endorsemenr swept the primaries with a two to one majority over his opponent, Judge Toney.

It would be hard to exaggerate the Texas situation, if the stories told in Washington are true. So bitter has been the fight that it has estranged life-long friends, and in some instances, so it is alleged, even destroyed the relations of Texas families.

The upset of Harry Hortzberg of San Antonio, the Democratic nominee for Congress from the Fourteenth, or San Antonio, district was charged principally to the Ku Klux Klan. Hertzberg, a Jew of the highest standing, was opposed by Harry Wurzbach, a Republican, who defeated him in this normally heavy Democratic district by 4000 votes.

The writer asked a Texan now in Washington in a high official capacity about the situation in the Lone Star State.

"There can be," he said, "no two opinions as to th Ku Klux situation in Texas. The organization is out to control the State, and it has made great headway. It has elected a Senator, in some instances the Judges who will preside over our courts and probably has a majority in the lower house of the Texas legislature. The number of officers, such as Sheriffs and other local and county officials, who owe hteir election to the Ku Klux Klan it is impossible to estimate.

Oregon is face to face with a Ku Klux menace of the first magnitude. Governor Olcott, an implacable for of the organization, and backed by the anti-Klan forces regardless of party, was swept out of office on Nov. 7, by a majority of more than 35000 votes. His opponent had the Klan endorsement.

Other states whence come reports of Klan activities include Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, California, Arizona, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, North Dakota and even New York. That it is spreading and seeks to operate natianally no one denies. To further its political program it has started an auxiliary of women.

CAST THY BREAD UPON THE WATERS

ers brought him back to the realization of his surroundings as something struck his foot. He deftly dogged aside, with a quick step, just in time to avoid a blow from the huge gang-plank which was slowly going up. His friend, which had been the means of his earning a week's salary for his hard labor, was leaving; her holds were filled and her hatches were battoned down. Her passengers were all lined up along the deck rails waving farewells to their friends who would soon be out of sight. Her First Mate, a great broad shouldered man of full beard and resplendent uniform, standing on the bridge by the signal-box, was just in the act of reaching his hand up to grasp the chain of the monster sirene, to bid the usual adieu, as the liner slipped from her berth, when lo and behold, to his horror, even though his ship was then short of men, he saw one of his crew, as he imagined, deliberately standing by, with hands thrust in his pockets watching the gang plank ascend and making no effort to come aboard! His fury knew no bounds as he noticed the careless look of unconcern on the face of the miscreant and he stayed his hand a moment to fairly bellow forth his edict:

"Hi thar, you worthless blubber!" Come aboard quick!" "Do you want this ship to be delayed for a rum headed stoker?"

"We're short of hands now!"

"I'll have ye in chains in a minute!" An observer might have thought that he fully contemplated leaping from the bridge to seize the person who had so aroused his ire, but stay. His invitation to embark had been heard and so Dick Belden came back to himself at the sound of the voice whose owner had mistaken him for one of his crew. He noticed the great gang-plank slowly rising above his head and soliloquized:

"What was there to be gained if he remained where he was?"

"What would be his chances to make good in another part of the world?" In a second his resolution was formed. "I'll go." "I'll try it again, in a new world." His voice rang out clear in response to the mate on the bridge, as he crouched for a spring to gain the gang plank which was now well above his head. "Aye,Aye, sir!" "Coming!"

He sprang, grasped the plank with the tips of his fingers, wormed himself around to the top side, stood up and, gaining his equilibrium, he made a rush down towards the deck from the sharply tilted plank, leaping far to one side, as he gained the foot, to avoid a vicious kick from the boatswain, who may have suspicioned that he had had one more drink ashore than himself. Content with seeing his quarry safe aboard, the interrupted hand of the mate reached up once more and sought the chain of the ship's sirene.

A deep, sonorous roar cleft the atmosphere and reached from the distant hills till the vessel was clear of her berth.

Slowly she drifted out towards the channel and picking up her own power, as the many little tugs cut loose from her and scampered away to avoid the blades of her mighty propellers, she turned her nose to the Golden West and headed for the deep waters of the blue Pacific.

As she passed out through the Golden Gate, a solitary figure stood on the deck, just aft the wheel house, gazing a last fond farewell towards the land which had given him birth, but which had treated him so unkindly. He lifted his eys towards the blue Heavens, as the last vestige of land faded from sight, and gave voice to his long-pent up feelings: "Oh fair land of my fathers, why art thou so accursed with such inhuman hypocrisy?" "Why art thou so accursed with such selfish worshippers of gold?" "Where dwelleth the sincerity of thy Christianity?" "Why send thy missionaries to the foreign countries when there are such broad fields at home?"

He sobbed aloud as he leaned against the rail and buried his face in his hands. The sun had long since passed the zenith and, like a great red ball of fire, it sank slowly beneath the horizon and dusk faded into darkness.

Early next morning there was the usual muster of the ship's crew for the examination of seamen's cards.

On the fore starboard side of the vessel, on the promenade deck, a long line of men stood at attention, with their backs to the ship's cabins, holding their cards of identification and references in their hands for inspection. First came the head boatswain, stepping along the line briskly ordering the men to "get redy for the Doctor."

This was accomplished by bowing the head, unbottoning the shirt and rolling the collar well back from the neck and lolling the tongue as far out of their mouth as possible. No visage escaped the Doctoir's scan and no man was turned down as "unfit," since the crew was already short three men, and consequently it was a first class crew which was registered on the ship's log that journey. Immediately on the heels of the ship's Doctor came the Chief Engineer, who took each card from the hand of the owner, scaned it quickly and handed it back. No doubt many of the faces were old to him, for many greeted him familiarly, but respectfully, and he seemed to have a good word for everyone.

Great men, those big hearted heroes, who take their station at the throttle, many fathoms beneath the waters while the storms, in all their fury, break over their head! Waiting, waiting for the last word of command from the master on the bridge, whether the ship is sinking or whether she is proceeding safely on her way.

Whether she is nearing some unknown treacherous reef or whether she is gliding serenely o'er the quiet waters of the deep. The First Mate followed along in the wake of the Chief Engineer. Occasionally he was in conversation with the Chief or perhaps re-examined some seaman's card or questioned one of the crew. At the fartherest end of the line, away from where the inspection had begun, there stood a man who was a stranger to every one on board. He carried no seaman's card nor letter of identification, nor, references. He wore rough working clothes, such as are worn by the stevedores who work on the docks but he had an honest face and was possessed of a good figure. The boatswain halted in front of him, as he reached the end of the line of men, and almost stood at attention. Very evidently he was a trifle surprised to find this man in the line with the rest of the crew. "Oh, here ye are, eh?" he saluted him. "Jest going to start a round of the bunkers for ye, in a few minutes."

"Ye shore slipped one over that time but I guess ye'll come in mighty handy any how for we're short about three men." "Ye shore look hearty."

"Did ye ever do a double shift straight fer about three weeks?"

Several more questions were hurled at him so rapidly that he had no chance whatsoever to get in the first syllable of a word to reply when the ship's Doctor reached him, and taking up the cue from the conversation of the boatswain which he had just overheard tried a new volley on him:

"Ever been to sea before?"
"Ever been vaccinated?"
"Been sick lately?"

By this time the Chief Engineer and the First Mate arrived on the scene.

The ship's Doctor promptly washed his hands of any further controversy by introducing the stranger to the First Mate as: "A hearty looking chap without any ticket." Very evidently the Mate felt little concerned or was in no humor to argue. With a mere glance at the man in question before him he turned to the Chief Engineer and inquired: "Can you use him Chief."

The Chief's affirmative reply: "Yes, I'll find something for him to do," seemed to settle the question for all hands.

Promptly the boatswain turned to the line of seamen and ordered them to "break ranks!" There was a scampering and shuffling of feet as the men departed, either for their different posts of duty or for their resting quarters. The First Mate and the ship's Doctor had turned about and were proceeding towards the forward part of the vessel.

The Chief Engineer after bidding his newly made acquaintance to follow him, proceeded in the same direction. He presently turned into a narrow aisle, or hall way, opened a door which had his position of rank on a brass plate above it and holding the door ajar, bade his companion "enter."

It was neither bribery nor diplomacy which prompted his next act. It was simply a kindly feeling of sympathetic respect for a fellow being in distress. A broadminded man's way of regarding another man's feelings, irrespective of color or nationality. He drew a chair up by the little table in the center of the room and taking a seat on the opposite side of the table he bade the stranger who had just entered the room with him to be seated in the chair which he had just placed. Having acquiesed, respectfully, the Engineer lifted a decantar and filled two glasses to the brim with a bright golden sparkling fluid. "Guess it won't do you any harm lad," he remarked as he raised his own glass to his lips, and the two glasses vanished in one deep quaff.

One revived the wearied man who had lost much sleep and worked long hours on a tempestuous voyage.

The other brought back new vitality and warmth to the half benumbed body of a man who had slept what few miserable hours he could without food or shelter on the cold open deck of a ship at sea. The two men sat, for a brief moment, facing each other. The Engineer was the first to break th silence. "Where are you bound for lad?" "You haven't done anything all to skip out for have you?" "You see some of the fellows just come aboard to keep away from the law."

"You don't look like that sort though." He listened patiently then while the stranger, voluntarily, related what part of his past life he chose to, chiefly of his disgust of his former associates and his thorough determination to break away from them, and the useless dissipated life which he had been dragged into, no difference what part of the world he had to go to, to be free. When he had finished his story the Engineer congratulated him for his determination to make a stand for cleanly manhood and manly principles and giving him some sound, fatherly advice such as can be given only by a person of broad mind and much experience, he expressed the desire that he might meet him again, some day, when he had accomplished his desire.

He then pressed an electric button and in a moment one of the stewards appeared. A hearty breakfast for two was ordered to be spread in the Chief's room and, when due respect had been paid to the same, by two keen appetites, the Engineer informed the new seaman what his duties would be, that of an oiler for the engines, and bade him follow, as he led the way to the engine room.

Away down into the interior of the ship, down iron ladder after ladder, passing deck after deck, they proceeded.

The monster upright engines were roaring and whirling with full speed, driving the great shafts which bore the ship's huge propellers.

Every inch of space nd machinery appeared as bright as a new dollar.

The Engineer opened a steel locker and took therefrom a pair of clean overalls, a jacket and a skull cap and handing them to his new assistant bade him don them. He then received a large oil can with a long spout and was shown the various parts of the huge machinery which he was expected to keep supplied with oil while on duty.

His task was neither arduous nor were the hours long and after his duties were finished it was his wont to pace the deck, aft the wheel house, and enjoy a quiet "drag" of his pipe and watch the clear blue waters of the deep ocean as they swirled away from the propellers as they bore him farther and farther away from his native shores.

It was thus that he stood, one balmy afternoon in mid-Pacific, after working hours, gazing down at the waters, when his attention was arrested by the flutter of a silken robe, as a lithe formed Japanese young lady passed him robbed in her own country's style.

For a moment he was lost in bewilderment at her beauty and charming grace. She lifted her great soft brown eyes to his, for just a second, as she passed on her way and smiled slightly as she allowed them to drop again.

PASADENA

Mesdames Florence Cole-Talbert, Anita Patti Brown and accompaniste, Miss Nathalie Doxsey were charmingly entertained in the Crown City Saturday afternoon and evening, when Mrs. Bertha Turner opened her spacious home for their introduction and pleasure. Beautiful plants and flowers amid the subdued lights literally transformed the rooms into a mystic garden. A delicious repast was served. About one hundred friends responded to the invitation and an evening of true merit was enjoyed by

WHO IS "BOSS" OF YOUR DOLLARS?

A good many men let the other fellow spend the money they earn—the other fellow just has to suggest something to sell them and—the money is GONE.

Some men are strong enough to control their own money. Every time they get money, they put some of it in a Savings Account—first—BEFORE the fellow who wants to sell you something gets a chance.

It takes a MAN, and a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, in a GOOD BANK, and a STRONG WILL to build up a fund of money in bank which you can use for things that are really worth while.

A TALE OF OLD JAPAN.

On two former occasions the Coleridge-Taylor Music Club presented to the people of Los Angeles HIAWATHA, a musical composition by Coleridge-Taylor. The attendance upon those concerts convinced us that our people love their great men, are proud of their accomplishments, and are contributors to and supporters of all movements instituted for purposes of education. It is not generally known, that each of the HIWATHA productions cost the club a sum approximating one thousand dollars. All financial, as well as moral obligations were assumed by persons who lay no claim to professional or semi-professional ability: they possessed many fine spirits, namely a willingness to work hard, a disposition to sacrifice for the good of others, and a generosity found only among those whose love of race has marked them as belonging to the progressive and aggressive type of Negro.

They love art. All their work has been in hte interest and furtherance of art. No eye was singled to the highest possible profits that might be derived from the work of the club. Some have been promised fixed sums to the date set for these concerts but they waived all claims for the justification of art and to demonstrate their love for the members of their race who are doing things.

Uerhaps our failures in th past were due to the fact that we labosed for twelve months to produc a single work of Coleridge-Taylor and then presented it one night only. If the actual cost of production is presumably one thousand dollars, and, if the proceeds for one evening's entertainment is a like amount, then there is only one benefit derived from a whole year's work of intensive rehearsing and sacrificing; another musical contribution has been given to the community. In defense of art this reslut would justify the existence of an organization as is the Coleridge-Taylor Music Club, but it does not compensate those whose enregis have been exerted in persuit of music as a profession and who are wholly dependent upon it for existence. The sad part is that it furnishes no inspiration or means for perpetuating th study of music or any other art, either individually or collectively.

It is a recognized fact that music requires more unremitting practice and devotion than any other art or science. We have known thousands to exhaust themselves, but no one has ever exhausted the study of music.

It is clearly seen that our financial condition is due largely to our own tactical blunders and not to any disposition on the part of the public generally. We hope to avoid the mistakes of the past by presenting compositions of a colossal nature to more than one audience and in at least three or four different cities. To this end THE TALE OF OLD JAPAN will be the chief work of the club this season and the people of Los Angeles will be given an opportunity to see the production two consecutive evenings.

The TIME set for this concert is the second week in FEBRUARY.

The PLACE is Gamut Auditorium.

The OBJECT is to establish two or three scholarships for deserving and talented musicians who have not the means to persue their art to a required degree of proficiency. In this way the club hopes to keep exer before th Negro musician the name and works of Coleridge-Taylor, to the end that America may some day produce her Coleridge-Taylor.

JUDGE CONKLIN OF EL CENTRO

Perhaps there are some of our people who do not know that Judge Conklin is presiding in Judge Shenk's court during his vacation. Judge Conklin has made many strong friends among our people since his election to the Superior Bench. Many of those who were opposed to his election are now his most ardent admirers. The Judge is all right; a big man in a big position, dealing out even-handed justice to all regardless of race, color condition or creed. We wish the Judge a Merry Christmas.

RUSSIA, NEGRO'S HOPE, CLAUDE MCKAY BELIEVES.

Sees in Overthrow of Old Oppressive System the Salvation of All Downtrodden Peoples. Not a Delegate. Went to Moscow on His Own Initiative to Present Race's Cause.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(Crusader Service) Claude McKay, the Negro poet who was one of two American Negroes to address the Fourth Congress of the Communist Internationale while in session in Moscow, has long looked toward Russia and her smashing blows at the Capitalist-Imperialist exploitive system as the hope of the Negro masses in their aspirations for liberation. He has been an outspoken advocate in this country of a policy of Negro friendship toward Soviet Russia to match the policy of marked friendship and fraternity which Moscow has shown, under Soviet rule, toward the colored peoples of the world, from the Persians to whom she gave freedom and help to throw off the remaining British yoke, to the Egyptians and Hindus whom she has helped with funds and arms all the way to Mongolia and China, to whose people she returned many Czarist spoils which the old Russia held in common with other plunderers.

At this time when the press of the world has given front page circultion to the fact that Mr. McKay's presence in Russia and his stirring appeal in behalf of his race in the Americas and Africa, the following poem, taken from his latest book of poems, "Harlem Shadows," will be found of immense interest:

EXHORTATION: SUMMER, 1919.

Through the pregnant universe rumbles life's terrific thunder,
And Earth"s bowels quake with horror; strange and terrible storms break.
Lightning-torches flame the heavens, kindling souls of men, thereunder:
Africa! long ages sleeping, O my motherland, awake!
In the East the clouds glow crimson with the new dawn that is breaking,
And its golden glory fills the western skies.
O my brothers and my sisters, wake! arise!
For the new birth rends the old earth and the very dead are waking.
Ghosts are turned flesh, throwing off the grave's disguise;
And the foolish, even children, are made wise;
For the big earth groans in travail for the strong new world in making.
O my brothers, dreaming for dim centuries,
Wake from sleeping; to the East turn, turn your eyes!
Oh the night is sweet for sleeping, but the shining day's for working;
Sons of the seductive night, for your children's children's sake,
From the deep primeval forests where the crouching leopard's lurking,
Lift your heavy-lidded eyes, Ethiopia! awake!
In the East the clouds glow crimson with the new dawn that is breaking,
And its golden glory fills the Western skies.
O my brothers and my sisters, wake! arise!
For the new birth rends the old earth and the very dead are waking,
Ghosts are turned to flesh, throwing off the grave's disguise.
And the foolish, even children, are made wise;
For the big earth groans in travail for the strong, new world in making—
O my brothers, dreaming for long centuries,
Wake from sleeping; to the East turn, turn your eyes!

Mr. McKay was not a delegate to the Third Internationale's Congress. He went to Russia on his own initiative and at his own expense. He is a member of the African Blood Brotherhood and other organizations. He was for several years on the editorial staff of the Liberator, a radical magazine published in New York by white people. He is a correspondent of the Crusader Service and will write a full report of the proceedings of the Fourth Congress of the Third Internationale for the Negro Press of the world.

GOTHEM
AT 4TH & BROADWAY

The management of the Broadway Department Store was not satisfied with its improvements, additions and artistic decorations until it reached the standard of the most complete Department Store of New York City.

In fact tourist coming from the far East say that the Broadway surpasses most of Gotham's best in point of convenience for the nervous shopper at Christmas time.

At the Broadway you may secure any article that is needed in the home. FEDERAL CASE AGAINST MARCUS GARVEY COMES UP IN JANUARY

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. (Crusader Service) It can be authoritatively stated that the case of the United States Post Office against Marcus Garvey, George Tobias, Eli Garcia and Mortimor Thompson, officers of the defunct "Black Star Line" has not been dropped by the government, but will be brought to trial as soon as the present congestion of the Federal Court with prohibition cases is reduced.

Witnesses are being examined and will soon be assembled as it is confidently expected to bring the matter into Court some time next month.

It is rumored that the Department of Justice welcomes the co-operation of all persons who have been "stung" by the corporation because of the representations made to them by its officers.

COMMUNISM AND THE NEGRO

By Chandler Owen.

Negroes were present at the recent meeting of the Third Internationale. Some of them spoke. A resolution was adopted which pledged the members of the Internationale to strive for the equality of Negroes and Whites and for the full political and social freedom of the African race. The resolution also alleges that "the Negro populations are suffering from similar oppressions in Japan, China, India, Morocco and other countries."

This is all interesting. It also puts a crimp in the superficial, but very widely discussed Negro opinion, that the Negro's salvation is through Japan. Again, the Third Internationale, intimates that it may organize an all-Negro conference for the purpose of considering the betterment of the black race in all parts of the world.

The Negro is getting very popular or very notorious these days. Few conventions meet without considering this question. It presses for solution. The New York State Democratic Convention this year called for equality for the Negro. The Republican party conventions, since the Civil War, have usually called for equality for the Negro. This demand is also voiced by the National Socialist convention. It remains, however, to have these groups demonstrate concretely what they mean by "justice and equality" for the Negro. The Southern white man claims to believe in "justice" for the Negro. His applied justice, however, works about like this: In transportation, the white man in a Pullman car, the Negro in a Jim-Crow car; in the theatre, the white man in an orchestra seat, the Negro in the peanut gallery; in politics, as Frederick Douglas said, "the Republican party the ship, all else the sea," which interpreted in applied politics meant, the white man on the ship, the Negro in (all else) or in the sea. Sometimes Lily White Republican, and Lily White Democrats were even more charitable. They wanted to save the Negro from labor. They loved him. They liked him so well they relieved him of having to bother about voting and decided they would vote for him. This is what we call 50-50 co-operation between white and colored people. It recalls the case of the Wisconsin town which was overran by rabbits. The City Council decided to shoot all the rabbits. The meat packers, ever alert to business, determined upon making sausage meat of the rabbits. This process quickly consumed the rabbits, whereupon the packers began to mix horse-meat with rabbit-meat. The sausage got much coarser and the people complained. They wrote letters to the papers, as a result of which the newspapers reporters interviewed the packers. When the reporters asked the packers how they made this new sausage, the packers said they made it 50-50! The reporters pressed for a more specific answer, inquiring whether the packers meant by 50-50, a pound of horse-meat to a pound of rabbit-meat. Finally, hedged in a corner, the packers replied: "O you know what 50-50 means; 1 to 1—one horse to one rabbit!" We are interested in the Negro getting a 50-50 break these days, but we don't want it at the rate of one horse to one rabbit. We anxiously await the applied Communism to "equality for Negroes," and sincerely hope there will be no duplication of the Wisconsin town's proportion.

A Great Cantata: "The Christ Child"

BY: LOUIS MICHEL

On Christmas morning at 5 o'clock there gathered at the 1st A. M. E. church, 8th. and Towne Ave. a large and zealous audience, record breaking in numbers and sublime in magnificent hearing, and this audience came to witness the first rendition in this city of the Cantata, "The Christ Child."

The guiding genius of this successful and most impressive presentation was Professor Elmer C. Bartlett, who had prepared his well chosen choir members for many weeks for this notable performance and who proved once more his splendid abilities as a conquering director who fully understands the trying art to make creditably performing people out of struggling, hardly known and even crude material. To manage so large a choir, to prompt the participants into a splendid and most lasting discipline, to earn their good will, their effective cooperation, their unhampered best capacities without being an exacting boss or an exclusive parading "superior "tyrant, is indeed a grand work accomplished through the good tact, the victorious capacity and the fine, nonostentatious fellowship of this Plebian director and man of the people, Director Elmer C. Bartlett.

The story of the Christ Child is the great, old dramatic truth of real greatness humbly born, of wondrous ability obscured and handicapped by extreme poverty, by cruel persecution by heartless tyranny that always moves against the ringing truth, the kindly heart, the noble mind. The writer as a non-compromising Jew admires Christ, since Christ had a Jewish parentage and is adored even by the Henry Ford stripe of pretending Christians that are, we are sorry to state the most unprincipled Jew-baiters in this country.

The message of Christ was a great and a world-stirring one, a good deal like the message of Moses, like the message of Joseph, the son of Jacob, like the message of Eugene Debs.

Only in this spirit does this writer accept Jesus Christ, as a Jew who aimed to make this world a better and a juster place to be in, but we have never and could never accept him as the God himself, as a deity that we must worship with bended knees, with folded hands and with the idea that a flesh was any different from our own, excepting that it may have sustained a purer, a wiser and thus a nobler spirit.

In this broad and humane sense do we gleefully accept "The Christ Child" and call the production a most inspiring and thrilling one, for the betterment of all mankind, for a return of the Christians to the simple life and honest teachings of Christ and for the Jews to be proud to have given to the whole world a genuine limb of the old Jewish stock that is the most imperishable stock of humanity on earth with the probable exception of the Negroes.

Indeed "The Christ Child" proves to the world the heavy and unpayable obligation all humanity owes to the Jews for having produced Christ, who was raised, but not killed by them, for true history reveals the indisputable fact that Christ was martyred and murdered by Roman pagans and Roman moneymongers.

We congratulate Professor Bartlett and his numerous and well-disciplined Choir heartily and proudly upon this effective dramatic lyrical and historical Poem presentation of the coming of Christ and we confess gladly, without being less of a Jew than we are, that this masterful rendition by amateurs, under the superb guidance of director Bartlett thrilled us deeply and for all the time.

How splendidly was gold egotism brushed aside and only the spiritual purity of the humane soul revealed! How kindly these Ethiopian singers exalted Christ, the Jew, and proved by their wondrous sincerity and by their dramatic attitudes and their dusky skins that they (the Negroes) would not forget the very Jew (Christ) who has been forgotten by most of the living Christians of this age all over the globe.

Truly, this great performance was worthy of the little trouble to rise at 3:30 in the morning and manage to be at Rev. A. M. Ward's church promptly at 5 A. M. to be a happy participant of these joyous manifestations of Christ's advent.

The six notable and outstanding stellar points of a fair and honest criticism must revolve in these facts:

1—Director Elmer C. Bartlett's grand and flawless mass direction of the entire choir and cast.

2—Mrs. Pearl Roberts' magnificient handling of the organ, producing mellow and heart-melting sounds of exquisite sweetness.

3—Madame Florence Cole-Talbert's wondrous rendition of the sacred classic "Ave Maria," again omitting these non pareil lyrical notes of tenderest sweetness that are bound to earn for her the sobriquet "The sweetest nightingale of the Ethiopian singers!" Her violin accompanist, Atwell Rose, too, was a decided feature.

4—Mr. E. Hall's famous, naturally pure basso voice.

5—The realistic biblical impersonifications of King Herod, Virgin Mary, Joseph ,the wise men, the reader, the priests, the scribes and all the rest of the spectacular personnel needed for the true portrayal of the historical event.

6 The splendid efforts of the entire choir, consisting of these loyal men and women:

Mesdames Emma Smith, R. Howard, Rose Boswell, city; Hamilton, Greene, Duncan, Balch, McCoy, Prather, Mallory, Allen, Mac Williams, Daniels, Hattie Williams, Florence R. White, C. W. Smith, Kittrel, Broomfield, Leath, Love, Inman, Robinson, F. Williams, Wilson, Lamb, Moore, Vass, Madame Florence Cole-Talbert, Gertrude Barthett, Mme. Butler, Directress.

Messrs. Charles Boston, A. A. Thomas, L. D. Roberts, Grant Johnson, Moore, C. W. Smith, Vass, A. W. Wilson, J. Thomas Norris, Duncan, Stratten, E. Hall, Broomfield, Stafford and A. Alexander.

Mr. L. G. Eggleston, trombone.
Mrs. Alva Hightower, Cornet.
Mr. Atwell Rose, Violinist.
Mr. Jones, Saxaphone.

Probably of the ladies the most noted and picturesque choir member under Professor Bartlett's direction is Madame Florence Rita White. Modest to the largest degree, a born leader, she can essay the most humble role within the ranks, though she has a professional career of 11 years as an actress, a mimic, a dancer and a singer behind her. Once she starred with a company for the Griffin circuit and she has toured all over this country and in Canada as a public performer.

She is now a successful outside saleswoman, representing four wholesale houses and has determined upon a resourceful business career rather than stage work.

She is proud to be under Professor Elmer C. Bartlett's direction and highly pleased with the impressive success "The Christ Child" has scored, for the modesty of Christ, his birth, his life, his death and his work should be a live reminder for all humans to be modest, no matter how great they may be.

NAT'L. BAP. CON. AND ITS RESULTS

MOST "CROOKED" POLITICAL DODGES AND HIGH-HANDED METHODS DOMINATE THE ELECTION OF PRESIDENT OF CONVENTION.

By: ONE WHO WAS PRESENT

Editor California Eagle:

The National Baptist Convention assembled at St. Louis, Mo., in good form from the 6th to the 11th of December. "King's Theatre," one of the largest of its kind in St. Louis, and in the most restricted district, was engaged for the occasion. The delegation, and general attendance, was the largest in the history of the Convention. People came from all parts of the country.

The President, Rev. Dr. W. G. Parks, called the session together in a short and most befitting address—speaking particularly of the late Dr. E. C. Morris, the former, and for many years president.

After scripture reading and prayer, the various states in one representative offered remarks touching the life and work of Dr. Morris. Singing was quite a pleasing and appropriate part of this befitting memorial service.

The enrollment of delegates soon followed, and disclosed the unworthy purpose of some to take advantage of the rather elastic Constitution, and overwhelm the Convention with illy secured delegates for the sole purpose of securing the Presidency. The temptation to aspire, truly, brought out the worse in some, who, before, appeared as shining lights. In the running were: Revs. Dr. Parks, Philadelphia; L. K. Williams, Chicago; Norman, Washington, D. C.; Moses, New York; and Bryant of Georgia. Ten minutes were allotted each candidate for nomination speech. The oratory during this time nearly tore the roof off. Friends of each candidate held the over-taxed building in rapturous gaze and delight from 9 a. m. til 11 p. m. Thursday night.

Drs. Bryant and Moses, in brotherly spirit and kindly expressions, withdrew in favor of Dr. Parks, and Dr. Norman withdrew in favor of Dr. Williams. This of course left Dr. Parks and Dr. Williams in the field.

The vast multitude at this time began to show signs of eagerness to vote. The Chicago wing using every known political trick to win, while Dr. Parks sat quietly as the gentleman and the Christian, after making the wonderful and open statement that he had not asked any man, living or dead, to vote for him, he believed that the the office should seek the man and the office should seek the man and not the man the office. He (Dr. Parks) personally took one delegate from his church, while Dr. Williams had more than 200. Williams had out very large pictures of himself, church magazine, and buttons with his likeness which during the election were freely given away among the delegates. A song was composed bearing his name—"Williams for Me"—and was frequently sung during the voting. The voting was done by calling the State—and a lively time it was—many repeated. At the close the Tellers reported: PARKS, 769; WILLIAMS, 790.

Dr. Park's conduct will go down as an everlasting example of a noble Executive, the true Gentleman and faithful Christian and Servant of God. He, however was plainly and painfully disappointed. That night at 12:30 someone offered a motion to make the vote unanimous, but there was such a howl against it, that it did not go through. The next morning, however, it was brought up and passed by a small number of delegates present.

After this Dr. Parks was requested to install the President and Vice-President; this he did in a sweet spirit.

Dr. Park's Death

He preached a most forceful sermon at Central Church the Sunday morning and left Monday night of the 11th for Philadelphia. Wednesday he attended a dinner at Rev. Dr. Robinson given in his honor. At 6 p. m. he left saying, "I must go, I have an engagement at 6 o'clock." He entered the house of a deacon of his church, and the aged sister meeting him as he sat in a chair said, "And what about the Convention?" He replied "O, they treated me rough; they treated me"... and he fell back, dead. He died of a broken heart.

The funeral was Monday, the 18th from his church at 11 a. m. till 3:30 p. m. More than 3,000 crowded the building and about 200 ministers from all over the country were present. It was a service indescribable—O, it was wonderful. All the speakers had to admit that he died of a broken heart. The streets for blocks were crowded. "He conqquered, though he fell."

A GREAT SINGER HERE SUNDAY

Mdme. Sadye Cochrane-Chadwick, lyric soprano singer, from the far East is to apper in sacred concert recital at Eighth and Towne Avenue, First African M. E. Church, Rev. A. Milton Ward, Minister, Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock. The recital is to last one hour, when a thirty minute recess will be given prior to the old fashioned watch-night service which will be conducted by the minister, beginning at 9:30.

The singer rendered a solo at the morning service last Sunday prior to the sermon; and many and loud were the amens!

Mdme. Cochrane-Chadwick hails from Brooklyn, New York and comes from a family of singers. She is a singer for the Black Swan Record Co. Radio listeners of Los Angeles heard her sing last week at San Diego.

So pleased were the people of the First Mehtodist Episcopal Church (white) of San Jose, California, that she made a return engagement.

She sings with ease and grace. Hear her and judge for yourself. Mrs. A. Milton Ward, wife of the minister in charge of Eighth and Towne Avenue Church, has known this charming singer for more than a score of years. During her thirteen years' service on the reportorial staff of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, New York City, Mrs. Ward, who was then Mrs. Lydia C. Smith frequently wrote up the mother and father of this new singer.

She is being presented by Prof. Bartlett and the Choir Sunday night.

Mrs. Eliza Warner will hold an open house at her resident 461 N. Figueroa from 3 to 10 p. m. All are cordially invited.

Exer. Virgil Toney and Aurora Toney, daughter of Prof. C. H. Toney of the Vallejo Institute are visiting with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Toney at 675 E. Santa Barbara Ave.

Miss Dellie Dogins of 937 E. 37th St. is confined to her bed with illness.

Mrs. Mabel Gray of E. 37th St. has been ill for the past week.

Mrs. Bertha C. Bolling who resides in Hollywood was the recipient of the latest model of a handsome Hupmobile car from her husband William J. Bolling.

Mr. Bolling is now serving at San Pedro in the Navy as first class Petty officer.

THE NEW YEAR

By Chandler Owen.

The New Year is upon us. It is a time when many people and organizations take stock of their resources. With some it is a sort of moral inventory. They reflect upon what they have done and make resolutions for the fautre.

The writer wishes to extend a happy New Year to all the readers of this column. He wishes that each reader might be as much happier than he was this time last year, jjust as the writer is. Dark clouds have hung imminent and shadows have been upon the horizon. Despite these untoward circumstances however, sunshine has broken through the gloom. The Ku Klux Klan has steadily gained in power. It has extended its fangs into Oregon, Kansas, California, Washington; and almost every state of the Union. Attempts to segregate the schools have become nation-wide. Lynching and tarring and feathering have gone merrily on. The Dyer Anti Lynching Bill was defeated through an almost unanimous collusion of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Disfranchisement and jim-crowism have not receded. Unemployment, like a hydra-headed monster, has plunged its fangs into the life of our people everywhere. Marcus Garvey, America's chief laugh-maker, has not only made a laughing stock of the Negro, but at New Orleans and at Raleigh, N. C., in his efforts to cater to Southern Cracker sentiment, he made the most shameless attacks almost ever recorded, against a weak and persecuted people.

This is a dark picture indeed. Is there any light still leading kindly? Are there yet pastures into which we rae going? Can we call with Tennyson: "Ring out the old; ring in the new; Ring out the false; ring in the true."

We are delighted to say the signs are encouraging. While the segregated school has made headway in certain places, supported unfortunately, by hat-in-hand Negro editors, politician, teachers and leaders—at some places, like Springfield, Ohio, the Negroes have stood their ground. They have defeated the separate school gang by refusing to send their children to school, by picketing, by protesting, by every legitimate means within their power. The example set in Springfield is good for the Negroes of the entire Nation.

Politically, the Southern Negro is still disfranchised, but he is still migrating to the North where he becomes enfranchised. The Negro has shown more political selection than ever before. Wherever he had the power, he defeated opponents of the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, and elected supporteds instead. In New York the Negroes voted so solidly for A. Philip Randolph, co-editor of The Messenger, and the only Negro nominated on the State ticket, that he polled 30,000 votes ahead of the gubernatorial candidate. They thoroly rebuked the Republican praty—a party of promise, but not performance.

Civilly, a large number of Negroes are insisting upon every right to which they are entitled—including social equality. Economically, the Negro worker has become entrenched in industry. He is getting into the unions, establishing more fraternal racial relations. This is true of the Negro workers. Negro business men have also been advancing. Just like the whites, some of their businesses have failed, their banks closed and their integrity impunged. This is true only with a small minority; the majority of them have increased in public confidence, enlarged their businesses, and become more formidable competitors in the world of trade and commerce.

Improvement in the Negro press is encouraging. It has become a more alert, more efficient gatherer of the news, a more vigilant sentinel of the Negro's rights. It is purveying education and instilling stamina.

Probably the most hopeful phase of the year just passed has been the tendency of leaders of different political, religious and social faiths, to get together. We refer, of course, to the honest men. They have learned also, that it is just as important to get together in opposition to a vicious Negro, as it is in opposition to a vicious white man. Honest and clean men of all faiths have therefore joined hands against the blackest (inside) of all the Negro race traitors in history, the conscienceless renegade, the unspeakable Negro villein, that indescribable clown, that monumental mountebank, that libidinous liar, that lusty lunged leech, that—as Cicero would say: Oh, what shall I call him?—infamous Marcus Garvey. This Negro's influence has been killed, his schemes have fallen through, the fanaticism for him which once was, has now changed to wrath. Ere you have read this, gentle reader, Marcus Garvey will be on trial, and the New Year will be happier when justice is meted out to him. In this New Year, may the old demagogic devil be driven out of the life of the Negro and held in such check that he can sin no more.

Another thing about which Negroes should be especially happy this New Year is the powerful allies who have been forced to their side. Men often combine because of a common enemy, even thoughh no other force would weld them to gether. The Ku Klux Klan, in opposing the Catholics and Jews along with the Negroes, has driven together a trinity of power which will yet dissolve this lawless tar and feather fraternity.

Our men and women have moved apace in Art. They are taking their place upon the stage. There are nine big-time acts on the Keith-Orpheum circuit; about thirty more small acts are also put on by Negroes. Quite a number of companies have withstood the bitter competition of the times, emerging victorious in the theater world.

Roland Hayes, Florence Cole-Talbert, Harry Burleigh, Helen Hagan, Charles Gilpin, and a score of Negro artists have climbed to heights of achievement which throw a beautiful and irrestible charm over human achievement.

Courageous, talented, able young men and women are hammering out and fashioning a place in world civilization for the Negro. They are heralds of the dawn. They are advanced guards of the new day. They carry a torch whose light is breaking thru the thick windows of the past. Then all of us will have happier New Years. We will enjoy brighter and better days.

A happy New Year to all is the sincere wish of this writer to every one of you.

Mrs. Louise Johnson of 610 Brooks Ave., Venice, Calif., died Dec. 16th. The funeral was held on the 20th with Rev. James of Santa Monica officiating. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The relatives of the deceased are Mrs. Williams of Phoenix, Ariz. and Mrs. Marrow of this city. Mrs. Simons of Santa Monica and Clarence Johnson with whom she lived and others. The interment was held at Evergreen.

Mr. Paul McClendon and Miss Georgia Tooke were quietly married last Saturday at 1131 E. 34th St. at the home of the groom, where they are now happily domiciled.

Mrs. Alberta T. Webb entertained with an elaborate dinner party Sunday evening, Dec. 24th at her beutiful home, 1342 W. 35th Place. Artistic in every detail were the decorations and favors which were carried out in yuletide motif. The candies and mints were made by the hostess.

A large turkey graced the table with all the delicacies that go therewith. An ice cream cake decorated with a Santa Claus was a feature of the dessert. Sharing in the hospitality of Mrs. Webb and Miss Melba Simpson were: Mmes. C. M. Jason, O. L. Tippins, L. B. Patrick, T. A. Coven, Mabel Turner, Frances Simpkins and Misses Rose McPherson, Julia A. Jenkins and T. Coven.

Grand Master

THE HISTORY OF THE ANCIENT FREE AND ACCEPTED MASONS

That was organized in Washington, D. C. April 5, 1869. And was then chartered for a period of Fifty (50) years, for North and South America, their territories and dependencies and Canada.

Which was presided over by our Ill. John G. Jones, 32 degree, until his death, in the month of June, the 7th day, 1914. He was also Supreme Grand Patron of the O. E. S. and courts of A. A. O. Dt. of Sphinx, for the U. S. A. and Canada. Dr. B. H. Stillyard, 33 degree, who was then Lieutenant Sol. G. C. succeeded to the throne, as Most Puissant Souverign Grand Commander, who also answered to the call in death, July 17th, 1916. Ill. H. T. Broady, 33d degree, being at that time Lieutenant, Sovereign Grand Commander, attempted to automatically, overturn the work of the Supreme Grand Council, by calling a special session to be held in Chicago, Ill., and there elect Grand Officers, for which act he was expelled. Ill. C. L. Mitchell 33 degree was elected in a special session held in Chicago, Ill., June 17, 1919, who has since his exalted succession done more for the Craft than they all, for he has received for the first time from the United Grand Lodge of England the last will and Testament of Masonic recognition and Affiliation for our Rite that will be sent to this country, which carries it full power to heal Masons Lodges, and Grand Lodges in this country. Since then Ill. C. L. Mitchell, 33 degree, has succeeded in having the former Charter, changed to read PERPETUAL for the U. S. A. their territories and dependecies and Canada, Southern and Western Jurisdiction, etc. In the year of 1900 or 1901 there was another organization in which Bogus and Suprious, known as Imperial Grand Temple of the A. E. O. of N. of Mystic Shrine, one with headquarters at St. Louis, Mo., one in Baltimore, Md., one in Washington, D. C., and another at Little Rock, Ark., made up of expelled, Masons from the United Supreme Grand Council, for Gross unmasonic conduct.

WELCOME ADDRESS

By Mrs. M. G. Patton.

Master of Ceremonies, Most Worshipful Grand Master, Royal Grand Matron, Officers, and members of the M. W. Alpha Grand Lodge, A. F. & A. M. Scottish Rite of the jurisdiction of California, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Words fail me when I try to express to you the hearty welcome, accorded you tonight, by the members and friends of St. Paul Baptist Church, because we know full well the principles of your Grand and Noble order. We welcome you because you are the Most Ancient of all secret Fraternities, reaching as far back as King Solomon's time. Let us take a retrospective view of the mile stones of progress you have made. From a beginning so small that even the promoters couldn't see the possibilities, you have spread the principles, for which you stand throughout the length and breadth of the world, and so first has been your stand for the things which [illegible] every one [illegible] son means much. With God as your head no man can be a true Mason without being a Christian. The compass which is one of the emblems of your noble oredr, causes you to circumscribe your actions, and do only those things that become a member of the Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, Scottish Rite. The Square, another emblem of your order leads me to believe that you deal on the square, with your fellowman, and that you refrain from the petty things that would reflect upon your fraternity. Not only do we welcome you because you represent justice, mercy, honesty, truthfulness, etc., but because of the protection you are able to give to a brother while he lives, and when he has answered to roll call to heaven, you administer to the needs of the distress of the widows, and orphans, for it braces a woman in her hour of grief to know that although the cruel hand of death has taken her prop, yet there are those who stand ready and willing to do what they can to lessen her sorrows. To the members of the Eastern Star, we welcome you because you represent five of the illustrious women of Ancient times. The Noble qualities which these five Heroines possessed, teaches you how to be a good wife, mother, daughter and friend.

For these things we welcome you to our church, to our pews, and to the beautiful music furnished you by our excellent choir.

On behalf of the members of the St. Paul Baptist Church, I again bid you welcome, yes thrice welcome.

To which Ill. V. M. Cole 32 degree, W. M. of B. H. Stillyard Lodge in fitting words responded.

Ill. Charles S. Broady, 32 degree, Master of Ceremonies, handled the program efficiently.

With R. W. D. G. M., J. L. Arnold, 32 degree in charge of the Craft.

Yours Fraternally,
Mrs. M. G. PATTON.

This Supreme Grand Council of the A. F. and A. M., Scottish Rite in its fourth annual session, began to investigate the true status of the origin and geuniness of the African Ldoge that was then at Boston, Mass., with one, Mr. Prince Hall, as Grand Master. Among colored men in the U. S. A. at that time, Brother W. C. H. Curtic, was President of the Congress and appointed the following Committee, W. R. Lawton of Missouri, John G. Jones of Chicago, Ill., B. F. Rogers of Springfield, Ill., Jos. H. Banks of Providence, R. I., and H. D. Vena of Detroit, Mich.

Committee report

1. We find that the establishing of the African Grand Lodge of Modern Masons in Boston, Mass., among colored men in June 24, 1791, the whole work was irregular, unlawful and contrary to Masonic law.

The names of the officers, that were elected at the organization of this spurious, irregular and clandistine, Afrlcn Grand Lodge, of Modern Masons, were as follows, Prince Hall, Hall, Grand Masttr; Nero Prince, Deputy Grand Master; Cyrus Forbes, Grand Secretary, and Peter Best, Grand Treasurer.

2. We your committee further find that according to the record it only had one Lodge that took part in this organization. This statement is also confirmed by these officers, viz; Prince Hall, and others. And this Lodge was African Lodge No. 459. Now according to Masonic law it takes not less than three subordinate lodges ot orgnize a legal and lawful Grand Lodge and these must hold warrants of constitution from some regular Grand Lodge that is warranted and working. Then some lawful Grand Master must preside in Masonic convention and leave his official copy of Masonic credential, [illegible] official Seal on same for it to be [illegible]ful and regular. This Grand Master must be as acting Grand Master serving by [illegible]ion in full power to [illegible] Masonic

Following this organization in the year 1847, these same men in part met wiht one, Mr. John T. Hamilton, in Masonic convention in Mass., and there again organized what is known as the F. A. A. Y. M. National, Compact. Which is now in many parts of this country. Later on we find another organization known as the American Universal Federation of Freemasons. Each and every one of the above named organizations claims to have some sort of connection with the A. F. and A. M. Scottish Rite. Every thing wants to have some thing to do with the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Scottish Rite, but unless one will have taken the first Three Symbolic Degrees in a regular, A. F. & A. M. Lodge, holding a legal warrant from some regular Grand Lodge, known throughout the world, my friend you are still clandestine. Turning now to what may be said of the Craft look for yourselves into the true record of Masonry by Thornburgh, page 169, which we will mention hereafter, also see page 171 of Alpha Podge, A. F. & A. M. of New Jersey which we mention hereafter.

The Most Worshipful Alpha Grand Lodge

Is not connected with any other Grand Lodge in the state of California, (colored). So no comment is needed to show why. Yet some will tell those who do not know, there is no difference by saying that they are both, F. & A. M. and A. F. & A. M. at the same time in carrying a two-faced application blank reading as mentioned above. Again some will attempt to carry water on both shoulders, by telling those who know not that they are both. Now no man can be both white and black at the same time. Therefore be not deceived. See Thornburgh of the history of Freemasonry, among colored men in North America, as stated by Them on page 169. In 1775 a traveling Lodge of a British Regiment stationed in Boston, Mass., conferred the degrees on Prince Hall and fourteen other Negroes and they applied to the Grand Lodge of England for auhtority to form a Lodge and in response to their request the Grand Lodge of England, (That was organized in the year 1739 at London on Sept. 29th, 1784, authorized the establishment of African Lodge No. 459 to work in Boston, Mass., only, with Prince Hall as Master, Boston Smith, as Senior Warden, Thomas Sanderson as Junior Warden.

So says the record of Mr. Thornburgh, that this regiment conferred the degree on Prince Hall and fourteen other Negroes. These Negroes applied to the Grand Lodge of England for a charter or authority to form a Lodge and in response to their request the Grand Lodge of England on Sept. 20, 1784, authorized the establishment of African Lodge in Boston with Prince Hall as Master. This Lodge was composed entirely of Negroes. It was not given authority to grant dispensations for the establishment of other Lodges and therefore had no right to do so. In 1813 the name of this Lodge was dropped from the roll of Lodges of England nad its authority ceased. At the union of the Grand Lodges of Mass., African Lodge if it was then in existence, was not recognized by the Union Grand Lodge of Mass. Therefore by the action of the roll of Lodges of England and its and by the ction of the United Grand Lodge of Mass. African Lodge became Clandestine and as all the Negro Lodges of so-called Masons derived their authority from African Lodge, they are, so far as white Lodges are concerned, Clandestine and not recognized by any Grand Lodge in the United States.

Mackey in his encyclopedia says of African Lodge: "This Lodge ceased its connection with the Grand Lodge of England for many years and about the beginning of the Nineteenth Century, its registration was stricken from the rolls of that Grand Lodge, its legal existence in the meantime never having been recognized by the Grand Lodge of Mass., fo which body it had always refused to acknowledge allegiance. After the death of Hall and his colleagues, to whom the Charter had been granted, the Lodge for want of some one to conduct its affairs, fell into abeyance, or, to use the technical phrase, became dormant. After some years it was revived but by whom or under what process of Masonic law, is not stated, and information of the revival given to the Grand Lodge of England, but no reply or recognition from that body.

After some hesitation as to what would be the proper course to pursue, the Negroes came to the conclusion, as they have themselves stated, that with what knowledge they possessed of Masonry, and as people of a color by themselves, they were and ought by right to be, free and independent of other Lodges. Accordingly on the 18, of June 1827, they issued a protocal, in which they said: We publically declare ourselves free nd independent of any Lodge from this day, and we will not be tributary or governed by any Lodge but that of our own. They soon after assumed the name of the Prince Hall Grand Lodge, and issued charters for the constitution of subordinate and from it have proceeded all the Lodges of colored persons now existing in the United States except one.

Admitting even the legality of the English charter of 1784—which, however, is questionable, as there was already a Masonic authority in Mass., upon whose prerogatives of jurisdiction such charter was an invasion—it cannot be denied that the carefully mised self-revival of 1827, and the subsequent assumption of Grand Lodge [illegible] and [illegible] both Prince Hall Grand Lodge and all the Lodges emanated from it, clandestine, so far as the white organizations are concerned.

And this has been the unanimous opinion of all Masonic jurists, North and South, in this country. It is to the credit of the Negroes that they do not claim any connection with the white Lodges, but are a separate and independent organization."

One Negro Lodge

In 1871 there were several negro men in Newark, N. J., who had been made Masons in regular Lodges, perhaps in foreign countries, where such is allowed; these Negroes together with a few white Masons obtained from the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, a charter for a Lodge which was given white men who belong to this Lodge the name Alpha. It appears that the dropped out and as only Negroes joined it, it became practically a Negro Lodge. The attention of the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Miss. being called to a report of the condition of the Lodge, he addressed the following letter to the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, under date August 22, 1908.

Most Worshipful Sir:

I have heard that there is a Lodge in your Grand Jurisdiction composed of Negroes, and that your Grand Lodge permits the initiation and affiliation of Negroes as Masons. I wish that you would advise me if this is true.

Edwin J. Martin, Grand Master.

To which letter the following answer was made by the Grand Master of N. J. under date August 25, 1908.

Most Worshipful Sir and Dear Bro:

Yours of the 22 inst., inquiring concerning a Lodge of Negroes in this state, received. Your information is correct. Alpha Lodge 116, A. F. & A. M. of Newark, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of N. J. is composed almost entirely of Negroes. The Lodge was warranted on January 19, 1871, but it has never been very prosperous, and is not how so, having a total membership of only 46, there is no law in this jurisdiction, against making Negroes Masons, nor of affiliation by regular made Msons, irrespective of color. Alpha Lodge, however, is the only Lodge in this jurisdiction that has any Negro members. There are of course, a number of so-called Negro Masonic Lodges in the state, but we do not in any wise recognize them.

William D. Wolfskeil, Grand Master.
Fraternally Yours,

Speaking of the A. A. O. of N., the Mystic Shrine.

The Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine was instituted by Mohammedan, Kilif-Alee (his name be praised, the son-in-law of the prophet Mohammet, in the year of Hegira 25; A. D. 656) at Mecca, Arabia. William J. Florence, 33 degree of New York City, while on a visit to Arabia was initiated in a temple of the Mystic Shrine in that country and the secret work of the Order was brought by him to the United States in the year 1871, and placed in the hands of Dr. Walter M. Fleming, 33 degree Sovereign Grand Inspector General of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite and Eminent Commander of the Columbia Commandery, No. 1, Knights of Templar, of N. Y. Dr. Fleming in conpunction with William J. Florence, 33 degree with William Eddy, 33 degree and others, instituted Mecca Temple of the Mystic Shrine at N. Y. Noble Flemings was unanimously chosen as its presiding officer, namely Illustrious Grand Potentate. Owing to death of four of the original Craft until 1875 when the work revived and the order spread over this country. On June 6, 1876, the parent body was formed for America etc.

The above referred to speaks of the white Shrine.

Now for the A. A. O. of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine of Chicago, Ill, Ill. John G. Jones, 33 degree Sovereign Grand Commander of the United Supreme Council of the Southern and Western Masonic Jurisdiction, United States of America, after several years of correspondence, made application to the Grand Council of Arabia to be initiated into the work, and power and authority to institute Temples in the United States. His application having been received and accepted, in June, 1893, in the city of Chicago, Noble Rofelt, Pasha, Deputy of the Grand Council of Arabia and acting under the authority of the Grand Council of Arabia, and assisted with three other Nobles, with imposing ceremonies at the Masonic Hall, conferred the degree of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine upon him, and gave him a patent of power and authority to confer the degree of the Mystic Shrine, institute Temples and organize the Grand Imperial Councils, and be the Imperial Grand Potentate of the Imperial Grand Council in the United States of America.

Noble John G. Jones, 33 degree, of Chicago, is the only Mason and Shriner, either white or black, in North and South America, who has hte exclusive and legitimate right, power and authority to institute Temples of the Mystic Shrine work in this country. Noble John G. Jones, 33 degree, was the first and only colored Mason in the United States who has power and authority to confer the Mystic Shrine degree and institute Temples in the United States and all Mystic Shrine degree work in North and South Americ, and unless it is done under his sanction of power and authority, it is spurious, clandestine and bogus.

It may be here stated that no authority was ever given to Noble Will[illegible] Prince, or any others who were all prominent white Masons in the State of New York to confer the [illegible] Temples or form their Imperial Grand Council in the United States, from Grand Council of Arabia or any other source in Arabia, and they have been compelled to acknowledge the same to be true, that they never had any power whatever to do any work.

LAST, BUT NOT LEAST

Now to the Lawful Craft of the State of California, and of the M. W. W. Alpha, G. L.

You Craftmen, assembled, who the white apron wear,
Who meet on the level, and part on the square,
With the square and the Compass, to counsel and guide,
You may traverse this earth, with a feeling of pride,

And with smiles on your face, that a clear conscience brings,
You may shake hands with Princes, and sit down with Kings.
Be the land-marks unharmed, that for ages have stood,
When the fire and the sword, swept the earth like a flood.

Protected and watched by the ALL-Seeing EYE;
Heart rooted they stand, and time's changes defy.
At the Alter you kneel, where your fathers have knelt,
Where the proud and the strong into tenderness melt.
So firm and enduring, that man cannot sever,

Is that Mystical tie, that now binds you forever.
As you stand by these Masons and weep,
With feelings of gladness, all loving and tender and deep.
Oh, forget not, the wants of his desolate hearth,

Nor the dear tender ties, that once bound him to earth,
Go; kind sympathy, visit that fireside of grief,
And if want should be found, there carry speedy relief.
Do not give, as you would to the indigent poor,

Who may tremblingly stand, and beg alms at your doro,
Should the feelings of evil, your wild passions fire,
Let moral strength triumph, and wisdom inspire,
Gaining virtue, and beauty, as down that sure path,
That must lead you to Glory and Heaven at last.

Sermon by Ill. Dr. J. M. Young, 32 degree. Subject, "Masonic Thanksgiving Sermon." Text, Psa. 136: 1-2-3 verses.

Master of Ceremonies, Ill. Worshipful Grand Master of the Alpha Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M. Scottish Rite., W. M's Wardens, Brethren of Masonic Lodges an dmembers of the Order of the Eastern Star. In obedience to the Supreme Architect of the Universe, we are in the Temple once more assembled in our first semi-annual sermon of the above named Lodges, and Order of the Eastern Star. Under the jurisdiction of our Grand Lodge, to celebrate our Thanksgiving and St. John's festivities. The text very beautifully sets forth the power and strength of union. This entire Psa. is a brief Encomium of Unavieanity arthentically, Love.

It is thought that David penned this Psalm on the occasion of the union of the tribes, at which time he was made King of Israel. It leaves a message of splendid service to all societies, great and small, secret or benevolent, social or sacred, and it benefits the communion of the saints.

(1) Give Thanks unto GOD for His infinite Goodness; provission; (2) His Good-ness in protection, (3) His Goodness as set forth in the plan of Salvation; (4) For GOD so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son; that whosoever believeth on him might not perish, but have everlasting life; (5 Give thanks unto GOD for Goodness in material creation. The Earth, with its production of food, (2) its treasures in jewels, in minerals, in Gold, in Diamonds, and Rubies. For animals, wild and tame. For the sea with its innumerable contents. The refreshing air, with its feathered population, (3) Give thanks unto GOD for national peace and prosperity, and multiplied numbers of our nation, (4) Give thanks unto GOD for the principles of the A. F. & A. M. Grand Lodge and its world wide promulgation, benefits, and blessings, for which we give thanks, unto him, from whom all gifts and blassings flow, (5) Oh give thanks unto GOD for the Order of the Eastern Star, for the virtues set forth in its five points; and for the distinctive colors and the emblems, first Ada, in blue, symbolizes Fidelity. It teaches unfading Love. (2) Ruth robed in yellow symbolises ripened grain—harvesting, reaping—Industry. (3) Esther, robed in white symbolizes purity, faithfulness to kindred and friends—Jeopardizes her life in saving her people from impending death.

(4) Martha arrayed in green is a living illustration of faith in the hour of trial and death. A woman of high repute and noble parentage. (5) [illegible] robed in red stands as an emblem of charity—Gave her wealth to the poor. Setting forth divine mercy.

A NEW THOUGHT

...most precious, priceless gift ...was brain, and the power to ...

...McCosh said, "Thought rules the ...orld."

...Emerson said, "Thought is the seed ...f action."

Proverbs says, "As a man thinketh, ...so is he."

The only reason in this world why we, as a race have not been more closely drawn together is, becuse we are on the wrong road through ignorance of four inherent mental power; which fully realized and developed, would put us up with the world powers instead of being as we are now weaklings among the races.

We think, "It can't be done," consequently, we are bumping our heads against the prison walls of Race Prejudice, and will continue to do so, just as long as we look for some power outside of ourselves to liberate us.

We now, are expecting the impossible. Our freedom will come only from within the race, by the process of scientific, positive, sober, common sense, thought, action, and the most simple method.

The race must be organized. Its members must be taught organization and co-operation. In order to do this, there must be an organization. In purpose it must meet the needs of the race. For an organization to do these things, or meet the various needs of the race, it must have a program.

In its present complicated form the race problem cannot be solved by any scheme in which the selling of shares, stock, or bonds is the predominating feature; neither can any one man, set, or group of men, solve it. It is going to take you, me, every member of this race, and "then some," to solve it.

The great minds of other races are being brought together, so must ours, our Negro minds must be prepared to accept a great reform.

The parent body of this organization then, must be made up of several divisions. There must be at the head of each division, a man or woman who has prepared himself, or herself, and chosen a particular line as a life's work; whether it be newspaper work, law, politics, or anyone of the many human endeavors. The progarm then, must be so constructed as to create a right place, and place each one of the organization members in his or her rightful place. More than that, to have something to offer the people, is not enough at this time; but to interest all the people, an organization must be able to render them a real service, by seeking them out and laying at their feet, an industrial, political and religious education with an opportunity to gain happiness, prosperity and contentment by working at the thing he, or she, may have studied, trained or fitted himself or herself for and would love to do.

Now then, we write you, because we are thoroughly convinced that the program we have planned and written, if put into action and carried out, would afford you and each nad every one of us, these things for which we have prayed, looked and pleaded for, namely an equal poportunity, a chance to raise the galling yoke of the oppressor.

With your assistance, influence, talent, knowledge and information there can be builded the foundation of an organization right here that will astound the world. The race stands in dire need of young force and will-power, strength of charcter and uplifting influence, harmonized with other strong ones, that the weak ones may be raised to a high level.

That a better understanding may spring up between members of our group, also that men of all races and nations of the earth may be drawn into a closer relationship, one with the other, will you join such a movement as this? If so, answer the cll when a meeting is announced.

The average Negro uses only a tenth part of his brain. "That is why we are treated so." Let's you and me know the value of thought and are willing to use our brain, start a stream of thought through this race of ours that will clear the mud of superstition, fear and ignorance out of the brain and turn the trick. The world is expecting it, of us. American Negro, Why wait longer?

Twelve million Negroes are anxiously waiting for this sort of an organization and program, you will get their support.

It was David, with a new thought that caused Goliath to lose his head. Christ came with a line of new thought and the plan of salvation was simplified and made easy. He also said, "If I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me." Our only salvation for elevation, is Christ, Love and Thought.

P. S. You notice nothing has been said here about money. We are in the firm belief that if the brain of this race can be harnessed so as to work double, money and all other things will follow. Brain action is worth more to the race now, than anything else.

ROBERT MOORE.

Where to Attend Church

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

Pastor Lightner occupied the pulpit at both services the past Sunday at his church. At the morning hour he gave a Christmas message using as his theme: "The Message of the Angeles." At the evening hour he used as his text: "Upon this rock I'll build my Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Four persons united with the church at the close of the morning service.

The children of the Sunday School presented a splendid program Saturday night, following which presents were distributed from the Tree which was laden with good things.

The coming Sunday, being the last of the year will have good things in store for us. The pastor will fill the pulpit at both services. Following the regular evening service there will be an intermission during which the congregation will have a social hour, and light refreshments will be served. Beginning at 11:00 o'clock a watch night service will be held, extending a little beyond 12:00 o'clock. You are cordially invited to worship with us at all times.

A. M. E. CHURCH—
Cor. Pico and Paloma Streets.
Rev. W. E. Shaw, Pastor.

The First A. M. E. Zion Church can boast of the best Christmas they have had in years.

On last Sunday morning the Christmas sermon was preached by the pastor. "Glory to God in the Highest and On Earth Peace, Good Will to Men."

The choir rendered a beautiful cantata—"Yule-tide Memories," Sunday evening. Professor Bynum and Miss Hazel Gottchalk have a right to be proud of their work. Every number was a success.

On Monday evening the Sunday School had their Christmas exercises. The tree was laden with goodies and toys and gifts for everyone. But there was another Christmas tree and $100 dangled from its branches for the A. M. E. Zion Church. Thanks to Rev. J. H. Miller and members of the Bible Class. The pastor and wife were not forgotten by Santa either and a table laden with gifts by the members was gladly received and appreciated by them.

New Year Services are a special feature next Sunday in our church.

Watch meeting will be observed.

The evening text will be "How Much Do You Weigh?" Don't miss this sermon. Sunday evening 10:00 o'clock.

Free dinner New Years Day at this church for the aged and poor.

Hearty welcome here to all visitors and friends.

BIRCH ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH
14th and Birch Sts.
F. C. COTHRAN, Minister

Last Lord's Day was indeed a great day for this church. The worship was highly inspirational. Our minister spoke upon the birth of Christ. The words of his text were these—Glory to God in the Highest and on earth peace, good will toward men, Luke 2:14. He declared that here the angels pronounced God's design for the peace and happiness of the human race. At 8 p. m. the Choir presented the children of the Bible School in a Xmas Cantata. The Choir rendered excellent numbers and the children played their parts well.

Next Lord's Day being the last of 1922, a Home Coming is urged upon each member of the church.

The minister will preach at 11 a. m. upon the Great Commission and Sister C. C. Pope of Culver City, organizer of the W. C. M. Society, will be present and will speak to the women of the church.

Preaching and Watch Services at night. Come and worship with us. All welcome.

Old Folks Day at St. Paul

The cheering spirit of good will is still in evidence at St. Paul where all plans have been arranged to entertain all old folks irrespective of creed or color Sunday. Dinner will be served—the gospel preached—and souls made to rejoice—ALL FREE! Such and other countless gifts and countless gifts and commodities has continued to flow through our doors bringing smiles to the tearful, relief to the suffering and uplifting the aged.

Zion rejoiced last Sunday while Rev. Rev. Shockly talked there was great manifestation of the holy spirit. St. John 3:16—"Christianity."

The work of the Choir was amazing singing as it seemed with their souls; sending tears into every heart with their able conductor.

THE FIRST AFRICAN M. E. CHURCH—
8th and Towne Ave.
Rev. A. Milton Ward, Minister
South 3780 Res. 1466 Griffith Ave.

Presiding Elder J. H. Wilson of the San Francisco District of the African M. E. Church will occupy the pulpit of the historic old Eighth and Towne Avenue Sunday at 11 a. m. The Choir under direction of Prof. Elmer C. Bartlett will furnish special music.

Madam Sadye Cochrane-Chadwick will appear in one hour scared concert recital from eight to nine o'clock Sunday evening; just 30 minutes before Watch-Night services which are to begin at 9:30 p. m. At the close of the recital a recess of 30 minutes will be given when Mme. Cochrane-Chadwick will take her leave for the far east. Mme. Cochrane-Chadwick will be assisted by the Choir and Mr. Atwell Rose, violinist.

Interesting services were held in Eighth and Towne Avenue Church last Sunday. There was one addition to the membership of the church making a total of 87 since the Annual Conference. Rev. Ward preached at 11 a. m. when Mme. Cochrane-Chadwick was presented for the first time to a Los Angeles audience and thrilled and delighted the audience with a solo.

The Allen C. E. League gave a cantata, entitled "The Birth of Christ" Sunday night which was enjoyed by a large audience. Mr. Charles Boston, Mme. Williams and all who took part deserve much credit for the success of the affair. The choir assisted under direction of Mrs. Fred M. Roberts.

"Great Joy" was the title of the Sunday School Christmas service held at 3 o'clock Christmas Day which was enjoyed by all in attendance. Mrs. Clarence W. Smith was in charge. Prof. Bartlett directed the music. Miss Catherine Bowers was at the piano. The children gave interesting Christmas recitations. The teachers presented the gifts.

The annual election of trustees for Eighth and Towne Avenue First A. M. E. Church resulted as follows:

Messrs. H. Busby; Wm. Bowers; A. F. Estill; W. O. Tyler; Shadrick Johnson; Paul Williams; Frank Williams; W. H. Terry and C. E. McKinney.

The newly elected officers of the Mutual Aid Society of the First A. M. E. Church are: President, A. W. Wilson; vice-president, S. S. Taft; Financial secretary, Mrs. Beatrice Sellers; recording secy., Mrs. Fedora Prather; treasurer, George Warner; chaplain, T. J. Hooper.

Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Ward wish to thank the many friends of Los Angeles for helping to make this the best of many year's Christmas.

Watts Pastor's Wife Laid to Rest in Kansas

HIGH TRIBUTE OF RESPECT PAID DECEASED

With impressive ceremony, services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Calvary Baptist Church over the remains of Mrs. Lenis Stewart Flemings wife of the Reverend John A. Flemings, pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church of Watts, Calif., who died at a hospital in Pasadena, California recently. At 2:30 o'clock the large auditorium of Calvary Church was well filled with a representative group of citizens of the community from all walks of life, who had gathered to pay the last rites of respect to a woman who was born and reared in Wichita from girlhood thru all phases of a minister's wife and retained her gfrip upon the hearts of many and gained a high place in the social, civic and religious life of California.

The funeral processional was played by Mrs. Ora Carter as the casket under the escort of the Reverends John Wesley Hayes and J. E. Douglas followed by the several mourners moved slowly up to the altar of the church where the remains lie in state during the service. Following a hymn by Calvory Choir to which was added the voice of Marie Fines, director of St. Paul Choir under the direction of Mrs. G. Gertrude Walton; Rev. B. C. Rannavalona as master of ceremony presented Rev. J. H. Van Lieu, state missionary of the Kansas Baptist State Convention, who led the opening prayer. Rev. E. T. Fishback, pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church read the various resolutions from Sunday Schools; Womans' Mission Circles; The G. L. A. Club of Wichita; and letters of condolence from the Rev. J. R. Ransom of Topeka andothers from various sections of the country. The Rev. W. C. Cartwright, secretary of the Kansas State Baptist Convention read a resolution from the Wichita Colored Ministrial League and Mrs. G. Gertrude Walton one from the Mission Circle and Calvary Baptist Church of which Mrs. Matilda Clark, mother of the deceased sister is an active member.

Following the reading of resolutions and a selection by the choir, the Rev. J. E. Douglas, pastor of St. Mary Baptist Church read the Scripture lesson, from Philippians 1.21-30. Miss Nettie Fay Oliver next rendered a touching vocal selection after which the Rev. Fishback read the obituary followed by the funeral discourse which was delivered by the Rev. John Wesley Hayes, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church. Selecting as a text Philippians 1.21: "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." Rev. Hayes delivered a brief but impressive discourse in which he highly commended the loyal, faithful Christian efforts of the deceased in her work as a minister's wife for her God and humanity by which her life had been a force in all circles which it touched both in Kansas and California. Following the discourse Rev. Fishback paid a touching tribute to the dead after which the vast congregation viewed the remains while Mrs. Thomas H. Yancey rendered a touching vocal selection, as only she can. With a benediction by Rev. Rannavalona while the congregation remained seated the cortege under the escort of ministers left the church as soft strains of "Flee As A Bird To Your Mountain" pealed forth from the church organ. Burial was made at Highland Cemetery, where the burial service was conducted by the Reverends Fishback, Hayes and Rannavalona. Thus closed the final chapter in a life which all in Wichita, had learned to revere due to her high Christian ideals and the exceptional charm of her many efforts in the interests of the Christian church.

WHO IS "BOSS" OF YOUR DOLLARS?

A good many men let the other fellow spend the money they earn—the other fellow just has to suggest something to sell them and—the money is GONE.

Some men are strong enough to control their own money. Every time they get money, they put some of it in a Savings Account—first—BEFORE the fellow who wants to sell you something gets a chance.

It takes a MAN, and a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, in a GOOD BANK, and a STRONG WILL to build up a fund of money in bank which you can use for things that are really worth while.

Why not make a good strong resolution, open an account, and SAVE?

SANTA BARBARA NEWS

Two highly spiritual services were enjoyed at the church on the past Sunday. A goodly number in attendance at both morning and evening services.

The pastor, Rev. H. B. Thomas, took for his morning subject, "The Quality of Church Officers." While the evening subject was, "The Deacon's last prayer." As the time is at hand for the election of officers, the pastor explained in his discourse how a pastor could be left open to the criticisms of the public by not having an efficient official board in the discharge of their duty. Each member was told of their duties toward each other. He has always brought to our minds and hearts the greatest of all commandments, "that ye love one another as Christ has also loved us." We trust that the coming year will witness success under wise and careful leadership.

At the close of the evening sermon there was one addition to the church.

Mr. William Burlson of Los Angeles has left our city to the regret of all who formed an acquaintance with him while here. Brother Burleson was a member of Mt. Olive and an active worker while here in the church.

Mr. D. Paterson late of Stockton, Calif., has taken up his residence here in this city. Mr. Paterson is a music ian and an evangelistic revivalist and will find a welcome here in our city.

Mr. J. R. Norwood has returned from his trip in which he toured the principal cities in the Northern part of the state. He reports an interesting and enjoyable time. He brought with him a barber, who can be located at 18 E. Cota Street.

Mr. Cecil Price was made in the Masonic lodge of this city and is now a full fledged member and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart were the motif for a Turkey dinner on last Sunday evening in their home . Covers were laid for six and a six course dinner was served. Those enjoying their hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Gower, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Price and the host and hostess.

Those reported on the sick list are much improved at this writing.

The weather has cleared up and we are all looking forward to having good weather for the New Year. Both churches are having their programs on Sunday night and the Christmas tree's Monday night or Christmas night.

Mr. C. C. Price is suffering considerable pain from having a tooth extracted and the dentist broke it off on last Monday. He is resting quietly at present and we hope no bad results from the operation.

Call 1510-W. for news or ads. 608 1-2 Stata Barbara Street. L. A. JONES.

We wish one and all a Happy New Year.

EL CENTRO NEWS

The Yuletide has been celebrated in a very becoming manner. Entertainments, religious services and various exercises have been provided and all in an appropriate way bespeak the spirit of the season's celebration.

An audience that more than taxed the lapacity of the school auditoridm witnessed an excellent program Satsrday night and shared in the community Christmas tree. The tree and the treats for all the children had been made possible by the Second Baptist A. M. E. and C. M. E. Sunday Schools. The program consisted of selections by the School Orchestra; the singing of Christmas Carols; a play entitled, "In Santa Claus Land."

Sunday Dec. 24, the children of all nationalities and creeds were dinner guests of the management of the Barbara Worth. Over 225 partook of Mr. and Mrs. Conway's hospitality. Following a treat from Santa Claus, the entire company headed by El Centro's Boy's Band, marched to the Palace Theater and there as guests of the manager, Mr. Cook, witnessed a splendid show. Mrs. Mattie Scott Nelson was elected Secretary of the organization.

Complimentary to the Eastside School teachers who so loyally assisted him in arranging the dinner for the children, Mr. Conway invited them to be his guest at dinner Sunday evening at the Barbara Worth Hotel.

Those present were Mesdames De Vaughn and Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Payne.

A TALE OF OLD JAPAN.

On two former occasions the Coleridge-Taylor Music Club presented to the people of Los Angeles HIAWATHA, a musical composition by Coleridge-Taylor. The attendance upon those concerts convinced us that our people love their great men, are proud of their accomplishments, and are contributors to and supporters of all movements instituted for purposes of education. It is not generally known, that each of the HIWATHA productions cost the club a sum approximating one thousand dollars. All financial, as well as moral obligations were assumed by persons who lay no claim to professional or semi-professional ability: they possessed many fine spirits, namely a willingness to work hard, a disposition to sacrifice for the good of others, and a generosity found only among those whose love of race has marked them as belonging to the progressive and aggressive type of Negro.

They love art. All their work has been in hte interest and furtherance of art. No eye was singled to the highest possible profits that might be derived from the work of the club. Some have been promised fixed sums to the date set for these concerts but they waived all claims for the justification of art and to demonstrate their love for the members of their race who are doing things.

Uerhaps our failures in th past were due to the fact that we labored for twelve months to produc a single work of Coleridge-Taylor and then presented it one night only. If the actual cost of production is presumably one thousand dollars, and, if the proceeds for one evening's entertainment is a like amount, then there is only one benefit derived from a whole year's work of intensive rehearsing and sacrificing; another musical contribution has been given to the community. In defense of art this reslut would justify the existence of an organization as is the Coleridge-Taylor Music Club, but it does not compensate those whose enregis have been exerted in persuit of music as a profession and who are wholly dependent upon it for existence. The sad part is that it furnishes no inspiration or means for perpetuating th study of music or any other art, either individually or collectively.

JUDGE CONKLIN OF EL CENTRO

Perhaps there are some of our people who do not know that Judge Conklin is presiding in Judge Shenk's court during his vacation. Judge Conklin has made many strong friends among our people since his election to the Superior Bench. Many of those who were opposed to his election are now his most ardent admirers. The Judge is all right; a big man in a big position, dealing out even-handed justice to all regardless of race, color condition or creed. We wish the Judge a Merry Christmas.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

After quite a vacation Madison quare Garden opened up on last Wed- esday night to a fair sized crowd to witness a splendid card consisting of 44-round bouts.

The Main Event that was to be fail- d to take place on account of the act that Kid Mexico had a broken and and could not go on with Mack louse. Cyclone Williams was sub- stituted and made a really good show- ng against the hard hitting young- ter Mack House.

And again Mack House deserves a reat deal more credit than he will ev- r get by winning over Cyclone, for obody has got any cinch on this bat- er he is crafty and wise to all sorts of ring generalship and it will take a good man at any turn of the road to beat him. On this occasion Mack House did the come back and was giv- en the decision over the Cyclone.

Semi Wind-Up

This match betwixt Hobo Alexander and Frankie Monroe was a tame af- fair. Monroe was too good for the Hobo. The referee stopped the fight in the third stanza to save the Hobo unnecessary punishment.

The best go of the evening was the battle between Ted Frenchie and Blackie Rice, the battle was fast and furious, no let up for the full four rounds, both boys fought and fought hard at the end the decision was a draw.

This decision was a just one and the only one that could have been given, or otherwise the shade would have been given to Frenchie, who was the aggressor throughout. This Rice boy however is a dangerous competitor and will yet be the top notcher in those parts.

Charlie Howard beat Kid Smith in four rounds. Young Ford again took the short end of a go with the Boy Wonder by being knocked out in the 1st round.

Allen Gibs gave a good lacing to the Zulu Kid in four rounds of boxing.

The Prize Card will be on for nevt Wednesday night and no lover of the art of self-defense can afford to miss it.

We wish to all who may chance to read these lines A Happy and Prosperous New Year.

With the passing of the Old Year giving thanks for the blessings of life and being spared to witness the incoming of another year, it would not be amiss to eschew all the untoward and now progressive tendencies which have clung to us and start in, that the year 1923 will truly be the year of progress, the year of accomplishments and the year of true cooperation for the ultimate salvation of the race.

Down in Louisiana it seems that the Ku Klux Klan is nearly at the jumping off place or in other words they are in "Hawks" hands.

We trust the police department will put the vag squad in action and clean up those who refuse to work and also take a slant at the Chinese Lottery sharks who are running wild at this time.

We appreciate very much the appreciation and congratulations extended for our holiday number of last issue. On behalf of our hustling force we wish to thank you again and again.

THE ARBUCKLE CASE.

The case of Fatty Arbuckle who has been re-instated in the movies by Will Hayes, supreme director of the great movie industry, is attracting nation wide attention. The very same forces which will gag at gnats and swallow camels are the ones which are doing their utmost to keep the jovial and good-humored comedian down. A jury of his peers heard his case and acquitted him of a charge which nobody believed him guilty of. He paid the price of his indiscretion, has been down in sack cloth and ashes and the minister, such as Bob Schuler and Rev. Breible want him kept down. Unlike the Savior, they will not forgive one time much less the seventy times seven. Oh shades of the night when will the day come when man will be just to his fellowman, and all shall have the opportunity to be lifted up should they stumble or fall.

THE KU KLUX KLAN AND THE NEGRO

It seems that the Invisible Empire is beginning to make at least an impression on the Negro church.

The Negro preacher seems to think that it is God's plan for this hellish organization to wage war on the Catholic church, and the Jews, and that through this medium the Negro will be able to take his place as a citizen in this country when the battle is over; but this argument falls lightly on those who listened to some with this doctrine of hope during the pre-war period. How well grounded in our minds is the picture of that black phalanx wending its way from the bloody battle ground of France. Upon their foreheads we see in shining letters the word Courage and stamped across each breast in letters red like blood we read the word Man and softly, as with one voice, we hear them humming, alas—'My Country 'Tis of Thee, Sweet Land of Liberty, of Thee we Sing."

But the scene is changed, in scare crow headlines we read in the dailies of our country that a returned soldier has been lynched in Georgia, and too we realize that mob violence is as much in evidence now as it was before we went to France, half a million strong to fight for Democracy, hence we cannot agree with our preacher brother that the reorganization of the Ku Klux Klan is destined to give the Negro absolute freedom.

Too well do we remember why this organization was born and too well do we realize that so long as there is a Klan there will be mob violence and if we abhor unlawful punishment for ourselves, then we do not advocate it for Jews and Catholics. There should be one law for all—black and white, Jew and Catholic.

EASY TURKEY DAY TUSTLE AT PASADENA—12-4

The Pasadena Eagles, a swift aggregation of the Crown City composed principally of the five Cox brothers was hopelessly outclassed in their little Turkey Day trot at Recreation Park, Pasadena, before a huge crowd of the foothill natives as well as local followers numbering about two thousand.

The battle was spectacular throughout, but was a run away for our "Bear Cats" after the 6th frame.

It opened up like a real moundsman's struggle with Fred Bench shooting 'em for the pale faces, and left winged Jay Bell doing duty for Manager Cobb's performers.

The Cox brothers opened hostilities in the second when Dick Cox homed and that was all for six sessions as Jay allowed them but one hit and smote 6 of the batsmen where they stood.

Jay Bell was the feature of the day drawing first blood for his followers with a 4 ply swat in the third and three singles out of 4 times at the plate, his first and only bingles since his arrival West.

SOX PARK CHANGES NAME

The famous East Fourth Street Ball Field is hereafter to be known as the Union Pacific Base Ball Park, instead of L. A. White Sox Park, as of old.

This marks the passing of the old vacant lot made famous by Charlie "Doc" Anderson and William Johnson of Johnson Brothers billiard ball owners, where some of the greatest base ball stars of the world have performed, both white and black.

RACE ATHLETE IN SIX-DAY BIKE RACE NEW YORK

Ali Nefatti, a black bike rider of Europe, and who since leaving Tunis, where he had been reared and trained has raced in all parts of the world, is now matched to compete in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, New York, the first colored man in twenty-five years to enter.

SPORT SQUIBS

MADISON SQUARE ARENA CLOSES TO BE COVERED SOON

Manager Clarence A. Brooks announces that as soon as the Madison Square boxing shed can be covered sufficiently to keep out the cold wintry weather he will re-open with renewed vigor, and the class of entertainment presented will be of the highest caliber obtainable.

With a roof on the famous Long Beach Ave. Show house, there will be little else the fans could want for and the re-opening is awaited anxiously.

BILLY TUCKER MAKING DUNBAR SHOW HOUSE FAMOUS

"Rag Time" Billy Tucker is certainly doing his stuff at the Dunbar joy emporium at 10th and Central these days as manager and performer, and Billy knows his lines too.

His musical comedy of last week, the Dixieland Follies in "The Avenue Sheik" with Billy taking the lead was a scream and the audience simply howled.

This and next week's attractions are sure to be well attended as the company of six jolly and pretty girlies and as many males are up to the minute actors and actresses and have a future.

WILLS-DEMPSEY or WILLS-FIRPO? BOTH GOOD

Damon Runyon, the famous New York sport writer is surely doing his best to coax either champion Jack Dempsey or the South American gladiator, Luis Angel Firpo, to sign articles for a little wrist slapping engagement with the much dodged Harry Wills, on May 12th.

NO TASTE FOR HARRY

Durnig the past three years the heavy white hopes have been very shifty on their feet, and have skillfully dodged the "Brown Panther" from New Orleans.

Such so-called heavy weight contenders as Tom Gibbons, Jack Renault and a few others are known to have refused to stay in the same town with Wills.

For a long while Harry camped only on Dempsey's trail, but the champ seemed to enjoy his title too well to monkey with the "Black Death," so Will is now begging for exercise among the second and third raters.

Luis Angel Firpo, the other one of the trio of real heavies isn't to be blamed for holding out for a return go with the champion, as Dempsey recently stated that he plans to take on Gibbons. Firpo and Wills in order named during 1924, and then retire.

ANCELL BULLER BEATS MIDGET HEFFLIN AND ELLERBY

George Ellerbe and Bill Heffner were the boys that broke up the show with the biggest and rarest kick ever put on in this city—"just ask 'em".

Some of the good timers stuffed their pockets full of those long black 25 centers which they had never sucked on before, and were dizy. The feed and "soft drinks" were in abundance, and everybody got a square meal that was unusual.

Merriment was at its highest about 1 a.m. Ss you can guess when they were "taken home—some stag."

B. P. O. ELKS' ANNUAL SMOKER A KNOCK OUT

The birds who failed to scramble into the hall at Washington and Central last Wednesday night are indeed ignorant of many pleasant things.

The program that was hung up may some day be tied, "but will never be beaten"; take it from us.

There were dramatic selections, speeches, sketches, readings, all with a man's kick to them, and then there was that hot three session boxing match which set the sardine packed house wild, but listen!

SMITH IN GOTHAM

Midget Smith, one of the whitest of the white bantam weight battlers and among the best top-notchers in the country, met his master last Saturday night at the commonwealth Sporting Club's crowded show in New York, when the Harlem colored bantam, Kid Buller, 119 1-2 pounds, battered Smith for ten rounds to a popular decision.

The third round found the Midget almost out at the count of nine, something few of his opponents have ever done, and marks a future for Buller as matches will have to come his way and a chance at the crown will doubtlessly follow soon.

TENNIS CHATTER

MUCH ILLNESS IN OUR RANKS, JOE BROWN, JOE PROSPER, HATTIE WHITE TARLETON. NEWS FROM VIC SHOREY

"During the rushing hourse of thankfulness let's not forget others, and that indeed we have much to turn thanks for."

Those We Must Visit

Mrs. Josephine Brown, secretary of the Parthenia club and member of the West Side Ladies Club also, is still upon the sick list and is at her mother's home 1448 W. 36th St.

Albert Joseph Prosper, past treasurer of the Westside Club of 1626 W. 35th St. and who recently underwent a major operation at the Dunbar Hospital is far from being out of danger and his many friends are much concerned over his condition.

Mrs. Hattie White Tarleton, former member of the Omega Tennis Club and widow of the late president of the Western Federation of Tennis Clubs, Dr. Albert Tarleton, who is stopping with her sister, Mrs. Arthur Maloney of 1627 W. 35th Pl and suffered a nervous breakdown is still seriously ill and we must not withhold our attention. Visit our members regularly.

Fed. Next Wednesday

News that the Oakland Club is functioning since its president Miss Victoria G. Shorey returned from an Eastern visit is indeed pleasant, and that a letter of interest will be read at the Fed's. meeting Wednesday, Dec. 23th is also agreeable.

That the Delta group will be well represented at the Third Annual Pacific Coast Championship Tournament at San Diego, July 4, 5, 1924 is among the things to be hoped for, so let's start boosting it along.

Tennis Birth Days

Nellie Magnolia Carlisle, the Fed Prexy's other seven-eighths and five-wire secretary of the Westside Ladies' flock of loveliness celebrated her 16th"(?) anniversary last Saturday, Dec. 1st. That is there were but 16 candles on the huge cake, that's al we know.

Bride Elect 16 too

Miss Maud-Eetta Velma Rosemond, member of the Westside Ladies' smart set and reported bride-to-be "soon," couldn't keep it from leaking out that her 'teenth birthday anniversary arrives Saturday, December 8th, wonder who the guy is—birthday, wedding and Xmas all in a row—wow! "A game due, huh."

Sadie Only 15

Mrs. Sadie Louise McLaughlin Hawkins, corresponding secretary of the Parthenia group of sweetness refuses to state just how many summers and snowey winters, Monday, December 24th, will complete. Remember—December 24th, what'll we do about it gang? Suggestions —.

LOCAL CHAPTER OF DELTA SIGMA THETA SORORITY ESTEBLISHED

Pi Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta National Sorority has been recently established in the University of California, Southern Branch. Mrs. Vivian Osborn Marsh, a graduate of Berkeley, and second vice-president of the Grand Chapter, initiated the charter members into the sisterhood. Officers of Pi Chapter are Misses Marion Carter, President; Miriam Matthews, Vice-president; Ruth Sykes, recording secretary; Marion Robinson, corresponding secretary; Willa Alma Green, treasurer.

Pi Chapter constitutes the twenty-sixth chapter of the natinnal body. The aims of the sorority are those that develop the highest type of young womenhood along social and intellectual lines. In its membership are young women whose accomplishments the race may well be proud, one of whom is Madame Florence Cole Talbert.

The young women of the local chapter are working for the following degrees: The Misses Carter, Sykes, and Greene are in Teachers' College and working for the B. E. degree; Misses Robinson and Matthews, in Junior College, and working for B. A.; the former majoring in medicine, and the latter in foreign languages.

Associate pledge members of Pi Chapter are the Misses Angie Bell Harrison, Vina Johnson, and Mrs. Bessie Bluett. Miss Harrison and Miss Johnson, both in Teachers' College, are working for their B. E. degree. while Mrs. Bluett, who is principal of the East 51st Street School, expects to receive her B. E. in February, 1924.

My Friend Recommended You to Me.

Nine persons out of every ten who come into my office write or call me by phone for appointment, greet me with the six following words: My Friend Recommended You to Me, and I appreciate those words beyond expression, they mean more to me than all the gold in the world; for those words show the confidence that reputable citizens have in me and in my business methods. They more than repay me for the effort and hard work that I put forth to save my clients money and worry. I have striven to make a friend out of everyone whom I have had any business dealings with, and those words assure me that I have succeeded. There is not enough money in the whole world to tempt me, or cause me to betray the confidence reposed in me by my clients and I believe that everyone of my clients has sent his or her friend to me. To those seeking homes, or other property, may I serve you? A few of my special prices and terms:

CONTEST ENDS

The judges who have been appointed to supervise the final count are: Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, H. A. Reeves, Charles E. Pearl.

THESE ARE THE BIG DAYS

Between now and the closing hour Saturday will be the biggest days of the contest. It is not unusual in events of this kind, considering the enormous value of the prizes at stake that the subscriptinos turned in in the last week will equal or exceed the amount turned in the entire time of the race previous to the last week. Consequently the management has arranged every detail in such a manner that a fair, square and impartial deal will be assured to every candidate in the list.

There promises to be a fierce battle for the honor of winning the $1,795.00 Reo Phaeton and the biggest prizes ever offered for conscientious and hard work.

PRIZES WORTH EVERY EFFORT

In this spectacular campaign, the prizes are surely worthy of the effort—in fact the first prize represents more than the average man's salary for an entire year—more than the average family saves in a lifetime. In other words, the big, grand new Reo represents a small fortune to the winner.

10 O'CLOCK SHARP LAST MINUTE

The ballot box will be turned over to the judges immediately after 10 o'clock Saturday night. The count will be made as rapidly as possible, and the results will be announced as advertised, and, officially published in the next issue.

FAIR AND SQUARE

The method under which the contest is being closed is absolutely fair and square to every one, for the management itself does not know what any candidate has turned in until the campaign is over.

OUR THANKS

The management wishes to thank the contestants one and all for their assistance in making this campaign the phenominal success which it has been. Our only regret is that instead of one, there were not about four or five dozen automobiles t be distributed among the earnest workers who have been the means of giving The Eagle an enormous paid-in-advance circulation—by far the largest of our papers in Los Angeles.

CHURCH DISSENSION REVIEWED

together to consider the building project. At this meeting, the then chairman of the board of trustees, arose and in a most eloquent speech, advised the church not to attempt to build on the present site, giving many valid reasons for his contention. When the question was put to vote, said chairman's recommendation was carried with but one dissenting vote. At the next business meeting of the church, said trustee changed his mind, handed in his resignation and advised the church not to sell the present site (as he had advised at the former meeting) but to "build right here" on the present site. A few agreed with him this time, but the great majority held on to their former decision. The pastor always favored a new location.

This is a true story of the origin of the trouble—the pastor and four-fifths of the membership wanting to sell and build elsewhere, while one-fifth of the membership, headed by three trustees, namely: Emma M. Goodwin, John Craft and L. E. Goodwin; and three deacons, E. W. Williams, W. M. Osbey and C. W. Battles, opposing. In an effort to thwart the expressed will and wish of the great majority of the church, the said trustees and deacons did, on their own initiative, hand the pastor a letter demanding him to hand in his resignation within thirty days. When the letter was read a member of the church made motion "that the church absolutely ignore the infamous document", which motion was carried by an overwhelming majority. Failing in their first attempt to defeat the will of the majority, these same officers did, on the 26th day of August, lock and nail up the church building without the knowledge or consent of at least four-fifths of the membership. Failing in this to accomplish their purpose, the said persons went into the Superior Court of San Diego County on August 29th, and on their own initiative, swore out a complaint and had an injunction issued against the pastor restraining him from performing his pastoral duties. This was also done without the consent or knowledge of the membership. On September 4th, while the pastor was attending the National Baptist Convention in Los Angeles, the injunction was ruled out by the court. Having failed to oust the pastor they amended their complaint and Rev. Thmas was obliged to appear in court to answer the amendment. The amendment received the same fate as the original, and was ruled out, thus leaving Rev. Thomas still the pastor of the church.

In the meantime, however, the said officers had secured the services of an attorney and had gone into court to prevent the sale of the church property. When the case was called, they appeared with their attorney and witnesses, and one of the best informed Baptist ministers in Southern California, as their coach and general "adviser" to assist them in conducting their case; yet, after all the evidence was in, and the lawyer had made his argument, the permit to sell was granted, and the pastor and church were victorious again—the third time.

This is a true and complete statement of our church troubles. To sum it up, we should like to say that these brethren not only failed in all their legal efforts in the courts, but they have failed in everything they have attempted in the meetings of the church. When formal charges were brought against them for these offenses they failed to acknowledge their wrong and apologize to the church for the trouble they had caused; and for "Failing to hear the church", they have become to us "as a heathen man and a publican."

Done by order of the church;
ELIJAH J. GENTRY,
Church Clerk.

Make Notable Contribution To Community Chest Campaign

Atlanta, Ga., November. (Special)—A notable feature of the Community Chest Campaign for $600,000 which was successfully conducted here last week was the active and generous cooperation of the colored people, who made 4261 subscriptions to the fund, aggregating $33,084. This sum about equals the total amount apportioned in the Chest Budget to the six participating Negro Organizations, indicating that in Atlanta, at least, the colored population is reaching the point where it can care for its own philanthropies and need no longer entail a burden on the community in this regard.

More surprising than the total was the fact that the second largest individual subscription of the whole campaign was one of $3500, made by Heman Perry, colored, in the name of The Service Company, an organization which affiliates eleven Negro businesses, with a total capitalization of $5,500,000. Officers and employees of this company subscribed a total of $8050. E. R. Black, the campaign chairman, paid an appreciative tribute to the spirit shown by the colored people in this great community enter-

CLUBDOM

Co-operating with the American Red Cross, under the direction of Mrs. Edward Harrison Stamm, recreational director at the Soldiers' Home, Sawtelle, the Southern Division of the California State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs has inaugurated a definite plan whereby the co-operation will be methodical and permanent.

To that end the matter of helping with the social comfort of the Colored ex-service men in the two hospitals—the Annex and the Main Hospital and the barracks known as No. 12—have been equally assumed by the seventeen Clubs interested, so that each organization will function in turn once during the year, the said organization affording whatever form of recreation and cheer it desires.

The Eastside Mothers' Club, being the first in alphabetical order, took up the month of November. Aside from the personal visits of the members the specially arranged entertainment was a beautifully appointed party at the home of Mrs. Edwards, the president, following the picture show given for the benefit of St. Philip's Episcopal Church at the Dunbar Theatre last Tuesday evening at which eight of the convalescent hospital boys were honor guests.

The Eastside Board of the Independent Church, while not a federated club, extended its hospitality and spirit of co-operation by inviting eight ex-service men to be honor guests at the Thanksgiving dinner served at the church Thanksgiving Day, thus ending the month of November.

The Duarte and Monrovia Art Guilds will plan the recreation for the month of December, but since this is the work of every loyal American citizen it is earnestly hoped that every sympathetic man and woman in this section, especially the young people, will hear this "heart-cry" and do something to bring cheer to our own boys at the Soldiers' Home. But, please, let us suggest that whatever is done be done through some one of the seventeen organizations now co-operating with the American Red Cross in order that there be system and permanency.

WHAT "VIRGIN OIL" IS

From the tree-ripened fruit of the olive, olive oil is extracted. Commercially, it holds first place among vegetable oils. The section of Southern France, formerly known as Provence, the Lucca district of Italy, and our own state of California, produce the best olive oil from the fruit so extensively cultivated in those parts.

The fruit is plucked by hand in regions where quality rather than quantity is of the first consideration. When the olives are gathered they are carried to the nearest mill, where they are first spread out and heated for an entire day. This procedure denders the extraction of the oil easier by expanding the oil vesicles. The whole process requires a great deal of experience and skill, as evn slight overheating will damage the product.

Therefore efficiency is absolutely essential where the best results are obtained, as in all professions. A paste is made up when the fruit is crushed or ground until the oil begins to swim on top. The paste is then put into rush or alpha weed baskets callen "scourtins", into sacks of similar material, or into a container made of iron hoops covered with crash A certain number of these receptacles are piled together with or without slat-grating between, and are then subjected to a gentle pressure.

CARE OF OLIVE OIL

The first oil extracted is of the finest quality, and is called "virgin oil". The second pressing requires more force, and is continued until nothing furthr can be extracted in that manner. The oil thus obtained varies in grade and value. This "second" oil contains a large amount of water and some vegetable matter, which may be removed by repeated "settling" and "decanting". If on old-time firm cellars or vaults, neru -fanm.ma Fzfr makes it, it is next taken to underground cellars or vaults, where it settles for about two weeks.

Then the cleared oil is run off and filtered several times. The oil is then ready for market. One hundred pounds of olives yields an average of 15 to 20 pounds of the first and edible oil. The finished product is rated upon the quality of the fruit, its condition when picked—for neither under-ripe nor over-ripe fruit will give the finer grades—and the method o refining.

You can easily tell the best olive oil by its flavor and color. That of a golden or straw yellow tint is considered the very best. Many times you see some oliv oil that has a greenish hue, which shows that it is either an inferior grade or that it has not been well refined. If the olive oil is fresh and of good quality it has a sweetish and nutty fiflavor.

While the Italian olive oil is more fruity in flavor than the French oil, it has more of a decided olive taste. Most people prefer the French olive oil because it is more neutral, softer and more delicate. California olive oil has attained front rank, and the demand steadily increases among the best class of customers for the finer grades from our Western paradise state.

Probably you do not know that olive oil is faded by light. For this reason it should never be exposed to extremes of either light or temperature, and heat will make it rancid. Cold will cause it to congeal ond separate, but does not injure the quality.

The Judges Who Will Make The Final Count The Last Night Of The Contest Are----

THE JUDGES

DR. EUGENE C. NELSON H. A. REEVES CHARLES E. PEARL

DETAILS OF FINAL COUNT

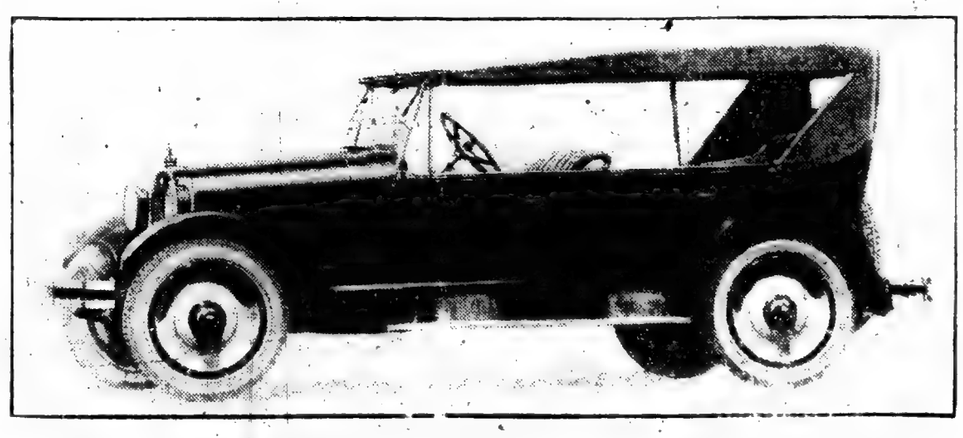
ALL VOTES AND SUBSCRIPTIONS MUST BE IN THE SEALED BALLOT BOX WHEN THE RACE IS DECLARED CLOSED AT 10 O'CLOCK SHARP, SATURDAY NIGHT, DECEMBER 8TH.

Letters may be mailed to The Eagle office bearing subscriptions and marked "for sealed ballot box" which will insure them not being opened. Particular care should be taken to mail such letters in good time to reach this office before the final hour and it is advisable that all such letters be sen under a special delivery stamp.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

All subscriptions deposited in the ballot box must be accompanied by cash, money order, or certified check for the full amount to cover. Personal checks up to $10.00 are acceptable providing no two checks are signed by the same party. This ruling is made in fairness to all candidates and will be strictly enforced.

Today's vote standings are the last that will be published until the judges make known the results of the final count. As explained before, to insure the strictest secrecy, all subscriptions will be deposited by the candidates in the locked and sealed ballot box which is now in the Bank, Cor. 8th and Central Ave., and will remain there until 12 Noon December 8th, at which time the Ballot Box will be taken to the Eagle office, 822 Central Ave., until 10 P. M. Under this arrangement no one, not even the Campaign Manager or the publishers can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates.



When the final hour (10 o'clock, Saturday Night, December 8th) arrives the campaign wil lbe declared closed. The judges will then open the box and immediately thereafter, or as soon as votes can be issued on subscriptions contained therein, the last count will begin. The winners will be determined by merely adding to the last published vote totals, which appear today, to the reserve votes and those contained in the ballot box. There will be no waiting, but simply a matter of adding the vote totals and announcing the winners at Arion Hall, Monday Evening, 9:30 o'Clock.

It is calculated that it will require some time, however, to canvass the findings in the ballot box and to determine the winner of the $1,795.00 Reo Phaeton Car and the other big prizes. The official results will be published in our next issue and announced at the Eagle's Big Entertainment and Dance, Dec. 10th, when the final count has been completed. In case of a tie, tying contestants will each receive the full amount of the prize for which tied.

The winner of this $1,795 Reo Phaeton and Cash Prizes will be decided between now and Saturday 10 P. M. and presented to their winners the night of the Eagle's Big Dance at Arion Hall, 116½ East 3rd Street.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

(By James N. Simms, L.L. D. Author of Simms' Blue Book, etc.)

WHAT BUSINESS SHOULD YOU CHOOSE

One of the hardest things for any one to do is to choose the business or profession that he should enter upn for his career in life. A young man may be highly fitted to make a good doctor, but have no qualifications at all for a lawyer and e converse. Another may have all the necessary qualifications necessary to make an ofpable of succeeding as a restaurant proprietor. We might go through the whole calendar of professions, trades, and the different kinds of businesses and find that where one is fully qualified by natural attainments to enter a certain profession, trade or business, that he may in no wise be qualified for some other profession, trade or business.

It often happens that one chooses and enters upon a career that h from natural qualifications is incapable of carrying on. After having wasted a number of years, he finds that he cannot succeed in the career that he has selected, and that he must abandon it and take up something else. In such a case, time, capital and energy have been lost and can never be regained. It is therefore important that one gets the right start.

To select the profession, business, trade or employment that one is best suited to pursue, is by no means an easy task. Nearly every person, at some time, has shown special qualifications for a certain kind of vocation. When these tendencies are shown, they should be heeded.

It is true that training along certain lines fits one for certain careers, but where one has natural qualifications to which is added special training for a professiou business or trade, it makes the success much more easy to attain, and the career more brilliant.

You, no doubt, know of many instances where men have had every advantage that education and training could afford, but could not succeed along the line they had chosen, while on the other hand, you may know of other men whose educational training was very limited, and whose opportunities to succeed had not been at all encouraging, yet these men are meeting with great success, making wonderful progress in spite of their handicaps. Such persons have natural qualifications for the careers chosen, and such is usually the case where one has been fortunate to choose the right career.

Of course it does not follow that unless one has natural ability to aid him he cannot succeed. Education and special training will fit a man for most undertakings, but no amount of education or training is ever equal to natural atainments.

Musicians, orators, great lawyers, surgeons, great financiers, and the world's foremost leaders are born, not made. So everyone who contemplates entering upon any kind of career should ascertain whether he have any natural qualifications for doing th thing that he has chosen. Every man to his own calling. If you can be satisfied that you are naturally qualified to do a certain thing, you have a great advantage over the person who cannot make a definite decision. Follow the natural bent of your mind when you are trying to decide what you shall do, and do not enter any profession, business or trade because you know of some one else who is succeeding in that particular line. Consider carefully your natural attainments, your training and mental tendencies to assist you in deciding upon the career you shall enter.

VIOLENCE AGAINST RAILWAY SHOPMEN PUT UP TO GOVERNOR OF ARKANSAS

Guilt for the lynching of one railway shopman, and the flogging, imprisonment and exile of others in Harrison, Ark., and vicinity since last January is laid at the door of the Missouri and North Arkansas Railway officials in a report on the situation made public last week by Charles J. Finger, an Arkansas publicist of national repute and a former railroad manager. The report, a copy of which is in the hands of Governor Thomas C. McRae of Arkansas, embodies an independent investigation undertaken by Finger at the request of the American Civil Liberties Union, which has been seeking a way to help the "condition of terror" along the railway.

Two facts upon which Finger focuses attention through a mass of detailed evidence are especially significant: first, that the bridge burnings used by the road officials to arouse the public against the strikers were doubtless due to natural causes; second, that Wise and Orr, strikers who are still in prison for alleged sabotage, pleaded guilty only upon the advice of their attorney in order to escape violence at the hands of the "Citizens' Committee" which had lynched J. C. Gregor the night before.

Finger shows that the railway was for several years in bad shape, some of its locomotives and trestles having been condemned by Federal inspectors. In a perind of extreme dry weather, the wooden trestles easily caught fire as trains passed. He draws the conclusion from the circumstances that the fires occured only when trains were in operation.

When Orr and Wise appeared in court, Finger recounts, the news of Gregor's lynching and other acts of mob violence were known. A threatening crowd surrounded the court house. Judge Mitchell, council for the two strikers, urged them to plead guilty.

NATIONAL OFFICE N.A.A.C.P. WILL ARRANGE FOR PRINTING HOUSTON MTATYRS' PETITIONS

It was announced today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, at 69 Fifth Avenue, New Yok City, that the National Office will arrange for the printing of the petitions to be used in gathering signatures asking for the release of the 24th Infantry confined in Leavenworth prison for the use of individuals and those organizations which desire the petitions only in small quantities. This the National ofiice has arranged to do for reasons of economy. Therefore, those organizations which desire only limited quantities of the petitions may secure them at the rate of one cent a sheet, approximately one half the cost of printing and mailing, by sending an order and the amount necessary to cover the same to the N.A.A.C.P. These orders will be turned over to the printers at New York and filled as promptly as possible.

Larger organizations are following the original plan and having their petitions printed locally, but the N.A.A.C.P. feels that the above outlined plan will be a convenience to smaller organizations and inbividuals.

The N.A.A.C.P. reported today there has never been any cause which has been entered into with such wholehearted enthusiasm as the campaign to free these men. The Methodist Episcopal Church through its Bishop R. E. Jones is distributing petitions among its churches; the Knights of Phithias of North America, etc., through Supreme Chancellor S. W. Green is circulating through its Grand Chancellors more than five thousand petitions (each petition having space for 60 signatures); the Citizens Club of Berkley, Norfolk, Va., has unanimously passed a resolution pledging complete cooperation in this effort and, during the special meeting which it will hold on November 11th, the audience will stand for five minutes in silent prayer for the release of the men. According to all present indications many more than the original goal of 100,000 signatures to the petitions will be secured.

ROBINSON-JACKSON WEDDING PROVES SOCIAL EVENT.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF THE LATE MADAM C. J. WALKER BECOMES THE BRIDE OF PROMINENT CHICAGO PHYSICIAN

High noon of Saturday, November 24th, 1923 will be long remembered in the annals of New York Society for the gorgeous wedding of Miss Mae Walker Robinson, grand daughter of the late Madam C. J. Walker, to Dr. Henry Cordon Jackson, of Chicago, Illinois.

Although the day was cold, gray, and rain threatened as early as ten o'clock, the guests began to arrive and occupy the seats of vantage at fashionable St. Phillips Episcopal Church.

As the hour for the ceremony approached, a cordon of police was required to keep back the ever increasing crowd which lined both sides of the street. By eleven o'clock the church was already two-thirds filled with a typically well-dressed New York audience and by noon seats affording a good view were not to be had. At ten minutes of one the Choir in processional sang Mendelsohn's "Here Comes the Bride", and, following down the entire aisle came the memorable bridal party and took their position in semicircular formation facing the altar, which was abundantly decorated with palms, ferns, cape smilax and garlands of brides ribbon. A beautiful spectacle to behold, I assure you,—a stately, classic church appropriately decorated and graced with an audience honoring the union of two members of our increasing aristocracy.

Mrs. Jackson was radiant as a bride-to-be, gracefully slow and unfaltering in her steps. Simply beautiful is inadequate to completely describe her costume, for it was both simple and beautiful. It was of white chiffon, adorned with an all over design of genuine imported sea pearls over brides Satin, a tulle veil attached to an Egyptian head dress purchased by her mother on a recent trip to the Holy Land, fraught with orange blossoms and which gracefully fell to form a ten foot train. She wore brocaded silver slippers, no jewelry, save a diamond broach, the gift of the groom, and carried a large bouquet of brides roses showered with ribbons and lillies of the valley. She was indeed a picture, on the arm of Atty. F. B. Ransom, of Indianapolis, Ind., who gave her in marriage.

The Matron of Honor, Mrs. Norman Harris, nee Katie Wilson, of Washington, D. C., was charming in a simple straight line gown of silver cloth wearing a dainty chiffon picture hat, and carrying a Shepherd's Staff of butterfly roses.

Typical of the good judgment of the bride was her selection of her Maid of Honor, and her Brides Maids, for, arrayed among them was beauty, brains and blood. Her Maid of Honor was Miss Consuella Street, of Indianapolis, Ind., and her Brides Maids were the Misses Louise Jackson, Eunice Hunter, Marion Moore, Mildred Randolph, of New York City, and Miss Anita Thompson, of Los Angeles, Cal. They were traditionally lovely in Bouffant Gowns of cream colored pure Chantilly lace over silver cloth, appropriately trimmed with ropes of Orange Blossoms. They wore coronets of Braided silver cloth covering their Egyptian Hair Dress. Brocaded silver slippers and carried Ivory-bound Episcopal Prayer Books.

Leila Emma Ransom, of Indianapolis, Ind., Betty Payton and Katherine Barnum, of New York City were petite flower girls daintily clad in fluted ruffled dresses of white georgette crepe over white satin trimmed with silk lace, hand rosebuds and ribbons. They carried wicker baskets filled with Ophelia Roses.

Little Vestner Tandy, Jr., in a Lord Fauntleroy suit of white satin was manly in his bearing of the ring on a heart shaped pillow of Venetian satin and silver lace.

Madam Leila Walker, mother of the bride, becomingly wore an elegant straight line gown of gold metallic cloth designed and imported for the occasion from Paris, France.

The presence of such substantial young men as Drs. Libert Lozama, Ned Chestnutt, Waldo Alexander and Bindley Cyrus, of Chicago, Attorney Drake L. Smith, of Baltimore, and Attorney Henry Rucker, of New York City as ushers, in the bridal party, attest to the popularity of the groom. The gentlemen were attired in strictly formal morning dress and wore boutonnieres of white carnations, excepting the groom who wore lillies of the valley, and the best man, and donor of the bride, who wore gardenias.

Father Hutchins Bishop, Rector of the Church, performed the ceremony, and was assisted by his son, the Rev. Shelton Bishop. Throughout the ceremony Prof. Paul Bolin, organist, softly rendered organ numbers and at the close of the ceremony the choir sang an old marriage hymn. The couple and party gracefully marched from the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. They found difficulty getting through the battery of camera and newspaper men, and the curious, but well-meaning crowd. It was only by the timely effort of the police that a stampede to touch the bride was averted, and the couple were enabled to proceed unmolested on their way to the wedding breakfast at Villa Lewaro.

PRE-NUPTIAL AFFAIRS

All of the two weeks before the wedding were crowded with events given in honor of the newlyweds, notable among which was:

Friday Evening, Nov. 16th—A linen shower by the Debutantes Club.

Saturday, Nov. 17th—A luncheon at the home of Mrs. Czarina George, by Mrs. Grace Kellog, and Mrs. George.

Saturday Evening, Nov. 17th—Entertained at the home of Mrs. Marie Payton.

Monday Evening, Nov. 19th—Party at the home of Mrs. Harry Austin, by Misses Annabelle Anderson, Ethel Gardener, Pearl Grayson, Regina Anderson, Anita Thompson, Marie Moore, Mildred Randolph, Andreas Lindsay, and Mrs. Percy May Tweedy Lewis. A set of books was given to the bride.

Tuesday Evening, Nov. 20th—Pre-Nuptial Dance at the Association of Trade and Commerce given by Mesdames Clifford Norman, William L. Patterson, Gertrude Curtis McPherson, Godfrey C. Patton, Harry Austin, Godfrey Nurse, Charles Ramey, Norman Cotton, Flournoy Miller, Clarence Johnstone, Custus Venie, James Harris, John E. Nail, Alfred Mitchell, Adolph Howell, Mary Lane and Miss Ethel Gardner. Music by Ed Brown's orchestra; caterer, Julian Miller's Sons, of Philadelphia; decorations by Mr. Chas. H. Johnson of Peter F. McKenny.

Wednesday Evening, Nov. 21st—Theatre Party by Mrs. Flournoy Miller to "Runnin' Wild".

Thursday Evening, Nov. 22nd—Stag at Craigg's to the groom and groomsmen by a group of prominent men of Harlem.

Friday Evening, Nov. 23rd—Rehearsal and Dinner to Wedding Party at Villa.

Friday, November 23rd—Kitchen Shower by Bridesmaids.

THE RECEPTION

After the ceremony and Wedding Breakfast a reception was held at Villa Lewaro, at Irving-on-Hudson, the $250,000 Country Place purchased by the late Madam C. J. Walker, grand mother of the bride, and present home of Madam A. Leila Walker. The reception was remarkable for its notable attendance and the splendor of its setting. The Villa was never more beautiful with its new and costly decorations and embellishments of palms, ferns, pot plants, smilax, white chrysanthemums and ribbon.

The entire Bridal party was the receiving line, and more than a thousand passed it and showered congratulations and wishes for happiness upon the bride and groom who stood beneath a canopy of cape smilax and garlands of ribbon. During the reception selections were rendered on the organ by Mr. Lorenzo F. Dyer, on the harp by Miss Anna Welch, Mrs. P. M. Murphy, accompanied by Miss Beatrice Lewis, who sang "O Promise Me".

The following were house guests at Villa Lewaro for the wedding: Dr. & Mrs. Ernest Lyons, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Hale Jackson, Cleveland, O.; Miss Anjetta Breedlove, Los Angeles, Cal.; Miss Alice P. Kelley, Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Consuella Street, Indianapolis, Ind.; Atty. F. B. Ransom and daughter A'Lelia Emma, Indianapolis, Ind.

And aside from hundreds of New Yorkers present at the reception the following out of town guests were noted among those present: Mrs. Samuel Thompson, Mrs. Essie Saunders, Miss Manila Owens and mother, of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Alice Burnett, and daughter, of Chicago, Ill; Mr. Harry D. Evans, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. George Dean, of Germantown, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Berresford Gale, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Eva P. Francis, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Artena Miller, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Ray, Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Dorris L. Madison, Albany, N. Y.; Miss Beatrice Lewis, Washington, D. C.; Miss Madeline Layton, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. B. Perry Rhodes, Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Julia Bamry Jones, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Fannie Harper, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Norris Skelley, Morristown, N. Y.; Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Craft, Germantown, Pa.; Mrs. Arthur L. Curtis, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Wm. H. Washington, Dr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Green, Mrs. Inez Helen, Newark, N. J.; Mrs. S. Henderson, Boston, Mass.; Miss Marjorie Henderson, Cambridge, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jackson, Chicago, Ill.; Dr. Wm. Rhone, Orange, N. J.; Prof. Arthur W. Long, Trenton, N. J.; Mr. Jas. Owens, Jamaica, L. I.

Great significance is attached to the wedding, uniting, as it does, two of the Race's leading families, and it proved itself a gala society event, eclipsing even the most vague anticipation in beauty and gorgeousness.

GIFTS

The mother's gift to the couple was an heirloom of especially made solid mahogany case containing 126 pieces of hand turned sterling silver from Tiffany & Company.

The groom gave to the bride an expensive diamond brooch.

The bride gave to the Matron of Honor a braided green gold bracelet fastened with a lock containing two diamonds and a sapphire.

The groom gave to the best man and ushers walking canes and cigarette cases.

The bride gave to the brides maides Gold Coast Ivory Bound Episcopal Prayer Books.

Valuations are odious to place upon the many handsome and costly gifts to the couple. Friends from throughout the land generously remembered them with jewels, silver ware, cut glass, fine linens, household goods, apparel and personal congratulations.

Nine thousand invitations were issued to the wedding, one thousand of which covered the mailing list of Madame A'Lelia Walker, including friends and acquaintances in every State in the Union, British Guana, the West Indies, Canada, England, France, Haiti, Liberia, Nigeria, Panama and the Phillipine Islands. Eight thousand invitations were issued to supply stations to reach the forty thousand agents of the Mme. C. J. Walker Manufacturing Co., scattered all over the world.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The message of the President delivered to Congress yesterday is a notable state paper, in which without the least fear or favor he met all issues and side-stepped none of them. He went squarely on record as against the granting of a bonus to the World War veterans, endorsed President Harding's stand for a World's Court, a more strict enforcement of the prohibition law and placing the employees of that department under the Civil Service. He also opposed recognition to Soviet Russia and favored lower taxes and freight rates and fertilizer for the farmers.

Conspicuous among his recommendations was a law against Lynching; with the exception of ex-President Wilson, his words on Lynching are not unlike those of his predecessors—all of whom deplored the hideousness of the crime of Lynching, but Congress always turned a deaf ear to the plea.

The President, however, made an advance step in recommending a Commission to establish a better understanding between the White and Black people. He characterized the difficulties between the races as local in character and must be worked out by the mutual forebearance and human kindness of each community, and said that such a method gives more promise of real remedy than outside interference.

To be frank, the last and concluding sentence on the Race Question, to our way of thinking, cast a pall over the entire subject, for he called for a suppression of Lynching by the Federal Government and in the next breath, declares that it is a question for the States to decide for themselves—and in this situation he might just as well have passed up the question in its entirety, for this statement made by the President is a powerful weapon in the hands of the Southerners who have stood in the way of the passage of any such measure in the past.

HOW MUCH OF THIS BUSINESS SHOULD BE GAINED BY OUR GROUP?

A conservative estimate of the amount of money spent by members of our group in the city of LOS ANGELES annually for seven articles only is $16,373,333.00. Basing the population at 40,000, the estimate which is conservative to the highest degree, gives for food at $3.00 per week, $6,240,000.00; shoes at $18 per, $740,000.00; clothes at $1.00 per week, $2,000,000; Electricity, $80,000; Gas, $80,000; Car Fare, $1,253,333—a grand total of $16,373,333.00.

The great big question is how much of this business, Mr. Business Man, are you getting; and if not, why not? Our answer is less than one and one-half per cent. Our admonition is, Get busy and corral some of your own business and become a real factor in the community in which you live.

COMMERCIAL COUNCIL ON THE JOB.

The interest of the Commercial Council in stimulating ambition and hope into the minds of our young men and women, by providing a Silver Cup to be contested for annually is to be commended. It is a foregone conclusion that the youth of today is to be the salvation of the Race along business lines. Therefore the Council acts wisely in its encouragement, and the beautiful Silver Cup give nto the Society winning the first Annual Oratorical Contest of the Lyceum is perhaps a stepping stone to a more sincere devotion, not only for literary efforts, but along business lines as well. Long may be the life of the Los Angeles Commercial Council.

BYERS FOR CONGRESS.

We note the favorabe mention which the name of Sheriff J. E. Byers is receiving for member of Congress from the District comprising San Diego and Imperial Valley. The California Eagle desires to join in with those who think well of Mr. Byers. He is of Congressional calibre and a man who stands, not for a part of the people, but for all the people. His record as Sheriff of San Diego County stands out as an example for all Peace Officers to aspire to; and the people appreciating such signal service, and recognizing the ability of Mr. Byers, will make no mistake in sending him to Congress to succeed Judge Swing.

MAKES A BIG DIFFERENCE WHOSE OX IS GORED.

Ever since the present City Ordinance prohibiting public dancing after 12 P. M. has been a law, the common, average, every-day man, who is no other than the great common people, has had to observe it. If he violated this law, he paid the price, and not a holler did he make. Now, what we would like to know, what is all this confusion, when the police officials demand the same respect for the law from those who dance at the Biltmore as they do from those who happen to dance at the "Needmore Hotel" on Central Avenue? We are absolutely at sea and we cannot conceive that anybody would advocate one law for the rich and another for the poor.

It looks to us like a new day and a new deal when the law is to be applied impartially to all. We like the spirit of fair play under the present regime, when regardless of who is concerned the law is taking its course. Poor man gets arrested down town for violating the law, rich man uptown gets arrested on the same basis. To our mind this is real Democracy. Of course it is not the sort of Democracy that some people like; but it's Democracy just the same.

All along the line, as we note above, the common, ordinary, average citizen has been made to abide by this law and now it hits the higher ups and there is a wailing and gnashing of teeth, and a rattling of dry bones. So after all, it makes a big difference as to whose ox is gored.

GROWTH OF COLORED INSURANCE COMPANIES SIGN OF PROGRESS

Assets Called Financial Reservoir Of Race

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30—One of the surest signs of the progress of the Colored People of America is the remarkable prosperity of the insurance companies that have been organized and are being conducted by members of the Race. It is estimated that the sixty insurance companies operated by Colored People have approximately $110,000,000 worth of insurance in force with aggregate assets amounting to some Ten Million ($10,000,000) Dollars.

The value of having this vast sum of money as a financial reservoir for the uses of the Colored People of America is very forcibly pictured in an article appearing in the November issue, The Business Achievement Number, of The Messenger Magazine of New York City, written by Heman E. Perry, President of the Standard Life Insurance Company, in which he makes the following steaement:

"In addition to the religious, social and educational forces which, in the main, make up the elements composing the foundation upon which a race is built there is another factor which is equally as important and without which no race can ever acquire that strength and character necessary to enable it to stand out as a power among the races of the world. This factor is the economic life of a people, or that which deals with the production, distribution, and consumption of wealth, especially the wealth which is accumulated as a result of labor of the particular racial group. These strong, financial institutions are at the present time the backbone of the structure upon which we, as a race, must rise.

"The money distribution of Life Insurance Companies are the stepping stones to future fortunes which could be amassed in no other way. Through them new communities will rise, beautiful residences will replace the squalid huts, modern fire proof apartments will take the place of the fire-trap, and the unsanitary tenement. Flowers will bloom where weeds once grew, and the unsightly side street and alley will be transformed into attractive sub-divisions with paved streets, lakes and parks. Play grounds and swimming pools will provide health-giving recreation for America's black children. Hospitals with every modern equipment for the prolongation of human life and great colleges and universities will be built."

The growth of life insurance organizations among Colored People in America is indicative of the new idea of thrift which has taken hold of this racial group and of the fact that they are taking advantage of the general wave of prosperity which the country is enjoying at this time. That the sale of life insurance among Colored People is not unnatural is shown by an article recently appearing in The Washington, D. C., Post calling attension to the fact that the sales of life insurance in the United States continues to eclipse previous records. During the first nine months of the present year policies representing more than $4,000,000,000 were taken out of this amount, said Th ePost, the three months ending September 30th, 1923, were responsible for $2,350,000,000 showing an increase of 19 per cent above the same period in 1922 and 36 per cent above the corresponding quarter of 1921. These figures besides being striking in themselves, are an evidence of the generally prosperous condition of the country. When people are in straightened circumstances the last thing they think of as a rule is life insurance. That prosperity is widespread is apparent from the fact that inn o State were the sales of life insurance less up up to October 1 than they were at the same date last year, and that form of investment is a good barometer of the financial condition of the population is proved by the further fast that in this respect the West Central States have gained less in the period under notice than any other section of the country, the cauce assigned being the poor agricultural situation.

In addition to showing prosperity, these insurance figures evince a fine spirit in family life and a kindly care for others, for it is mainly in theinterest of dependents who may be deprived of their bread that life policies are effected. From every point of view, then, the increase in insurance is to be hailed as symptomatic of good.

THE LOS ANGELES "FORUM" NOTES

By H. A. Howard

An overwhelming crowd jammed the "Forum" on Sunday, November 25th, to hear the "Y" boys deliver their program. Also to see the demonstration of Prof. C. A. Biggers' new method in Commercial Business Courses. Prof. Biggers said, in part, that this course can be finished in the space of three months, on a guarantee basis. It is to any one's advantage, who would like to take this course, to call at the Metropolitan Building and have a "chat" with Prof. Biggers.

It would take too much space for me to tell how the "Y" boys so enthusiastically rendered their program. It would be a great pleasure to see some mothers and fathers out, to hear their sons express themselves for the higher characteristic in life. Also the wonderful way in which Mr. Noah D. Thompson spoke on behalf of Prof. Green and his boys. We want the public to always visit the "Forum" from Sunday to Sunday, and get acquainted with these boys and girls. This is the day of commercialism, the day of electricity, the day of scientific progress, and invention; above all it is the day of idealism.

Inheritors of all that is best in the greatest religion of the world, and of the cream of all the system of ethic, moral, and social ages of men and women today, in every phase of life find themselves inspired by all the fine sentiments and aspirations, which have grown out of the individual and collective will of men, and developed those qualities which differentiate him from the beast.

However, as a race of people, we have not yet learned to encourage our boys and girls openly; so that they may profess their idealism; to give free expression to their higher thoughts and feelings. It is probably because there was a time when our idealism was young, and required protection from those of the opposite race. Today it is different, and with the exception of the comparatively few members of a fast-vanishing type of human beings, the race admits and admires these spiritual qualities, which have the urge of every earnest heart, and has ever been the foundation for all worth while parentage.

Therefore, the time is at hand, when individuals need no longer be either afraid or ashamed of their ideals. It is time for the idealist to trust the average man and woman, believing that every heart will respond to an expression of the beautiful and the true. It is, also, time for all of us to take our idealism to work; to counter every vulgar jest and negative word we hear, with a clean thought and positive, wholesome speech.

I am not speaking of that brand of optimism, which gives breath to embarrassment by demanding a perpetual grin on the face of humanity—nor yet that blatant idealism, but that profound idealism which awakened the vim of the boys and girls, "that you shall be called, blessed."

NINTH STREET HI Y DELEGATION MAKES GREAT IMPRESSION AT CONFERENCE

By Clarence Brothers
(Delegation Reporter)

"Having torches in their hands, they will pass them on from one to another".

To carry out the purposes symbolized by the torch, and to discuss the methods they can pursue to obtain their aim, 450 boys gathered in Pomona on November 30 and December 1st and 2nd.

Nearly every high school in Southern California was represented at the 19th Annual Y.M.C.A. Older Boys' Conference. The torch, as accepted by this conference,is a symbol of principles which the boys aim to possess.

Bringing the boys together once each year is one of the finest means of establishing a thorough understanding between them.

Several messages of the torch were given. Among the topics discussed were: "Carrying the torch," by Dr. Daniel Fox, of Pasadena; "Carrying the Torch in Other Lands", by Ray Moreman, Smyrna.

The Ninth Street Hi Y Club was well represented. The delegation consisted of Thomas Southern, Edwin Jefferson, Wallace Markham, Theophilus Smith, and Clarence Brothers, Senior Hi Y. Roy Johnson, Prince Greene, Haven Johnson, Junior Hi Y. Benjamin C. Colly and Wendell Gladden, Leaders.

Edwin Jefferson, President of the Senior Hi Y Club, was elected President of the delegation. Thomas Southern was chosen yell-leader. The delegation president held the standards of Ninth Street by well-prepared speeches, while eight fellows formed a double quartet and rendered song selections on every program. On Sunday this quartet sang two songs at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, one of the six largest white churches in Pomona. Three of the invitations could not be accepted for lack of time.

The people of Pomona, especially the thre colored families, Mr. and Mrs. James Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Baugh, and Mr. and Mrs. Marks, who so admirably and willingly cared for the delegation deserve much praise for their wonderful hospitality.

Rev. Woodby To Speak Sunday

Rev. George W. Woodby, noted historian and lecturer, will address the Y.M.C.A. Sunday at 3 p.m. on the subject of "The Negro in Ancient History". Everybody is cordially invited to attend, and hear this brilliant speaker.

BUSINESS AND FINANCE

By James N. Simms, LL.D.
Author of Simms Blue Book, etc.

SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

To succeed in business, requires, first of all, a knowledge of the business that one engages in, honesty, strict attention to business at all times, promptness in meeting obligations and systematic advertising.

To acquire a knowledge of the business is of the greatest importance. If you have no working knowledge of the business to start with, you will not be able to meet intelligently the simple requirements that will confront you at the outset. There are certain things that must be done in connection with all businesses from the moment you invite the public to trade with you. If you are not informed how to meet prospective patrons and present your wares or state propositions in a clear and concise manner, you at once bring upon yourself unnecessary criticism from the public which will cause not only your patrons but those who are dealing with you to lose confidence in you from the start and confidence once lost by a patron is harder to regain than to obtain at first.

The first impression made is always the most lasting one. It is, therefore, necessary that you be able to convince those you deal with of your ability to satisfy them.

If you enter into a business that you are not familiar with, you should employ someone who thoroughly understands the business to work with you until you have acquired sufficient knowledge of it to carry it on intelligently without assistance. By doing this, you will more quickly enter upon the road to success.

HONESTY. You may gain the confidence of the public and thereby a large patronage, but if you prove dishonest, you will soon lose the confidence, and respect of those trading with you, and the result will be a gradual losing of your patronage. You may not observe this loss at first because of the fact that new patrons are constantly coming in, but in time you will see the mistake of being dishonest for there is even an end to numbers.

One may succeed for a while by misrepresentation and sharp bargains, but this will not last. Strict attention to business shoul dbe observed at all times since none wants to do business with another who does not give his attention to his business. To succeed one must be on the job at all times during business hours.

OBLIGATIONS. To gain and hold the confidence of creditors; you must meet your obligations promptly. No one can successfully run a business of any proportion unless they can get credit. ADVERTISE. You can not hope to sell your wares unless you let the public know you have them for sale.

Coming! Monster College Carnival and Hi-Jinks by Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity also Unusual Musical Treat by the Crown City Quartette aided by Malcolm H. Patton, Jr. Watch for

Dr. A. J. Stokes, Peerless Pulpiteer, Matchless Orator, and for forty years the untrammelled leader of the race, comes to the pastorate of the Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church, this city. The Mt. Zion Baptist Church in particular, and the Baptists in general, have a cause for great rejoicing. For in the coming of Dr. Stokes into our midst, we have a ripe scholar, an experienced leader in the practice and polity of the church such as in but few others. Dr. Stokes has been honored with every office in the gift of the National Baptist Convention. He is now the treasurer, and has been for a quarter of a century. Though a sexogenarian, he is the youngest, as well as the noblest Roman of them all.

Dr. Stokes was a life-long friend of Dr. Booker T. Washington, and was his private councilor in critical times, while building up the great Tuskegee Institute. Major Robert Russa Moton, head of Tuskegee, recognized the wisdom of Dr. Stokes, and had him elected to the board of trustees of the school.

Dr. Stokes leaves one of the greatest churches in the South. Its membership is more than 5,000. Most of whom he added while in the pastorate of forty years.

The Doctor is said to be one of the few Negro ministers who is wealthy. This is stating it mildly.

Much time has been spent on two separate occasions in Palestine, when he explored the land made sacred by the life and death of Jesus Christ. These trips have added veneration, which is akin to the prophets.

Though spending most of his time in the South among the prejudiced whites, still that unconquerable spirit and indomitable will have never been swerved from the highest interest of the people whom he served and successfully led, and this has endeared him to both races.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH AT 33rd AND HOOPER, REV. MITCHELL PASTOR, OPENS ITS DOORS

Rev. M. Frederick Mitchell, Pastor of the Christian Church at Thirty-third Street and Hooper Avenue, is indeed entitled to be called the miracle man, when, with a flock which is not noted for its numerical strength, can break ground, and, in sixty days or less, have the edifice in which to worship as the one at this location, we cannot fail to give such a pastor and his congregation, due credit for the same.

Opening Day

The doors of this edifice were opened on last Sunday at 11 o'clock for the 1st regular service. In the afternoon a platform meeting was the order, and a program in keeping with the occasion was rendered. Among those who spoke were: Rev. Stevens, Rev. J. D. Edmonds, Rev. E. E. Lightener, Dr. H. H. Towles, Representatives of the Pacific Ready Cut Builders, who built the church, C. A. McKinney and Editor J. B. Bass.

Rev. Maddux, an able minister of the White church, delivered masterly discourses morning and evening. His subjects were "The Church" and "The Lordship of Jesus". The able pulpiter left no stone unturned to make every phase of his subjects plain.

Musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Boston, Mrs. E. S. Jackson, with Mrs. Brandon as accompanist. Quite a neat sum was realized from the offering for the occasion. This church is located in a section where a great service can be rendered, and with a leader like Rev. Mitchell in the lead, watch it grow.

It is th plan of the pastor and members to effect further changes within a few months, namely, to move the temporary building to the adjoining lot and erect a spacious church edifice with a basement and all departments of a modern church.

Rev. A. P. Shaw was the officiating clergyman uniting this young couple.

The attractive bride who was charmingly gowned in georgette over white satin wore a single rope of pearls. Her bridal veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of orange blossoms and bridal roses.

Race Rioting in the State of Florida

On Friday, January 5th again the dailies came forth with captions announcing that another Race Riot is on in full blast in Florida, and the same old story about a Negro attacking a white girl is the very interesting subject of the sensational theme that is engaging the attention of the newspaper public.

If the South could throw off its black mask of prejudice and realize that it is no more lawful for all the blacks to pay the penalty of one man's crime than it is for all whites to suffer for the sins of one white criminal, there would be less rioting.

The Negro has passed through too many bloody wars to be longer afraid to face death, so the "White" South had just as well prepare for a death struggle against the blacks in Florida and the Ku Klux in Louisiana.

NOTABL EADDRESS

"The civilized world is calling for a man, and every American youth should strive to answer the demand by furnishing that man. To do that we must first find what he is, for many in our country have a false standard, and many others are trying to measure up to it or become discouraged, believing it impossible to reach the standard. Before attempting to say what man is, let me say what he is not.

"Man is not color, (white) as some would have him, he is not flaxen hair, he is not physical size or strength, if he were, then the greatest man on earth would be the elephant, for he has both size and strength, but that which call man, goes into the jungles, captures the elephant, brings him into civilization and leads him around by his ear, rides on his head or back. Elon would come in ahead of man, for he is so powerful, if you confine him in this room, let him become angry and simply roar, he would jar the glass out of the windows, yet man cages him, walks in the cage and the lion crouches in his corner. But what is man?

"Man is mind, soul, will. He thinks. Destroy mind and he would remain a perpetual infant. He may develop physical size, have strength, but with mind gone he is a child. Hence the insane, if you see a crazy man, white or black he is a crazy man and color has absolutely nothing to do with it. So it is with he whose mind is trained in harmony with God, he who thinks, color has nothing to do with it. We must produce thinkers.

"It is up to us to prove that the color of the skin has nothing to do with manhood, for the body is simply the house in which the man lives. You cannot see man. Here you are in California, where you have the opportunity to produce the man, because the man-making factory, the school house is thrown open to all alike without regard to color, race or what not, and you have only to walk in and find the man through mind and soul culture. Tune your minds in harmony with God. In some sections of the country, we are taught man superior, man inferior through the separation in the schools. You will find in some states that the standard for manhood is white, and that white man tries to confine that to himself, by having accredited high schools for his boys and girls who seek the higher standard of manhood, and none for ours.

"Separate schools mean separate manhood, it means inferiority for one and superiority for the other, for nowhere we have the separation in schools do we find identically the same. While some would have it out here, claiming that is the road to a job. If getting a job is to let down an equal opportunity, then let the job go up salt river. If you will only prepare yourself, the job will be yours. I have no respect for any man, class of men or set of men who would advocate separation in the man factories.

"A real man does not approach another with hat under arms, looking down at the ground with a grin 'yassa boss,' but he stands erect looks every man right in the eye, a man approaching a man. We have too many who want to be leaders and claim to carry all the race in their pockets, and know the needs of his people. But I declare unto you, there is no white man, or combination of white men who can select leaders for us. The white man selects the leaders for my people among the liars. The man who will say we want separate but equal accomodation. The man who would say the curse to the race is politics, and would declare that we should stay out of politics. Any man who says that about the Negro is not worth h....l room and if he should die and go down there he would have to remain in a trying room for a few years, because he is too green to burn. Let the hearts of every black boy beat in unison, 'I want to be a man, and with a man stand, religion in my heart education in my head, and a ballot in my hand. With that ballot we are to protect our rights, personal and real property. Let us lay the foundation of our manhood in truth, justice, the superstructure in industry, adorn and illuminate the dome with peace and toleration. Build this manhood for the civilized world that it shall never fall.

"Where is Abel thy brother?" never fell upon the ears of a guilty Cain, and had more meaning than should come home to every one of the men and women from the institutions with that superior training or mind, until every one of us cries out in the language of the Apostle Paul, 'O wretched man that I am, who will deliver me from the body of death.' A kind and a good Providence makes us responsible for our brother, in order that mankind shall be elevated. A bitter blighting prejudice and hatred chains us to the body of death, for a different reason, but overruled by Providence to work out exceeding great good. All the influence of the yeast of civilization, by hatred, burning curse is driven down to the bottom of the mass of Negro life, until in God's own time, the whole mass becomes permeated with righteous industry and frugality, and it all shall rise heavenward. Prejudice is but the cylinder or steam trunk which confines the expanding water, until the particles of steam have accumulated power to drive the mighty engine with its load, to higher manhood, to civilization and to God. Industrial intelligence plus intelligent industry, must be the lever by which all this shall be done; upon a foundation of racial respect, for no race or individual can rise in the world which does not emphasize it's racial or individual identity. The man who does not emphasize the importance of this soon becomes insane and recognizes himself as anybody else but himself.

"Today we are proud to say that we have produced a man in every walk of life, and we shall continue to do so as long as God lives. The white man and the Negro, side by side are called upon to defend Old Glory. Each with patriotism and love have responded. To the flag, we have always been true and loyal and we are going to continue. I am talking tonight to men who would walk into death as freely as they would walk into a good Christmas dinner for the defense of our flag. We are not traitors, and I thank God we have never sense enough to be one. We know one country, one flag, one President—each belong to us and for each we are willing to die. We have shown our manhood, our loyalty from Boston Commons, Bunker Hill, to the Carazals in Mexico and the bloody battlefields of France, and we will show it when the time comes to strike our common enemy.

"Lynching, burning, mob violence will never discourage us. The day that we become discouraged, will be that day when the sky will be of a pale blue, so pale that we can see into heaven, and there discover God lying motionless on a couch. Then there will come from behind a cloud, a man riding a horse with a lighted torch in one hand, with which he will inscribe on the azure blue, 'God is dead.' Until then we are going in the midst of prejudice, race hatred and antipathy, continue to furnish a man."

Dr. Stewart left Monday morning for Chicago. He preached Sunday morning at the A. M. E. church, Pasadena, and Sunday night at Tabernacle Baptist Church. He is an official of the National Baptist Convention.

GOOD, BAD, OR INDIFFERENT

If the Negro is industrious, thrifty, goes into business, buys a decent residence on an improved street, seeks rational pleasures for his family, gets above menial labor and acts the part of a respectabble citizen, he is Uppish, No Good, Trying to be White, Wants Social Equality, Obnoxious, Offensive, and a Menace to the Nation.

If the Negro is idle, shiftless, illiterate, homeless, disposed to petty crimes, exposed to repeated imprisonment, fears white folks, hates his own people, frequents every open place of vice, and is without ambition or aims, or hope, he is the always the "Noteworthy Example of the New Negro" the white man's burden.

If the Negro is idle, and takes a menial job and sticks to it long enough to barely pay for a home, looks for nothing beyond the satisfying of the present need, values the good will of white people above the services of his wife and children within his own home or above the education of his children, typifies the ante-bellum spirit in word and manners and takes no chances outside of "His Place," he is the dear "Old Uncle,"

To be good, bad or indifferent, to the average white American mind, one's color or race or previous condition is the very limit of his white reasoning and understanding. For a long while yet, the paramount thing in American thought will be the Eternal Negro Question.

MANAGING EDITOR HOLDS AUDIENCE SPELL BOUND FOR ONE HOUR

Managing Editor, Mrs. C. A. Bass and Miss Idell Albritton spent New Year's evening in Redlands. They attended the Emancipation Celebration under the auspices of the Negro Council at which Mrs. Bass was speaker of the evening. Her subject: "The Negro and Emancipation" was treated in a new light. For one hour she held her audience spell-bound and at the conclusion those present were more determined to emancipate themselves.

The Negro Council under whose auspices the meeting was held is an organization organized and fostered by Rev. C. B. Dones of the Second Baptist Church of Redlands. It is at present a flourishing body of determined men and women with Mr. Freeman as President.

The crowd that was present at the A. M. E. Church testified to their activity. Other numbers on the program were the solos by Mrs. Lulu Beal and Lomax M. Dones, which were well rendered and a splendid paper "Fifty Years of Freedom," by Mrs. Freeman.

Before returning home the Managing Editor and Miss Albritton visited San Bernardine and Riverside, arriving at home Wednesday.

Dr. H. D. Prowd, ex-Pastor of the Second Baptist Church, returned to the city last Sunday, from attending the National Baptist Convention and visiting several points in the East.

He will preach at the Tabernacle Baptist Church, Sunday evening, January 7th.

His many friends will be glad to hear him again Sunday evening at Tabernacle.

PRONOUNCED A GREAT SINGER

MDME. SADYE COCHRANE-CHADWICK OF BROOKLYN, NEW YORK PRONOUNCED GREAT SINGER BY LOS ANGELES MUSIC LOVERS AT EIGHTH AND TOWNE A. M. E. CHURCH.

Sadye Cochrane-Chadwick, Brooklyn lyric soprano, appeared in sacred concert recital and was greeted by a large audience at historic Eighth and Towne Avenue A. M. E. Church, Rev. A. Milton Ward, minister, Sunday night from 8 to 9 o'clock. Madam Chadwick gave a program of choice selections and was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Fred M. Roberts. Mme. Chadwick sings with ease and grace. She easily reaches high "C" and can hold a note for thirty seconds. One can scarcely detect her breathing while she sings. While her singing of "The Rosary" and other numbers were good she favored last Sunday night with "Jesus Lover of My Soul" to the tune of "The Last Rose of Summer" and H. T. Burleigh's "Jean," and "I Love You." Each number was well received and the vast audience proved responsive and enthusiastic.

Mr. William Pearson, popular author-producer of the recent musical comedy success, "Chuckles," is now in San Francisco. He is negotiating with Ackerman and Harris, who are about to open the Century Theatre, exclusively for Colored productions for a Bay City showing of this musical show. Ackerman and Harris will open their house the latter part of January with a Revue by the famous Mamie Smith and her Jazz Hounds. Incidentally, the producers have engaged ten members of the now famous "Chuckles" Bronze Beauty Chorus, who will go north for this production.

MR. AND MRS. "CUSTOMER."

We try to render a cheerful, helpful service and to extend truly courteous attention to your wishes and wants, and in every way to make you feel that you have really become our friend and at home. In other words we try to sell "to please" and if you are not entirely pleased with your recent transactions in our store, will you not give us another opportunity to try further to please you?

We say this with all sincerity, for it has been our pleasure for the past twelve years engaged in this particular line to take special notice and to keep tab on our most loyal and appreciated trade, and our tabulation shows clearly who are anxious about the girls and boys in trying to help foster a legitimate business that, "Those who run may read."

Dear customers you have played an important part in helping this store to stand, even in the most severe crisis. You stood by us, and it is to you we desire to extend our hearty thanks and to wish you a most happy and prosperous year, and at the same time give you a cordial invitation to "Call again and more often." We further wish to dedicate these few lines in the way of a New Years Greeting:

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

New mercies, new bblessings, new light on the way;
New courage, new hope, and new strength for each day;
New notes of thanksgiving, new chords of delight.
New praise in the morning, new songs in the night.
New wine in the chalice, new altars to raise,
New fruits for thy Master, new garments of praise:
New gifts from his treasure, new smiles from His face.
New streams from the fountain of infinite grace.
New stars for thy crown and new tokens of love.
New gleams of thy glory that awaits the above;
Ne wlight of His countenance, full and unpriced—
All this be the joy of thy new life in Christ.

Accept these few lines as a token of our appreciation for the past, and hopes for the future.

Spectacular Scene From Ruth, The Moaitess.

RUTH THE MOABITESS DISPLAYS REAL TALENT

Wednesday night, December 27th at the Gamut Auditorium the beautiful Cantata of Ruth, The Moabitess was very beautifully dramatized by the Peoples Independent Church Choir and members from other Choirs.

The Chorus work done showed a great amount of practice. Mr. Thomas Johnson, as director is deserving of praise for the excellency of the performance. All the Choruses were sung from memory; too, the solo work was good. Especially good were Mr. Geo. Johnson and Miss Louise Beavers. Miss Nellie Johnson played her part well and her voice was at its best. Coming as a surprise to many was the good work by Misses Lucile Banton and Faustina Scott. Mr. George K. Beavers as Boaz out-Hebrewed the Hebrew.

Altogether the dramatization of this Cantata marked the beginning of a new epoch in entertainment giving.

OD DFELLOWS INSTALL

The three lodges and Households of Ruth held a joint installation Wednesday evening at Odd Fellows Hall. Grand Master J. B. Bass assisted by Grand Secretary S. P. Johnson conducted the exercises, a huge crowd was present and a most enjoyable occasion was voted by all.

THE INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE NEWS

Vol I. SATURDAY, JAN. 6, 1923--Los Angeles, Cal. No. 3

Edited By—A. MOORE SHEARIN--Assistant Publicity Director

BEGIN THE NEW YEAR RIGHT HABIT—THE MIGHTY FACTOR IN HUMAN ACTIVITY

NOT CHANCE NOR LUCK, not fate nor freak of fortune lays the course we follow. The habit of doubt and indecision may lead us a winding route or the habit of constructive thinking carry us directly towards our goal.

Habit is a mighty factor in life's activities. It is a hard master, but a willing servant.

Habits of courage and determination, of facing the truth and defeating adversity have woven the sturdy fabric of our union.

The habit of daring to do what the vision of the future requires has given us mean sof communication and interchange of thougght in an organization— The International Community Welfare League, which is carrying to the Darker peoples the world's opportunities wherever man's demand is fent.

An essential factor in this solid advancement has been the habit forming character of organization and organized efforts.

The last generation began to feel the influence of organization. The present generaton is being brougght up on it. Today people appeal to The International Community Welfare League for aid. Its programme fills a long needed want. The result has been a safe-guarding of health, an increase in comfort; and an insuring of the value of organized effort, as no other organization has ever before provided.

The International Community Welfare League has developed an international habit of confidence in organized effort. This is our greatest tribute to the integrity and ability of peoples of Negro, Indian and Latin American blood, to work together for their common and their individual good.

Rev. L. B. Brown, Pastor Tabernacle Baptist Church, Los Angeles, California has just returned from the National Baptist Convention held at St. Louis, Mo. Rev. Brown reports a most favorable impression made upon the convention when he spoke, on the evening of December 8th, concerning The International Community Welfare League and its wonderful programme.

Tulsa, Okla. Jon. 4.—Like wild fire spreads the programme of the International Community Welfare League. Over 200 new members have been taken in during the past week.

Ft. Smith, Ark., Jan. 3.—Organization of The International Community Welfare League began here last week under the leadership of Rev. J. E. Tice.

The first annual convention of The International Community Welfare League convenes at Los Angeles, California September 1923. At the same time the National Baptist Convention also meets.

MEXICO A LAND OF PEACE AND PROSPERITY.

Washington Should Recognize Obregon's Administration.

The protection of Americans is the main thought considered by our American people and by the American Government. President Obregon has done much more than merely protect Americans. He has protected his own people. He has restored law and order and popular rights and liberties completely throughout his whole country and for all classes, rich and poor regardless of race, color or creed.

He is not a partisan of any class or clique. He is not playing favorites. He is endeavoring to do absolute justice. And it is because he is resting his orderly, social and governmental structure upon the firm foundation of equal justice that the peace and prosperity of Mexico will be permanent.

As a matter of fact, the principles and policies of President Obregon are so sound and sincere, that is is advisable that some of our own Statesmen study them and learn a lesson from him.

The Mexican people know that not only schools, but all other civilizing influences are being developed. They know that the railroads are being extended and improved, and that great highways are being built from the railroad terminals into distant districts. They know that telephone systems are being installed between towns; that electric lighting systems are being installed in the smallest towns; that power is being developed; that water systems are being improved for drinking purposes, for irrigation purposes and for manufacturing purposes.

Hospitals are being built and cleanliness and sanitation encouraged.

Farm school and manual training schools are being established to teach the farmers and the working men how to make the best and most out of their opportunities.

What they do not understand is why the United States, which is supposed to be a progressive and democratic nation, does not recognize a sister republic, which is keeping pace with it in progress and democracy, and far ahead in the effort of social betterment.

General Ignacio Enriquez, capable and cultured governor of Chihauhau, distinguished graduate of the University of Illinois, intense patriot, sincere democrat and profound thinker, declares that the Mexican revolution sprang from the mind of the United States of America, like Athene from the head of Zeus.

Thus says, Governor Enriquez, the revolution started in those northern Mexican States which are nearest to the United States, and was born of American thought and modeled on American customs.

Why, then, should the United States hesitate to recognize this truly republican government, which is in a large measure the child of its own brain, and which seeks but to follow in the path of liberty and enlightment, of progress and prosperity, which the United States itself has trod?

Later he went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Trailer where a happy time was enjoyed HENRY MOORE, Special Correspondent.

The Weston Kings Daughters and Sons Circle met Sunday, December 24, 1922, at the Woman's Day Nursery. A delightful meeting was held. After all business had been dispatched, president and members busied themselves with the preparation of baskets for distribution to those unfortunates who would otherwise be without Christmas cheer, or even food. Twenty-two baskets were filled with staple foods, candy, fruit and nuts, and some clothes were also given away. Thus many were made happy in His name by the W. K. D. S.

VISITS SAN DIEGO AND OLD MEXICO.

Our friend, Mr. G. W. McElroy, of 1253 S. Compton Avenue, Watts, called at our offices this week and reported a most enjoyable trip to San Diego, and Old Mexico last week. In San Diego he enjoyed the cordial hospitality of a boyhood friend, Mr. P. F. Newman, of 3063 Greeley Avenue and under Mr. Newman's genial ciceronage took in the noted sights of the district, including Balboa Park and Coronado. On Sunday last Mr. McElroy visited Tia Juana, seeing the races and enjoying the excursion thoroughly. Before returning north, he made a trip by stage to Ensenada, Old Mexico. The drive was most interesting, through beautiful mountain scenery, and somewhat crude roads provided a superabundance of thrills. All in all, Mr. McElroy declares his trip to have been a thoroughly delightful one.

WHO IS "BOSS" OF YOUR DOLLARS?

A good many men let the other fellow spend the money they earn—the other fellow just has to suggest something to sell them and—the money is GONE.

Some men are strong enough to control their own money. Every time they get money, they put some of it in a Savings Account—first—BEFORE the fellow who wants to sell you something gets a chance.

It takes a MAN, and a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, in a GOOD BANK, and a STRONG WILL to build up a fund of money in bank which you can use for things that are really worth while.

Why not make a good strong resolution, open an account, and SAVE?

WHAT THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY LEAGUE IS DOING TO ENCOURAGE IMMIGRATION AND DEVELOPMENT BY NEGROES

The best proof that favorable opinion now prevails about Mexico, in a number of subjects of other ...ties who have entered Mexico ...the object of settling there, during the last few months, and the many inquiries received daily in the American Headquarters of the International Community Welfare League.

Reduced railroad rates, and exemption from duty on agricultural implements, are being offered to the immigrant by the Mexican Government.

The Mexican Government, realizing that the development of the country's agricultural resources is even more profitable than the development of her mines, is giving special attention to the farmers, planters and ranchmen, with the object of helping them to develop their properties. Systematical cultivation by the use of modern machinery is being introduced, and to that end, carloads of trucks and agriculturl implements of the most modern type are being imported direct by the Government and exhibited in buildings fitted for that purpose. The Department of Agriculture has agents throughout the different sections of the country, demonstrating the utility of those implements, and offering them for sale to the farmers at cost price, and on easy terms. Plants, seeds and booklets are distributed among the farmers in order to insure them the best methods of agriculture.

At the present time the department of Agriculture and Development in Mexico is preparing the execution of the Agrarian laws, so as to dispose of millions of acres that are government property. The government has about 68 million acres of government lands which when sold will range from one dollar up an acre. The day of the big Haciendas which prevailed in Mexico for the last four hundred years is past. International Community Welfare League assures the Negro, the Mexican, and the Indian that every facility and assistance will be given to the members of the International Community Welfare League, who wish to take advantage of the great opportunities offered by the Mexican Government in the sale and development of the millions of acres of fertile Mexican land.

The Los Angeles Local Begins Its Five Thousand Membership Drive.

Beginning January 1, 1923, The Los Angeles Local of The International Community Welfare League will launch its campaign for five thousand members.

Attorney E. C. Jennings, President of the Los Angeles Local, is organizing the details of the membership drive.

Rev. W. C. Carter, pastor of the C. M. E. Church of El Centro, Calif., has been elected Secretary of the El Centro League. Rev. Carter reports good headway for the League in El Centro.

Where to Attend Church

ZION'S CHURCH ENTERTAINS

Never before in the history of Los Angeles has a happier New Year been eextended the public than was extended by the First A. M. E. Zion Church on New Years Day.

Nearly one hundred people were dined during the day to a geneuine New Year's dinner, absolutely free. Many baskets were sent out to the sick and aged of the church.

In the evening a sumptuous banquet was given in honor of the chorister and choir. At least another hundred enjoyed a repast that would have done credit to the Hotel Alexandria.

The banquet room was artistically decorated; floor lamps casting their soft radiance over all and red rose buds and fragrant carnations added beauty to the scene.

Prof. J. C. Banks toast-master for the occasion in opening remarks paid a high tribute to the efficient work of the director, Prof. William Bynum and the organist Miss Hazel Gottchalk.

Worthy responses were made by Prof. Bynum, Miss Gottchalk and Miss Frances Petty. Mrs. Elizabeth Moore and a number of other guests among whom was Mr. Malcom Patton, one of Los Angeles' music lover spoke words of encouragement and praise to the choir members.

The closing remarks were made by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Shaw. After praising the work of the choir, he thanked and commended the members who so generously contributed money, time and labor to make the entire day a success.

Just before the banqueters arose from the table, the kitchen crew filed in. A rising vote of thanks and a hearty cheer was accorded them. Mrs. Shaw, wife of the pastor and spokesman of the party responded to the cheer in beautiful rythmic language that love after all was the source of al lthings good.

The dinner and banquet were the inspiration of the pastor. Donations, labor etc., voluntary. Too much praise cannot be given the pastor who planned this novel way of making others happy. We too, were made happy on New Year's Day.

The younger set misses Mr. James Crooksey, popular young man who was called away by his work just before Christmas to far away Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hinds of Farmersville, have been spending the holidays with relatives here. They returned Wednesday morning for home accompanied by Mrs. Hinds youngest sister, Miss Louise Roberts.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

The last day of the old year was pleasantly and profitably spent at this church. Following an excellent session of the Sunday School the Pastor occupied the pulpit, using as the text of his New Years message: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." (I Thes. (5:21). At 8:00 p. m. the Christian Endeavor held a very interesting session, following which a social hour was enjoyed during which sandwiches and tea were served. At 10:30 p. m. the pastor brought another splendid message, using as his text, "Remember." At the close of the message a testimony meeting was held, in which many were the expressions of gratitude and resolution for the new year. There was one accession to the membership of the church at this service. This Sunday Jan. 7th being the first of the year, will be Communion Sunday. Let us begin the New Year aright by being present at the Lord's table at this first opportunity of the year.
Strangers accorded a special welcome at all services.

WESLEY M. E. CHURCH—
8th and San Julian Streets.
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

Wesley begins the New Year with a new determination to excell all previous years. This Sunday promises to be a record breaker in number of Communicants at the Communion Table. The pastor makes an urgent call for 400 this Sunday.

The program of the day calls for a Key Sermon of the New Year by the Pastor in the morning and the continuation of the Sermon on the Mount. Discourses in the evening. Great crowds will be present at both services. Our new Gospel song books are here and will be used at the evening service.

Those who failed to hear the pastor sermon on "The Negro's Place in the Sun," last Sunday missed a great treat. Don't miss the good things in store for you this Sunday. Come and see.

WARD CHAPEL—
B. R. Guy, Pastor.

Sunday December 31, was a good day at Ward Chapel A. M. E. Church. The Sunday School was quite interesting and the officers were elected for the ensuing year. At 11:00 o'clock services the Rev. Bryant, (Conference Evangelist), preached an excellent sermon from the text, "Inquire for the old paths." The pastor invited sinners who desired to be saved to come to the altar. One came and was converted, and with another sister, joined the church. In the evening, the Endeavor meeting was impressive and interesting. About 9:30 p. m. the night services began. The pastor's text was: "Let wicked man forsake his ways, and the unrighteous man his thoughts." Four persons came to the altar for prayer. The watch meeting was well attended; many visitors were present, and a great many impressive messages and testimonies were given. Revival services here this week.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
8th and Wall Streets.
Rev. M. Frederick Mitchell, Pastor

All of our services were inspirational at the Christian Church last Sunday, helpful messages were brought both morning and evening. Our Choir is still "on the job" with impressive musical programs, and the chorus is making elaborate preparations for several sacred concerts in the near future. Next Sunday, January 6, being the first Sunday of the New Year, all departments of our church will be awakened to a realization of the tasks and responsible ties of the coming year. All members are expected to be present, and the Pastor will deliver a special message appropriate for the occasion.

GRANT CHAPEL—
Fountain and Compton Ave., Watts.
Rev. J. W. Price, Pastor.

Christmas with all its gaity has come and gone, and the Sunday School with its splendid programme under the management of the teachers was one of the best in the history of the school. The church was beautifully decorated with colored lights which gave it a real Christmas appearance. All were happy, both old and young.

Grant Chapel wishes all the readers of the California Eagle a Happy and Prosperous New Year. The past Sabbath closed with one of the greatest services ever held in this growing church. Old timers declared it the best watch meeting in the church's history. The large congregation assembled not only for watch meeting but to listen to the singing of our splendid choir, came forward en masse and bowed at the altar. Thus closed the great service of the old year. Sunday Jan. 7th will be our second Quarterly meeting. Dr. James Washington, Presiding Elder will be with us all day and Chaplain Major Prioleau will preach at 3:00 p. m. to which service we invite all sister churches and their Pastors.

FIRST A. M. E. ZION CHURCH—
Corner of Pico and Paloma Streets.
Rev. W. E. Shaw, Pastor.

"There are many adversaries" therefore, "I will tarry." 1 Cor. 16:8-9. From this text the pastor preached an excellent sermon to a large and appreciative audience on last Sunday morning.

In the evening Rev. Miller delivered an able sermon on pride. "Pride goeth before destruction." Prov. 16:18.

Rev. Chatters conducted the watch-meeting service and a joyous time was spent in praising God.

The Bible Class and Endeavor Societies held quite interesting sessions. Mr. Albert Fisher gave an excellent reading. Mrs. Pearl W. Anderson also favored us with an exceptionally good reading on Character Building.

The pastor will preach next Sunday morning. Holy Communion 11:00 a. m. In the evening we are promised a great stereoptican picture on customs and conditions in foreign lands.

An account of the dinner and banquet given on New Year's day will be found in the social news.

Visitors and friends given a cordial welcome in this church.

Under the direction of Prof. William Bynum and Miss Hazel Gottchalk good music is always assured.

A Sabbath well spent brings a week of content.

BIRCH ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
F. C. Cothram, Minister.

Members of this church demonstrated their endeavor to close the old year right last Lord's day, by the manner in which they turned out. Church made quite a satisfactory showing in every department. At 11:00 o'clock a. m. our minister preached a short, but powerful sermon from the words, "Teach them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you and lo! I am with you always even unto the end of the world. Matt. 28.20 and Miss C. E. Pope of Culver City, a recently returned missionary from India, told a most pathetic story of the people of India. At 8:00 o'clock p. m., Elder J. I. Williams preached a very explicit and enthusiastic sermon upon the four reasons for believing Jesus to be the Christ. Mr. Joseph, of Bethlehem, Judah, told the story of his experience in the land of Christ's nativity. It was indeed interesting.

After a short intermission, the church resumed its worship, engaging in "Watch Service." This service which consisted of songs, prayers and speeches were brim full of the spirit of sincere worship and expressions of gratitude and determination for the better. Our slogan is a "closer walk with God," through the year 1923.

Preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. Prayer meetings, Thursday night 8:00 o'clock. Bible School 9:45 o'clock a. m. and Christian Endeavor 7:00 o'clock p. m.

All Welcome.

THE FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH—
Eighth Street and Towne Avenue.
Rev. A. Milton Ward, Minister.

Last Sunday was a gala day religiously in historic Eighth and Towne Avenue A. M. E. Church. Presiding Elder J. H. Wilson preached at 11:00 a. m. A young woman was added to the church. The choir sang as if by inspiration. The large audience included many prominent visitors. The pastor gave the people a chance to show their appreciation of the good gospel sermon and they gave Dr. Wilson a splendid offering. Rev. Ward, assisted by Dr. Wilson, conducted an old fashioned watch-night meeting at 10 o'clock which included hundreds of testimonies by auditors following an old fashioned love feast. Interspersed by favorite hymns of the congregation, accompanied by Organist Elmer C. Bartlett on the pipe organ. This service was attended by an unusually large audience, and the spiritual tide ran high. Six women and men were added to the membership of the church, making a total of seven additions for the last Sunday in the old year; and ninety-four for this conference year. Pastor Ward and his officers rejoice in starting the new year with more than 1600 members.

Holy communion will be observed at Historic Towne Ave. Church, at the morning and evening services. Good singing, led by the choir, under direction of Organist Elmer C. Bartlett will be a feature of each service. In the evening Rev. Ward is to continue a series of sermons he began last month; and his topic will be "Moses A Type of Christ."

FREEDOM DAY OBSERVANCE AT COLORED CHURCH

First Celebration of the Kind Held Here is Well Attended Including Many White Citizens; The Rev. G. W. Reed Delivers Address.

The colored people of Monrovia celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the emancipation last night at the A. M. E. Zion church. The house was crowded to overflowing, half of which were white people. The celebration was the first of its kind ever held in Monrovia by the local colored citizens.

The program was very fitting. The exercises opened by singing "America." Invocation was offered by the Rev. Mr. Allison the choir following with a jubilee song very suitabble for the occasion.

George M. Jones, acting chairman, then introduced Miss Jennie Lockett, of Duarte, who presided as mistress of ceremonies.

The Rev. E. M. Clark, presiding elder for the A. M. E. Zion church for this district, delivered an address on "The Religious Development of the Negro." The address was timely and enlightening. Geo. Hollins sang a very appropriate solo, "Let My People Go."

Miss Anna Jones read the emancipation proclamation, issued by President Lincoln, declaring the slaves to be free. Miss Hazel Robinson played a very delightful instrumental solo. Miss Emily Jones read a feeling article of a federal regiment.

The Rev. G. W. Reed, pastor of the local A. M. E. Zion church, delivered the speech of the evening. Mr. Reed proved himself to be an orator of no mean ability. In eloquent language he told of the coming of the negroes to America and what they had done to develop the southern sections of this country.

He further said that the white people were mistaken in the idea that the negro desired social equality, but instead they only want an equal chance to make an honest living. He flayed inter-marriage, saying that the intelligent negro is satisfied to marry his own women, and that were such not the case, the parties to the marriage contract were isolated and ostracised, and that the offspring were considered to be of no race. He also said that the colored people were not seeking domination in this country.

He showed that if they did desire such that it was impossible of attainment, besause they are outnumbered by the other race.

The program as a whole was a splendid one and the undertaking educational.

"CHUCKLES" BENEFIT DANCE—BLANCHARD HALL, MONDAY EVE., JAN. 8TH—MUSIC BLACK AND TAN—ADMISSION 50 CENTS

"WE COVER CALIFORNIA LIKE THE OCEAN BREEZE"

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—

Mme. Sayde Cochrane-Chadwick, lyric soprano, of Brooklyn, charmed a large and appreciative audience at the A. M. E. Zion Church, last Thursday night, in her initial appearance before a critical San Francisco audience. Her voice was at its best. Many of the older singers of the race will have to look to their crowns, for the Madame is certainly making a strong bid for recognition. With her youth and a great deal of hard work there is no question but what she will ultimately develop into one of the best of any race in the artistic world. She made many friends while here. After a concert at the M. E. Church in San Jose she left for Southern California where she will give a number of concerts.

Many readers of the California Voice were amazed to learn of the internal strife now raging among the stockholders of that publication. The hope has been variously expressed that the whole affair can and will be amicably settled and that the paper will soon pursue the even tenor of its way. Under the management and editorial direction of its present management and editor E. Marshall the Voice has performed a real service for the community and state, and it is needless to add, for it is well known to some, that the publication has made its progress solely and largely by unselfishness and a great amount of personal sacrifices upon the part of Marshall.

One of the features of the extraordinary entertainment and dance given by the Negro Progressive Club of California in the Exposition Auditorium, January 1, 1923, was the demonstration of folk dances by little eight year old Neva Mary Peoples. This was one of the most pleasing of the many spectacular events on the program.

Officials of the Negro Progressive Club announced also that there need be no apprehension as to what part of the Exposition Auditorium would be used. It was positively the main hall. This hall, by the way has a seating capacity of 122,000. So it can readily be seen that there was dancing space for unlimited couples. It was also announced from Club headquarters that the advance sale of tickets indicated an attendance of fully seven thousand.

One of the hardest things to get now days is a rise out of some of the political bosses of the city. All activities seem to have shifted to Sacramento. Many rumors of rewards are going rounds but they carry nothing definite. It is not known, nor can it be ascertained, what is to be done for the black wheel horses. It is also known that in certain quarters certain legislative matters are being worked out, but it was explained that of necessity these things must be kept in a large measure under cover until all the details were worked out.

Arrangements have been completed by the Negro Progressive Club to see that every Sunday School child in the city under the age of 12 is given a Christmas token. This work is under the supervision of Mrs. M. E. Dorsey.

Now that the Dyer anti-lynching bill has been defeated, one is fearful that the Republicans will have the monumental gall to come to the Negro voters of the County and ask their continued support. Certain high officials, some time ago told a representative of this Service that as far as this bill was concerned the Republicans were only throwing the Negroes of the country a little sop. Many are of the growing opinion that the Republican party in so far as the Negro is concerned is a dead letter.

Where is the old time preacher who used to visit his parishioners and have prayer before leaving? Guess he'd be called an old fogie in these days of the flapper.

RACE LAD WINS HONOR

"Puss" Thompson elected Captain of Whittier Eleven. By Geo. Duncon.

At the annual banquet at Whittier College last week, "Puss" Thompson, star halfback for the past two seasons was elected Captain of next year's football team.

Many of the gridiron fans who have seen Thompson perform claims him the greatest backfield man yet developed on the Pacific Coast.

This accomplished by Thompson is without a doubbt the most distinguished position yet held by a colored athelete on the Pacific Coast. Not only is he an athlete but a student of unusual brilliance.

Under the skillful guidance of Thompson, Whittier again will produce a championship conference team.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD.
By John A. Gray.

The year 1922 is rapidly closing and we are forced to take a backward glance at the dying year and things musical.

In considering the number of musical events that have been given here as well as the quality of them we are greatly encouraged. There has been a steady increase of better musical programs. There have been more serious students among the classes of our teachers and the standard has been steadily raised.

The audiences have become more appreciative and the public in general more discriminative. Gone are the days when any sort of a program would attract a large crowd. Gone are the days when the public would politely applaud and pretend that it was hugely enjoying itself. Gone also are the days when it believed every word of the advertisements. In other words—the public is being educated and wants to see and hear for itself.

Most Easterners think that we, out here on the edge of the country, have no cultural development, no appreciation and in short are quite ignorant. This idea is prevalent among the other race, more so than among our own. However, artists soon find out the difference. In most Eastern cities a recital must be followed by a dance if one wishes to draw a large crowd. In Los Angeles we do attend in large numbers for the sake of the music itself. At the rate we are progressing now, in five years we shall have the largest, most cultured and appreciative audiences for piano and violin recitals to be found in the country.

This means that they will actually know the instrument, its repertoire and its possibilities. We base this statement upon the number of students who are studying seriously, the class of music that is played in the pupil recitals and the large audiences that hear these recitals many times during the year. Also from the number of race teachers who are making a living by teaching and the quality of their instruction. If there is another city in this country, with the same race population, that can equal it we would like to know where it is. While we are proud of our progress we are not satisfied and during the coming year we shall endeavor to further develop our talents and benefit the community at large.

Personally, we thank the readers of this column for the many kind words of commendation we have received for these weekly observations, and wish them all a very happy and prosperous New Year.

WILALYN STOVALL

The main office of the "Universal Negro Improvement Association" and "The Negro World" are located in New York.

It seems to have been the original idea of Marcus Garvey to retire leisurely along with his corps of workers and dictate to the 400,000,000 black people of the world, telling them how to invest their money so that it will swell his own private fortune. He has been advocating a kind of radicalism that is altogether untimely and almost unreasonable. The thinking class of people of New York look lightly upon the whole matter and regard Marcus Garvey as just another dreamer.

Sir A. J. Poston, Secretary General of the U. N. I. A. cordially greeted the writer at the offices, attired in a neat black long-tailed suit.

In every respect he presented the appearance of a multi-millionaire. The office force, including between ten and fifteen stenographers were constantly at work.

Sir Poston is a thoughtful, precautious and a somewhat reserved man. He was not disposed to tell any more of the organization than he was asked. When he was asked of the future plans of the U. N. I. A., he gave "The Negro World" as a reference.

According to his statements the Black Star Line is insolvent and the U. N. I. A. is trying to raise money to redeem the stock. A deposit was made with the United States Shipping Board for the "Phyllis Wheatley," but neither the vessel nor a refund have been obtained. An attempt was made a few months ago to make "The Negro World" a daily paper, but it proved too great a task for the organization to put over. Sir Poston acknowledged that Marcus Garvey had accumulated quite a large personal fortune, but he was not able to connect this with the fact htat he is indicted by the United States Government for misappropriation of funds. When he was told that the Garvey movement lost many supporters in Los Angeles after the return of Mr. [illegible] Thompson from the convention, said, Mr. Thompson worked [illegible] with a group of men who really had the interest of the U. N. I. A. at heart. Mr. Thompson was nominated for an office and I supported him in his candidacy. But when he was defeated then the rupture began between him and the U. N. I. A.

Sir Poston is also at variance with Chandler Owen for certain articles which have appeared in "The Messenger." He assumes the attitude of one who is undergoing the knocks of the world, but only for the betterment of his race.

There are many illiterate working people in the South who are blindly following the movement, wholly ignorant of the situation of the organization and its leader.

Possibly if Mr. Garvey had been living in an earlier generation immediately fater the Emancipation Proclamation, he would not find it so difficult to put over his schemes. But now, it would be advisable for him to return to the islands and go into a needed business with the money he has gleaned from American Negroes.

VALLEJO, Dec.27.—The magnificent brick building being constructed on the campus of The Vallejo Industrial and Normal Institute, which covers a ground space of 505x80 feet is nearing completion. It consists of six departments for the Elementary and High School work which are being carried on. The Institution has been in operation eleven years, is chartered under The Laws of the State of California, and is exclusively for colored boys and girls, age limit twelve years and up. The building when completed and fully equipped, it is said will represent an expenditure of approximately $15,000. The Institute was founded by Charles Haveret Toney, formerly of the state of Texas, who spent many years as teacher in the public schools of the Lone Star State, also clerked in the Post Office at Houston, Texas under Seth B. Strong, Post Master. During the year 1911, being loyal to his conviction, he organized the school in a small wooden structure that had been previously used by E. T. Huntington, of Stockton, Calif., for a chicken coop. No tuition is charged, books are free, term consists of nine months, students may remain the year around.

OUR FATHER'S AND THEIR SONS
By George Duncan.

The question that is agitating the minds of the great thinkers of the present day is whether the Negro sons of the present generation and day are equal to their fathers in all that goes to make the man and citizen. The past history of the Negro in the United States has not been perfect sunshine and a calm sea, but he has had many stormy days and experiences in this voyage through life, many hardships—he has been tossed hither and thither on a many a rough sea, but notwithstanding the many vexations and hardships of life our wonderful fathers did nobble and accomplished wonders.

Taking everything into consideration our fathers thrown out into the world at a time when prejudice was at its heighth, ignorance reigning supreme throughout a section of the country that had existed and survived on the fruits of their labor for nearly three centuries, their past was black, their future not only baffled them, but the wisest men during that period were at sea regarding the emancipated Negro and his posterity.

If at the close of the rebellion the enfranchised citizen had been thrown out upon his own resources and capabilities instead of the sympathies of others, and no resources, the achievements and progress of the Negro would have been greatly different.

To much sympathy is a drawback to any race of people who are striving to gain a place with others in life. Fair criticism, honestly administered is for the better for the uplift of any race than deceitful sympathy.

In spite of these handicaps and drawbacks that hindered our fathers, they have demonstrated to the world that thru two and a half centuries of slavery, ignorance predominating, poverty stricken, they were capable of the things that go to make a loyal and upright citizen. It is an impossibility, in such a short article, to attempt to enumerate the many great accomplishments of our forefathers or to make note of the many individuals good deeds; but with all the obstacles placed in their path, they have won the admiration of a prejudiced world in trades, sciences and professions.

Now I will come to the sons of the fathers and ask the question, What have they accomplished under the tutorship of those whom I have just mentioned? Some say the young Negro has not made as good progress under the prevailing circumstances as his predecessors; some say the young generation is losing instead of gaining, bbut they fail to give what I consider a plausible reason.

It is very true the avenues for business and professional opportunities have with other advantages been in the young man's favor, but we must must also remember that while pride and ambition have been gaining, ignorance and superstition have not been slumbering.

High living fast life and insufficient amount of religion have been a great draw-back to the present generation.

The greatest ambition of the young Negro is to become a political factor, or rise in some profession that he thinks does not require much mental effort. Politically and professionally, we must admit that the young Negro has played at a losing game for the past quarter of a century.

The young Negro must not only try for professional honor, but must attempt every trade and science, so as to prepare to compete with his white brothers. So this great question like every other great question that is confronting us at the dawn of the 20th century, must be handled intelligently, must be handled by men, progressive men, men who believe in their country; men who believe that the pathway to independence and commercial supremacy lies before and not behind us.

A New Empire is to be built. The young progressive Negro is to build it. We must grow, expand and advance, not only in intellect and finance but in morals and manners as well.

In conclusion I will say, Don't forget the parents. I can't help but become enthused when I look back and read the history of the race leaders of the past decade. Their history has been a symposium of national success for the American Negro.

We truly hope that our good denominational friends may rise to the plane where they can discriminate between news articles and those which represent the sentiment of a newspaper. We have not the time to select any particular denomination on which to wage any sort of warfare. We are sincerely for and in accord with all of them, for as a rule they are all fundamentally sound. Therefore we cannot be misunderstood at any stage of action. We stand unalterably opposed to the crooks in church even more so than the crooks in state, and will hesitate not to denounce them regardless of denomination or creed. If we be criticized for this stand, we will be satisfied and be on our way of an everlasting warfare against all the forces which would condone crime and encourage crookedness in the name of the church.

CLEANING OUR OWN HOME.

We have been gradually coming to the opinion that Negroes need to start a house cleaning within their own ranks. Al of the wrongs from which we suffer cannot be laid at the door of the other race. Some of the obstaces which beset us are of our own building. Our main difficulty is a lack of responsible, unselfish and sincere leadership. We have had leaders and leaders and we have hundreds of them today. Some have achieved leadership, some have had leadership thrust upon them, and some have thrust themselves upon us. Some are white and some are black. Few of these leaders have shown any inclination to suffer for us, to stay among us and be of us, or to jeopardize their social or economic standing for our betterment or liberation. We have had "words, words, words," but little action and sacrifice except from a very few.

There have been Negroes—such as Robert Moton—picked by white people and set before the whole twelve millions of us as our leader. There have been black men, such as Marcus Garvey, and white men like Tomas Jesse Jones, who have picked themselves to lead all the Negroes everywhere in the world. There have been countless other Negroes, big, little and middle sized, who have essayed the role of leader. This type is found everywhere. He is of national prominence, a state leader, or the leader of his city. The local leader is usually a lying venal politician, an unscrupulous and ignorant preacher, or a rascally grafting lawyer. Very often these three are found in a ring together, robbing, fooling, submerging and "selling out" the rest of us. Few of our leaders are men who have any degree of passion to serve the mass of Negroes to the point of inconvenience, loss of money or even of time, where there is no remuneration. It is unfortunate that in these days of storm and stress we have no Ghandi and no MacSwiney.

The average Negro leader seems t obe perfectly satisfied t ogrow fat and sleek himself even though the mass of his people remain thin and lean. Very often he becomes opulent while they whom he leads remain in ignorance and poverty. Often he places burdens on the plain Negro so grievous to be borne that his plain man cannot rise.

Our leaders have no lived close enough to the common people. Usually there develops a great division between the mass of us stumbling darkly down at the bottom and the leaders living in luxury and social and econowic security. As a rule this luxury has been provided by black laboring people who often get nothin gin return.

The cure for this situation is in the hands of that great horde of Colored men and women upon whose backs this wolfish pack of leaders rest and wax powerful and worthless. We say the cure is in the hands of the ordinary Negro. It is our duty now to assert ourselves and demand more of our leaders than we have asked heretofore.

—Pittsburg American.

The New Year starts with a real awakening of all peoples along the lines of production and lining up with the mighty march of progress.

Charles S. Gilpin in "Emperor Jones" at the Mason

CHARLES S. GILPIN, GIFTED ACTOR, TO BE SEEN HERE IN THE "EMPEROR JONES."

At last, the opportunity so eagerly waited by our theatre-goers has come. Charles S. Gilpin, the greatest actor of our race and generation, will be seen at the Mason Opra House for one week, beginning Monday night, January 15th, in Eugene O'Neill's now famous play, "The Emperor Jones."

Three years ago Mr. Gilpin was selected for the leading role in this play after a dozen actors were tried out at rehearsals. He was then comparatively unknown, having had only one part on Broadway, that of the slave in "Abraham Lincoln." After his first performance in the difficult role of the "Emperor Jones," it was unanimously conceded by New York's most eminent critics that a new star had risen in the theatrical firmament—a star still shining with undimmed brilliancy.

Mr. Gilpin's extraordinary voice is one of the greatest factors in making him the most talked of actor of our time. He began his professional career as a vocalist, and started with a splendid natural singing voice which was developed under the patronage of musical artists who became interested in his career. His vocal organ has been likened to a well-tuned musical instrument. A clear enunciation and a vibrantly tuneful voice are indications of a rare intelligence and an artistic temperment—qualifications which have won enthusiastic plaudits for this gifted Race player wherever "The Emperor Jones" has been presented.

"The Emperor Jones," a unique and gripping drama, is in eight scenes; its locale is a West Indian island; it will be presented in this city exactly as it was shown for an entire season at the Princess Theatre, New York, and during its runs in Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia.

EAGLE EDITOR IS ACQUITTED

The trial of editor J. B. Bass of this paper scheduled at the Independent Church on last Wednesday night, brought out a capacity house and the trial seemed to immensely please all who came.

The setting was realistic to that of a modern court room. Father W. T. Cleghorn, who acted as judge, could not be improved upon and one would think that Judge Anjeletto had again taken his seat upon the bench of the Supreme Court. Noah D. Thompson as bailiff played his part to the minute, and with all the sternness of a real bailiff brought his prodigous prisoner in irons into court. E. L. Dorsey as clerk of court played his part to the minute, and indeed it was a distinguished jury which tried the defendant. Dr. H. D. Prowd was its foreman, Dr. E. R. Driver, sub-foreman, Mrs. M. Patton and other notable citizens including officer Russell and Johnny Prowd were in the box.

Then the lawyers shone forth in all their glory. S. M. Beane and Mrs. W. A. Shaw were the prosecution's best bet and right well did they function. Both of them and Mrs. Shaw certainly demonstrated that she can deliver. Then for the defense, Rev. Lightner and Mrs. J. B. Bass, they combatted the talented prosecution to a finish and won a verdict of 9 to 3 in their favor.

The witnesses for the prosecution, Grant Smith, Atty. E. C. Jennings and Attorney Mason were peaches and only out done by the witnesses for the denfense, Rev. N. P. Gregg and Mrs. M. B. Prentice. After this part the oratory waxed back and forth, Rev. S. M. Beane, spoke and then spoke some more, but he knew evrything about civilization and was sure the defendant was guilty because woman was a mutt. His colleague, Mrs. Shaw, the way she lambasted her sex was a scream. She said woman was only a cackling thing and believe the writer when he says Mrs. Shaw knew everything and made a distinct impression as she showed woman around and around.

For the defense Rev. Lightner, the wide-awake representative of woman came through for a touch down and was ably backed up by the defendant's wife, Mrs. J. B. Bass.

It was a notable accession, a brilliant conception on the part of Mrs. C. E. Jennings and furnished a rare entertainment for the people who were out by the hundreds.

A TALE OF OLD JAPAN

Confucianism was carried into Japan through Corea bout 550 A. D. There seems to have been a need for such a spirit in the country. The Japanese were not slow in the work of incorporation; the system was early applied to the many natural resources and furnished unusual impetus for the new development and expansion of the empire.

The Japanese modeled their government after that of the Chinese. The centralized system of government was instituted instead of the feudal forms which had prevailed for centuries. Under its influence Japan steadily grew in national and international importance until she became a dominant power among nations.

Japan has some wonderful contributions in the literature of the country. Much of this work was done in the fifth century. Some manuscripts bear an earlier date. The most ancient lays are the "MANYOSHIP" commonly known as the "Collection of a Myriad Leaves," perhaps another gift of the Eighth century. Societies were formed to study and write poetry.

The chronological records of Japan are preserved in forms which crystalize the spirit and antiquity of Japan. Prose, poetry and historical records are mixed with mythical legends in which references are made dating as far back as the "Divine Age." In these writings the country is referred to as the "land of the gods."

This poem, A TALE OF OLD JAPAN, is not of Japanese origin. It was written by Mr. Alfred Noyes, an eminent English scholar. The lay is purely narrative in form with the slightest tincture of description. The author confines his technic to a succession of incidents bound together by their chronological order. Strictly human in its relation to life, it is, nevertheless, purely Japanese in its application.

We cannot say what literary value the Japanese attach to this classic, but we do know that Japnese are fond of their classical poetry. Their devotion to it has become a worship. Many of the emperors have written and collected verse which bear direct relation to the natural aspects of Japan.

Such compilations teach that patriotism belongs to the simple minded folk and represents the realization in spirit between the nation and the subject. Loyalty to the country and love of its beauty are the resplendent themes that adorn many choice poems. And they cling with tenacity to the religion, legends and philosophy of their country.

Thousands of books, the work of European authors, have been circulated in Japan, many having found admission into the educational structure, but thus far no propaganda has been able to alienate the affection of the little yellow man for his native land. It is the pride and glory of the nation that their great achievements have been made in the name and for the sake of humanity.

The work of the early ages is not to be undone by contact with sinister influences, which operating under a supposed ban of progressive liberation of Japan's racial potentialities, would dictate humiliating terms and undermine her national prowess. That can never be: religion, patriotism, family pride are one in Japan. SHINTO, the national faith, teaches that Japanese who are faithful to the Empire need no other creed or doctrine for their guidance; certainly not a man-written creed to direct their destiny when the author himself has not the power to reflect.

There are a few great epic and didactic poems in the Japanese language. The stage and drama are rapidly entwining the social and educational systems. Plays are being produced in which plot and intrigue are magnificently worked out by a logical sequence of cause and effect. A TALE OF OLD JAPAN IS A CLASSIC the great charm of which is simplicity of language and its picturization of a most simple life. It is full of allusions to nature, telling of the bright moon, the purple sea, the Peacock Islands, Dragons of Old Japan, Thought, Craft and Mystery. Take a trip to Japan. Acquaint yourself with these little stories in order to understand the play which will be given at Gamut Auditorium the second week in February.

FORUM'S RALLY

The announced rally by the Forum to raise its quota of $50.00 for the East Side Mothers' Club on last Sunday was a grand success. It went over the top with an onward rush and raised some $78.00 or more.

The various numbers were most highly appreciated by the big crowd present. The singing by the girl inmates of the home came in for a most liberal applause. The duett by Mesdames Patton and Graham was heartily applauded. President McKinney spoke forcibly and well on the duty of the Forum to the home and kindred organizations. Lewis K. Beeks made a well worded and timely address, while J. W. Coleman starred as the finance king of the occasion. Mrs. Cassel and Edwards on behalf of the home made very entertaining and beautiful remarks.

SURPASSES THEM ALL

THE METROPOLITAN BAPTIST CHURCH

Less than six months ago Rev. M. C. Carter and a little band of earnest churchmen took over a neat little church property at 37th and Paloma Sts.

At first to the casual on-looker it was almost pathetic to see a young man practically single-handed undertake such a gigantic proposition. From every source from which the young Brother Carter turned for assitance there came discouragement, but this sprightly oak in the Baptist forest turned aside from all paths of discouragements, and has grown so rapidly in his effort to erect a modern but model church, that the entire ministry of the city looks on with admiration.

Associated with Rev. Carter as Choir director is Mme. Te Outley who has so soon developed a Choir or Chorus at this church that is not easily matched in Los Angeles.

On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 31st Mme. Outley entertained the public with a high class musical that easily demonstrated her ability as a directress.

Los Angeles Welcomes Race's Wealthiest Woman

MRS. LEILA WALKER WILSON OF NEW YORK AGAIN A WELCOME VISITOR IN LOS ANGELES.

Mrs. Leila Walker Wilson 'arrived in Los Angeles this week, and is staying at the residence of her nieces, Misses Angetta and Gladys Breedlove, 1449 W. 35th street. This popular Easterner spent some time in our city two years ago, while en route to Honolulu, and made a host of friends, who are delighted to welcome her into our midst once more.

Mrs. Wilson, known as America's richest Race woman, is the daughter of Madame C. J. Walker, whose estate she inherited a few years ago. Madame Walker amassed a great fortune by the manufacture and sale of cosmetics. She launched the business with a capital of Two Dollars, and by sheer energy and a rare executive ability, developed it into one of the greatest of its kind in the world.

Mrs. Wilson is carrying on her mother's work and has recently returned from an extended trip to Egypt and other North African and Near Eastern Countries, where she went with a view to extending the already vast market for products manufactured by her firm.

Mrs. Wilson who is greatly liked for her charming personality, as well as admired and respected for her business enterprise, will be the recipient of many social honors while here.

The Health School begins its session next Monday night at 8:::00 o'clock.

SUCCESSFUL SOUTHERN REALTY BROKER LOCATES HERE.

Mr. Warsaw Lindsay, one of the so-called Houston rioters, has lately come to Los Angeles and wishes to announce the opening of a well-equipped real estate and insurance office at 1824 Central Ave., Suite 1-2. Mr. Lindsay was one time connected with one of the most prosperous real estate firms in Montgomery, Ala., in fact he was a promoter of the Lindsay Brothers Real Estate firm there, a signally successful enterprise, and the same policy of efficiency and fair dealing which characterized his business activities in the Southern city, will bring to him a host of satisfied clients and warm friends here.

LATEST ADDIITION

The Eagle is glad to announce the addition of Miss Dora Mitchell to the office personnel. Miss Mitchell is a stenographer of some six years' experience, and comes to us highly recommended. "EFFIENCY and COURTESY" is the watchword of Miss Mitchell's business policy. Efficiency and Courtesy will undoubtedly mark her handling of our interests, and courtesy characterize her relations with our many customers, patrons and friends.

Miss Mitchell is also a public stenographer, and is prepared to write personal letters, legal instruments, edit and type literary manuscripts, stories, scenarios, plays, etc. In this last connection, Miss Mitchell unquestionably stands preeminent in our community, having had a number of original stories published in various magazines, and being the author of the successful Scenario, "By Right of Birth," and others.

DEDICATED TO THE MEMORY OF MADAM E. AZALIA HACKLEY.

By Eva Carter Buckner.

If I could I'd paint a word picture
I'd choose a rare study in grey
Not somber no, no—but as cheery
And glad as the fair month of May.
Azalia the flower, the study.
Speak softly and gently the name
Our own, but the Giver hath called her
To, from whence her loving soul came.
Her bird-like voice charming and happy,
She sang as a bird sings its lay.
Your heart and your very soul thrilling
With joy as she sang on her way.
Oh, she could have gone from her people,
But she was too loyal and true;
She saw in them beauty and goodness
And thus found her own work to do.
She taught them by precept to value
The gifts He upon them had bestowed
To know there was ever a duty
To Him and to self that they owed.
The wonderful chorus is training
To sing to the Maker above.
And happy was she in her mission
For this was the work of her love.
'Tis said there'll be singing in heaven
And that there'll be something to do.
Perhaps if the Master is willing
She'll take up her own work anew.

GOOD FIELD FOR PHOTOGRAPHERS.

Extension of time has been granted photographers entering the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce picture contest, according to announcements just received.

Interruption of outdoor camera work by the rains determined the organization to set head the closing date to Janury 23, allowing thereby three weeks after the original date ending the contest.

Practically every county in the southern section of the state is represented by artistic, humorous and commercial phases of life in Southern California shown in amateur and professional photographic work received at the chamber.

One hundred dollars will be given by the Chmaber for the best 13 photographs, for the first $25; second $15; third, $10; and for the ten considered next best, $5 each.

Entrants may submit a number of pictures, and these will be returned, providing owners send in names and addresses. Prize winners will be asked to turn in their negatives for permanent use in the Chamber to advertise Southern California in the magazines of this country and abroad and for illustrating Chamber of Commerce literature on the Southern Counties.

Scores of loyal Southern Californians have vailed themselves of the opportunity to advertise the beauty and opportunities of their communities through the picture contest.

PROF. R. L. SHIELDS, ARTIST, TO ESTABLISH HIMSELF IN LOS ANGELES.

A rare opportunity will soon be afforded the citizens of Los Angeles by Prof. R. L. Shields, who has just arrived in this city from San Francisco.

He is a teacher of oil painting as well as water color work. He will give lessons absolutely free. This will particularly appeal to the young folks. Watch this paper for time and place.

A GRREAT REVIVAL

WILL THE TURK LEAD THE NEGRO TO ARMAGEDDON?

The leading thinkers of the world are wondering what will be the outcome of "the rising tide of color" which is sweeping over the world.

Evangelist O. A. Troy, B. A., Los Angeles' youngest evangelist of color, will present the above subject at the East 36th Street church, next Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

In these evangelistic-revival meetings which will be held on Sunday, Evangelist Troy will handle in a Evangelists Troy will handle in a clear, concise manner many topics of the Bible which relate to the Negro and present day conditions.

Subjects: Tuesday night, "World Perils which Point to Armageddon;" Thursday, "What Does Armageddon mean to the World?"

The East 36th Street Church which is located at 666 East 36th Street may be reached by taking car S.

Stereoptican pictures will illustrate many of these lectures.

A rousing song service will begin each evening at 7:45. Miss Mayme Lowe in connection with the Jubilate Chorus will assist at these meetings.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONGRESS GOES TO INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA. THE CAPITAL OF THE HOOSIER STATE JUNE 13-18.

Indianapolis, Ind., (Special) This city will entertain the Sunday School Congress June 13-18, 1923 according to announcemeutmade here this week, coming from Rev. Henry Allen Boyd of Nashville, Tennessee, and confirmed by Doctors B. F. Ferrell, Lewis, Morris and others, who are already making preparations to take care of the throng of Sunday school workers that will be in attendance. There will be an Entertainment Committee, Reception Committee, and a Committee on Homes. It will be the Mecca of Sunday school workers for the year. The announcement was created as a New Year present to the Baptist forces of the city and state. The Rev. Henry Allen Boyd was in Indianapolis Sunday, the 17th., but not a word came from him about the Congress, although Indianapolis was bidding with other cities. It was thought that since he dropped no word while here, that she had lost her chance. The announcement created general satisfaction, and the Baptist leaders are being congratulated on this opportunity to entertain this National Gathering that is to be held in this city.

A New Message

Rev. R. B. Porter of Little Rock, Arkansas, has for the past two weeks conducted meetings at the Mt. Zion Baptist Church which have nightly grown in interest.

Rev. Porter is ranked among the best in the Baptist Denomination. Those who have heard him here testify to the fact that he is equisled by few and surpassed by none in eloquence and forcefulness. The Truth in all its power to kill and make alive is dealt out freely by him. The meetings will close on Wednesday night of the coming week. If you can stand the Truth don't fail to hear Rev. Carter.

Vol. I. SATURDAY, JAN. 13, 1923--Los Angeles, Cal. No. 4

Edited By—A. MOORE SHEARIN—Assistant Publicity Director

THE CREATION OF A SELF

By A. Moore Shearin, Assistant Pnblicity Director, The International Community Welfare League.

The first of duties is the creation of a self. This is the more easy and the more difficult because every man starts with the work already far advanced. His height and form and the color of his eyes and hair are determined by the convergence in him of lines of ancestry that reach back to Adam, and he cannot by taking thought work any material change in these parts of himself. We are what we are, in part, because of hereditary influences which we cannot trace, or can trace in part only.

This wonderful thing which we call a self is not wholly a matter of heredity, nor does environment add the only necessary component. There is in every man a something which makes him not only like every other man, but something which makes him individually unlike other men.

He who seeks to ignore the elements of likeness will find himself an ishmael with his hands against the hands of every other man, but he who seeks to ignore that in himself which makes him a self has committed the unpardonable sin. For him there is no hope, he has become a suicide of his own personality.

God never made another man or woman precisely like you. The slight margin of difference between you and all other human beings is one of the experiments of God, endeavoring to discover whether in you may be accomplished some fine thing which no other previous man or generation has been able to produce.

It would be a thousand pities for you, and an irretrievable loss to the moral universe, if you fail to realize the glory of your selfhood. Some list of precious and permanent qualities is entered opposite your name in God's Great Book of Life.

Live your own life, heedful ever of the lives of other men and say with proud heart, "By the grace of God I am what I am."

In creation of a self, we as a people, have somewhere lurking inthe neutral mechanism, or brain, the same stamina, progressiveness, and ability that made other peoples command respect and leadership. We must rise from our bed of 'do nothing,' of 'following'. We must take the initiative. When this is done,—The Creation of A Self has begun.

Santa Clara, Lower California, Mexico, Jan. 10.—Planting of foodstuffs for the many thousands of Negroes from all parts of the United States has begun under the direction of Mr. Theo. W. Troy.

Attorney Hugh E. Macbeth, General Counsel of The International Community Welfare League, recently made arrangements with officials of the Santa Fe rail road to handle all traffic of the "Homeseekers" going into Mexico.

LOWER CALIFORNIA IS A FIELD FOR INVESTMENT

The recent publication in a local daily of an extensive article dealing with the awakening of the Alamo mining section, in the northern district of Lower California furnishes material for brief review of the various inducements which the southern peninsula affords to the enterprising American capitalist.

The article deals specially with the early reopening of the rich group of gold mines known as the Viznaga and Princess properties, old properties that in a little over thirty years have yielded millions of dollars in gold, and that ever since the war have remained closed until now that a stable government seems to loom on the horizon of Mexican politics, offering facilities and sufficient guarantees to investors of all nationalities.

According to the writer of the article, experienced mining men have admitted that some day the Santa Clara mining district of Lower California would become notable as one of the greatest gold-producing camps in Mexico, reason enough to induce a number of well-organized companies, headed by expert mining men of ample means, into planning to properly develop some of the best known properties in the district.

It is a very well known fact among mining men that, in spite of the millions already taken out of the several mines, the ground in this district has barely been scratched, a fact easily explained when it is known that the deepest shafts sunk thus far measure less than 100 feet, with no underground wrok done in any of the mines.

It is honestly believed that, with time, the northern district is bound to become the largest producer of range beef cattle for the consumption of the people of California. Its salubrious climate and good water afford the best protection to [illegible] herds of beeves, sheep and hogs. And now that we talk of hogs, let us inform our readers that the natural feeding grounds for these animals is a matter worthy of being taken into consideration, and we are acquainted with one instance where a man (an American, by the way) raised a lot of hogs exclusively on the refuse tht the sea would throw upon the shore and the roots of the aquatic plant called "tule", growing wild all along this seaboard. This man spent very little on corn for fattening and cleaning his hogs, but realized a handsome profit on their sale to the butchers who came all the way from Mexicali, Tia Juana and Ensenada after the animals.

We touch now what is, in the opinion of prominent engineers, the greatest fountain of wealth in the northern district of Lower California. We refer to the gigantic water fall of San Pedro Martir Mountain. This immense volume of water, still untouched is calculated to furnish motive power to supply electricity to light the city of San Diego, besides all the towns of the Imperial Valley and the Mexican border, with lots yet to spare.

The day is not very far distant when some enterprising mind, backed by sufficient capital, will harness that body of water in connection with the erection of suitable saw-mills to convert into lumber the immense number of pine [illegible] have been estimated [illegible] than three million, and u[illegible]ter to fill canals to flo[illegible]r to the Gulf of California [illegible] Pacific Ocean, to be towed to San Diego. This brings us to the construction of the proposed dam which the Mexican government has been contemplating for the past five years, at a cost very small, if compared with the bountiful results that are reasonably expected from its construction and exploitation. This dam is supposed to impound water enough for the irrigation of the whole San Quentin Valley, some of the finest wheat and grape land on the coast.

Besides the opportunities briefly mentioned in this article, there are others no less attractive for the investment of capital in the northern district of Lower California; and we would not do justice to the people of the section if we did not put forth that in all the years of strife in Mexico, since the beginning of the revolution, the northern district of Lower California has remained in the same state of peace and contentment as before the spark of war started the conflagration that for almost ten years subsisted in the interior of the Republic. It is true that in 1911 a band of filibusters, composed of vags and bums from Los Angeles, made an invasion into the district, holding the several towns on the line for a couple of months, but that feat cannot be duplicated any more and the inhabitants of the land are as safe in the matter of individual guarantees and owning of property as those living anywhere in the United States.

The above considerations will serve as an answer to the repeated inquiries made to us regarding Lower California as a field for investment and colonization.

A good many men let the other fellow spend the money they earn—the other fellow just has to suggest something to sell them and—the money is GONE.

Some men are strong enough to control their own money. Every time they get money, they put some of it in a Savings Account—first—BEFORE the fellow who wants to sell you something gets a chance.

It takes a MAN, and a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, in a GOOD BANK, and a STRONG WILL to build up a fund of money in bank which you can use for things that are really worth while.

The Comeback!

"Comebacks" are not new. Witness La Follette being disinherited and repudiated by the G. O. P. during the war, only to make Republicans bow down before him at the announcement of the 1922 election returns. La Follette came back.

Victor L. Berger, twice ousted from his seat in Congress, now goes to Washington to represent the people of Milwaukee. That is a "comeback."

Al Smith of New York was defeated for a second gubernatorial term in 1920; but a few weeks ago he carried the State by an astonishing majority for his old post Albany. Smith staged a "comeback."

Conferences may come and conferences may go, but above all stands Franee's supreme nightmare---Germany's probable industrial "comeback."

THE MESSENGER MAGAZINE, spoken of in 1919 by no less an authority than the United States Attorney General, and before no higher body than the United Senate, was said to be: "BY LONG ODDS THE MOST ABLE OF ALL THE NEGRO PUBLICATIONS." The Messenger will soon dictate to the Senate again. This will be our inevitable "comeback!"

In loving memory of our lamented husband, father and relative, William H. Shores, who departed this life and went to receive his well-earned reward on January 13, 1922. He is no longer with us: but his was a loving nature, and the many active years of his long life were filled to repletion with noble and kindly deeds. To know him was to love him, and his memory lives imperishable in the hearts of his friends and of his dear ones.

MRS. W. H. SHORES, & FAMILY.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD.

By John A. Gray.

Although the American people spend millions of dollars every year for music it is surprising how few really appreciate music of the higher type. In fact, even among the professional class there are very few musicians who really love the work of the three "B's" viz, Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms. Brahms is seldom played by the great Symphony Orchestras, Bach is tolerated by many and loved by few, and Beethoven is much abused and murdered by many performers.

We know that this sounds a bit pessimistic but then, 'Truth is stranger than fiction.' Besides, we think that the performers are to blame largely for the likes and dislikes of the public. Many performers believe that they can render every style of music from the era of Scarlatti down to Debussey, and in making up their programs they try to include every style in existence. Before going further we may state that no person has ever nor will ever be able to do the music of every period equally well. One will excell in some particular way. Percey Grainger, believes that a performer should stick to his strongest side in public and he practices what he preaches.

The singer is not likely to offend so often as the instrumentalist for the simple reason that his limitations are greater. A vocalist who does the coloratura, lyric and dramatic styles equally well is somewhat of a novelty, if there be such. Yet the instrumentalist will itry to play all styles and feel peeved if the critics do not praise everything that he does. He should play them, yes, but only in his studio or practice room. In public he should choose the styles best suited for him.

Without a doubt the day will come when audiences will demand of the performer those styles for which he is best suited, and then a higher standard of appreciation will have been reached. No wonder that the man in the street runs when you say classical music. He usully gets a poor imitation of the real article.

The managers are to blame also when they demand a certain style of program for their community, regardless of ability of the artist for rendering it. They are afraid to allow an artist to be his real self. Many times he is forced to play things that he detests in order to gain popular approval.

The public should be taught to accept an artist on his merit and either take or leave his artistic offering. Art should never be carried to the people but the people to Art. The public likes jazz and pays to hear it. They will like good music and pay to hear it also if they are led gradually to it.

Thus, with all of our millions that we spend yearly for music, we do not measure up in appreciation to the European countries where they spend in thousands.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Mr. Ahmad Sohrab, formerly connected with the Persian Legation, who lectured at the "Y" so acceptably in December will return to us next Sunday at 3:00 p. m. His subject is "The Future Religion of Humanity." All who heard Mr. Sohrab expressed a desire to hear him again. Hence we have arranged with the speaker for a series of lectures during the winter and spring. Let us give him a fine house next Sunday January 14ht at 3:00 p. m.

A WOMANLESS WEDDING

Did you ever hear of such?

It is true that many would-be-brides are found waiting on the wedding day, because of the should-be-groom's change of mind. But an actual wedding without a wedding! impossible, did you say? Yet such will there be at 8th and Towne Avenue Church on Tuesday night, January 23. The Welfare Auxiliary of the Church requests the pleasure of your presence on that occasion.

Where to Attend Church

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

The first Sunday of the New Year was a record breaker in many respects. Following the very interesting session of the Sunday school, the Pastor occupied the pulpit, using as his theme: "Strength for the New Year." Text: "Go strengthen thyself," 1 Kings 20.22. Many visitors were present among the worshippers who expressed delight for the services.

At the Annual Meeting of the church held Wednesday evening of last week, splendid reports were made by all departments of the church, indicating that the past year was one of great advancement in the church. The Communion was postponed to Sunday Jan. 14th when there will be the Installation of the newly elected officers and the reception of new members. The pastor will bring special messages at both hours.

The Illustrated lecture by Miss Kathrine Brooks, Sunday night, was very illuminating and instructive.

You're always cordially welcomed to all the services of this growing church.

WATTS M. E. MISSION
Rev. O. S. Stout, Pstor.

Sunday was a great day at the mission.

The pastor preached a great sermon. John 9:25. "One thing I know whereas I was blind but now I see."

Our rally is on. We are asking every member and friend for $5.00 on our building fund. Come and worship with us. You are welcome. Watch us grow.

WESLEY M. E. CHURCH—
8th and San Julian Streets.
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

Bishop A. W. Leonard will be with us this Sunday and will preach at the evening hour. Hear him.

Last Sunday's communion service broke all records with 377. The pastor's sermon both morning and evening were fitting samples of the kind of preaching the people are to hear this year. Wesley is determined to move forward this year by leaps and bounds Watch us go over the top in every way.

Among the specials next Sunday will be the pastor's sermon on "Encouraging Workers," a solo by Mr. C. W. Wicks, recently of Austin, Texas, in the morning and a solo by Mrs. Donsilla Moses Bryant at the evening service. A special effort will be made to raise at least $700.00 in cash and take subscriptions covering the $10,000 indebtedness for repairs to be paid by October 1st of this year. Come prepared to move with the crowd to victory.

WARD CHAPEL
B. R. Guy. Pastor.

Last Sunday was a grand day at this church. General class and sacrament day. Every Christian present had a message. The Holy Spirit manifested itself. One person joined the church and 4 persons knelt at the altar for conversion. The S. S. was well attended. Teachers for ensuing year were elected. At night, the pastor spoke from the text, "When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee, and through the rivers they shall not overflow thee; When thou walkest through the fire thou shall not be burned." A number of visitors were present both morning and evening. After the evening sermon, two persons came to the altar for prayer. Prayer and class meeting last Wednesday night were good. The Woman's Mite Missionary Society met Monday at 2:30 p. m. Trustee day, Jan. 14. Every member and friend please contribute 50 cents each, or more, for the trustee department.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
8th and Wall Streets.
Rev. M. F. Mitchell, Pastor.

Sunday morning the pastor delivered a message of gospel cheer to the church. All the meetings of the day were uplifting and inspiring. After the morning's sermon Mrs. Katherine Keith, our missionary, called the members in a missionary meeting, which was one of real missionary culture. The choir under the efficient leadership of Madame Viola Harris Brandon rendered an excellent musical program. Sunday evening, by special request, the pastor and the chorus held a meeting at the South Park Christian Church (white). Words are inadequate to express the responses of appreciation showered by that church on our pastor and his chorus. The chorus carried twenty-five voices to the Wilshire Christian Church Wednesday, the 10ht, full report will be found else where in this paper. The pastor and chorus have several engagements in the next six weeks to appear at some of the largest churches in and out of the city.

Regular services next Sunday.

BIRCH ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
F. C. Cothran, Minister.

The glorious impression of the services last Lord's Day, at this church, will long linger as a happy memory in the hearts of those who attended. The attendance was most gratifying: members and a host of visitors alike enjoyed the Gospel feast. Our Minister brought a wonderful New Year's message at 11 a. m. His subject was, "The Christian's Objective." He took as his text these words, "This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God, in Christ Jesus:" Phil. 3:13,14. It is impossible, he said, "to live the double life; you cannot live as a Christian and as a hypocrite: you cannot live by the dead pass. Don't impede your own progress with superfluous matter.

At 8:00 p. m. Elder Jacobs preached an able sermon from the Lord's Prayer, Matt. 6. This sermon was full of wholesome instruction and was received with benefit by all. Our cup of joy overflowed when a bright, strong young man came forward and was received into the church. The pastor will occupy the pulpit next Lord's Day. Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 88:00 p. m. Bible School, 9:45 a. m. and Christian Endeavor, 7:00 p. m. Come and worship with us. All Welcome!

FIRST A. M. E. ZION CHURCH—
Corner of Pico and Paloma.
Rev. W. E. Shaw. Pastor.—Res. 1217 Paloma Street.

A large congregation was out on the first Sunday in the New Year. The pastor, who has been indisposed for the past week, gave a brief but forceful sermon from Joshua 3:4, "For ye have not passed this way heretofore." The choir was at its best. Holy Communion was administered.

At 8:00 p. m. Chaplain W. H. Jones, U. S. A., lectured on the Near East Relief picture, "Seeing Is Believing" which was exhibited at this hour. It was intensely interesting and gave an inside light concerning actual conditions and the terrible treatment of the Christians by the Turks.

Public New Year Offering for church $96.00

Near East Relief Offering $20.

Subscribed for Near East Relief $145.00.

The pastor announced the program of the 29th Anniversary Celebration and Fair, to be held March 4th to 11th. Keep o this date, Friday evening Jan. 19th, Mrs. W. E. Shaw will give a Dramatic Recital, assisted by our choir.

Sunday afternoon Jan. 14th The Womans' Home and Foreign Missionary Society will hold a public meeting and memorial services for the late Mrs. Annie Blackwell, wife of Bishop George L. Blackwell and General Correspondent Secretary of the W. H. and F. M. Society of the A. M. E. Z church.

The public is cordially invited. A very good program is arranged. Dinner served by the Missionary ladies at 10:00 o'clock p. m. Services and program at 3:00 p. m.

"What's the matter with the church?" will be the pastor's theme next Sunday at 11:00 a. m. "How much do you weigh?" will be the theme at 8:00 p. m. Hear both sermons. A Sabbath well spent means a week of content.

Sunday School 9:30 a. m. Bible class 6:00 p. m. C. E. Society 7:00 p. m Wednesday night prayer and praise services. Everybody cordially welcome.

TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH—
Corner of 36th nd Normandie Avenue.
Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge, Pastor

Sunday was a glorious day at Trinity, the members and friends giving expression of their religious feelings by telling of the many good things the master had done for them, and what they were trying to do for Him. The evening services were very impressive. The sermon by the pastor was just what all Christians should want. The theme, "Christians forgetting the things behind them, not looking backward." A beautiful sermon and text. The music by the choir under the direction of Brother A. A. Lassitir and Mrs. R. F. Green Jr., pianist, was excellent. Rev. Brother Clemmons visited with us speaking words of encouragement. A beautiful solo ws sung by Mr. F. Spikes. During the service at a given time a presentation to Father Lawrence from the Pastor's Aid Society was made by Bro. Lassiter. The church covenant was recited by all present. The Lord's Supper was administered the Pastor presiding.

The newly elected officers of the Sunday school were installed by the pastor, Rev. Eldridge. Brother Amos A. Lassiter, Superintendent. We see in our new officers a splendid year of work that will be accomplished. Just follow Brother Lassiter.

The newly elected officers of the B. Y. P. U. were installed at 7:30 p. m. by the pastor. Our retiring president, Mrs. Janie L. Dyson having presided for the past three years, turned over to the newly elected president, Mrs. Francis Spikes, a splendid young organization nd aimable set of officers. Lest we forget the hour is 6:00 p. m. Meet your president where? Trinity. For what? The Baptist Young People's Union. The pastors Aid Society was royally entertained at 4:00 p. m. by Brother A. A. Lassiter, assisted by Mrs. Gardiner. Did you go? You missed a treat. Our business meeting was presided over by our president, Mrs. Fanny Carpenter, who is so unassuming. A membership of 30 loyal workers. A very young organization. We are just what our name implies. After the business was concluded, such dainty refreshments were served. All re now declaring the Brother an ideal host. The next meeting will be at the residence of Mrs. Louisa Eldridge 1351 W. 35th Street Sunday Jan. 14th, at 4:00 p. m. Watch your clock. Every department in the church is doing just what the pastor would have them do, work—keep busy. The Missionry Society under the able president, Sister Emma Lott is doing a great work. Regular meeting days. Business 2 to 4. Thursdays. Industrial days 1st and 3rd Thursdyas.

Oh! lest you forget, we are quilting quilts and tacking comforts, taking orders for aprons, small children's aprons, waists or wearing apparel.

Our pastor just returned from the National Baptist Convention with a motto—Work, Work and more work. Trinity is a fine field for works. Look out for our social service. The newly elected officers of church and choir will be installed by Rev. R. H. Wade our genial missionary. He will be in charge 7:30 p. m. Sunday morning.

METROPOLITAN BAPTIST CHURCH—
37th and Paloma Streets.
Rev. M. C. Carter, Pastor.
(Everybody Welcome)

Last Sunday was a gala day religiously in Metropolitan Baptist Church. The Sundy School with Mr. Lacey Patton as Superintendent held an excellent session. Many new members were added to the roll. We invite the parents with their children to visit our Sunday School. We have a Bible class for both men and women and have trained teachers in all departments. The pastor filled the rostrum Sunday a. m. and preached an able sermon from Joshua 1. After a lively session of B. Y. P. U. the evening services were turned into an old fashioned testimony and covenant meeting with the administration of the Lord's Supper. Three persons joined the church. We thank God for the manifestation of His Holy Spirit.

The Metropolitan Literary Society meets every Monday evening at 8:00 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The Society "B" Contest which was postponed from January 8th will be held January 29th. Much interest is being manifested by all Societies. The names of the different contestants and their colors will be given out next issue.

GAPING FORESTLAND

A Stirring Tale of Civilization's Nursery Land.

SYNOPSIS

Jack Contier, graduate of a leading Negro university, and student of history, is financed partially by a rich friend, and several universities, and sails for Northern Nigeria, Africa. Here he meets the Fringes, missionaries for many years in the vicinity of Yola, one of the chief cities of that region, located on the river Binue. Contier tells them the object of his coming to Africa and is promised aid. Contier also meets their daughter, Anelo, who has studied two years in the United States and has completed her studies in London. Later Contier meets Mantuba, chief of a powerful tribe. The aged chief confides a secret to Contier of an ancient buried city of a once highly civilized race of which he is a descendent. Mantuba alone by a secret trail and aged code knows of the exact region. Here much valuable information and many relics are buried, together with a treasure of diamonds and gold. Contier is shown about the village and meets Jamba, the chief's son, powerfully built and very intelligent, who falls in love with Anelo.

The Fringes are invited to a great feast and in the midst of the celebration Juba, loveliest of the native girls, dances. Her love has been spurned by Jamba since the coming of the Fringes girl. Contier is pleased with the girl's dancing and talent. She mistakes his interest for friendship and love. Meanwhile Jamba realizes that Anelo does not care for him, but rather encourages the newcomer. Several days fter the feast, Contier plans a trip to the buried city where he expects to make excavations and shed new light on ancient African history an dculture. On the night before the trip Mantuba is taken ill, and notifies Contier. Jamba fs jealous of Contier and plans to set a trap for him. Juba learn of the plan and rushes to inform Contier. He does not heed the warning, and the girl believing that she is loved neither by Jamba nor Contier, hurries way. Contier, knowing of the chief's condition, decides to visit him, thus following in Juba's wake. He discovers her in the act of taking her life. He takes her to the Fringes. Next day the party is ready and starts fo rthe buried city, with Jamba directing, because of his father's illness. Juba's jealousy and anger is aroused at the sight of Anelo, whom she blames for her sorrow, but nevertheless, she tells Anelo of the plot. Juba is too weak to make the journey, so Anelo hurries with natives to Contier's rescue. The party has moved along without mishap and Jamba and Contier with guides, are well head. Meantime, Anelo takes a short cut to the place where Jamba is to effect his plan. There is a quarrel and the two men come to blows. They fight bitterly. But fortuntely Anelo arrives in time to prevent Coutier's death. The party resumes its march and the excavation is mde. Contier finds the remains of the culture—and the treasure. He plans to devote his life to the work even more extensively. Jamba has returned to Juba nd is forgiven by Contier for his passion and jealousy. Contier plans to help Jamba in his education and later his commercial career. Jack Contier not only makes freinds with all the natives, but finds also a friend and mate and love in Anelo.

THE AWAKENING

Hear ye, all ye nations, ye peoples, out of the years I come to speak
Proudly for millions once in bondage held, once so cowed and meek;
Dark-skinned peoples with dreams empty, visiosnels, but now awake:
Eager to know, to face the issues, and greater tasks to undertake.
There is sorrow in my heart—and there is love and hope, and fire
Adding me speak of unrest, seething still; a yearning for the soul's desire!

In every age there are men who willingly sacrifice aggrandizement of self and mere material gain in order that they may give to the world a new thought or ideal, a new inspiration. These are they who outlive petty prejudices and suffering and pain, clinging to their own principles. When they have heard the call for service to their fellowmen they forsake old beaten paths, pleasures, and life-long environments, and devote their lives even in unexplored regions to the realisation of their dreams.

Such a man was Jack Contier. He had determined to go through school and his education. During his high school and college careers, Contier worked doggedly. At times he was employed as chauffeur by a wealthy banker of the city or he worked on one of the Colored newspapers. He earned enough money to complete his last two years of college in a leading Colored university.

There he mingled with his own, studied them, and learned of their aspirations. Contier knew as he did his own, his fellow-students' merits and faults. He majored in history, reading extensively about the general history of the world. And it was all so interesting to him.

One day in chapel services an African chief's son had come to speak. He had spoken with much earnestness, giving descriptions of the country, and telling of the life and customs of the people. The man had boasted that he was proud of being black, because he had said, the art and culture of the world had sprung from his fatherland. And later, he continued, strong European powers had come to African coasts and then—the deterioration.

Another time Contier saw two native praised the work of professors and students and asked them to do all they possibly could for Africa educationally. Among the many unfavorable conditions existing there, the speaker had mentioned: Inefficient teachers, the lack of proper medical facilities and hospitals. She had said further that the girls were not given opportunity to learn vocational trades and they must go to separate schools.

"'Come over to Africa and help us—we need you!' These had been the last words of the burning appeal. Contier had listened and understood. If there was anything that he could do, he would willingly.

So Contier, being a student of history, decided to go to Africa and study her ancient culture and development as well as her present conditions. He received his Master of Arts degree and, securing aid from his former employer and friend, and several universities, Jack sailed for Northern Nigeria, Africa. His final destination, however, was Yola, one of the chief cities of that section located on the River Binue.

Contier had read quite extensively archaeological accounts, and other literature pertaining to Africa. And as he sailed, he had visions of the forestland, of the lion and his lair, of fresh trails and stubborn entanglements. Yes, he saw powerful chiefs, and natives revelling in their native gaudiness or engaging in primitive activities.

Jack finally reached the city of his dreams where he met the Fringes. This noble man and his wife had been engaged in missionary work for many years in that vicinity. They extended him hospitality and showered him with questions concerning America, their native land, and about the conditions of his fellow racemen. Jack told them of his mission and was promised aid.

One afternoon Contier returned to the Fringes after a day of observation and study about the city and met the daughter of the missionaries. Her name was Anelo. She had attended a representative college in America for two years and had just returned from London where she completed her studies. Contier noted the girl's beauty and personality. And was reluctant to leave late that evening when the very interesting conversation ended.

John Fringes planned a trip for Contier to a neighboring village where dwelt the descendants of a great cultivated race, and where he might have counsel with their wise and powerful chief, Mantuba.

Jack and the missionary were welcomed into Mantuba's village. The burden of primitive government had told on the aged chief. He bore also the marks of his tribe which he ruled and loved. His six wives, big son, warriors and all obeyed his orders and held great respect for him.

This tribe, according to Mantuba, was the last of a once highly cultured race whose history dates back into antiquity. They were great builders, artists, and iron workers, and very energetic.

"'I have come from America to devote my life to archaeological studies,' said Contier to the chief through John Fringes who was interpreting. 'Perhaps you can help me in some way.'

The chief smiled, "Good, we are proud of our ancestors. They were a great people. They built a city, which is now buried, in which they showed remarkable ability as architects, and tradesmen."

Mantuba drew Contier and Fringes into a secret chamber. Jack marveled at the rich, elaborate settings and original designs and variously colored velvet and decorations. He thought how strangely similar were some of these things to those of American Indian tribes he had seen in museums, and of which he had read.

Jack noted all of this with amazement. The chief took him to another part of the spacious room. "'Here,' he said, 'These are some of our own works of which we are proud.' Mantuba placed some costumes before him. "You notice the original designs and infusion of color. Many European countries have imitated our color schemes. This material was made from the bark of trees some thirty years ago, and it still looks as though it was made today."

Attendants spread other goods before the visitors, and pottery, and spears, knives and other instruments of war. "There is the buried city yonder where the sun looks down from his highest point, and where time has gone on in its flight, leaving it to decay further. But I know the location. There is a secret trail by which the city can be reached. No foreigner shall ever enter there, for there is a lion's den and I have a keeper and guards placed there so that nobody will trespass. I alone know the secret code of my fathers. But I will give it to you, because the world should know that we were once a great people and their posterity will be some day."

They sat on rugs which Contier knew were very costly. Mantuba continued: "And there is some valuable information, and relics and a treasure of elephant tusks and diamonds and gold, glittering and beautiful, unearthed from Africa's heart."

Contier listened. His whole being trembled as he looked at the man who was the descendant of such a people. And were these not his great forefathers too?

"'I will come again to see you, Mantuba, when I am become more familiar with the country. We can talk of the many things which you mention and the glory of Africa and her history."

Mantuba showed Contier about the village. Jack met Jamba, the chief's only son, who was powerfully-built and very intelligent. Fringes told Contier later that this young man was in love with his daughter Anelo.

Fringes and Contier bid farewell to the chief and his people. They are invited to a great feast which is to be given on the next evening in honor of Contier.

RACE ATHLETE WINS CROSS-COUNTRY

By G. Duncan.

In the annual cross country meet held at Lincoln High last Friday, Charles Sanders walked away with ease in the Interclass Cross Country meet. Sanders was not considered by many to win.

This is the second time a race lad has won this honor in the city, two years go James Hunt won the meet at the same institution.

The Nihart medal which was given to the winner, went to a white boy. Sanders was declared ineligible due to the fact that he won his monogram while attending Jefferson. He is only a Junior and will be a great asset to the team next year.

Last year at the Y. M. C. A. meet Sanders won the mile, half mile and second in the broad jump, he was one of the high point men. The time was 8 minutes, 8 seconds, which was considered the fastest time for many years.

CHARLES GILPIN AT MASON NEXT WEEK

By G. Duncan.

Charles Gilpin the foremost negro actor will be presented at the Mason Opra House by Adolph Klauber for one week, beginning Monday night, Jan. 15. Both play and star have been pronounced the greatest dramatic success in the history of dramas, and declare Gilpin one of the greatest contributors to dramatic art during the past season.

In New York, Boston and Chicago the drama has been met with a huge success and Gilpin was the most talked of actor in the Metropolis. The scenes of the play are laid in the West Indies and is in eight interesting scenes.

The critics for once all agreed on his ability. Heywood Brown writes on the New York Tribune.

"The Emperor is played by a Negro actor named Charles S. Gilpin, who gives the most thrilling performance we have seen any place this season. He sustains the succession of scenes in monologue not only because his voice is one of a gorgeous natural quality, but because he knows just what to do with it. All the notes are there and he has also an extraordinary faculty for being in the right place at the right time."

And Alexander Woolcott tells us in the New York Times:

"They have acquired an actor, one who has it in him to invoke the pity and the terror and the indescribable foreboding which are part of the secret of "The Emperor Jones."

ACTIVITIES SOUTHERN BRANCH U. C.

By Leon Whitaker.

Now that football season has come to a close, and scholarship, track, basketball, and what not are of interest to the "ed" and "co-ed", we have to make mention of a number of celebrities.

"Jeff" Brown, that steel-hearted, diminutive football star is going to try his hand at intercollegiate boxing. The coaches believe upon the face of last year's record that Jeff will make his big C.

Erskine Ragland is making the wrestling team, and he will soon begin his intensive training in an attempt to gain supremacy at this gentle sport.

Sumner Thompson, brother of the interpretive Ruth, is sure to be Doc Trotter's big 100 yd. bet this year in track.

We sadly say that Stovall will not compete this year in the conference meets. His is the biggest loss that U. C. at L. A. has ever had.

Miss Angie Bell Harrison hs proved her mental superiority to the extent that she is now a reader for the Psychology Department.

There is a "Scrollers Club" at the U. Those who understand know what this means. Where there is smoke there is fire.

An organization similar to those of many Eastern Colleges is on foot mong the men and women of the branch. More mention will be made in these columns soon.

ADVANTAGES OF HIGHER EDUCATION

By Leon Whitaker.

Life is too complex for anyone to have certain set ideas concerning it or to make certain set laws governing it. When the molten mass began to form itself into the earth and water and the living protoplasm began to evolve itself from the unicellular amoeba into the greater and more composite structure known as man, one of the instituted and indisputable laws of life was that some should lead and others should follow. The wolf pack, the herd of sheep, the flock of geese, nd the elephant herd show that not man only is capable of regarding leadership, but the lower animal life as well.

The poet has expressed: "That just experience tells in every soil, That those who think must govern those who toil."

It is for those who are ruled to decide whether that ruling is to be for better or worse.

If the question of the world's greatest necessity should be asked, the answer might be "money." Part of the world is in chaos today because of too much money. Rather more credit than more money; but the greatest need of the world today is leadership.

That leadership is not acquired or strengthened as a stone takes on substance from the outside, but rather as a nautilus builds up its beautiful shell, which is not only for beauty, but also for protection, by giving of itself as time goes by. It is acquired by a leading out of a man's inborn faculties; and that leading out is the correct and unquestionable definition of education.

As the world's greatest need is leadership, and that leadership must be embodied in an understanding of all of its functions; leadership is the greatest and most complete advantage of a higher education. More than that! It is not only greatest, but it also governs all the other advantages.

Education should not be for self, but for others. An advantage is that which is for one's individual good. The greatest individual good is that which is good for others, in aiming toward helping others we find success and happiness for ourselves. Higher education tends toward the more esthetic studies, and these studies teach the greater advantage of unselfishness.

John Ruskin, one of the greatest of the English authors, has said that education is not for advancement in life in the sense of personal profit, but that it is that greatness of mind and greatness of heart. It is not for one to be enveloped in the earth's empty show of costumes and masks, but it is for one to live in the minds of others and in his own mind as having lived a true life. The trained man can give the greatest help, and the higher the training, the higher the help.

Correlative with unselfishness is Service. Life is as a machine. It is to be properly adjusted in order to give the greatest harmony, efficiency, and accomplishment. To render a higher service, you must be all the more highly trained. You must know the great thoughts that have actuated the great minds of all the ages, the great impulses that have made for great deeds, the great deeds that have made history. You must know history. You must know literature for the dream has always been necessary for the deed to be enacted. All these are synonymous with higher education which is that adjuster which is necessary for efficiency. It makes a great service possible.

There must be an aim, a purpose, an objective. Often this objective is uncertain, indefinite, or unknown. The faculty for making a purpose may lie dormant. Education is the leading out of this purpose. Purpose has made great deeds possible. It has accomplished the greatest things of the world's history. It has made the "Eight Modern Wonders" possibilities. It has made wealth; not only dishonest and selfish wealth, but honest and unselfish wealth. All things of greater signficance have been accomplished through purpose. The greater the education the greater the purpose, the greater and higher the achievement.

The great Cicero has said that nature and culture unite to produce the greatest men. An argument may be put that so many have accomplished without "wasting" time in studies. It is conceded that culture or training without natural ability is often fruitless; but as culture is that alone which brings the natural ability totally to light, it can be readily seen that the greatest combination is culture and and history far following the time of natural ability. History far preceding the great Cicero has proved his words to be true.

"Illud nescia quid," that something which has actuated men to do and succeeded when others have failed, that something which has imprinted the footsteps of great men deeply into the sands of time, that something which has left some men's names plainly written upon history's scroll, is always accustomed to exist when higher training brings forth from a man that which exists within his soul.

The higher studies are the only ones which are of all times, all ages, and all places. They strengthen youth, delight old age, ornament prosperity, and offer a refuge in time of adversity.

In this human world production, distribution, and consumption, we are future gain and neglect the knowledge that all existence is but the servant of the spiritual, the idealistic, and the real world which will be when man as a whole will be nearer a reproduction of his Creator.

So make your education high, then your purpose will be high, your aim in life will be high, your self-thoughts will be nil, your service will be of the greatest, your resulting accomplishment of leadership will fill the world's highest and most urgent need. You will do what is your real share toward making the world a place to live in and hastening toward completion the evolution of man from a spiritual standpoint, and thru higher education, you will be as the poet's dream calls for, "'going ever onward, ever higher."

KLAN PLANS WORLD SWAY

To Spend Millions In Invasion of Europe With Doctrine of Caucasian Cussedness. Lift Ban on Catholics. Church of Rome Opposition Found Too Powerful—Vials of Wrath To Be Concentrated on "Defenceless Negro."

(Crusader Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The Ku Klux Klan has discovered that in bunching Catholics, Jews and Negroes and foreigners together as the objects of its wrath, it had chewed off a great deal more than it was able safely and comfortably to masticate and digest. Hereafter the Catholics are to be courted and offered the 'privilege' of membership and association with the Protestant bigots under the aegis of the Klan.

The attitude of the Klan towards the Jew is also undergoing a change. The Jews are organized and powerful. They may not be admitted to membership in the Klan, but neither will the Klan heads allow their bigoted followers to go out of their way to beard the Jews. The Kluxer rank and file must content itself with bearding and persecuting the comparatively defenceless Negro. The Negro seems to enjoy the treatment. At least he makes no audible or effective protest. So far as organized power goes he is practically nil. He has few really militant organizations, and the Klan has no fear of the other kind. So, upon the Negro will be concentrated the Klan's vials of wrath. He will be the target at whom prospective Klansmen will be invited to take a fling in the drive for membership.

Furthermore, the Klan is to expand. The European field is so fertile with hate and bigotry that the Klan is going cross the Atlantic Ocean in the sacred cause of "'White Supremacy." All the bigots in the white races of the world are to be organized against the "Rising Tide of Color" and the legitimate aspirations of yellow, black and brown men to be masters in their own homes.

Edward Young Clarke, the Imperial Giant (a veritable giant in assininity) hasannounced that the Klan will invade Europe, abandoning its membership ban against Catholics, and cordially inviting the latter to help in establishing "white race supr...acy."

RICHARDSON ASSUMES REINS OF GOVERNMENT.

On last Tuesday, the Honorable Friend W. Richardson assumed the office of Governor of the sovereign State of California, to which high office he had been elected by the people, with a tremendous majority.

He takes up his duties with an announced program of economy, to result in saving millions of dollars annually to the taxpayers of this State—in striking contrast to the administration which he succeeds. The people are now waiting to see the new Governor bring these things to pass.

It is also his declared intention to be governor of ALL the people: it will be his policy to see to it that each and every citizen shall receive at his hands due and timely consideration. With these expressed sentiments put into active practice, California will truly enter into a new era in its body politic, and every man and woman will realize that the door of hope and opportunity is indeed still open!

So brazen, mendacious and malicious have been the attempts to cripple and maim us, that we simply cannot get that other cheek turned.

We are on our way to a greater unity of all our forces, as well as greater efforts to align ourselves in the front ranks as real producers.

Our old-time visitors, the "Broad Axe" came to our desk, resplendent in its glory as a king-pin in journalism. The Christmas edition is a creditable achievement indeed.

Perturbed are those who wear their hearts upon their sleeves—but they should remember that the half has never been told.

The animosities of the past are fading away in some places, and a spirit of justice and fair-play between man and man is at hand! Let us all join in the chorus, that this spirit shall prevail to the utmost.

The splendid spirit of the good people of Los Angeles was characteristically manifested by their generous remembrance of the sixty-three imprisoned men of the 24th Infantry on Christmas day. Such a spirit will not set them back in the least.

THE BIG "UN'S" ARE ROCKING THE BOAT.

(By: J. B. BASS)

We have stated on divers occasions that we have no fight to make on any church or denomination. We stand for the PROGRESS OF ALL. During the period of our editorial existence, we have given more space to the various denominations for the exploitation of the work they are doing, than almost any other Race paper in this country, save purely church papers.

We have never hesitated to stand for a square deal for every denomination, for every church, be it small or large; in fact, all have had our moral, and to the best of our ability, financial support.

Might Have Hit Some Hound With a Brick

Of course, impersonally, we hvae made criticisms, which is our editorial prerogative and right. And we might have tossed some bricks; in fact, we must have, for the hounds are baying at us. They are neither satisfied nor content to live on the fat of the land and at the expense of the people, entrenched at the trough for a life tenure. They snap and snarl when the Soaring Eagle sounds a note of progress, and calls the attention of the people to certain conditions.

W. R. Carter, Of Kansas Fame, Alarmed

We do not blame our former Kansas townsman, W. R. Carter, who brought Jim-Crow—as well as other things—to Kansas, and fears for his safety as he blooms forth in California as the big I AM—NEGRO BAPTIST Leader—and seeks to make of the Baptists of Southern California an organization of sap-suckers, of supplicants at the feet of the California white people, asking them for something. Who is he? Is he the anchor of a kingdom? Or is he a fit subject for a spiritual balloon ascension? At this age going forth as the white man to line the Negroes to the same step he attempted to line them up to in Kansas—with the result that it became so hot for him that he speedily sought greener fields in the sunny clime of California.

Not satisfied nor content is he, as he lines up another preacher who is obligated to him, and a layman, too, who has sucked the Baptist tit almost dry by a continuation in office, they come forth to do battle with the Soaring Eagle. They want to fight (they ought to pray!) Well, if they think we are going to back up, they have another thought coming.

Baptist People Are Strong Supporters

The writer has the most profound respect for all the Baptist people, and many of their foremost and ablest leaders are numbered among our personal friends. These are of the plain, common every-day people: they are ours and we are theirs. Their progress on these shores is so interwoven with that of the Soaring Eagle that all the Carters, and their militant supporters, who might be brought forth, could not sever the tie that binds us. The Baptist people know that we have no fight on the Baptist Church, and they know, also, that we are not going to back up on any propaganda which tends to bring harm to them.

They know that some Baptist preachers (not many) are not what they should be: that they put money before religion. That they want to fight and kill off others, instead of lifting them up. They are the sort of gentry the Soaring Eagle will not stand for, and at whom we are going to strike, every time they show their heads.

This old talk about the Editor of the Eagle being an A. M. E. and seeking to be-little the Baptist Church, is a joke. As a matter of fact, we glory in the triumph of the great Baptist Church. And we are strong supporters of the National Baptist Convention, because it is an organization seeking to hoe its own row, and not asking alms of the white man. Come on, brethren! The fight (if it might so be called) is of your won making, not ours! But we've got your number, and would be small indeed should we fail to strike back at the mendacious methods used by our former townsman and friend, W. R. CARTER.

MR. AND MRS. ALBRITTON CELEBRATE 40TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

On December 25 of last year Mr. and Mrs. Julius Albritton of Council St., gathere dtogether one of the most interesting groups that the writer has been privileged to interview in many moons.

The occasion, which we are sorry to be late in recording, was the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Albritton, and according to genuine Southern style they laid a feast that was not only sumptuous, but mammoth, and gathered around the board were daughters and sons-in-law, sons and daughters-in-law, grand children and a few close friends of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Albritton are pioneer settlers and reputable citizens being among the larger property owners of the Wilshire District, and the event of the celebration of their 40th Wedding Anniversary brought forth many tokens of appreciation and expressions of love from family and friends.

City Pays Great Tribute To Slain Police Officer

CHAS. P. WILLIAMS

PATROLMAN CHARLES P. WILLIAMS SLAIN IN THE PERFORMANCE OF HIS DUTY.

Officer Charles P. Williams was shot, at 8th and Stanford Avenue, Saturday night, January 13th, by John Pryor, of 1815 Hooper Avenue, and sustained a wound from which he died at the receiving hospital early Sunday morning. He leaves a widow and a four year old child in this city. The funeral was held Friday, January 19th.

At the inquest, held Tuesday morning, January 16, at the Connor-Johnson undertaking parlors, over the body of the slain officer, a coroner's jury found that he came to his death as the result of a gunshot wound inflicted by John Proyor.

Mrs. Gladys Shelton, of 1101 E. 8th Street, testified that Pryor appeared on her premises about seven o'clock on Saturday evening, posed as a police officer, and threatened her life and that of other inmates of the house with a revolver. She telephoned to a neighbor to send an officer to take Pryor into custody.

O'Neal Pullen, of 813 Linden St., received Mrs. Shelton's call for aid, hailed Officers McClanahan and Williams on Central Avenue, and with them started in a car to the Shelton house. The machine went out of commission before reaching the scene, however, and Officer Williams and O'Neal proceeded alone. Pryor was standing on the corner of 8th and Stanford Avenue when Williams sought to place him under arrest, and after firing two shots at the officer, fled. Pryor was wounded in the leg by a bullet from Williams' gun.

Williams was hurried to the Receiving Hospital by R. W. Matthews, a truck driver, who reached the spot shortly after the wounded officer fell, but efforts to save his life were unavailing. A bullet had penetrated his abdomen, and he passed away early Sunday morning.

Within seven hours after the slaying the murderer was taken into custody at his home, 1815 Hooper Avenue, by Detective Sergeants Stevens, Glenn, Green, Garrott, and McDuff, and Officer Broady, J. L. Kimbrough, White, Pipkin, Ross, McClanahan, Byrd, Corley, Robertson, Sheffield and Kent. The man-hunt was personally conducted by Chief-of-Police L. D. Oaks, assisted by Detective Sergeant W. W. Glenn. The chief left his bed and remained with his men until the slayer was arrested.

John Pryor, shortly after being taken to the County Jail, signed a confession, in which he stated that he had been informed by people residing in the neighborhood of the Shelton place that thesame was a house of prostitution, andas such a menace to the morals of the youth of the community: that he had, on Saturday night, telephoned police headquarters with a view to having said house raided; that his presence on and near the Shelton premises was for the purpose of watching the house; that he was awaiting the arrival of officers in response to his call when approached and ordered to throw up his hands, by Officer Williams. The latter was in plain clothes, and Pryor asserted that he believed Williams to be one of the habitues of the Shelton place, when he fired the fatal shot.

Within forty-eight hours after the death of Officer Williams, Chief-of-Police Oaks presented his widow with a check for One Thousand Dollars, from the Police Relief Association.

The funeral of Officer Williams was held at Wesley Chapel Church at 2:00 o'clock yesterday when a vast concourse of people turned out to pay their last respects. Rev. L. B. Brown, assisted by Rev. A. P. Shaw, conducted the services. The police force turned out in a body and music was furnished by the police band. Connor and Johnson, undertakers, had charge of the funeral and conducted the same in their usual highly creditable manner.

The mother of Mr. Williams, Mrs. Mary Williams of Waco, Texas, arrived Thursday evening also his aunt, Mrs. Janie Louder of Fresno, California.

CHAS. S. GILPIN IN "THE EMPEROR JONES"

By: DORA L. MITCHELL

A superb actor in a stage presentation refreshing in its novelty and originality, inspiring in its splendid artistry. Such is Charles S. Gilpin in "The Emperor Jones."

In the first scene portraying a cynical, jovial and thoroughly likeable rogue—a former Pullman porter and escaped convict who by shrewdness and force of personality has set himself up as Emperor over the ignorant and superstitious blacks of a West Indian island, craftily banking his gains in a foreign country and deliberately laying plans for escape when awakening should come to his "subjects"—Gilpin wins with his magnificent acting from the moment his extraordinary voice (soft and agreeable, yet sonorous and distinctly virile) is heard behind the scenes before his entrance, to the last, when, lost in the vast forest, physical and spiritual disintegration the result of fears aroused by the baffling shadows and the maddening monotony of the long-continued beating of drums by his pursuers, he wanders back to his starting point, and is slain by the disillusioned and rebellious natives.

As to the "character" of Brutus Jones, the writer takes issue with certain critics and even with his Imperial Majesty himself, if he is rightly quoted as stating that in the opening the Emperor forfeits sympathy by his braggadocio and self-confessed villainy, but wins sympathy in his subsequent tribulations. On the contrary, the clever, unscrupulous and successful knave commands sympathy and admiration, while his later folly and cowardice evoke contempt and exasperation. He might have redeemed himself had he taken his own life at the last with the silver bullet he kept as a charm—but even that had been thrown away in a wild effort to dispel far-fetched phantasms created by his own imagination—and the self-made Emperor perishes ignominiously, a victim of his victims, who, believing what he had told them—that his life was charmed and could only be taken with a silver bullet—had melted down silver coins and made bullets for that very purpose!

The play was gorgeously staged, the settings being strikingly beautiful expressions of the modern impressionistic school of stagecraft. The first scene, representing the audience-chamber in the "Emperor's" palace, was a study in burnished gold and Egyptian red, with a blaze of tropic-blue sky glimpsed through a graceful archway. It made a superb background for the two actors who dominated the scene. Other settings, showing an equatorial forest in darkness, by moonlight and at dawn, were exquisitely lovely.

"The Emperor Jones" is a play that no lover of the drama or student of stagecraft should miss. And last, and most important: no person of our race should pass up this exceptional opportunity to pay tribute to genius as manifested by one of us.....Genius that has been accorded enthusiastic plaudits by the most critical and exacting white audiences.

And apropos of plaudits, Mr. Gilpin on Wednesday night took a delightful little fling at prejudiced and provincial critics by citing the case of the representative of the constructive and progressive element in a community, who suggested that an elaborate chandelier be hung in the center of the new church—whereupon the chronic objector and exponent of the destructive school rose up and spoke thus: "Now, what do we want with a chandelier—when there's not a single brother in the church that can play it!"

THE STATE'S FOREMOST YOUNG MAN

By: BEN. W. INGHRAM

Payne Middleton is an exceptional young man, I have had the good pleasure to meet with him on at least four different occasions, he is very generous, thoughtful, and his intelligence is far above the average young man at his age. His education wherever attained has not spoiled him. He is one of the best speakers in the state and can draw an audience anywhere. His success at the Chicago Congress and the minute report made in San Francisco should make all that know him proud that he belongs to us.

Mr. Middleton has launched a Christian Campaign in the Far West, and California should rejoice in the fact that most of his activities will be in this State; his influence is wholesome, and in whatever community he comes that community will be blessed. Help him, help him, help him, everybody help him.

FAMOUS ATLANTA DIVINE RETURNS TO LOS ANGELES

REV. ERNEST HALL, D. D.

Dr. Ernest Hall, famous Baptist Divine of Atlanta, Ga., returned to Los Angeles this week. It will be remembered that Dr. Hall visited this city in 1921, and created quite a fervor of excitement by the powerful discourses he made at the Second Baptist Church and other churches. He is undoubtedly one of the greatest preachers who has ever visited the Coast. He will be heard at Tabernacle Church, Sunday, January 21, and during the coming week no doubt thousands of people will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear this distinguished Divine.

ARTICLES OF CO-OPERATION OF THE WESTERN BAPTISTS

At a special conference of Baptist pastors and laymen called by the Moderator of the Western Baptist Association, it was voted to issue a statement to the public setting forth certain facts in connection with the policy of co-operating with white Baptists which has been the object of attack in one of our racial papers in the city.

The great majority of Negro church organizations are holding some form of co-operative relationship in this country: namely, Baptists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Catholics, Disciples, and Methodists, except those branches of Methodists that maintain the policy of entire separation. To put the matter conversely the only bodies of Negro Christians not maintaining some form of co-operation with white Christians are some of the branches of Methodism. Negro Baptists offer no criticism of their Methodist brethren for a policy of separation from white Methodists; but those Negro Baptists who favor a co-operative relationship with white Baptists cannot understand why they should not be accorded the same freedom of judgment which they accord to others holding an opposite view.

It is the policy of the National Baptist Convention to co-operate with white Baptists. For over twenty years the National Baptist Convention has been in cooperation with the Southern Baptist Convention. The great and lamented leaders Dr. E. C. Morris and Dr. R. H. Boyd supported this policy, and for years Dr. Boyd as secretary of the Home Mission Board dispensed the funds of Southern white Baptists. In the northern states many white Baptists State conventions are in definite co-operation with Negro Baptist bodies. We may name Colorado, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois and New York. Southern California is therefore no exception to the rule when the Western Baptist Association enters into co-operation with the Southern California Baptist Convention.

One of the objects of attack in the public press is that of the office of Superintendent of Negro Work which is supported by the Southern California Baptist Convention. The public should know that this office was created upon request of the Western Baptist Association. Not only was the office created by request of the Western Baptist Association, but the present incumbent of the office was nominated by the Board of the Western Baptist Association, and his appointment was approved by the Association. His salary has been paid by white Baptists, but Negro Baptists have received him and assisted in other ways in his support. Since this office was created the Southern California Baptist Convention has agreed to assist on a "fifty-fifty basis" in salaries of the general missionary, a director of religious education, and pastor in needy and struggling fields.

And this Conference hereby expresses itself as in hearty accord with the office of Superintendent of Negro Work, and its approval of the work of the present incumbent of the office. And we desire to tender to the Southern California Baptist Convention our appreciation of their assistance to our work by paying the salary of the Superintendent of Negro work, assisting in the salaries of the general missionary, the director of religious education, and a number of pastors in small fields in Southern California; and their assistance already given or decided upon to the St. Paul Baptist church, the Pleasant Hill Baptist church and the Second Baptist Church all of Los Angeles, and the Friendship Baptist Church of Pasadena in the remodelling or erecting of houses of worship, and for other building projects contemplated in Suothern California.

TIME TO CROW

"COLORED PEOPLE PUBLISH INITIAL MOTOR CAR ISSUE

"The California Eagle, a weekly paper owned and edited by Mrs. Charlotta A. Spear-Bass, a colored woman, in its Christmas edition published on December 28, carried an eight-page automobile section, edited under the supervision of E. L. Dorsey.

"This issue constitutes a departure for the Eagle, being the first automotive special put out by that or any other paper issued by colored people of California. The edition is attractively and neatly made up, well edited and carries a considerable amount of good advertising, along with ample and newsy reading matter.

"The automotive special, which may become a regular weekly institution with the Eagle, results from the fact that Los Angeles has a large colored population, which is possessed of a large number of automobiles and commercial cars. The colony has several highly successful automobile salesmen and it is evident that the big automobile producers appreciate the market afforded in the colored citizenry. This esteem is judged by the automobile producers have contracted in the Eagle special edition."

We are publishing a clipping from Wednesday's, January 17th, "Evening Express," one of Los Angeles' leading daily newspapers.

We appreciate the fact that this daily has seen fit to comment on this effort which was successfully carried out mainly by the Editor of the Automotive Section, E. L. Dorsey.

We have had letters from all parts of the East complimenting our Christmas issue which they say was the largest and most distinctive Christmas number ever issued by Colored newspaper folk.

Mason Opera and Chas. S. Gilpin

The Mason Opera House in seeking a large colored patronage this week to see Chas. S. Gilpin in "Emperor Jones," advertised exclusively in California Eagle and it is said that a large appreciative audience representative of the Colored contingency crowded the Mason each evening, and from every quarter we have had favorable criticism concerning Gilpin as an interpreter and a distinctive actor of the Richard Mansfield class.

Like the Express the Mason sees through the columns of this leading periodical a broader avenue to business success through a reliable journal that has weathered local adversities for upwards of forty-two years.

Immediately after leaving the the theatre, upon arriving in the city on Monday, January 15th, on which date his engagement here opened, Mr. Gilpin called, in company with Mr. Noah D. Thompson, at the offices of the California Eagle, and the least that can be said is that we found Mr. Gilpin as affable and unassuming a man, as he is great an actor.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY LODGE HOLDS INSTALLATIONS

Hanford, Calif., Jan. 15.—Last Friday night was one long to be remembered in fraternal circles, when the city was turned over to the members of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows on the occasion of the installation of officers of the Local Lodge, and Bakersfield, Fresno, Fowler Lodges joining in. It was indeed a notable occasion which brought visitors from all over San Juaquin Valley to witness the exercises. The District Grand Master J. B. Bass of Los Angeles was present and conducted the exercises of the evening and addressed the multitude which filled the large and spacious Odd Fellows hall to overflowing. His address was received with the greatest enthusiasm and applause. The ladies of the Household of Ruth of Hanford Lodge also were installed.

Preceeding the installation a very splendid program was rendered, consisting of musical numbers and short addresses. Mrs. Marie Crawford of Hanford Lodge as Mistress of Ceremonies performed this duty with the highest credit. Rev. McGruder presided during the evening as Noble Grand. At the conclusion of the program, District Grand Master, J. B. Bass was introduced by T. M. Love of Visalia and after his address proceeded to install the officers of the four lodges. The spectacular manner in which this was accomplished was a revelation and hearty acclaims of good—good came from all parts of the hall. At the conclusion of this exercise the body marched into the banquet room where the ladies had prepared a most sumptuous banquet and it is said that this was one of the largest banquets ever served in the valley. The dancing was then on while music was furnished by the celebrated Jazz band of Fresno.

Among the notable Odd Fellows present from out of town, besides the District Grand Master, were: T. M. Love of Visalia, Past District Grand Director; G. L. Howard, member of the Endowment Board from Bakersfield; William Bigbee, Jr., Permanent Secretary of Fresno Lodge; C. E. Moore; S. C. Brown, W. Clark of Fresno; W. Person, John Pinkney and others of Bakersfield, C. O. Sheffield and W. Leach of Fowler and many others whose names your reporter failed to catch.

It was a most notable occasion and only a forerunner as to what is in store on the occasion of the Grand Lodge which meets here in August of this year.

FORRESTERS HOLD INSTALLATION.

The Ancient Order of Forresters, Court Solomon 8677, the largest and one of the most progressive organizations in the city, held its installation of officers at Odd Fellows Hall, 8th and Wall streets, Friday evening, January 5th. .....

The following officers were installed: Cluade McDonald, Chief Ranger; Thomas Palmer, Sub-Chief Ranger; Buell A. Thomas, Financial Secretary; Raymond Isum, Recording Secretary; George Warner, Treasurer; Arthur Prevost, Senior Woodward; George Baber, Junior Woodward; Rosco Knight, Senior Beadle; A. Tapisco, Junior Beadle. Dr. Frank Pearle was elected Court Physician to succeed himself, and A. B. Crain, A. D. Starks and Paul Brown were elected trustees. Dr. Leonard Stovall is the Past Chief Ranger of the Order. .....

NEW CHURCH DOORS OPENED

PLEASANT HILL BAPTIST THROWS OPEN DOORS OF NEW CHURCH

By Idell Albritton.

Beautiful the picture Saturday morning of the more than a score of faithful women as they worked away scrubbing the bench, pews, hanging curtains, mopping floors, flying hither and thither doing whatever their hands found to do and happily laughing and talking all the while in the large new church building at Bonnie Brae and Court Streets. A general stir of excitement prevailed. A carpenter or two were giving the last minute touches. The minister, Rev. Rozier with hammer in hand absorbed himself in putting in an extra nail here and there for security. The faces of them all were brimming o'er with a secret joy, their eyes fairly shown the message even before the glad tongues heralded it that they would march into the new church on the tomorrow.

It came at last. Sunday Old Sol in sympathy beamed his brightest rays in greeting the congregation. Everything was in readiness. Not even one flower of the large basket in the pastor's study could be rearranged to an advantage. The new high backed chairs setting back of the pulpit were on their dignity. The temporary pews waited patiently, resigned to bear their burdens humbly. Peace came in and with a heavenly smile of contentment sat herself down to rest.

Several hundred strong, shouting and singing praises to His name they marched in led by him their leader, Rev. W. H. Rozier. All day long shouts of praise and thanksgiving were sent up to the Heavenly Father who had been with them in their deliverance from threatening clouds of failure to success. Generous were their praises to their leader who thru his efforts had brought the church into existence and remained with them to enjoy the day of its greater realization.

Pastors from nearly every church in the city were there. Two stages from Riverside brought delegates from the Park Avenue Baptist Church of which Rev. Rozier is also pastor and scores of autos brought members from the Furlong Baptist Church of which Rev. Rozier was lately pastor and other friends.

A massive three storied brick building with room for enjoyment of every phase of church life is that of the Pleasant Hill Baptist Church today.

MRS. LELIA WALKER-WILSON

President of the Madam C. J. Walker Mfg. Co., of Indianapolis, Indiana

On account of the very brief period in which we had to interview this noted business woman, who is visiting Los Angeles at this time, our last issue merely carried an introduction to her large circle of friends and representatives, who are located throughout California and the Pacific Northwest.

We found Mrs. Wilson comfortably domiciled in the beautiful home of her friend Mrs. Nora Allen, 1594 W. 35th Place, exuberantly radiant over the warm reception and many fetes tendered by her host of California friends in her thus far very brief stay. We also found that this accomplished, beautiful, and wealthy woman of the race possessed all of the charm and poise that have been credited to her from press accounts of the East. More than this, she is approachable and sympathetic. No one can emerge from a heart to heart talk with a woman of her bearing without feeling the urge to chant our recently appropriated slogan "Every day in every way this old world is getting better and better." Even in the briefest contact one is none the less affected and inspired.

After a few pleasant reflections on her visit here of three years ago, also a brief resume of the many angles of her famous business, I decided that it would be quite the proper diplomacy to share some of these brilliant and timely thoughts of this noted visitor, with the readers of this column. My real interest soon turned to the purpose of her visit to Los Angeles at this time, Appreciating her keen mentality and her thorough grasp of business problems in general, I soon lost myself in her voluntary assertions of the future policy of Madam C. J. Walker Co., as it affects the race. She said: "Well, I guess I might as well tell you now as later just why I am in California at this season of the year. You see (and one could observe here that she is very studied in her business expression) when Mother lived I was perfectly content to let mother do all the directing of affairs.

SANITY IN THE WILDERNESS

Despite the Ku Klux Klan, John Sharp Williams, Hoke Smith, the unlamented Thomas Watson, all the white demagogues and the black demagogues like Marcus Gavey, a bit of sanity remains in the wilderness of race prejudice. Ever every now and then some thinker or scholar bubbles forth the truth like an oasis in the desert. In a recent issue of Hearst's New York American, Dr. Charles Fleischer discusses on the editorial page "Our Color-phobia." His laconic and meaty article is marked by candor, pathos and resentment at the at the injustices done to the Negro and other peoples of color. He even singles out a full-blooded Negro—Roland Hayes, the dulcet tenor of Boston,—and asks the point-blank question. Why is it that a man of such ability, as to be recognized in London and Paris—why is it that he could not sing with any American orchestra at a subscription concert in New York, Boston, Chicago or New Orleans? Gentle reader, scan this article and answer these questions for yourself.

Phobias are, literally, "fearful" things.

Most of us are possessed or obsessed by fears, all our lives, from childhood's fear of the dark until old age's dread of what dreams may come when we have shuffled off this mortal coil.

Though the fewest of us can feel our fears in such poetic Shakespearean terms as fairly to translate them into beauty.

Usually our phobias are ugly and undignified facts.

And we "specialize" in them. One person indulges in a fear—whose name is hatred—from which the other fellow is altogether free.

To specialize in this article only one kind of fear-hatred, there is the color phobia.

The Caucasian, secure in the conceit of his superiority, commonly cultivates a color dislike which calmly includes everybody who is not white.

Not that this precludes other and mutual pre-judice within the caucasian groups. But that's another story—of still more highly specialized hatreds.

It is curious, too, to note the geographical limitations of these phobias. Your average Briton in India has a deep-seated contempt for the colored native. That same bronzed or black Hindu may visit Britain and receive every courtesy and social respect.

So we Americans "specialize" in phobias towards the various colors.

Chinese and Japanese and Negroes are objects of unfriendly discrimination, whereas the Indian—whether the red native American variety or the imported Asiatic type—is usually accepted and welcome.

These blanket exclusions based upon color phobias fail, of course, to distinguish among the individuals of such groups.

Cynically and with callous indifference, we simply sing some equivalent of the old song: "All coons look alike to me."

Which reminds the writer of a valued friend, a full-blooded Negro, born in America of slave parents.

His name is Roland Hayes, a tenor of Boston, and one of the sweetest souls you would wish to know. A gentleman, in all that this much abused word implies.

For three years now, Mr. Hayes has been singing in England and France, and winning the enthusiastic plaudits of public and critics.

He has sung before the King and Queen of England and has made "appearances" which are rarely possible to an American.

And yet there is hardly a chance that this same gentle, exceedingly talented singer and unusually fine-spirited soul would be invited to sing with any American orchestra at a subscription concert.

If in London and Paris, why not in New York, Boston, Chicago and New Orleans?

Blessed is the individual and the nation that is free from all phobias! For of such are the happy lovers of their kind which is all mankind.

Miss O. V. Young will render vocal solos at Tabernacle Baptist Church, Sunday, January 21st, in conjunction with services at which the eminent visiting divine, Dr. Hall of Atlanta, Georgia, will be heard.

ST. PAUL Y. W. A. ANNUAL PROGRAM A SUCCESS

After careful and frequent sessions with its heads and constituency, the Y. W. A., as other organizations of this body, have launched a practical program for the current year that will win the approval of all who are interested in religious, educational and social activities, and with the cooperation pledged, will become a vital factor in the life of the community.

An interesting program was rendered Tuesday evening, January 16th. Mrs. Adler, recently of Chicago, led the discussion. Many had remarks to make, while the President, Mrs. Daniels, viewed the triumphal march of success. No one treated the subject more interestingly than Mrs. C. D. Robinson. At the close, Mrs. M. G. Patton, Master of Ceremonies, presented Pastor Holt, who rose to the occasion and said many good things. Abundant refreshments were served. A capacity house is expected at the next session.

these days, and making gratifying progress.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 16th, 1923.

To the California Eagle:

I noticed an article in your last week's issue, pertaining to the annual meeting of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, which is misleading. I was present at said meeting, and desire to say that there was no reports from any of the departments of the church, nor was there any report submitted by the Church Clerk or Church Treasurer; therefore, it was impossible for any report to show a balance of $400. in the Treasury.

As to the election of Deacons, there were only two Deacons elected, Brother H. B. Harris and Brother H. Herring. The article stated that the reports showed progress. On the contrary, everything showed a lack of progress, which is the reason we were not able to have reports from these officers and departments.

Respectfully,

(SIGNED) Mrs. E. KENNEY.

"EVENING AT SANTA CLARA, LOWER CALIFORNIA."

Sunset and a crimson sky,
Over a peaceful tree—
West winds at twilight time
Singing a song to me—
West winds and a silver star,
And a star path over the loam—
And my restless feet
Are stilled at last,
For my heart has found its home.
Twilight and a darkening sky,
And west winds blowing high—
Purpling hills that life hteir heads
Where mountains meet the Vale—
Purpling hills where the peace of God
Hath entered my soul today,
At the end of the Trail,
In the Great Southwest, Out Santa Clara Way.

In other words, with Mother, and our highly efficient managerial Headquarters in Indianapolis in active charge, it wasn't necessary for me to sacrifice too much of social life for business. You will recall that I returned from Europe and the Holy Land just this past spring. Since my return I have been traveling in every section of America noting the needs of our ever growing and, now, internationally known business. During this time I have had the companionship of two of my best traveling Representatives in the person of Mrs. A. C. Burnett and Mr. J. F. Johnson. These Rrepresentatives have been with the company for more than six years and are with me on this trip. Many months ago, you understand, I decided that our work needed to be put on a higher plane in California and particularly in Los Angeles."

Here, again, displaying the ironical thought of a "Hetty Green," she continued, "You have had reports or figure that enable me to make an easy decision in favor of Los Angeles. Personally, it seems to me that a Branch of our Beauty Parlor System thoroughly established here would mean much to the women of our Race. I have instructed my Representatives to locate and open such a place before I leave again for the East."

Mrs. Wilson, I interrupted, "What do you mean by your Beauty Parlor System?"

"It is simply this: Our company in Indianapolis endeavors to open a company-owned Parlor in many of the large cities of the country. You see, my traveling over the country has shown me just this need. As for Los Angeles, our new Parlor here will be the show place of its kind. This Parlor will be opened for all of the people all of the time. A new feature of this parlor will be a public reading room, or library. I have wired East for a number of Race books and Magazines which should be on hand for our opening. As you know, the growth and future of this kind of a business depends upon the people of Los Angeles. This Parlor will serve to meet the needs of the entire State, and will be under the active management of my niece, Miss Anjetta Breedlove, who has had wide experience in this line."

Lest I forget or being anxious to get to the real pith of things, I ventured, "Mrs. Wilson, who are all of the people actinvely associated with you in the Management of your business?"

She replied with all the vigor at her command: "The same people that helped my Mother build this business are still with me and they are all Colored. I should make special reference to Mr. F. B. Ransom, the Attorney and General Manager. Mr. Ransom is the leading colored Attorney of Indianapolis and has so wisely handled our business that I am perfectly safe to leave everything legal to his final judgment. Our business today is as Mother left it, in the hands of capable Colored Men and Women."

As I was about to take leave of this beautiful and delicately perfumed visitor from the East, she said, "The Madam Walker Company has many surprises in store for our friend and representative. I am still thinking of that wonderful trip to the Holy Land, and hoy fine it would be that more of our Ministers might be able to see what I have. Well, I won't give my secret away right here—it will keep for a short while, anyhow."

With so many beautiful thoughts buzzing in my brain I stepped out into the beautiful noon-day sun, radiant with hope, enthusiasm, and a happier outlook on life.

Now I pass it on to you.

WHO IS "BOSS" OF YOUR DOLLARS?

A good many men let the other fellow spend the money they earn—the other fellow just has to suggest something to sell them and—the money is GONE.

Some men are strong enough to control their own money. Every time they get money, they put some of it in a Savings Account—first—BEFORE the fellow who wants to sell you something gets a chance.

It takes a MAN, and a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, in a GOOD BANK, and a STRONG WILL to build up a fund of money in bank which you can use for things that are really worth while.

Why not make a good strong resolution, open an account, and SAVE?

Or ten, or a hundred, or more?

Folks will act, and what lies before?"

A midnight luncheon was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star and the Grand Officers left for their respective homes.

Dr. J. P. Hubbard, pastor Beth Eden Baptist Church of Oakland, has just closed a successful revival meeting here at Shiloh Baptist Church, Rev. Allen, Pastor. Muse in a series of meetings.

Weddings.

In the cosy Apartment of Fred Andrews in the Divine building at high noon Thursday, Henry Allen and Miss Ida Howard were united in marriage. Rev. Fred A. Hughes read the beautiful and impressive service. William L. Hall attended the groom and Mrs. J. P. Howard stood with her daughter. Several relatives and friends enjoyed the wedding breakfast. Out of town guests were Mrs. J. P. Howard, Miss Katherine Howard and Herman Hill of Denver, mother, sister and nephew of the bride.

H. D. Benbow, proprietor of the American Window Cleaners Co., who recently ran down and killed Wisber Gerber (white) in North Sacramento as he was returning from his country home, was completely exonerated of any blame by the Coroner's jury, as the evidence showed it was the carelessness of Mr. Gerber that caused the accident.

Mrs. Thad Dawson of San Francisco was the week end guest of Mrs. William Slaughter.

Frank Durham and sister, Mrs. Ethel Durrout of Oakland were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. P. W. Daniels.

Mrs. Amelia Grubbs Jackson of Oakland was the week end guest of relatives and friends.

E. W. Robinson, senior member of the French Model Laundry Co., was taken suddenly ill Monday afternoon and had to be taken home. The physician says it is apparently an attack of appendicitis.

On account of a heavy fog Monday night, Charles W. Boyd, ran down and slightly injured James Midson (white) Boyd took the injured man to the hospital and police investigation showed it was an unavoidable accident.

Would be safe crackers broke into the French Model Laundry, Sunday night, and attempted to crack the safe with tools from the engine room; failing in that they took three dollars from the cash register and fled leaving a much damaged safe from the attempt. The Rev. Wayman Breeze and his deacon, F. W. Smith, breezed in here several weeks ago from Portland and began preaching on the street corners and especially seemed to delight in using the term "nigger women" and other equally obnoxious phrases. The attention of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People had been called to this matter, but before any definite action had been taken by it the reverend and his deacon had precipitated a riot on the street Saturday night, in which iron bars, bricks and fists flew in every direction, leaving behind for the patrol wagon, broken jaws, battered noses, blackened eyes and lacerated scalps. Breeze and his deacon are in jail charged with assault with concealed weapons, the latter suffering from a broken jaw and the former several scalp wounds.

Charles Derrick, athletic director of the Eureka Club made objections to the parson's remarks, which caused the battle.

AT THE LEGISLATURE

When Speaker Merriam announced the fifty-two standing committees Monday, Assemblyman Roberts was on six as follows: Education, Engrossment and Enrollment, of which he is Chairman; Insurance, Apportionment, Revision and Printing, and Ways nad Means.

Roberts says he has only one bill to present and that is that police department records be cleared of the names of persons arrested and not convicted. It is obvious that that would be a good piece of legislation.

A Los Angeles legislator, who does not care to have his name published at this time, is preparing a bill aimed at the Klan. The measure will be drawn to prevent the wearing of hoods and closed membership lists. It is designed to remove the secrecy and mystery from the Klan activities.

Assemblyman Schmidt is throwing a scare into Speeders by proposing stiff jail sentences rather than fines. "Danger jail ahead."

Assemblyman Eksward has a bill making "three time losers" automatically subject to life imprisonment. He thinks that this will diminish the crime orgy for the past few years.

Senator Slater has a letter from the Pacific Religious Liberty Association, saying they will fight any Sunday blue law legislation attempted by The Lord's Day Alliance.

Assemblyman Lyons introduced a bill making insanity grounds for divorce, five years after a person has been declared insane by a competent court.

The double headed monster Wet and Dry has dared to show his head again and the same old fight between Labor and The Better America Federation is on with the "Open Shop" as the bogy.

The Stranger says: "Keep straight ahead with a stiff upper lip and you will succeed."

THE AWAKENING.

r ye, all ye nations, ye peoples,
ut of the years I come to speak udly for millions once in bondage held,
e so cowed and meek;
pty, visionless, but now awake;
er to know, to face the issues,
nd greater tasks to undertake.
re is sorrow in my heart—and re is love and hope, and fire ding me speak of unrest, seething still;
rning for the soul's desire!

The Story So Far.

ack Contier, graduate of a lead- Negro university, and student of ory, is financied partially by a friend, and several universities, sails for Northern Nigeria: Af- Here he meets the Fringes, sionaries for many years in the nity of Yolo, one of the chief es of that region, located on the er Binue. Contier tells them the ect of his coming to Africa and is mised aid. Contier also meets ir daughter, Anelo, who has studd two years, in the United States has completed her studies in don. Later Contier meets Manba, chief of a powerful tribe. The d chief confides a secret to Con- of an ancient buried city of a e highly civilized race of which he a descendant. Mantuba alone by ecret trail and an aged code knows the exact region. Here much valble information and many relics buried, together with a treasure diar nds and gold. Contier is wn the village and meets chief's son, powerfully very intelligent, who is in e with Anelo. The Fringes are ined to a great feast and in the midst the celebration Juba, loveliest of native girls, dances. Her love as en spurned by Jamba since he ming of the Fringes girl. Contipleased with the girl's dancing and ent.

II

Contier and the Fringes, accomnied by natives, approached Manba's village. Not far distant, were merous scattered huts, scarcely disrnable, save where the glow of the at fire touched them. The guests ere late, so they hastened on to here the final ceremony would be.

"This is what I have always wanted see," Jack said to Anelo, as they ew nearer the scene.

"Yes, I too was curious when I first me to Africa a few years ago," nelo glanced up suddenly, then oked steadily at Contier, and conued: "Very strange indeed these stoms, it seems to us. Nevertheless, has a great significance to them."

Jack thought of the moving pictures had seen depicting life and cusms of different tribes. Here he was witness actual festivities.

Mantuba greeted them and led them ward the elders from which point ey were to watch the dances.

The sky was pitch black. But the uge climbing blaze cast its red ickering light far into the darkness. he air was warm. There were trees, ll, aged, and stunted; thickets and tanglements bordering the clearing ere the crowd was assembled. Alately, and then in unison, deep hin the forest, the innumerable oices of nature were heard.

And now the ceremony began anew. The natives were intoxicated with trange desires. Wild, weird cries, nd the festival progressed. Men, omen, and children were to dance. There came the monotonous thumping of the tom-toms. Dancers came orth adorned with beads and bells, and a headdress that was not only oreign to Contier, but peculiar. Young and old darted, bounded, swayed, crouched close to the ground.

They made way for the warriors who came into the circle with javelins and scintillating knives. Their faces bore distinctly the marks of the tribe. Such shouting, and crying, yelling, and chanting of tribal war-songs.

Out from the shadows came Juba, loveliest of the native girls, to dance. She wore no headdress. Her hair was long and black, her features fine, her skin smooth and olive-colored.

Her's was a suple body; her lines showed in every move her gracefulness and poise, displaying a symmetry of body uncommon to most of the native womanhood. There was sadness in her expression. She danced the dance of love. Jamba, the chief's son, and her former lover, had spurned her love since Anelo had returned to her parents.

When she had finished, Contier went over to where she was resting after the exertion. He had noted her dancing carefully; and he detected her talent and artistic taste.

ACTIVITIES AT THE BEACH

"One Week of Flunk." This is the last week of the fall semester, and the bunch is on a hustle as it were. Examinations are coming thick and fast. Yet we hear no groans as yet from any of our group. Fact is, very good records are being looked forward to. (pardon grammar.

Many new and interesting specimens of young man- and woman-hood are to be added to our collection next week. The incoming frosh and others are the talk of the campus.

Edgar Johnson and Erskine Ragland, the two Vaselinos, are to become members of the Cosmopolitan Club soon. Miss Bernice Walton, who impresses you at sight with the preponderance ot her knowledge, altho modest as the shrinking violet, steps forth with her Bacchalaureate sheepskin esta semana.

Our gladiators: "Jeff" Brown, boxing, Erskine Raselino, wrestling; and Sumner Thompson, running; are rounding into shape nicely.

It is with much awe and pride that the male population looks upon the future teachers leading their respective flocks of students around the training school.

Next week there will be a grand expose of all who flunked. Flinky—Flanky—Flunk!

SAPOLOGY

Knights of the B. V. D's trim toenails for the pork Handicap which is to be run in Jerusalem.

Coach Aye P. Freely says that the more ivory above the ears the better athlete for the Alma Mater. Some men on my team so dumb that they think that all teddy bears belong in the zoo.

It is rumored around that a certain athlete at S. B. U. C. was unable to find a pair of spikes large enough. Coach Trotter was in a mell of hess, but the government fixed things up by lending them the loan of a couple of baby tanks. The athlete is goose-stepping around the track quite nicely. He says the blame things pinch a little.

There ain't but three Shaws in the world, George Bernard Shaw, O. Pshaw! and Ed. Shaw.

In Spark Plug Jefferson Hi has one of the fastest men on record. We haven't been able to find a Six Ben that would stop between ten ticks quick enough to time him. They say that he runs around the telephone so fast that he spikes himself in the back. Kinda hard on the spikes.

At all of the local institutions of boarding they are having what they call inter-class meats. These little tragedies are called meats because so many hams participate. The ginks with the enlongated proboscis are given first choice. Many a race has been won by a nose. These noses are divided into two classes, red noses and blue noses. The red noses are being more valuable because they usually carry the necessary works on the hip for brewing good rub down liniment and tonsil washers.

Thereby proving conclusively a hybred alleycat exposed to a few doses of psychology, military drill, and African golf, may assume the strut, grace, and languid superior of a pedigree Persian; but as old Bill Shake says, "Thy borrowed tailor-made clothes don't cleave to thy mold as thy homespun do."

Vocational Guidance, the Avenue to Self-Realization.

"If a young man chooses his vocation so that his best abilities and enthusiasms will be united with his daily work, he has laid the foundation of success and happiness. But if his occupation is merely a means of making a living, and the work he loves to do is side-tracked into the evening hours or pushed out of his life altogether, he will be only a fraction of the man he ought to be."—Professor Parsons.

This is the quotation found on the cover of a set of questions being used in the "Find Yourself Campaign," by various branches of the local Young Men's Christian Association.

Blanks are used, and there are many vital questions to be answered by the one who is charted. The examination covers three sections, namely, Personal History, Personal Characteristics, and Ambitions and Interests. This charting is done with the high school student and employed young men.

However, boys and men in all walks of life may profit by these tests. If we can make them think of their present conditions, mentally, physically, spiritually, and of the possibilities of the future, then we are sure that steps toward the proper goal will be taken immediately.

Following are some of the questions under Personal History intended for employed men not attending school: 1. What is your present work? 2. Like it or dislike it? And why? 3. How did you happen to quit school? At what grade did you finish? 4. How many years atwork? 5. What was the weekly wage of your first job? 6. What do you get per week now? 7. How many different jobs have you had since leaving school? 8. Do you attend either night school or part time day school? 9. Do you do any kind of studying now? Such as General Reading, Vocational or self-help reading, Public night school, Private night school, Y. M. C. A. night school, Correspondence corse. 10. Do you have any system of saving? Bank account, Insurance, investment? 11. Lost-how much time recently from ill-health? 12. Do you have any habits which you feel hold you back from success?

Now that you have written a little of your autobiography just where are your ambitions and interests?

LIFE'S CONSTITUENTS

Who is worthy to philosophize upon life?

When the chaotic mass began to shape itself into a logical formation, some divine plan undoubtedly figured and devised certain creatures springing from this mass, living, doing, and returning to this mass.

Man in his evolution was possibly at first devoid of the natural protection peculiar to the lower animals. He had to fashion for himself weapons, clothes and other means for protection from them, the elements, and from his fellow man. Out of these necessities grew his ideals and thoughts for dealing with his companions by means other than material.

As the volution and population continued toward a higher point and the idea of "Socius" began to develop more than the idea of "Ego", the group began to form. This group found strength in mutuality, gregariousness, and religion. Each individual grew stronger because of these traits and various and many laws began to assert themselves, although unwritten.

These laws, a product of adjustment, have grown in volume, purpose, complexity, and function, until today some are written and some are unwritten.

As habit is the great underlying principle of adjustment, all law and all order find strength in the habit of recognising obedience.

To return to the subject, we again say that life is too complex to be encircled by bounds, to simple to be dealt with lengthily; complex because the group has so much to do, to see to, and accomplish, complex because of the very chemical composition itself of human life, complex because of the so many mental activities of man, complex because of the history of life, with its wars, hates, loves, and emotions of all types, and complex because its complexities ae unlimited. It is simple because our whole scheme of life can be determined by fixing ideals upon the individual which will guide him in his scope and cycle as a member of a group, make of him a best type of individual, with dignity, honor, and trust, and fit him for whatever of life there is to come. Of these ideals there are three most important.

The first is "Obedience to Law."

The animal instinct of race preservation was the foundational natural law, which manifested itself in the first and highest type of group organization, the family. As all our laws have come from two fundamental animal instincts of which race preservation is one, we can see thatthe obedience of law is really an adherence to animal instinct no matter what the law, so long as it is of logical sequence, however complex or roundabout.

The family found strength in its unity, banded together with other families into a social group, and, through experience, made the laws which were to guide the destiny of and effect a higher order.

Through this experience, which was a product of environment, and the importance of which is almost inexplainable, have the laws of the present come.

We live under a governmental system, although this government is far fro mbeing perfect, far from being all that has been said of it, it seems to rest upon certain ideals; and these ideals can only reach their material existence through the recognition of Government.

Government presupposes Law and Obedience. As Law of which we speak is the product of society's experience, and experience is the greatest of teachers, and this teaching has been for the most beneficial existence of society and the individual, and the individual the fundamental form of life, Law must be obeyed for life to be, for society to be, and for Govern-

HEALTH TALKS SUFFICIENT

HEALTH TALKS: SUFFICIENT SLEEP IS A PREREQUISITE OF HEALTH.

By Wilalyn Stovall

Everyone is acquainted with the physical education which we shall discuss in this column. However, a review of the fundamental requisites of good health will serve as a gentle reminder.

Regarding the subject of rest in its relation to mankind, we are reminded that God ordained taht man should gain a livelihood by the sweat of his brow as a punishment for his disobedience. But it pleased Him in His benevolence to permit man's fatigue and temporary exhaustion to be followed by rest and repose by sleep; an immediate reward for his labor. Before the coming of modern civilization, everyone in reality lived by the sweat of his brow. In this day when a goodly number of men use their energy to direct industry, the laws of health remain unchanged. The mind needs rest as well as the body.

Why do we need rest. Why can we not go from day to day without sleeping and not feel the effects? Each day as we are working or using energy, the tissues of the body are being torn down. Proper sleep and proper foods are natures method of repairing these tissues. But too much sleep will tend to make one drowsy. So each one must find out for himself just how much rest it requires to enable him to do the work he is engaged in.

A child during the first few years of growth must have more rest than a grown person, because, beside, repairing the old tissue he must build up new tissue in order to grow. From ten to twelve hours is the number of hours a child should sleep. As he grows older, parents observe that only nine hours of rest will prevent that nervous restless disposition which children often have when they do not have sufficient sleep.

When the high school age is reached, sometimes, long assignments in school work make it impossible to obtain more than seven hours sleep. Almost every college course requires several hours a day outside preparation. Often during this period the body and mind must function throughout the day with only four, five or six hours of rest. That is one disadvantage of entering college at an early age. The body in many cases has not been built up to withstand such mistreatment. The result ultimately is a nervous breakdown in after life. The athlete of the high school age will find himself well prepared physically to enter college, but the bookworm sometimes must loose time on account of his health.

After this period of mental growth, when the responsibilities of manhood are assumed, most people find that about eight hours of rest is sufficient.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD

By John A. Gray.

Roland Hayes, the tenor; is paying a flying visit to the States and will give his only American recital in Symphony Hall, Boston, sometime this month. He left America April 23, 1920. During his sojourn abroad Mr. Hayes gave fifteen concerts in London and several in Paris. He sang with the Colonne Orchestra in Paris, Gabriel Pierne, conductor. He returns to Paris early in February for a return engagement withthe Orchestra. Next fall he intends making a concert tour of America.

A recent issue of Musical America contains three columns of information about Negro music and musicians. The article is a brief survey of the activities of the National Association of Negro musicians, performers, teachers, composers, and schools. This magazine devotes more space yearly to our music and musicians than any other publication of its kind and should be read by every member of the profession.

E. A. Jackson, a young Negro organist, after passing an examination, held at Columbia University, with an average standing of ninety per cent, has been admitted to membership in the National Guild of Organists. He is the second Negro to be admitted to membership in this organization, the other being Melville Charlton. Mr. Jackson has made a specialty of the organ and is the leader of the choir of St. Marks Methodist Episcopal Church in New York, the largest Negro choir in the country. He is a graduate of one of the leading conservatories of New York.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Blanks of the "Find Yourself" Campaign have been returned, as we complete our work of aiding our high school students in selecting their life callings. All the branches of the Y. M. C. A. in the city are conducting the same work with success.

The Out-in-the-World club met on Wednesday night. Important plans for the future were outlined. The club is seeking a larger attendance and membership so that the scope of the work it intends to do will be greater and more effective. Book reviews, current events, live discussions, lectures, and many other features will help to make the future meetings more interesting and helpful.

Ninth Street Branch was very instrumental in aiding Mr. Gilpin in his latest play, "The Emperor Jones" at the Mason. A number of college fellows helped to support the cast. Two young Colored men are with the company in the persons of Shields and Pryor, students at N. Y. University and Howard University, Washington, D. C. They are stopping at the home of the Boy's Work Secretary.

Don't forget the regular Sunday Afternoon Men's meeting at the Y. at 3:00 o'clock. Come and enjoy the addresses and discussions.

...ly Colored Aviatrix in the World a Los Angeles Vis...

The CALIFORNIA EAGLE this week had the pleasure of a visit from Miss Bessie Coleman, Colored girl aviatrix of international fame. We found Miss Coleman a most charming girl—she is only twenty-three years of age—apparently unspoiled by the honors, social and professional, that have been showered upon her in the capitals of Europe and in the East. In fact, her wide travels and varied experiences have merely given her a poise and confidence that, with her winsome and magnetic personality, make her a most delightful person to meet.

Miss Coleman has just recently returned from an extended sojourn on the Continent, during which she exhibited her skill and daring as an aviatrix in France, England, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Germany.

She bears credentials from such distinguished aeronautical organizations as the French Aero Club, of Paris, and from the Deutsche Luft Reederei, of Germany. The latter bears the signature of Captain Keller, former German "ace" during the war, now director of the land flying service of the German air navigation, Berlin. Captain Keller testifies that Miss Coleman has made fifty flights by herself over Berlin, and commends her for the exhibited unusual skill in her starts and landings, and the further circumstance that she is familiar with remarkable facility the former intricate type of German war planes, equipped with 220 horsepower Benz motors.

Miss Coleman is the only American flyer who has flown over the ex-Kaiser's palace in Berlin and Potsdam and she is the only woman holding an international license to make flights in all countries of the globe. She has been the distinction of flying the largest plane ever flown by any woman in the world.

While abroad she was the guest of Mr. Fokker, inventor of the famous Fokker plane, and was royally entertained in Holland, Belgium and Germany by members of the nobility and diplomatic corps, including Baron Putthamer, of Berlin. She was also presented to the Lord Mayor of Baden-Baden, and was invited to fly at Moscow, Russia, but was unable to fill the engagement, owing to political disturbances.

Miss Coleman spent five months in the United States last year, and was invited to fly at the American Legion Convention in Kansas City, before Premier Lloyd George, of England, and Minister Briand, of France. She made sensational flights in New York, Chicago, Gary, Indiana, and other cities.

Texas will be proud of Miss Bessie Coleman and of her unique achievements, and we hope that she will give a flying exhibition before leaving Southern California.

Incidentally, Miss Coleman has been appointed Chicago representative for the Coast Tire Company of Oakland.

"Akin to this dominance of Law, there enters the element of habit. Habit is absolutely necessary to law because of the inert state of the nervous system. Because of the ability of the nervous system to retain, receive impressions, it is possible for a person to be adjusted to his surroundings. Through the habit of obeying the law one comes into harmony with the law. When one comes into harmony with the law, he has conquered one of the great complexities and stimulations of life and has gone so far toward making the earth a fine place to live in, and human life a fine existence.

"'Mastery of Self' develops first the and later from "Obedience to Law." It can be said to have its foundation in the second great instinct, Self-preservation. If [illegible] of the products of Evolution, [illegible] has proved much of a [illegible] the elimination of [illegible]. Performing various [illegible] [illegible] desire for development of mind, [illegible] system of moral conduct [illegible] [illegible] truth, but it is because of [illegible] for it means that [illegible] is worthless. Every [illegible] necessary all, and [illegible] is one of the glory, [illegible] Honor.

"Tolerance is [illegible] of Mastery. It [illegible] a tendency to be [illegible] self [illegible] is one of the [illegible] Art. It is supposed [illegible] God Body, which rose from the earth great and went eventually re-ture to the earth's crust, is desert, and without all the better traits and ideals, indeed, without any traits and ideals, these qualities must be inculcated in the individual by many methods. The person must be animated and must assist himself.

Environment first begins the task. The parent tries to mould the child into harmony with certain requirements. These requirements are, as a rule, the law of the family. Later, friends and associates assist in this adjustment. Thus a person becomes in time more adjusted to and in greater harmony with his environment.

All of these prepare him for the task of mastering himself whether that task be conscious or subconscious. It will have to be conscious if the environment and intercourse of the environment have not been sufficient to make it subconscious.

A crude example of the inertness of the body and of the tendency to err may be derived from the student who, knowing that he has lessons to prepare or work of some kind to do, hears the seductive call of the dance, theater, or party, draws his mind from these things with their advantages of pleasure and immediate enjoyment, is able to weigh future gain and present pleasure, and does the definite task which will eventually bring him the greatest enjoyment. This might be termed a phase of character. Character has very many components.

In this discussion of "Obedience to Law" and "Mastery of Self," just as the second goes before and follows the first there rises inevitable and in much the same manner as water seeks its level, the ideal of "Respect for Others."

Without respect for others there can be no respect for us on the part of others. There must be reciprocity. It is necessary.

The self-respect that we develop through the former fundamental of self-mastery will instill in us a respect for others. This respect for others is almost indefinable. It can be made evident in so many ways. The best way is through obedience to the law. By obeying the law, because of the fact that the law is the pure metal appearing in the crucible down through the slag of society's experience, we show our respect for others. A respect that is the broadest and greatest.

There is the personal respect. It does not need any enlargement of argument. All of us are familiar with it. Our friends, and our associates demand it because of the very virtue of their friendship and association.

Again as life is of our surroundings, we can know that the other person has and demands certain rights of us which, because of our "Mastery of Self," and "Obedience to Law," we know are entitled to him.

We have seen that, regardless of the many elements which go toward the making up of rich beings, spiritual, material, and ethical, there are certain ones, inter-locked with and almost indistinguishable from each other which seem to take sequence over the others. Generally speaking, the material side of life should be the servant of the spiritual. Much should be the leaven of the ethical and ideal, raising them higher and higher as the process grows greater, and time makes that molleyness and efficiency that are characteristic of seemingly impossible perfection. In the pursuit of this state, or even to gain the most of our present existence, we might safely trust all to the veracity of this statement, "Obedience to Law, Mastery of Self, Respect for Others, THESE CONSTITUTE LIFE."

"THE EMPEROR JONES"

By George Dundas.

Charles S. Gilpin, the celebrated negro actor of nation wide fame made a deep impression on the theatre goers that will not be forgotten for many moons. The week's performance was largely attended and all who witnessed this super-drama by O'Neil declared both are geniuses in the dramatic line.

Having the opportunity of meeting the distinguished actor I find him a remarkably educated man, not only well knowledge but widely versed in all outside and ideal affairs. Being acknowledged by all critics the greatest actor the Negro Race has produced, has not in anyway enlarged his head like it does the average Negro who has gained fame.

Mr. Gilpin's personality and mastery is acting would make him a success in any dramatic enterprise.

Altho the play falsely represents the Negro of today, it proves to many what can be accomplished by one man and a Negro.

The Los Angeles Times' critic did not give Mr. Gilpin a favorable comment. This was due to the fact that the Times' critic judged the play from his prejudiced eyes and not common judgment, while on the other hand the Examiner praised the author and actor highly.

Mr. Gilpin was supported by two young race men, Shields and Pryor, from Howard University, who are his understudies and under his skillful guidance their success is assured. A few of our local dramatic talent took minor roles. The convict, the slaves and the native parts were taken by Wendell "Y. M" Gladdon, Jefferson "Pico" Brown, Paul "Corona" Pettiford and Willie "Ragtime" Williams.

CHARLES S. GILPIN "POSES" WITH CHARLIE RAY

NOTE: A special interview by Ralph Bunche for the Eagle with our distinguished Negro actor—Charles S. Gilpin.

CHARLES GILPIN—ACTOR; MAN.
By Ralph J. Bunche.

Charles Gilpin—actor par excellence; man extraordinary—such was the conception formed by the writer and George Duncan Taggart, speaking for an interesting interview with the illustrious exponent of the histrionic art.

Even in the realistic role of Eugene O'Neill's strange dramatic fantasy, Gilpin leaves nothing to be desired. With an endurance, application and versatility almost beyond belief the star carries his audience from the summit of his "reign" as "Emperor" into the vicissitudes of the dense forests of a West Indian island, through which he is attempting to escape the aroused and tricked natives. The rare ability of Mr. Gilpin to "get across" each dramatic change is really remarkable.

In Mr. Gilpin's own words the "Emperor Jones" is made doubly difficult in that it is the opening season, he is forced to produce his audience against him frequently his coldness and braggadocio. Then in the later scenes he must win the sympathy of his audience for the fallen braggart now paralyzed with fear and repentant of his sins. Hopefully lost in the multitudinous [illegible] forest. Although well accompanied by Mr. Gilpin, the master genius of such a role is perfect and a [illegible] play will be selected for his next starring vehicle.

said indeed, that a more interesting personage would be difficult to find. Of exceedingly congenial disposition, Gilpin speaks with an animation which compels attention self-effacing even as he holds all audiences enraptured in his depiction of character on-stage.

The present is Mr. Gilpin's initial visit to California and as he himself expressed it "I cannot get too much of this wonderful California cocoa." He is the proud father of a son and a daughter, whom, by the way, he does not wish to choose dramatics as a career.

When questioned as to the reason for his great success, Mr. Gilpin modestly replied, "An actor's success is determined by his versatility. By that I mean his ability to please his audience in the throes of laughter at one time, but without buffoonery how-

As for Gilpin the man—as an off-stage character, it can be truthfully ever, and shortly after more the same applause to patron and [illegible] And the foregoing is gleefully [illegible] in how the [illegible] success of Mr. Gilpin, although he [illegible] Mr. Gilpin declined to admit it.

Beyond the shadow of doubt in the opinion of the writer and of Miss Grace Kingsley of the [illegible] and Miss O'Neil of the "Examiner," who were also present at this interview "contact" with the great artist, Mr. Gilpin is one of the outstanding characters of the race.

Jane sat breathing fast, her body covered with cold perspiration. She looked up toward the [illegible] stood over her. The girl was charming. Her's was a [illegible] that had attracted many [illegible] youths and especially [illegible] most fashionable. But she [illegible] had changed. He no longer [illegible] her. Julu was gratified [illegible] the pretty, educated [illegible] anyway her contact [illegible] she would add a [illegible]

"You are gifted to a degree. If you were in Europe there you could be a great property. You would [illegible] [illegible] fortune."

She smiled. But her brows [illegible] suddenly, she sighed, she frowned, and lowered her head.

"What you said is well," said she, almost whispering. "But I can never, no never—"

Gautier bent over and gently stroked her on the chin. She looked up and there were tears in her eyes.

"It will be impossible for me to leave now. I was stolen when a child and brought here. The woman who stole me died last year. She was very kind to me, so have they all been. I became one of these people. I love them. There was one whom I cared more for than anybody in this land. He was so strong, muscular, tall and handsome. Jamba gave me this leopard's skin after one of his hunts. They will not let me leave."

Jack tried to console her. "Won't you dance again for me?"

Smiling, the girl arose. She removed the skin, and held it in her hands. Juba fairly glided from Jack. The throng was again attentive. Juba tripped around the circle, where many were the staring eyes. She saw Jamba who was engaged in a conversation with Jimolo. Juba glanced at them. There was revenge in her expression.

The tom-toms continued their endless, but rhythmic sounds. It was late now. The night was cold.

Juba danced, and danced, her eyes never leaving the admiring form of Coutier. He stared at her. What eyes, thought she. They were fascinating. Was it that she could give her heart to him and go away from the forestland, the only land she knew?

Coutier saw a flitting figure with fur waving leopard skin, and a beautiful face of bronze [illegible] him. "No, never, I can not leave this land. Let me stay here where I can be free. Let me hear the lion roar, see the plodding of huge elephants, and the curious animals. The birds have a song for me, and the moon smiles down from these tropical skies. And yet, you think I should go with you—"

"No, Juba, I can not leave now. I have a purpose here. I will return to the village soon. Perhaps, I can explain better to you just what I mean."

Jack did not love her, however. He wanted to help her. She had a future, he was certain, if only she would go to France. The celebration was over. It had been a wonderful night. Such a night Jack had never seen before.

Jamba was not happy. Juba had showed that she did not love him. She had talked of Coutier and the work and always changed the subject. There would be other [illegible] perhaps and he could win her [illegible] rid of his rival.

Coutier secretly loved Juba, but had never expressed himself so in her presence. He must wait, he thought, until his work had progressed. There was so much to be accomplished.

Several days [illegible] Jack and completed his [illegible] for the excavation of the buried city. He presented them to Mandimba. The chief told him how reluctant he was in consenting to give him the secret to the unknown buried city of his fathers.

Mandimba had said: "You must work in secret. Or the Europeans will learn of the treasure and have the honor of the discovery. Meanwhile, my guards are ready to [illegible] I will leave the panther and the lion from their dens and tear the intruders to pieces."

So Coutier's dreams would come true. This would be one of the first steps toward [illegible] new light on Africa and her ancient history. Mandimba and Coutier set the date when the excavation could be effected in all secrecy. Jack would receive aid and be given necessary information.

TO BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.

LINCOLN LIONS WIN FROM HAMPTON QUINTET

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 12.—A large assemblage of basketball fans packed into Musical Fund Hall to witness the fast inter-league of Lincoln and Hampton here tonight. All packed into the large it required the services of cops to aid the two squintets to wedge their way to their dressing rooms one hour before the game started. This marked the first old game in the East in collegiate circles. A fitting throng, far beyond a thousand, welcomed the opening contest. At 9:45 the Lions and Seamsters were on their toes guarding their goals. McNichols for Hampton scored first with a long, beautiful field goal. After this Lincoln took the lead and retained it throughout the game. "Massey" Woods, leading in field goals and foul shooting, was the star of the game. McNichols starred for Hampton. The Lion five showed excellent team work in spots, but failed to use its opportunities. A number of new faces were seen on each team. W. Trigg of Lincoln, a newcomer, in guard showed up well. McNichols of Hampton was indeed good for a new man. He registered two baskets and five fouls for Hampton. As is shown by the score, the defense of Lincoln was noticeably strong, allowing the Seamsters to register only seven field goals. The first half ended: Lincoln 20, Hampton 12. The final score was Lincoln 35, Hampton 25.

In the second round of a four round bout Sailor Cooper was floored for a count by his opponent, Vic Alexander. It was a hard left to the chin that ended this bout and caused Cooper to count the stars. They fought at catch-weight.

Murry the fighting little bantam fought Blondie to a draw. This bout was full of spice and many mitts were exchanged in this fray.

Jack Mason was knocked out by Norman in the second round. Norman proved to much for his game opponent who tried every way to stay but in vain.

The semi-final of the evening, the Boy Wonder, lost to Langford by a decision. Langford was a substitute for the Rain Kid. Altho losing his bout the Boy Wonder put up an interesting fight. Langford carried to much heat for the Boy Wonder.

(SPECIAL TO EAGLE.)

Norfolk, Virginia, January 7th, 1922.

While 2500 wildly enthusiastic White and Colored citizens who packed Second Calvary Baptist Church, from pit to dome here this afternoon, shouted their approval, Charles Satchell Morris, Jr., flayed the "Jim Crow" Negro leader and declared "The only person who can effect the emancipation of the Negro, is the Negro. Without his active interest all efforts of ardent friends and generous philanthropists will be in-effectual."

The meeting was a splendid testimonial to the distinguished young Orator who has just returned from a sixteen weeks tour of the far south, where more than 3,000,000 persons of both races acclaimed him. Speaking from "The Bright Side of a Dark Subject" he asserted: "The Negro has been taught to be merely good altogether too long. A man may be good for many things, good for nothing or good for something. A passive virtue never redeemed a race nor saved a nation."

Further he said, "My race will decide its own position in the American constellation. If it may rise superior to full appearances and to the machinations of men, if it may 'know itself' in the fullest acceptation of the term, let the heathen rage, but no earthly power can dim the brilliance of our lustre nor the brightness of our light."

A great ovation was accorded him at the conclusion of his address.

Hon. P. B. Young, Editor of the Journal and Guide presided. The speaker was introduced by his father, Rev. Dr. Charles Satchell Morris, formerly pastor of Bank Street Church here. A chorus of 100 voices under the direction of Madam Mandavia Wright furnished musical selections for the occasion.

Mr. Morris will depart Wednesday morning for another trip to the southland.

INTERNATIONAL WEEKLY COMMENTS FAVORABLY TO NEGRO NEWSPAPERS

In the International Interpreter, January 13, there is an article on Negro Weeklies, and their "aspirations, limitations, and achievements, as journalistic expressions of racial unity."

The writer has studied some of our leading papers and calls attention to the fact that much emphasis is placed on personal achievement and interest.

Special articles on the activities of notable Negroes which are found in such papers as The New York Amsterdam News, The New York Age and the Chicago Defender, the writer has noted, also of the different departments created in the columns and the variety of features.

Even such papers as The Negro Times, a daily edited by Marcus Garvey, and The Negro World which carry special propaganda, for "the Garvey crusade for a new Utopia in Africa," have been given a general reading.

The Interpreter has this to say in generalizing: "There are indeed, various factions among the Negroes in the United States. On the one side there are those who further interracial commissions, for the development of better relationships; and on the other hand there are those who aim to unite only their own race, and to use such unity as may be achieved for a greater rise in what Lothrop Stoddard calls the tide of color."

Nor did the writer overlook the advertisements, which often carry the idea of race pride.

Many phases of journalism are to be found in the columns of these papers, the Interpreter notes, such as news stories, special and feature stories, human interest stories, and editorials.

And this in summary: "One of the best ways in which an impartial observer may become familiar with the aspirations, limitations, and achievements of the Negro is by reading these Negro weeklies. The reader must realize, of course, that many of the seeming limitations of outlook are due to the fact that the race has had a very different history, especially in America, from that of any other. Among the intelligent studies of the Negro press in the United States are those by Frederick G. Detweiler, and Robt T. Kerlin; but books can hardly tell all that the papers themselves reveal about Negro interests. These papers are naturally far easier for the average citizen to comprehend than the foreign language press which appeals to the many new immigrants who have not yet been assimilated. That they are equally important in developing public opinion is not generally enough understood."

GOLD APLENTY IN GUIANA

NEW YORK, Jan.25.—(Crusader Service) Returning from eight months passed in the bush of British Guiana, the Right Hon. Viscount George St. John Brodrick Dunsford arrived yesterday from South America on the Vestris. He told reporters the natural riches of British Guiana were practically unlimited. He said there are gold and diamonds to be got by surface work from alluvial deposits. Rail transportation was in great need there, he said.

His report on the riches of Guiana reminds the public that an attempt is being made by a colored corporation of this city to get hold on some of the riches of that country.

172 INDIAN PATRIOTS DOOMED TO DEATH

British Land Grabbers Impose Death Sentence Upon Natives Opposed to Alien Rule.

BOMBAY, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) Death sentence has been imposed upon 172 persons on charges of participation in the non-operationist clash with the British at Chauri-Chauri last February, according to the dispatches from that place.

Seventeen police were killed at Chauri-Chauri on Feb. 4, 1922, following an attempt by the British to break up a non-coperationist demonstration. The demonstration was one episode in a week-end of anti-British uprisings in various parts of India. The mob at Chauri-Chauri, numbering 2,000 Indian nationalist volunteers, reinforced by villagers for miles around, were fired upon by the police and provoked into an attack that resulted in the death of the seventeen police—the full police force in the village, and the burning of several official buildings.

WHO IS "BOSS" OF YOUR DOLLARS?

A good many men let the other fellow spend the money they earn—the other fellow just has to suggest something to sell them and—the money is GONE.

Some men are strong enough to control their own money. Every time they get money, they put some of it in a Savings Account—first—BEFORE the fellow who wants to sell you something gets a chance.

It takes a MAN, and a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, in a GOOD BANK, and a STRONG WILL, to build up a fund of money in bank which you can use for things that are really worth while.

Why not make a good strong resolution, open an account, and SAVE?

MOROCCAN TROOPS LEAD FRENC INVASION OF GERMANY

African Warriors Given Brunt of Task of Occupying Ruhr Valley. Another War Looms. European Powers Depleted of Man Power Looking Toward Black Race for Cannon Fodder.

ESSEN. Jan. 25—(Crusader Service) Two battalins of colored troops (supposedly Moroccan) are in the first detachment of French troops arriving here. The troops began moving about 5 o'clock this morning and at 10 o'clock the 1st Cavalry entered the town.

The vanguard of the invading force was followed by five more columns of cavalry, two battalions of light artillery and twelve tanks. The French placed machine guns at the corners and sent out patrols.

At noon Gen. Henry, Commander of the Ruhr, took up his headquarters in the Hotel Kaiserhof, and half an hour later the military officials visited the city officials and officially informed them of the occupation of the city. The French requested billets for 10,000 troops.

The French nation in invading Germany to enforce payment of reparation indemnities is considered here as inviting another world war, and brings up again the question of French use of Africa as a military reservoir from which to conscript a Pretorian Guard that will not only be used against France's external foes on the continent of Europe but against the French workers as well should there be any inclination on their part to challenge the exploiting powers of the bourgeoisie.

Both America nad Great Britian, their rulers more interested in the smell of oil in the Near East than in France's efforts to collect reparation indemnities, are opposing the Freich invasion. America has shown her disapproval by ordering the withdrawal of her force on the Rhine—a belated and wholly ineffective gesture so far as the French authorities are concerned. Great Britain is acting more diplomatically. Desiring French support in her schemes against the Turkish and Russian peoples, England, while officially opposed to the French action, is nevertheless giving it her tacit consent and cooperation.

MORE COLORED TROOPS ON WAY TO RUHR

MARSEILLES, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) The steamship Doukkla arrived this afternoon from Morocco with three battalions of the 65th Regiment, each of 1,200 men. Troops entrained for the Ruhr at once.

It is reported another steamer is on the way with more Moorish troops for the occupied zone.

TRACTORS CROSS SAHARA

PARIS, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) The Sahara saw a new kind of caravan when five little French caterpillar tractor automobiles rolled across the famous desert, making the trip from Algeria, on the north coast fo Africa to Timbuctoo, a distance of 2,000 miles, in twenty-one days.

Camel caravans require a minimum of three months for the journey. These were the first automobiles to cross the great desert.

FOUR KILLED IN ALABAMA MINES

BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service.) Four miners were killed in an explosion in Dolomite Mine No. 1 of the Woodward Coal and Iron Company, near here to-day.

The bodies of three colored men and one white have been recovered. The body of another Negro was believed to be in the entry of the mine where the explosion, believed due to accumulated gas or dust, occurred.

The mine si near the Woodward Company mine, where 90 wrokers perished in an explosion in November. And yet the Capitalists would have us believe they carry all the risks of operation!

U. S. TO PROBE SLAYING OF EASON, GARVEY WITNESS

Government to Investigate Report Murder of Minister Was Directed From New York. Dead Man's Character Attacked. Garvey Paper Tries to Give Impression He Was Shot in Fray Over Woman—A Typical U. N. I. A. Trick.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) Stirred by the cold-blooded murder of Rev. J. H. Eason, one of the ex-leaders of the Universal Negro Improvement Association and the most important witness the government had in its case against Marcus Garvey and other officials of the defunct Black Star Line, Inc., agents of the Department of Justice have begun an surrounding his assassination in New investigation into the circumstances Orleans on New Year's Day as he was about to depart for New York to testify at the trial of Garvey.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Maxwell S. Mattuck, who will prosecute Garvey for his alleged fraudulent promotion schemes, Eason was to have been one of the principal witnesses at the trial.

The former U. N. I. A. leader was shot as he left a church, where he had bitterly denounced Garvey and his many failures. As he emerged two fanatics met him and emptied the contents of revolvers into his body. The victim died on the Thursday night following in a New Orleans hospital. His death has roused a wave of horror and resentment throughout the land and has been interpreted in many neutral quarters as definitely sounding the knell of the already badly battered organization.

The New Orleans police placed under arrest in connection with the shooting. two painters, who described themselves as William Shakespeare and Fred Dyer. Both had cards in their possession, showing that they were members fo the Universal Negro Improvement Association of which Garvey is president.

Prosecutor Mattuck said today that reports had come to him indicating an effort on the part of certain people to scare Government witnesses by broad hints to deal out to others the same medicine handed out to Dr. Eason.

The trial of Garvey and his associate officers of the Black Star Line has been set for the first Monday in February. It is alleged that $1,000,000 of the stock in this steamship line, of which Garvey was president, was sold to credulous persons on facts that warranted the charges of fraud, such, for instance, as advertisement and sale of passages on the ghost ship "Phyllis Wheatley." The other defendants besides Marcus are Orlando M. Thompson, vice-president; Elie Garcia, secretary, and George Tobias, treasurer.

When the stock was being floated Eason, the dead man, who at that time held the title of "American Leader," was one of the most effective agents of Garvey in the appeal for subscriptions. He is said to have officiated at the marriage ceremony of Garvey and his first wife.

ENGLAND GRABS AT STRAW OF ANOTHER SERVILE RACE LEADER

Hails With Joy Announcement From America that a Successor to Booker Washington Is Found.

LONDON,. Jan.25.—(Crusader Service) The announcement from the United States of the discovery of another Booker T. Washington in the person of James Emman Kwegyir Aggrey, an African-born Negro, who is now a candidate for his Ph. D. at Columbia University, has been received here with frank interest in the prospects of usurping the present dominant radical New Negro with a leader of the old type and school. British imperialists in particular, received the announcement with undisguised pleasure, while even the Liberals reacted favorably to the prospects of ousting the present radical leadership of the Negro people in the United States. Typical of the comment of the press is the following excerpt from an editorial in the "Manchester Guardian:"

"Like Dr. Moten, who was recently in England, Mr. Aggrey is opposed to the African Liberation movement which has been advocated by radical Negroes in the United States and has inspired many colored men throughout the world with the ambition to bring to an end European domination of the Dark Continent. Mr. Aggrey has long occupied the pulpit of the colored church near Salisbury. Many Negroes aspire to the position of influence that Booker T. Washington held in America's "Black World" of nearly twelve million persons, but most of them are working on lines entirely opposed to the doctrines of the greatest figure which has yet emerged from the ranks of the colored men in America. Aggrey, however, is working along lines laid down by Booker T. Washington—that is to fit the Negro into a proper niche in the agricultural and industrial spheres."

Putting the Negro in his place to be as much a concern among anglo-saxons in the British Isles as among the pure anglo-saxon population of the most rabid Southern States. Picking leaders for the Negro peoples of the world is the special concern of all this ilk who thus hope to divert into channels less menacing to their beautiful system of world domination the increasing political activity of Negroes throughout the world. It appears a dream doomed to failure. The Negroes of America, no more than the Negroes of the rest of the world, are inclined toward acceptance of servile leadership if one is to judge by the reports emanating from America.

BRITISH AIRPLANES BOMBING MOSUL VILLAGES

English Huns Attack Defenceless Communities From Air—Many Women and Children Injured.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 25.—Report sfrom the Mosul districts say that British airplanes are actively bombing villages in the neighborhood of Mosul, especially Rewandus, Rayna, Massoures, Mourbeit, and Nameves. Four of the planes were brought down by embattled villagers wrathful at the casualties caused among the women and children and the damages to their homes.

In the meantime, the revolutionary movement in Mosul itself continues to spread and the British garrisons are menaced in several towns.

BRUTAL BRITISH BOMB WAZIR VILLAGES

BOMBAY, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) The villagers of Waziristan have had a memorable Christmas. During Christmas week airplanes of one of the leading Christian Powers of the world, Great Britian, dropped sixty and a half tons of bombs upon over a score of unfortified villages. British reports of the Christian act stated that the villagers were "generally surprised and "the damange done was considerable."

The use of aeroplanes for "pacification," tax-collection, and the like is steadily growng as a set policy of the "Brutal" Empire, which plans soon to camouflage itself under the high-sounding title of Commonwealth of Nations." The bombing 'plane is much cheaper than a political mission backed by soldiers. It is also much more appallingly indiscriminate in its operations. It exacts a sickening price in non-combatant, especially women and children, lives.

RUSSIA WARNS MASSES RUHR ENTRY MEANS WAR

Soviet Government Tells World's Cannon-Fodder French Action Spells Bloodshed.

MOSCOW, Jan. 25,—(Crusader Service) Russia's first official pronouncement on the occupation of the Ruhr by the French was made by the All Russian Central Executive Committee to-night addressed to "all the peoples of the world."

It sharply protests against the action of France and calls attention to the threat of war which such action involves. Declaring the army of imperialist France has invaded the industrial heart of Germany, the statement declares: "In this critical moment labor and peasant Russia cannot remain silent."

Russia charges that France has gone even beyond "shameful Versailles," and that England, Italy and Japan, by washing their hands, or only feebly protesting, are equally guilty of breaking the sovereignty of the German people and trampling upon their rights of self-determination.

"Terrible poverty and suffering threaten the laboring classes in Germany," it concludes. "All Europe is threatened with growing economic disorder. Russia warns the peoples of the world of the terrible danger that menaces peace. Your fate is in your hands."

TESTIFIES KLAN SHERIFF WINKED AT KIDNAPPINGS

High Cyclops and Other Officials Accused of Instituting Reign of Terror. Law Set at Naught. Klan American White Guards, With Members in High Places and Backing of Capitalists, Able to Operate with Impunity.

(Crusader Service)

BASTROP, La., Jan.25.—Slowly but surely the members of the hooded gang who kidnapped and butchered Watt F. Daniel and Thomas Frederick Richards, both white, after subjecting them to torture almost as fiendish as that which the white South has visited upon hundreds of hopeless Negro men and women in the past fifty years are being unmasked and brought into the open so plainly that Governor Parker, who in spite of overwhelming opposition forced an investigation of the Klan, feels confident that even the tremendous power of the Ku Kluxers cannot prevent them from being indicted.

To-day's session of the open hearing, designed to force the Grand Jury to return indictments because of the overpowering character of the State's case, closed with the most startling testimony of the day. It was wrung from a witness frightened and determined to evade compromising any one, if possible, and it fell like a thunderbolt in the crowded court room.

Just as Court was about to adjourn for the day, Senator Howard Warren, Special Assistant Attorney General, drew from Harry Neelis, a garage employee, who admitted he had been warned not to talk and that he was leaving the community to escape trouble, that Richards was kidnapped the first time from the garage where he was employed while Sheriff Fred Carpenter, Klabee of the Morehouse Parish Klan, under oath to uphold law and order, looked on without raising a hand to prevent the outrage.

Carpenter sat within three feet of the witness. His face never changed expression save for a sickly smile that played about the corners of his lips.

Carpenter was not the only Klansman whose name was brought out vividly in the testimony of the day. J. K. Skipwith, Exalted Cyclops of the Morehouse Klan, was involved by practically every witness who testified.

State of Terror Followed Klan.

Two points stood out vividly in the testimony of Mayor Dade to-day. The first was the state of terror in which the parish has been reduced by the depredations of the hooded 100 per cent vigilantes; a state, according to the mayor of Mer Rouge, that did not exist until the advent of the Ku Klux Klan into the community.

The second was the desperate struggle which the prosecution will have to establish convictions regardless of the overwhelming character of the evidence at its command.

The ramifications of the Klan were brought out indirectly by the questioning of one of the Klansmen who was asked point blank if all of the village and parish officials of Bastrop were not members of the hooded order. He would not answer in the affirmative, but the State has evidence that the Klansmen made a clean sweep of officialdom, practically, when they organized here.

Mayor Dade, who admitted having been a member of the Klan two months but who left at the end of that time because he did not believe in what it stands for, drew a picture of Mer Rouge as a peaceful, contented village that was safe to live in and upon the hands of whose residents there was no man's blood. Then came the Klan, chaos and terror in its wake.

In a dramatic voice, he exclaimed: "Oh, that is what the Ku Klux Klan has done for us! God, I'll do any thing to try to restore peace and bring the contentment we used to have here."

Even-Handed Justice Is Asserted

As Judge Pat R. Parker Gives Judgment Against The Owl Drug Store for Discrimination in Public Places

Lela Hutson, colored, was awarded $500.00 damages against The Owl Drug Campany for being discriminated against in their store at 5th and Broadway, April last. She was represented by Attorneys Griffith Jones and John J. Craig, and the case was heard by Superior Judge Pat R. Parker. In response to questions by Mr. Craig, Mrs. Hutson told the Court that an employe of The Owl Drug Company on April last refused to serve her with food at the lunch counter, and that he violently assaulter her and struck her on the face with his fist; that one of the employes attempted to eject her from the store but she siezed hold of a large scales and prevented this. The Drug Company produced witnesses who testified that Mrs. Hutson was the aggressor and that she had thrown plates violently about the store, but Judge Parker, in rendering judgment for Mrs. Hutson, said that there was no doubt in his mind that Mrs. Hutson had been discriminated against in direct violation of the state law, and that business houses should learn that in this state all citizens are entitled to equal rights in public places; and that were their discriminations against people in cases like this permitted to go on it would lead to a chaotic condition. Judge Parker then gave judgment for Mrs. Hutson in the sum of $500.00, and costs.

The Eagle takes pride in congratulating both Judge Parker for his keen sense of even handed justice in the above case and to the firm of Griffith Jones and John J. Craig for their efforts in presenting the case of Mrs. Hutson in such a manner as to obtain the above results; and after all we are reminded that despite the obstacles which hinder us and the fact that justice for some people often goes astray, that there are just men of the calibre of Judge Pat Parker on the bench who respects his oath of office and whose inate soul is the personification of a real and just Judge. Likewise do we appreciate the fact that such men who have delved deep into the law as Griffith Jones and John J. Craig, who will sturdily stand up against even so great a corporation as the Owl Drug Company and demand justice for their client.

This thing of adding insult to injury and breaking the constitutional law of the state of California at the same time will soon come to an end and even handed justice will reign supreme.

LABOR TO SEEK REAL BEER

CINCINNATI, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) Modification of the Volstead act, to permit the manufacture and sale of real beer, is the goal of a National drive to be launched following conference here next Sunday between members of the General Executive Board of th International Brewery Workers' Union nad Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

PEOPLE OF JAMAICA RESENT ANNEXATION TALK

KINGSTON, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) The request of American prohibitionists to the British Foreign Office for the exchange of the British West Indies for the war debt and the publication in American newspapers of articles advocating the acquisition by American of these islands for military purposes have aroused great indignation here. Jamaicans are not inclined to exchange their present wet regime for a dry one, plus white American impudence.

HARVARD IN GRIP OF THE KU KLUX KLAN

Harvard University, with the hallowed traditions of America's oldest, greatest and most liberal educational institution, has apparently fallen into the sinister clutch of those un-American influence that make for race-discord and all the material and spiritual evils that race discord foments and perpetuates. This is evinced by the recent action of Harvard's President Lowell, who has, in his official capacity, barred from the college dormitory, solely on the grounds of his race and color, young Roscoe Conkling Bruce, Jr. son of Roscoe Conkling Bruce, a Harvard graduate of 1902, and Grand Son of forme United States Senator Blanch Kelso Bruce.

We do not believe that the fair-minded people of the North—and of Massachusetts in particular will allow the presidential decision to stand unchallenged. It is an act of insulting discrimination on the one ground upon which all men should have the privilege of proving themselves equal, and an act with far-reaching consequences, in that it not only probes, but burns like a corrosive acid, that unhealed wound in our social structure—the problem of inter-racial relations.

DEATH BLOW TO U. N. I. A. AMSTERDAM NEWS

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) The assassination of Dr. Eason by alleged Garvey fanatics has caused a great wave of resentment and horror in this city whose Negro population well remembers the many acts of rowdyism at public meetings in halls and on street corners of the local Garvey followers. Attention has been drawn, too, to the peculiar clause in the constitution of the Universal Negro Improvement Association whereby the members of that strange aggregation are virtually given a blanket pardon for any crimes they may commit as long as those crimes have been committed in the interest of the U. N. I. A. The attempt of Marcus Garvey and his lieutenants to incite their followers against the opponents of the Garvey doctrine that this is a white man's country and must accordingly be surrendered to the white man are also recalled. The local press is bitter in its denunciation, several of the papers treating the assassination editorially.

The Amsterdam News is among those papers that look upon the recent crime as a death-blow to the Garvey organization. In its issue of January 10, that paper carries the following leading editorial:

"DEATH BLOW TO U. N. I. A."

We are not willing to go so far as to say that Marcus Garvey was implicated, directly or indirectly in the cowardly assassination of J. W. H. Eason, former leader of American Negroes in the Universal Negro Improvement Association, of which Garvey is president.

We will not go so far as to say that such an extreme measure would be approved by officers of his Association.

We do say, however, and most emphatically, that the murder of Mr. Eason will not do the U. N. I. A. any good, even if he was one of the outstanding opponents of Garvey and his enterprise. Such methods have never been known to do any good.

The men who actually shot Mr. Eason may have thought they were doing the U. N. I. A. a service, but they are mistaken. What they actually did was to give it its first serious blow—a blow from which it will never recover.

GARVEY MAKES MOVE TO SHIFT BLAME

U. N. I. A. Head Facing Prison Term Accuses Former Associate of Larceny.

NEW YORK, Jan.—(Crusader Service) With the Federal authorities speeding up their collection of evidence and preparation of the case against Marcus Garvey and his associates of the defunct Black Star Line, Inc., Garvey has made a definite move to shift all responsibility for the alleged fradulent use of the United States mail from his own shoulders to those of his former associates.

Eli Garcia, Auditor General of the Association and Secretary of its Black Star Steamship Line, was arrested yesterday, charged with petty larceny, on complaint of Garvey.

According to Garvey, Garcia substituted an alleged bogus check for $40 in cash at the association's office. Alleged irregularities in the handling of $1,500,000 worth of securities intrusted to him will also figure in the trial, Garvey says.

Those familiar with the case against Garvey and his associates are of the opinion tht Garvey has committed a serious tactical blunder in moving against Garcia previous to his (Garvey's) trial. The move will simply force Garcia to turn on his chief and tell the truth of the entire sorry mess in self-defense.

EGYPTIAN AGENT JAILED IN PEACE PARLEY SCRAP WITH OWN COUNTRYMAN

LAUSANNE, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) Abdul Hamid Said, head of the Egyptian delegation to the Near Eastern peace parley, has been jailed because he resorted to "two-fisted" diplomcy to settle the problems of his country.

Abdul, who weighs 225 pounds and was formerly the Greco-Roman wrestling champion, was arrested and charged wiht the attempted murder of Mohammed Fani, chief of the Egyptian Press Bureau, as the result of a quarrel in a hotel room over Egyptian independence.

Police declare that Abdul was strangling Mohammed when they arrived.

SENTENCED TO THE CHAIR, BATTLE ACCUSES ANOTHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) As William E. Battle, nineteen, was sentenced by Judge Stickel in Newark yesterday to die in the week of February 15, for the murder of Mrs. Eleanor Louise Brigham, white, of Orange, twelve days ago, the probability of further developments appeared when Capt. Walter Godfrey of the Prosecutor's staff, said Battle had denied stealing two pieces of jewelry missing from the Brigham home.

Battle's execution will be expedited with the same suspicious speed as was his indictment and trial.

DR. GRANT DOUBTS POWER OF CHRIST

Noted White Divine Accepts Truths of Science Against Fundamentalists.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) In a sermon before his congregation in the Church of theAscension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street, yesterday, Dr. Percey Stickney Grant outspokenly declared that few clergymen educated in the sciences accepted the idea that Jesus had the power of God, and that the consecration of churches was a survival of the "age of witchcraft, magic and taboo" and is opposed to the emancipation of the mind.

The sacredness of marriage and the other sacraments, Dr. Grant told his congregation, comes not from the priests, "who have no power to make marriage more than it is," but from its essential characteristics "which have to do with the lives of the people involved and cannot be preserved as something independent of their feeling, will and behavior."

The clergy, he declared, was largely recruited from the unintellectual "who are credulous of the miraculous character of the ministry." He said that the country gets practically nothing from the 234,000 churches, synagogues, etc., in the United States in exchange for its remission of taxes on church property.

"Don't you suppose that if some bright man or woman were permitted to have the church for an hour or two when no one else was using it, and thsi speaker were to make a useful address on a problem of political life, which means life under government, or economic conditions, which mean bread and butter wages, or on social questions, which means housing, hygiene, education, etc.—I can say don't you suppose that each of these churches could secure an average of fifty more people than they now receive?

"The power of the priests to perform such an act (as consecration) with such consequences is due to the theory, which is still held by the Roman Catholic Church, and by the high churchmen in the Episcopal Church, that through what is called the apostolic succession a line of bishops unbroken from Christ to Bishop Manning are supposedly gifted with miraculous powers. Through the so-called apostolic succession, the clergy and priesthood of the present day have received miraculous powers from Jesus Christ, who received them from God.

"Now, of course, very few clergymen today have been educated in the large universities—by which I mean places where science as well as classics and mathematics is taught—accept the idea that Jesus had the power of God. He doubtless did miracles, as they were regarded in his day, but as M. Coue points out, many of them were acts of auto-suggestion, and would fall under well-known categories clearly and well classified by psychologists today. Science understands them. They are not miracles.

WHAT IS THE TROUBLE HERE?

On last Tuesday Miss T. Johnson met with quite an unusual experience and cruel rebuff from one of the attaches of the Security National Bank which institution has a long and high class record for courteous treatment to all peoples as related by Miss Johnson herself. She says that for 12 years she has been a depositor at this bank and a great many times this same clerk would take and enter her deposit, but on last Tuesday this same man had forgotten that he had ever seen her and as she presented checks to the amount of $31.00 she was ruthlessly shoved aside and told that for all he knew she could have picked these checks from the street and humiliated her to the extreme. We are sure the management of this bank stands for no such treatment as related by Miss Johnson to anybody and that she should not hesitate to report the incident.

BOY GIANT FAILS IN FIRST ROBBERY

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) Reginald Heuston, who, although only 16 years old, is a giant in stature, was locked up in the Atlantic Avenue Station shortly after midnight after his attempt to rob Mrs. Ethel Miller, white, Brooklyn, of a handbag which contained $220 and $1,000 in gems. Heuston, who is six feet tall and weigh 190 pounds, was captured at Prospect Place and Kingston Ave., after policeman Pollock had fired four shots at him in a one block chase.

At the police station Heuston said that he lived at 1675 Atlantic Avenue. He declared that his morning's holdup was the first that he had attempted.

DEAN KELLY MILLER URGES RACE CONFERENCE

Various Social, Religious, and Political Organizations Should Co-operate

Dean Kelly Miller of Howard University, Washington, D. C. issued a statement last week to the effect that the "time is ripe for a race conference."

That the conference should be nation-wide, and not fostered by one organization is the belief of Dean Miller if it is to be successful. Newspapers throughout the country have carried articles regarding such a movement and are unanimously in favor of same. Information can be obtained from the Dean at Howard University.

This is a very timely suggestion and statement by one of the outstanding leaders of the race. We feel that much good may be derived from a meeting of this kind where the best thinkers, and workers, and leaders will disseminate ideas and make programs for the future welfare of the group.

According to Dean Miller, "The time has come for all to pull together. If we continue to pull apart, we will pull to pieces. The whole is greater than any of its parts. The members of the body can never cooperate properly unless they become consciously subordinated to the welfare of the body as a whole."

OFFICER C. P. WILLIAMS LAID TO REST

On last Friday funeral services were held over the remains of Officer C. P. Williams at Wesley Chapel. Promptly at one thirty o'clock the parlors of Connor and Johnson, undertakers at 17th and Naomi St., and accompanied by 42 colored officers, the family and friends proceeded to Wesley Chapel, where the services were held, conducted by Rev. L. B. Brown who was assisted by Rev. A. P. Shaw, the pastor of this church. The services were marked by simplicity in its fullness. The choir sang an anthem, prayer was offered by Dr. Shaw, a solo was sung and Rev. Brown, eloquently spoke of the life and character of the deceased. Mrs. M. Robinson sang a solo and the remains were viewed by the vast concourse of people.

All of the high officials of the police department headed by Chief Oaks attended the obsequies, Lieut. McLary prepared the following eulogy for the departed officer.

In this hour of sorrow, it is meet and proper to speak words to make less the suffering of those left behind. Our friend and brother officer, C. P. Williams, was well and favorably known to me, having been placed in charge of most difficult detail, that is, the handling of the vice situation on Central Avenue.

The confidence placed in his loyalty, fidelity, integrity and ability when he took charge, was not for a moment abused. At all times he was courteous kind, competent and just, having many friends but no favorites, having much hard work to do, and doing it just as a Christian gentleman should.

The splendid record of his achievements in the enforcement of the law will forever be a beacon light, bearing testimony to those carrying on the work in years to come, that a police officer can do his duty without fear or favor, and still retain the respect and admiration of all law-abiding people.

The family of Officer Williams, a great an irresparable loss has come; to the Police Department also a great loss, and we who knew him best can but say we lose a friend who stood always for the right, stood always against the wrong, carried on his work as an officer with honor to himself and credit to the Police Department, and when the Supreme Sacrifice was made, he passed his reputation on, unmarred by a single stain. We say:

"Well done, thou good and faithful servant! Enter unto the joys prepared for thee!"

The many beautiful floral offerings completely filed the Rostrum and choir stand.

Forming the funeral procession from the church was the full band of the Police and Fire Department of 80 pieces followed immediately by Chief Oaks and high dignitaries of the Police Department and a squadron of police officers. The procession moved South on San Julian Street to 9th; east on 9ht to San Pedro; north on Son Pedro to 8th; east on 8th to Central Avenue; south on Central Ave. to 9th; east to Linden, where the band and high officials fell out, the procession of friends continuing on to Evergreen where the body was interred.

No prince or potentate ever received greater honors than was accarded to this officer who came up from obscurity, but by proving his worth and always doing his duty, these honors and the mighty outpouring of people testified more than words the esteem in which he was held.

The sorrowing wife, mother and relatives can well be consoled and realize that the public not only appreciated his worth as an efficient officer, but that he was a faihtful husband, loving father and dutiful son as well. Peace tohis ashes.

A YOUTH'S SERMON TO HIS ELDERS

By H. Wallace Thurmon

How different are the youths of today from the youths of yesterday; and just imagine how different the youths of tomorrow will be. What pain and distress we are causing our elders today; yet—what pain and distress our elders caused their elders and I refuse to think of the pain and distress the next generation will cause us.

'Tis funny that time seems to eradicate early memories of one's youth; it's funny that elders always expect too much of their posterity. I suppose that it is merely another of the numerous fallicies of human nature.

I am youth, still untouched by the ruthless hand of Father time; still enjoying that indescribable something that makes youth so popular, so desired and so pleasing. I hasten to make a mild protest against the vicious condemnation you elders give we modern youth. I protest mildly because it is more effective than the opposite extreme. I protest only mildly because I realize that soon I will be an elder and that the next generation will protest against my treatment of them.

The twentieth century youth is the product of nineteen hundred and twenty years B. C. of restrained forefathers.

They are no worse, nay, not as bad as our forefathers. True, we seem more brazen, more daring but the whole truth of the matter is that we are more frank, more truthful.

Mary Ann and Jimmie both gamble, smoke, drink, shimmie and flirt merely trying to satisfy some inherent and mysterious desire that refuses to be satisfied. They all desire something and go to the extreme to find that elusive something. Do we find it? Positively no; and I don't say that we are justified in our actions; But why condemn us when the whole world has gone mad also?

They are merely the results of our foreparents' silent desires. For oodles of generations women have gathered in small cliques and whispered to one another how they would like social, economic and political equality. Think of the years that our respected grandparents have secretly wished that they could be slightly unconventional without courting decapitation. And still you wonder why we are so wild! They are merely the physical products of your desires; we are merely ultra modern, too sophisticated youth trying to find happiness; we are merely, rubber tires with highly inflated inner tubes.

Now elders before you criticize us too severely remember your own wicked days. Remember when you longed to hug and kiss some one and did yourself more mental harm than we do by flirting with whom you please. Remember the times courted one another in secret love nests. Remember the times you imbibed of stolen liquor in the barn or in some alley. Think how much better it is not to have to be sneaks. Remember that our vices are your vices only that we are daring enough not tocare who knows about our flirting and shimmying and please remember that open vice is not near as venomous as hidden vice.

I thank you.

H. WALLACE THURMAN.

FORTHCOMING PUBLICATION OF GREAT INTEREST

Dr. E. C. Branch, D. D., LL. D., has written a graphic and authentic book concerning conditions as affecting the Negro race, in localities from Southampton, New York, to Los Angeles, California. Rev. Branch made prolonged stays in many important cities with a view to getting down to the minute data for this vitally interesting publication. It may not be known that Dr. Branch, between 1916 and 1920, spent $50,000, furnished by Northern business firms, to transfer Colored people from the South to the North and East. He was bankrupted in the Texas courts for this "offense," and in 1915 was forced to leave Texas City, Texas, for denouncing the slave system instituted by army officials upon the race for five days and nights.

Dr. Branch is now negotiating with business interests in an Eastern State, who want 10,000 Colored families in a factory town. And the proceeds from the sale of this forthcoming book will be used to facilitate this most commendable mission.

$50.00 in cash prizes given to the winners in the piano contest ... Tuesday eve., Feb. 13th at the A. E. Zion Church, Pico and Paloma. Don't miss this treat.

Mr. Howard B. Williams of Los Angeles, was a visitor at the home of his father, Rev. H. H. Williamson, last week.

The Riverside Snap Shots failed to appear in the last issue of the Eagle.

Mrs. David (Gray) Thacker, of Colton, was a visitor in the city last week Mrs. Thacker is so well known that her old friends are always delighted to see her.

Mr. Lawrence R. Williamson returned from three days' visit in Los Angeles last week.

The two Baptist Churches in this city should unite, viz: Second Baptist and Park Avenue Baptist. And there is only one preacher (according as we see it) that can unite them. If he will consent to undertake the task. Let us have union of all the Baptist forces in ths city. Divided as they are at present neither can accomplish much. For where there is union there is strength. It is divided we fall.

Mr. Julius Williamson, President of the A. C. E. League of the A. M. E. Church is arranging a program for a debate in near future. Subject, "Resolved the Pulpit is a greater force for good than the press. Details later.

Question supreme. What has become of the Honorable Marcus Garvey? Mr. Payne Middleton of Los Angeles, the Western States' President of the A. C. E. League, will visit the local A. C. E. League of the A. M. E Church February 11th.

DEATHS

Mrs. Nannie Langley, aged 81 years, died Thursday night, January 18th, at the Sacramento Hospital. She was the wife of the late Marcus Langley, a native of North Carolina, but had lived here for the past forty years. She was the mother of Mrs. Esther Noble of San Francisco and the grandmother of Herbert L. and Vernon Noble of San Francisco and Mrs. Allen Newman of Oakland. Mrs. Langley was a "pillar" of Shiloh Baptist Church, working in the Sunday School and Missionary Society, and was a real Christian worthy of emulation in every way. The Church was crowded to its doors Saturday afternoon with sorrowing friends to show the esteem in which she was held. Rev. J. E. Allen, her pastor, was assisted by Rev. Fred A. Hughes and her remains were laid to rest in the city cemetery. Fenton was in charge of the funeral.

AT THE LEGISLATURE

Assemblyman Roberts said he had only one bill to introduce, but has offered two already and has others pending. A. B. No. 156—Relating to property exempt from execution has been referred to the Judiciary Committee and A. B. No. 162—Relating to Concurrent Jurisdiction of the Superior and Justices' Courts, referred to Judiciary Committee.

The first bill provides for the exemptions up to a thousand dollars in liens and judgements and will bring an obsolete law down to date. The second will protect both the honest landlord and tenant of the small class.

The local papers run news stories that Assemblyman Roberts was a double for Charles S. Gilpin, the famous actor, and astounded a San Francisco audience Sunday week while attending a performance of the Emperor Jones, the story also says he bears a striking resemblance of Joe Gans, the greatest boxer of his day, so much so that one day in a Middle-Western city when he walked into a refreshment place, every body was called to the bar to "have a drink on Joe Gans."

Beware you wife-beating husbands for Assemblyman Pomeroy of Redondo Beach proposes introducing a bill to establish a whipping post for the man who gives vent to his ire by beating his wife. He thinks public floggings by the sheriff or deputy, the lashes varying according to the degree of the offense, will reduce to a minimum this kind of pastime.

Senator D. C. Murphy of San Francisco, has introduced a bill to make possible State aid for people of moderate means in home building. The act is along the line of the state veterans' aid legislation, and will provide creation of a dwelling house construction fund under the control of a state commission. Such an act would enable many deserving people to acquire homes who are not now able to do so. The Stranger says we should be very much interested in such legislation.

Dr. Ernest Dozier, assemblyman from Redding is seeking an amendment to the red light abatement act, which he believes will eradicate the evil of scattering houses of ill fame through the better section of practically every city of the state. He says the necessity of establishing such districts where they are desired by the citizens of the community is apparent and he also says that through the ineffective manner in which the abatement act has operated since its adoption, the evil has spread rather than disappeared, as intended by the framers of the law. The amendment will provide that when segregated districts are established that the inmates of the houses be subjected to regular inspection by public health officials.

Assemblyman Williams of Le Grand is starting a movement which is intended to head off this bill.

The Stranger says he would like to see that bill passed putting the Bible back into the public school where it belongs. The Father of his country went to God on his knees at Valley Forge and the Savior of the Union received his education from the Bible and every real editor in this counrty studies it for style, diction and brevity..

The Stranger says: Day by day in every way we are growing better and better—the lynching record for 1922 shows a decrease. Only sixty one Negroes and six whites were victims of the mob the past year and no women. The use of arms by peace officers prevented fifty eight lynchings. The hopeful sign that we are growing better is there were no women lynched.

J. W. COLEMAN, GARVEY LEADER OF SOUTH WEST IN NOTABLE ADDRESS

Now your very own and original, the old reliable, J. W. Coleman, has gained full leadership and is the mouthpiece of the Hon. Marcus Garvey in the Southwest and on last Sunday week at Liberty Hall on Central Avenue in a set speech, Coleman burned up all the oxegen and was still giving great guns at the close of his speech on this occasion. His subject was: "How the Negro defeats himself" and from his many years as a labor agent states that he gained his thought which prompted the subject. After giving a practical talk along the line of real things, the doughty and undeniable Coleman waxed eloquent and laid down the gauge of battle, when he proceeded to read the titles clear of Chandler Owen, Randolph DuBois, Robert Abbot, Emmett Scott, Robert Moton and as he would have it, last but not least, J. B. Bass of the California Eagle and Noah D. Thompson of the Evening Express.

He roasted them all to a frazzle and closed his address amidst the greatest of applause by his followers as he recited the following lines:

NEGRO FACES THE WORLD

Marcus Garvey is a noted man
By his side we expect to stand.
Over in Africa, hand in hand.
We expect to take our mother land.
Of Africa's Son and Daughter are seen,
Under the colors of Red, Black and Green.
Chandler Owen, Randolph, DuBois are sick in bed.
Because Morcus Doctrines is about to kill them dead.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD

By John A. Gray

It will be interesting, perhaps, to many music lovers, to learn a little about Beethoven's colored friend, George Augustus Polgreen Bridgetower. The very fact that Beethoven, the famous master, was on intimate terms with a race man and that this man was a violinist of high standing during his life time should be of vital interest to our race in general.

Bridgetower was born in Viala, Poland, about the year 1779. His father was from some part of Africa and his mother was a Polish or German woman. There were two sons. The other brother became a cellist and was known in Dresden where he resided with his mother. There is not much written about this boy and so we must content ourselves with the history of George.

During the year 1790 George, accompanied by his father, came to London and was introduced in high circles. His father was familiarly called the "Abyssinian Prince" although there is no direct information that he came from Abyssinia. At that time George was known as a violin prodigy of exceptional gift. According to the description given in his passport which was found in Vienna police records, and which was dated July 27, 1803, he is described as follows: "George Bridgetower: character, musician: born in Viala, Poland; twenty-four years of age, middle height, smooth brown face, dark brown hair, brown eyes and somewhat thick nose." The boy was said to have been a pupil of Giorn or Jarrnowic and at the age of ten showed great talent. In his youth he became a musician in the service of the Prince of Wales, who later became George IV. In 1802, while yet a lad he visited his mother in Dresden.

On Feb. 19, 1790, George made his first public appearance at Drury Lane Theater, where he played a violin solo between parts of "The Messiah." Here the youthful performer arrested the attention of the Prince of Wales, and in the following June gave a concert under the patronage of the Prince of Wales. The same year he played at the Professional Concerts. His studies were continued under Barthelemon, Giornovichi and Altwood, while at the same time he became first violinist at the establishment of the Prince at Brighton. Then followed many successful appearances as soloist and ensemble player. About May 24, 1803 he gave a concert at Vienna, at which time, the celebrated A. Major Sonata, Op. 47, dedicated to Rudolph Kreutzer of Paris, said by Schrieber to have been originally written for Bridgetower, was performed. The patron list for this concert included many titled and noted.

As the concert date was near at hand, Bridgetower urged Beethoven to complete the Sonata for piano and violin, that he might have his part. Only the first part had been written, the piano part simply sketched in here and there. One morning he called on Beethoven and again asked for his copy. As there was not sufficient time to complete the work, Bridgetower played the Theme and Variations in F from Beethoven's manuscript. This took place in the Hall Ausgarten at 8:00 a. m. In these days, this was not an unaccustomed hour for rehearsal.

In later years Bridgetower spoke to Thayer about Beethoven, and told him that when the Sonata, Op. 47, was composed, all the parts had been collected, and on the first leaf was a dedication to him. Before leaving Vienna however, he quarreled with Beethoven over a young woman, and Beethoven then dedicated the work to Kreutzer. He further states: "As I accompanied him (Beethoven) in this sonata, I suggested in the first part of the Presto, eighteen measures for the pianoforte instead of nine. Beethoven jumped up and threw his arms around me and said, 'Again, my dear boy,' and held the pedal down on C during the course of this, unto nine measures. Beethoven's expression in the andante was so chaste, which was always characteristic of his slow movements, that the sympathetic unison demanded a repetition. A concert review cited by Thayer is quoted from Frei Freimutigen on August 1, 1803: "Bridgetower, in the service of the Prince of Wales, had a full house. He is certainly a very powerful violin player. The greatest difficulties he overcomes with a happy boldness and facility."

About this time, Beethoven wrote as follows: "Monsieur Baron Alexandre de Wetzlar. At home, on May 18. Although we have never spoken, I do not hesitate for all that to speak of the bearer. Mr. Bridgetower, as a master of his instrument, a very skilful virtuoso worthy of recommendation. Besides concertos, he plays in Quartets in a most praisworthy manner and I wish very much that you would make him better known. He has already made the acquaintance of Lobkowwitz, Fries, and many other distringuished admirers. I believe that it would not be unwise to bring him some evening to Theresa Schonfeld's who I know has many friends, or else at your home. I am sure you will be thankful to me for the acquaintance of this man. Leben Sie wohl, my dear Barón. Respectfully Yours, Beethoven."

The friendly relationship that existed between thetwo musicians is further shown by the following letters which were in the possession of Mr. Appleby: "Come, my dear boy, at 12 o'clock to Count Dehm's, where we were day before yesterday. They will perhaps wish to hear you play something—that you will see. I cannot come before half-past one—until then I will take pleasure ni thinking about seeing you to-day. Your friend, Beethoven."

A second letter also without date, reads: "Have the kindness to meet me at half-past one at Tarronischen Kaffehaus. We will go to the Countess Guicciardi's where you are invited to luncheon. Beethoven."

After the concert appearance with Beethoven, which took place in May, Bridgetower returned to England, and in June, 1811, took the degree of Bachelor of Msuic at Cambridge. His exercise was an anthem which was performed at Great St. Mary's on June 30. During the later years of Bridgetower's life, he fell into obscurity. The date of his death was not learned until recently. He died in the south part of London in 1860. A daughter, who lived in Italy, was said to be his only offspring.

The above information was secured from Thayer's "Life of Beethoven," and from an article by Maud Cuney Hare, which was published in "Musical America." In memory of this great artist of our race the local Chamber Music roganization known as the Bridgetower Tio was named.

Editor Eagle,
Los Angeles, Calif.
Dear Sir:

Assemblyman Roberts is here acting like a real legislator—he is evidently of the right stuff.

I was able to place as Assistant Seargent of Arms, Mr. A. J. Haynes, of Los Angeles. He is a man of education, ability and dignity. He looks and acts the part and is a credit to the colored people of Los Angeles as well as to the Senate.

I am a firm believer of the rights of the colored population to representation in our public affairs as they are good citizens and tax payers and stand by the G. O. P. and as a rule are Progressive. I would like to see Mr. Roberts in due time elevated to the Senate.

The colored people in my district did their part in my election to the Senate from the 38th district where I have labored for the public benefit and for real democracy for many years. I had special support from such distinguished citizens as Dr. Taylor, Dr. Sommerville, Mr. Flint and others.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES H. V. LEWIS,
State Senator 38th Dist.

LYCEUM STARTS WITH A BANG

By the Reporter.

When the newly elected president, Leon Whitaker, opened his first meeting last Tuesday evening, he found that an enthusiastic group of members had gathered to start the new year off aright. The critic in making his report took particular care to state that the meeting had started on time and so one can conclude that the Young People's Lyceum of the Independent Church, really did start with a Bang!

The start was not the only feature of last Tuesday evening's meeting, for every minute was spent in either discussing, reporting, reviewing, or listening to the splendid program. New committees were appointed, others are being formed, and every member is resolving to make this the biggest year in the history of the Lyceum.

The athletic department of the Lyceum is planning on building tennis courts and organizing a ladies' Gym team. Be on the lookout.

The Lyceum is open to all ambitious young people in this city who are interested either in music, literautre, drama, or athletics.

And so come out ot the next meeting and get in with a lively bunch of young people who are really doing things.

CUB- CAPPERS

By Leon Whittaker

We hear with great regret that Odue Jones of the Federal Department has turned Benedict. It is generally feared that his average will fall. However, he soon finishes.

Aomn the most pea-green Frosh we have with us Miss Marion Robinson, a smiling lass who dances a la deaux.

Among the least pea-green Frosh and the quasi-gree Soph (heads)s. we have with us Hon. Wendell Gladden, the dashing young journalist from Howard; Mr. Graham, the sea-going lawyer from Washington State; and Miss Cotton, a congenial and enterprising young Miss from Fish University, whose burning desire is to become a professorette in her dearly beloved Alma Mater back in the cotton stae.

John Latimore, a member of the Lyceum is out for the baseball team. He is making good.

Two of our men had the honor of playing under the great Charles Gilpin in the "Emperor Jones." Altho their parts were minor ones, they showed superb talent and interpretation as it were.

The smoke of the Scrollers will soon break out into the flame of the Ain't but the one, Bud.

No one flunked out last week. Hallelujah!

THE WHITE SOX WIN GREAT GAME IN TERRIFIC DRIVE

There were big doings at the White Sox Park on last Sunday. It was a real ball game when the Colored boys crossed bats with the strong San Diego Club and beat them out by a score of 7 to 6.

The San Diego team got away to a running start and in the third inning drove Pitcher Curry to the showers with a score 6-0 against the Colored fought on. With Mendez taking Curry's place on the mound, the "nothing doing" sign went up and San Diego was cross-eyed the remainder of the game.

But the boys kept pegging away and slowly but surely did they gather enough runs to tie the game up in the 9th and in the 11th inning with two on bases, Johnson, the mighty slugger connected for a two bagger and the Colored boys were on the long end of the money.

The feature of the game was the heavy hitting of Mackey, two triples, a double and single. Carr also slammed out a triple. Ward also played a stellar game while King Curry made the best pitcher, left-fielder ever.

Billy Donaldson and Reardon umpired the game in a faultless manner. See the red hot game tomorrow.

SAPOLOGY

By Kenneth Wallace

Be a bootlegger.

No longer need you be content with an ordinary job and an ordinary salary. Here is a new, easy, positive way to achieve the kind of success you have always wanted. My business has increased so in volume here recently, that I must have some intelligent, ambitious young man to assist me with this work. Thousands of Angeleons are stricken with colds and grippe and are crying for succor.

If you want to know if my method works let's take an actual example. I. Needa Head was born helpless with a wooden leg. His parents were poor, he had little schooling, yet, despite these handicaps he is a rich man. He now owns a blind pig of his own and is doing a lucrative business.

My secret formula for making "bottled in bond" from tobacco juice and kind pepper will be sent to you upon receipt of one dollar. Fill out the blank below and make a fortune!

Wives, houses, and diamonds in these days of colds, grippes, and coughs are abandoned, mortgaged, and pawned, so that the larder can be stored with castor beans juice and hard grape juice.

Everybody's got a cold. Why not, form a "Coughers Union." No union cougher on liability of fine must cough over eight hours a day, hour for lunch, and Sundays off.

Flippers and flappers caught sneezing after hours in parlors or parks will have their coughing permits revoked.

Fair little stude
With the horn rimmed specks
Got a cold in the head
And a cold in the neck
Mama's little darling don't you fret
A castor bean cock-tail will save you yet.

According to the night owl sleep is a prerequisite of good health. Who wants to be healthy and out of fashion? If you are too slow to catch cold start a diet of cold storage and cold cream, and chant incessantly, "Day by day, in every way, colds get fashionabler, and fashionabler." (Apologies to Dr. Coue.)

Question Dept. If Robert E. Lee was a confederate general why did he wear a union suit?

Where to Attend Church

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

Inspiring services were held at this church the past Sunday. The Pastor preached at the morning hour using as his text: "It is good for me to draw near God." (Ps. 73:28.) Two persons were accepted into the membership of the church at this service. At the evening hour Rev. W. P. Banks was the speaker. He brought a splendid message on: "Pure Religion" On the whole the day was pleasantly and profitably spent. Two special services have been arranged for this Sunday, Jan. 28ht. At the morning hour the Pastor will bring a special message. In the evening the Choir will have charge of a musical program, assisted by some of the best talent of the city. All are cordially invited to worship with us.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
8th and Wall Streets
Rev. M. F. Mitchell, Pastor

The pastor filled the pulpit both morning and evening last Sunday. Subjects: "Blessings Through Prayer;" "The Resurrection of Jesus." Both discourses were delivered with power. The pastor held his audience spell-bound. Appreciative audiences graced the services. The Choir with Madam Viola Harris Brandon as directress rendered an exceptionally good musical program. The B. Y. P. U. under the leadership of Mrs. Katherine McNear had a most enthusiastic meeting. The S. S. under the leadership of G. W. Hollins is making progress. Our chorus furnished music for the N. A. A. C. P. on the occasion of its monthly meetng at the A. M. E. Zion Church, Monday evening. About twenty-four voices well trained by its directress participated. The Chorus was showered with compliments by each speaker.
Special services next Sunday.

BIRCH ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH
14th and Birch Streets
F. C. Cothran, Minister

The spiritual thermometer of this church ran high last Lord's Day. All were recipients of showers of blessings. The pastor preached two very able sermons. At 11:00 o'clock A. M. he spoke upon the subject of "The Sad Life," using for his text these words: Good were it for man if he had never been born, Mark 14:21. He declared that it is better not to live at all than to live out of harmony with God. Attendance of young men is indeed gratifying. The Birch St. Christian Church is highly elated over the grant of charter by the Broadway Christian Church. This fact affords much encouragement to our members in that it augments the dignity and pride of the congregation. Meeting of the international business mens' league held in this church last Lord's Day, 3:00 o'clock P. M. was one of great moment. Atty. Hugh Macbeth and Mr. Jas. Alexander made strong pleas for race solidarity. The Bilbrew Quartett rendered a number of thrilling selections. These meetings will continue to be held here every Sunday afternoon indefinitely.

Regular services next Lord's Day. All welcome.

WARD CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH
1252 East 25th St.
B. R. Guy, Pastor

Services Sunday were very interesting. Sunday morning quite a number of visitors were present and expressed themselves as well pleased and promised to return. In the morning the Pastor spoke from the text, Jesus Christ the same Yesterday, Today and Forever. The Sunday School was well attended. The Allen Endeavor was very interesting and instructive. At night the Pastor spoke from the text, Father I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. The Prayer Meeting was well attended and the spirit was plainly manifested. The Woman's Mite Missionary Society was well attended last Monday and they are planning to assist in beautifying the church.

THE FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH—
Eighth Street and Towne Avenue.
Rev. A. Milton Ward, Minister.
Phone South 3780—Res. 1466 Griffith.

The Rev. W. C. Williams of Omaha, Nebraska is to occupy the pulpit of historic Eighth and Towne Avenue Church Sunday at 11:00 o'clock and Pastor Ward will preach at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Williams is a good gospel preacher. He is in charge of St. John's, our mother church of Omaha, where he is building a church at a cost of $100,000. The choir under direction or Organist Elmer C. Bartlett will take the lead in good gospel singing, which will be a feature of both services.

Pastor Ward desires all members of the church to take a package of the 1923 envelopes for their offering that they may be credited upon the official record of the chukrch.

Interesting services were held last Sunday. The Rev. Dr. Dana W. Bartlett preached the sermon at 11:00 a. m. and appealed to the audience to assist in the helping of the sufferers of the "Near East." A splendid contribution was made in cash and subscription. Lawyer W. O. Tyler made fitting remarks on behalf of the people of color and received a hearty outburst of applause from the vast audience. Prior to the sermon by Dr. Bartlett, and after the splendid anthem by the choir that noted gospel singer Emanuel Hall sang (as he only can sing) "I Can Not Drift."

Pastor Ward preached at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Rosa Harris was the soloist and the choir inspired the audience with good spiritual songs. Many prominent visitors were in attendance.

FIRST A. M. E. ZION CHURCH—
Corner Pico and Paimoa Streets.
Rev. W. E. Shaw, Pastor.
Residence 1217 Paloma

"For God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten son that whosoever believed in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16. This was the text used by our Presiding Elder last Sunday morning to a most excellent audience. They followed his discourse on this beloved text with keen interest. A text that never grows old but thrills ever with love and mercy. One young woman joined the church ranks.

There were many communicants afterwhich the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Shannon Wiley were christened.

An exhortation to the ungodly was the central theme of the evening message used by Presiding Elder Clark.

Our pastor Rev. Shaw will preach at both services next Sunday. The evening subject will be "The Fast Young Woman." If the gospel unadulterated can save our young people they will be saved if they hearken to the burning and convincing messages of this fearless man of God.

On Friday Evening February 2, Mrs. Ursaline Bannister Shaw, wife of the pastor, will be heard in Dunbar Impersonations. She has not her equal in Los Angeles and will be assisted by some of the city's best talent.

Keep off the date of Mar. 4 to 11. The largest affair ever held in Los Angeles among our people will commemorate the Thirtieth Anniversary of the Zion Church in this city. Something special every night at this great anniversary and fair.

A Sabbath well spent brings a week of content if spent at this church with a cordial welcome to friends and visitors to all services.
their home in Vallejo. Miss E. Virgil Toney will resume her duties as Teacher in the Vallejo Normal and Industrial Institute.

WESLEY CHAPEL—
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

Every effort is being put forth to make the sixth anniversary of the pastorage of Rev. A. P. Shaw a tremendous success, Sunday, January 28, 1923. A very friendly but spirited contest has developed between the old-timers and new-comers of the church, led by Rev. Shaw. The two groups are intent on raising $600.00 or $1000. for year of this most successful administration. There will be the usual great treat from the pastor Sunday morning. In the afternoon, at 3:00 the contest will climax.

Last Sunday Drs. Ruth Temple and L. Stovall very ably discussed "Sex Relationship" before a most appreciative audience. Every one is invited to worship in the New Edifice next Sunday and to hear the full vested choir and the new pipe organ.

TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH—
West 36th Street and Normandie Ave.
Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge, Pastor

After a two weeks stay in San Diego conducting a revival at the First St. Baptist Church, the pastor returned home last Saturday January 20ht and filled his pulpit Sunday. Preaching at morning and evening services, he was full of the revival spirit and his sermons were of power. Using for his text at 11:00 a. m., "Having the spirit of Christ." At 7:30 p. m. "The Prodigal Son." The entire church was anxiously awaiting his coming and the choir greeted him with sweet anthems and sang as never before. Mrs. Solomon of Pasadena head of the young peoples work of Southern Calif., put on a drive and closed on the 19, and netted a good result. Several young persons signing up for service. We are expecting greater results.

The Pastors Aid Club met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. Garrison 3774 La Salle Avenue, Sunday, January 28th. Sunday School 9:30 a. m. Preaching 11:00 a. m. B. Y. P. U. at 6:00 p. m. 7:30 p. m. The Womans' Home Missionary Society will render a sacred concert. At this service there will be every thing that goes to make a concert a success and if you stay away you will have many regrets. The public is invited.

Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge, Pastor.

METROPOLITAN BAPTIST CHURCH—
37th and Paloma Streets.
Rev. M. C. Carter, Pastor.

We are pleased to announce that our Pastor has recovered from his recent illness and was able to fill the pulpit Sunday past. He preached a forcible sermon both morning and evening to a large audience.

The pastor's subject for Sunday a. m. will be the "Diety of Christ." The pastor will also fill the pulpit Sunday P. M.

Parents are invited with their children to visit our Sunday School. We have a Bible class for both men and women and trained teachers in all departments. Time 9:30 a. m. Mr. Lacey Patton, Superintendent.

The B. Y. P. U. holds a lively session every Sunday evening, 6:00 p. m. A literary program is an added attraction. We were pleased to have Mr. Parker, a member of New Hope B. Y. P. U. to visit with us. He gave us a very interesting talk on "Sin."

The Metropolitan Literary Society meets every Monday evening at 8:00 p. m. Miss O. V. Young, President.

Take Notice: On January 29ht, at the Metropolitan Baptist Church will be held the Society "B" Contest. Much interest is being manifested and a keen rivalry known between the following contestants. You will know them by their color.
Red, Miss K. Swanson, New Hope.
Yellow, Miss L. Harper, 2nd Baptist.
Blue, St. Philips Chapel.
Pink, Miss L. Boye, Wesley Chapel.
White, Miss A. Hutchinson, Independent Church.

THE INDEPENDENT CHURCH OF CHRIST—
Corner of 18th and Paloma Streets
Rev. N. P. Greggs.

The sermon was preached from 1 Cor. 3:11. "For other foundation can no man lay than that laid which is Jesus Christ," was instrumental in bringing six new members into the fold last Sunday morning. The service reminded one of a good old-fashioned revival. There seemed to be moments when the spirit of God would descend and touch effectively every one in the congregation.

Prof. Johnson, the church choister, was the soloist of the morning.

At the evening service, Rev. Greggs preached a sermon of encouragement from Acts 27: 23, "I exhort you to be of good cheer."

Those who joined church last Sunday morning were: Miss G. Freemont, Miss Edna Johnson, Miss Roberta Johnson, Mr. F. Roscoe, Miss Mary Prater and Mr. Edward Rucker.

The year 1923 really start out with all people making greater efforts to work together for greater accomplishments than ever before. As time passes, people realize that they cannot get very far pulling apart, and there is no question that genuine effort is being made to get together on the essentials.

RIGHT BACK AT US

The Turkish Society for the Protection of the Negro Minority in the United States is just as busy trying to assist this nation to protect its minority, as this country is busy looking into the atrocities alleged to have been perpetrated by the Turks in their country. The other day, this Turkish Society for the Protection of the Negro Minority actually passed a resolution, that the government of the United States be requested to assign the States of Georgia, Alabama, Florida and the Carolinas to the Negro Minority, in order that safety may attend the continuance in their present situation of the population which is vexed with fears, in line with the humanitarian sentiments expressed by the representative of the American government at Lausanne.

The resolution declares that a home should be set aside in the United States for the Negro population, on the same basis and with the same guarantees as are agitated and proposed by the American government for the Armenian population in Turkey.

The resolution called attention to the blood-curdling atrocities committed by white mobs against Negroes in the United States and cites several examples of persecution and oppression of colored people, citing the case three years ago of a pregnant colored woman lynched by a white mob and her womb slashed open and the unborn baby crushed to death as it struck the earth following the ripping open of the woman's womb.

The organization voted to send copies of the resolution to the United States Congress and "to the leading Negro organizations, the Advancement Association and the African Blood Brotherhood."

Now, in the face of passing events, we feel that the Turkish Society, in protecting the Negro minority, is performing a real service to humanity. We are firm believers in the slogan: "Clean up your own house before attempting to clean the houses of other folks!"

DIVERSIFY YOURSELVES

Southern California is a wonderful country, and a grand place to live; opportunities are great. Our people are coming here by the hundreds. We don't blame them for coming; in fact, we urge them to come. But we don't want them to all come to one place. The opportunities are greater by far in rural communities, where they may get right down to the proposition of production. Let not the tall buildings, red and yellow street cars, and other manifestations of big-city civilization, make you shy at the producing game for one moment! Produce something—and then, if the City beckons you on, come to it, though gently it must be. We have experienced diversity of religion, diversity of crops, and now, in coming to California, we want our people to diversify their places of abode, all for the continued progress and rise of a struggling race.

THE WRONG TACT

This writer has no quarrel with the Baptist Church. Some of the brethren want to convey the idea that one man by the name of Carter, here in Southern California, IS the Baptist Church. We don't for one moment believe that he is, and by no hook or crook are we going to remain silent until we are convinced otherwise. Since Brother Carter inaugurated his insidious campaign against this paper, more than a dozen of the very ministers he seeks to control have said to us: "You are right! and we appreciate the fact that you come right out in the open to meet your adversary." Hundreds of members of the Baptist faith are squarely back of us as we write these lines, for they know we are not waiting until "the horse is stolen, to lock the barn and sound the alarm!"

Take a common sense view of the question: Can you think of one really big man in this whole country who would slide around, waging war on a newspaper which has stood for forty-two years as firmly as the rock of Gibraltar, for the integrity of the race? Can you even imagine such a thing?. And now comes this "holier than thou," who would destroy us. We would be less than manly should we fail to strike back. Not in anger, if you please, but in defense—showing that such leadership is unsafe for any denomination, race or creed. Next week read Ira Smith's article, "Who's a Cat's Paw!"

SPEAKS WORDS OF JUSTICE

In strong contrast to the position of Judge Walton Wood, is the word of justice spoken from the bench by Judge Pat Parker, when he declared there was no question that the plaintiff had been discriminated against, and that this practice of discrimination againse American citizens in public places must be ended.

We wish to add, that happily we have but few Walton Woods on the bench of the Superior Court of this County.

The latest statistical figures give the wealth of the Negro as $1,1000,000,000, or about $74.00 to every man, woman and child. This would seem to be going some in sixty years!

HARVARD BAN FINAL, SAYS PRES. LOWELL.

Race Aroused Throughout Country Over Insulting Restrictions Against Negroes. Action Never Before the Observers. Hope of Revocation Seen in Resentment of Many of White Alumni and in Fact Decision Has not Been Reviewed By Board.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 25.—(Crusader Service) That his decision to bar Negro freshmen from the dormitory where other freshmen are forced to live by college regulations is final is the latest statement from President A. Lowell Lawrence.

The Negro people have been aroused by this action of President Lawrence as over no like action of other universities and colleges, because they have always looked upon Harvard as a stronghold of liberal sentiment towards them. President Lawrence's action is interpreted by many as indicating the extent to which the Ku Klux poison is penetrating into what were formerly the most progressive and liberal parts of the country.

Harvard men in New York and throughout the country who hold sacred the Harvand traditions of tolerance and fair play have voiced their resentment over the Lawrence decision and have conferred with the President in an attempt to influence him to reverse his decision. His latest statement quoted above is his answer to their efforts The situation has been aggravated by the fact that the youth barred is the son of Roscoe Conkling Pierce, himself a Negro graduate of Harvard and in a position to put up a fight.

Foremost among recent revelopments was the discovery that the matter never has been put before or acted on by the Board of Overseers of the University.

The Board of Overseers is one of the two governing boards of the institution. The other is the "Corporation," consisting of the President and Fellows. Whether the matter has been laid before or acted on by the Corporation could not be learned today. The question of which board has the highest authority is one it is said, that has never been settled in 300 years, but joint action of both boards is required on all important matters.

The queston of barring the freshmen dormitories to Negroes, which has been brought to a head by the case of young Bruce, probably will be taken up by the Board of Overseers, but no member could be reached yesterday who would discuss it or give any opinion as to the graduate protest against what is declared to be a departure from the university's tradition of tolerance is indicated by the fact that the memorial drawn up by seven prominent graduates last June when other cases of Negro exclusion from the freshmen dormitories were reported, had the signatures of 133 graduates of classes ranging from 1850 to 1920 when it was presented to President Lowell.

"Jim Crow the College."

Declaring the action would "Jim Crow the College," the Rev. Dr. William Manning Ganniett of Rochester yesterday gave out a statement of his views on President Lowell's action. He said:

"I think the proposed exclusion policy at Harvard would violate all her traditions and certainly her best ideals. In its measure it would "Jim Crow" the college. It would show her siding with those disposed to increase rather than lesson the burdens of the colored people in our land, and this is at a critical time when interracial and international questions are pressing to the fore, demanding noble adjustment. Ideals of justice and democracy are certainly part of a Harvard education.

"Nor do I belive the best element(!) in the South would be won by a surrender of our Northern conception of such ideals to their social preferences. As proposed, it might be but a slight exclusion, the educational opportunity, as I understand it, not being withheld, but it would be a great racial insult, undeserved, and it is too late in history to do such a thing—above all, for Harvard, with her record, to do it. In less than a generation we should all be ashamed of it."

Miss Marjorie Ball, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ball, of South Budlong avenue, entertained with a delightful birthday party, Saturday, January 20th. About thirty guests were present, and Miss Marjorie was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts.

The Social Hour Club of the Birch Street Christian Church, Mrs. Richardson, President, Mrs. Cothran, Treasurer, entertained ath the Church on Tuesday, January 2,3 with a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Jones, of Monrovia. This popular and charming young matron was formerly Miss Naomi Turnaze. Mrs. Helen Thompson had charge of the shower. An enjoyable program was a feature of the occasion, which all present declared to be a most enjoyable one. The young bride received many practical and beautiful tokens of friendship from the friends assembled.

A Very Inspiring Message From Far Off Japan

Post Box F. 15 Tokyo, Japan.

Friend,

I have heard that you work for the cause of the oppressed black brothers. You have, therefore, my most sincere sympathy. I am also not of the snow bleached reddish whitish taint. However, that is not the cause of my love or regard for you. No! I am man and I also consider you as human brother. I know surface color is not of any importance. Nor the form of face is of any real value to the inner man. Man is man the same spark of the eternal and he remains the same whether he occupies one body or the other. Bodies are simply products of climate and circumstances. I, therefore, very much wish that we may tokether work for the common cause of establishing Love throughout mankind. This holy work must be approached from highly religious and moral stand peint. ....There is no other way. Any sectional unions of the blacks, whites, nations or continents will only produce more misery in our human family.

With best wishes, I remain
Your friend,
MAHENDRA PRATAP, (Rajah)

OLD WINE IN A NEW BOTTLE

On Thursday Evening, February 1st, a little band of Christian workers assembled at the residence of Mrs. Isaac Johnson, 749 Ceres avenue. Dr. H. D. Prowd, recently of Central America, but well-known from a long residence here, was the guiding spirit of the meeting. Large numbers of loyal Baptists of this community came together with the view of establishing a new work to fill a great need caused by the constant in-flow of people from all parts of the country. They know of Dr. Prowd's proven ability as an organizer, of his scholarly learning, of his forceful personality; and above all, they realize that his many years of untiring activity in the church field have given him a richness of experience and maturity of judgment too precious to be allowed to lie dormant now, when the need of such spiritual assets is so great. He has passed the fickle stage; the stage of mental uncertainty and turmoil; he is not actuated by worldly ambition. He is inspired now solely by the desire to keep the Baptist banner from trailing in the dust.

This organization will hold forth for the first time at the Y. M. C. A., Cor. 9th and Hemlock Sts., Sunday, February 11th—Morning service 11 a. m.; Sunday School, 1 to 2 p. m.; Song Service and B. Y. P. U. from 7 to 8 p. m.; Evening Service 8 p. m.

If you have no church home—come with us!

Uplift Association Meetings Stimulating

As a source of stimulus, inspiration and instruction, the meetings being held each Sunday afternoon by the Uplift Association, at Christian Church, 14th and Brich streets, are well worth regular attendance. Timely and interesting subjects, political, social, economic and racial, are discussed by eloquent and well-informed speakers. This organization, injecting new blood, as it were, into our social-civic life, fills a much felt need.

The next meeting will be held at the place above mentioned, Sunday, February 4, 3 p. m. sharp. A special musicla program will be rendered by the Bilbrew quartette. Committee: James M. Alexander, chairman; H. A. Reeves, Treasurer; Clarence A. Brooks, Secretary; Mrs. Booker T. Washington; Messrs. W. A. Clark, E. T. Hubbard, R. W. Rhone, Fred W. Lucas, Geo. Ellerby and Rev. E. R. Jones and others.

Come one, come all! Welcome!

CHINESE GIRL LEADS HER CLASS

New York, Feb. 1, 1923.—Thirteen year old Florence J. Lou, of No. 43 Mott street, whose ancestry is Chinese was the highest ranking girl in a class of 167 at yesterday's graduation exercises in Public School No. 23.

Last May Florence won $15, scond prize in the Evening Post prize essay contest on "What Van Loon's Essays Have Taught me About American History." She likes all her studies and intends to go through high school, but isn't sure what she will do after that.

TENNIS CHATTER

By William Mells Watson

Probably the greatest assurance that the Western Federation of Tennis Clubs' authority and fame is being widely felt and appreciated is by the authentic announcement that a beautiful and valuable jeweled trophy in the form of a huge cup similar to the famous Davis Cup is soon to be given to the Federation as a memorial of the late Mrs. Bertha Miller former member of The Westside Tennis Club and beloved wife of the club's former president, Mr. Lucion Douglas Miller, at whose beautiful 1627 West 35th Place home many never-to-be-forgotten club affairs were held.

Details of this priceless donation are to be unfuried at the Federation's next meeting February 7th, but it has already been decided that the cup is tobe contested for annually and the names of winners of Pacific Coast championships will be inscribed thereon and whether for singles, doubles, men's or women's events depends largely upon the views of some of the Fed's best male and female orators at the time of presentation.

"Clubhouse Or Bust"

At the present rate of speed we're doomed to bustication as so far during the "Clubhouse Or Bust" drive, which has been on for three months there has been but two possible clubhouse sites brought to the committee on location's attention and one of them was from a nonmember. Think of it, we have over 150 clubmembers and one of them was interested enough to get information on a piece of dirt suitable to erect a clubhouse and a pair of courts on. This same 150 slackers are among the biggest yellers that "we'll never get the National Championship Tournament to come West," and we say, certainly not, unless we shake a leg, and get a place to house and intertain them in. Every individual member is expected to look out for a lot 100 by 150 feet and present details to the writer, or the Fed. Now get busy or our energetic Oaklanders will have their proposed clubhouse erected and paid for while we are looking for a land owner to give our money to.

Kid Ory's Creole Jazzers are scheduled to squirt sincopation through the cracks in Normandy Hall Saturday Nite February Ten, while the Westside Ladies twist and twirl. Will U B among 'm? Its a Valentine Party.

Bertha Miller Trophy Creates Sensation, Flock of Un-answerable Queries; Fed Meet Wednesday.

By William Mells Watson.

Let's lower our heads for a brief while, Comrades—to mourn with Mrs. Josie Hamilton Brooks and illustrious life-mate Clarence Abart Brooks who are bereaved over the loss of their dear sweet souled mother, that much beloved Mrs. Irene Hamilton of 1591 W. 85th Street, who departed this life Tuesday January 16. Gone, yes, "but not forgotten," Mother.

Listen To The Skirmish

Mention in the last issue of what is to be known nationally as the Bertha Miller Trophy which is to be donated to the Fed for annual competition just about snowed us under a shower of interrogations, annunciations and plain dis-belief. It was like chucking a hunk of raw beef into a cage of howling hyenas, but nary another word have we to squeak, get the whole works at the Fed. Wed the 7th.

Dodge On Sick List.

The old scribe was knocked for a row of mud houses Saturday, Dodge and all, and the gas wagon is still in the receiving hospital taking hypo-shots.

Handsome Alva Smacks Pill

Goodlooking Alva Garrott, the Doc's other son, musical Marion Forsyth, 1922 doubles and mixed doubles champeene, Tommy Reed, the "boy wonder," and little Eddie Myers, (sometime champ, may-be) were all busily engaged the other bath day slamming aces and outs at each other, in earnest "early-bird-gets-the-worm" preparation for the "Bertha Miller Trophy" 1923. That's the stuff boys, shake a limb now, 'cause the slogan around the Frisco Bay district is, "4 (of the 8) championships 1923 or bust." And those Racquetteites are planning on going some before "breaking", belive us.

Digest These

Eleven new members joined our Frat since our last tourney, 4 up-state, and 7 in the city, not so worse, huh? At that, they beat us a mile. The climbing Shoryites have but one club, we have five.

The "pretty mamas" of the Westside Ladies Club are anticipating a packed house at their "squirming bee" at Normandie Saturday Feb. 10.

Every rep should strive to be there Wednesday February 7th. Slackers, bah.

The Quentionnaire

Q—What of the Y. W. C. A. Club, is it advisable to join it or some other club? Miss C. B.

A—By all means join the Blue Triangle (Y. W. C. A.) club, living in that vicinity as you do, you might be of untold help to our weaker sister who were greatly handicapped until recently because of their campaign work.

Get in touch with Miss Miriam Garrott, the Y secretary, 1208-E-12Th. 22521.

Castigates Them for anti-West Indian Bias In Dealing With Marcus Garvey. Stricking at Race Unity. W. A. Domingo Asks How Negroes Who Opposed Deportation of White's Can Advocate It for Own Race.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(Crusader Sedvice.) W. A. Domingo, a prominent official of the African Blood Brotherhood and himself listed in The Messenger Magazine as an Associate Editor, has sent thefollo wing open letter to the editors of that publication in protest against their apparent efforts to shoulder upon a group the faults of one of its members.

The Open Letter

100 West 143d Street,
Naw York City,
January 13, 1923.

Editors of The Messenger,
2305 Seventh Avenue;
New York City.
Gentlemen:

It is upon the principle that "a man's best friend is one who tells him his faults" that I am moved to write you this letter. I have debated with myself the expediency of so doing since last October, and hesitate upon the supposition that reason would conquer pique and sound public policy outweigh personal prejudices. But as there might be misunderstandings as to my attitude towards some of the newer policies of the magazine on which I am listed as a contributing editor, I am compelled to state my position as clearly and uncompromisingly as possible. I refer to the fight that The Messenger is waging against Garvey and the doctrines that have flowed fro mhis oblique intellect. No one who knows me privately or publicly can accuse me of being in the remotest sence a subscriber to the illogical, race-injuring and dangerous ideas of Mr. Garvey. It is public knowledge and a matter of record that in New York City as early as the Fall of 1918 I raised my voice in protest against the execrable exaggerations, staggering stupidities, blundering bombast and abominable assininities of our black Barnum, culminating in Thomas Patter and myself being gassaulted, kicked and placed under arrest by Garveyites in the Spring of 1919. Not a bit daunted by my experiences which brought me no fame as a leader, scholar, martyr or orator, I persisted, published and edited The Emancipator, (for which you both wrote) and have not let up a single instant in my unequivocal opposition.

EALY GIVES $1000 BOND

PRELIMINARY HEARING FEBRUARY 17TH

J. S. Ealey who resides on East 12th. St. and who was incarcerated in the City Jail from last Thursday until Tuesday, charged with extortion was released on Tuesday morning and his bail was set at $1,000, which was furnished by friends. His preliminary trial has been set by Justice Follette for February 17th, he has engaged former Judge Warren Williams to defend him.

This case has been the cause of glaring headlines in the big dailies for the past week. To our mind it was "much ado about nothing." In the first place Ealey seemed to be but an excuse to start some scandal for purposes political or otherwise. As to Mr. Ealey, let the court try his case and see whether or not he was rough hustling for certainly he was not on the inside at least with the police powers. Whether he was otherwise the trial may tell. Certain it is, however, that there has been plenty of publicity to this affair and Ealey even though he falls far short of any sort of leadership or anchorage of any kingdom (even of Central Ave.) can say he gained recognition in big headlines in the big dailies, even if he did have to go to jail to do so.

THAT MAN ARNOLD BRANCHES OUT.

J. L. Arnold well known and far famed as a man who can satisfy the inner man of his fellow citizens and who conducts the Arnold Grill on Central Ave., has branched out for diversion and the satisfaction of the people who eat and enjoy life and in company with Mr. Mouton has leased the famous Wayside Park near Abila station in Watts.

Here in this environment Mr. Arnold and Mouton will conduct a first class resort and each Saturday and Sunday big things will take place along the line of social pleasure and the accommodations expected of a first class place of entertainment. The famous Kid Ory's Jazz Orchestra and band has been engaged to furnish the music for the season and when Ory's band plays there is always something doing.

Mr. Arnold wants the readers of the Soaring Eagle who seek real pleasure after a week of toil to come out to the Wayside Park and at least to give this great entertaining project at least the once over.

WILL BLACK RACES RULE WORLD AGAIN?

REV. OWEN A. TROY-YOUNGEST NEGRO EVANGELIST ON PUBLIC ROSTRUM LECTURES AT E. 36TH STREET CHURCH

On Sunday evening, January 28th, Rev. Troy delivered this most interesting Biblical-historical discourse to an interested and appreciative audience. The lecture was illustrated by scenes of that thrilling period of ancient history when Babylonia ruled the world and Belshazzar was king, and when Daniel stepped into the limelight of Biblical fame by interpreting the handwriting on the wall, at the great feast held by the monarch before mentioned.

Rev. Troy handled his subject in a masterly manner. He demonstrated cleverly the fact that history from time to time repeats itself.

Morever, in unearthing the early history of Babylon, the Reverend Mr. Troy proved without fear of contradiction that the Sons of Ham (who were not accursed by having their skins turned black as a punishment for sin and disobedience, as many ancient and modern preachers have sought to maintain: the hue of their skin being a purely physiological phenomenon, due to climatic influences were in reality the fathers of early Roman civilization.

The capture of Babylon by the Medes and Persians was graphically portrayed by moving pictures, and in drawing his conclusions, Evangelist Troy proved that if the Black civilization of today is not carried away by the sins and folly of the age, there is a possibility that it will again come into its own.

Reverend Troy is a learned scholar, as well as a magnetic speaker, and his lectures are well worth hearing by all interested in the mental as well as spiritual and material progress of the Race.

BIG DAY AT FORUM SUNDAY

Tomorrow, February 4th, quite an innovation as well as diversion will be the procedure at the Forum, at Odd Fellows Hall, 8th and Wall streets.

During the session of the regular meeting, a recess will be taken, and the women will go into session in the front hall, while the men will remain in session in the regular meeting place.

The occasion will be the special health lectures given by Dr. Ruth Temple for the ladies, and Dr. Leonard Stovall for the men. Nobody can afford to miss Sunday's Forum. Take advantage of this advance in Procedure!

IN THE MUSIC WORLD

By John A. Gray.

The parents of most children are anxious that they secure a good education and that they learn as much as possible about music and other arts. Without doubt, every child should begin the study of music. We say begin—time will tell whether they should continue, or not. In our schools singing is taught to all children and this is very wise.

But to return to the parents—they are interested particularly in selecting a good teacher and getting their children started. Getting a good teacher is difficult in some localities but it should be very easy to do in Los Angeles. The parent who has no musical education will have a little difficulty in getting the right teacher. It is not always the highest price, nor the playing of one pupil that gives a positive proof of a good teacher. It is rather the progress and development of the great General Average of this teacher's pupils that determines her worth as a teacher, and parents must consider this when selecting one. If the teacher gives the impression that she loves her work it is a good sign. One great teacher has said that there are no good teachers, only good pupils. This is largely true because unless a pupil works hard the best teacher can get no results.

The next thing to be considered is the price of lessons. The so-called cheap lesson nearly always means a cheap teacher, and a cheap teacher is one who has had but little training. In the end the cheap lesson is the most expensive. Getting a right start is very important and the first lessons are foundation lessons. One cannot build on a poor foundation.

In regulating the price of lessons, many things have to be considered. A music lesson is an individual thing, one person being taught at a time. That fact in itself helps to raise the cost. It requires thousands of dollars and years of training to prepare a good teacher. The investment is so great that the returns will not balance until after years of teaching.

Let us say that a child starts at the age of nine—intended for a professional career. The cost of lessons we shall say $1.00 for the first five years and $1.50 for the second five years. In ten years lessons have cost $1250. Counting two lessons a week and fifty weeks to the year. Books, music, etc., $500. Harmony, History, etc., for five years $250.00 A good piano $500. Concerts and recitals about $500.00. Let us add here that all good teachers and students too must hear the great artists at some time and concert going is a part of their education. Piano tuning about $30.00. This brings the amount for ten years up to $2030.00 and this produces a very ordinary teacher. To continue study with a fine teacher will cost the young teacher from five to ten dollars an hour according to the teacher. She still lacks all knowledge of normal training which will enable her ot impart her knowledge to the young student.

This investment has produced so far a poorly equipped teacher, and it will require that this teacher give 2030 lessons at $1.00 each before the investment itself is paid back. This may take two, three or more years. On what will the teacher live during this period? And the progressive teacher will keep on studying. Thus the returns never catch up with the investment until after years of teaching. An honest teacher cannot afford to give away her instruction and so a fair price must be paid for lessons, which may be from $1.00 to $3.00 per lesson according to the experience an qualification of the teacher. Higher instruction calls for higher training and that means more money. Regularity of lessons, systematic practise on the part of the pupil and cooperation with the teacher on the part of the parent will produce the best results.

FRIENDS AND FRIENDS!

BY: CHANDLER OWEN

"Beware of the Greeks bearing gifts" has become a powerful quotation. Never was this injunction more important than now when such doubtful friends as Thomas Dixon rush to oppose the Ku Klux Klan alongside of honest opponents. James Weldon Johnson says:

"Thomas Dixon, the author of 'The Clansman' and of 'The Birth of a Nation,' before a large audience at the Century Theatre the other night denounced the Ku Klux Klan as "THE MOST DANGEROUS MOVEMENT IN AMERICAN HISTORY.' Mr. Dixon not only denounced the Klan but assumed the role of Defender of the Negro. He condemned in the strongest language possible the anti-Negro activities of the Klan and declared himself 'READY TO STAND BESIDE THE HUMBLEST NEGRO AND DEFEND HIM FROM SUCH ASSAULTS WITH MY RIFLE IN HAND.'

"What has happened to Mr. Dixon who more than any single individual in the country made the re-birth of the Ku Klux Klan possible and stimulated anew prejudice against the Negro?"

We note on many sides an effort to show there was justification for the old Ku Klux Klan, but none for the present Klan. Is there any sound reason for this claim? Let us see. In a splendid piece of research collected by one of The Messenger's contributors, (which will appear in complete form later), Mr. J. A. Rogers has presented the testimony of leading eye-witnesses of the activities of the Klan as follows:

"James G. Blaine says:

"In prosecuting their purposes these Klans and organizations hesitated at no cruelty, were deterred by no considerations of law or humanity. They rode by night, were disguised with masks, were armed as free-booters. They whipped, maimed or murdered the victim of their wrath. White men who were co-operating with the colored population, politically, were visited with punishments of excessive cruelty. It was difficult to arrest the authors of these flagrant wrongs. Aside from their disguises, they were protected against inculpating testimony by the fear inspired in the minds of the portion of the white race who were not willing to join in their excesses. It was well said of the leading members of the klans that murder with them was an occupation and perjury a pastime.

"The white man who should give testimony against them did so at the risk of seeing his house burned, of himself being beaten with many stripes; and if the offender had been at all efficient in his hostility he was, after torture, in many instances doomed to death."

'Gen. Holden, governor of North Carolina, in his annual message to the legislature in 1870, said:

"'The members of the klan, under orders of their chief, had ridden through many neighborhoods at night and had punished free citizens on account of their political opinion and had so terrified many of them by threats of future visitations of vengeance that they fled from their houses and took refuge in the woods."

"The document goes on to tell how state representatives were murdered or driven from the state, how white women teachers were whipped; how sheriffs and judges were shot, how the Stars and Stripes were torn down, how Negroes were thrown into the river with stones around their necks. "Some of these victims," says the governor, "were shot; some of them tortured; some of them had their mouths lacerated; one of them had his ear cropped, and others of both sexes were subjected to indignities which were disgraceful, not merely to civilization, but to humanity as well.

"In fine, gentlemen, there was no remedy for these evils through the civil law and but for the use of military arms to which I was compelled to resort, the whole fabric of society in this state would have been destroyed and a reign of lawlessness and anarchy would have been established."

'Albion W. Tourgee, judge of the Superior Court of North Carolina, (1868-1875) says in his books: "A Fool's Errand."

"Of the slain there were enough to furnish forth a battlefield and all from the three classes, the Negro, the scalawag, and the carpet-bagger—all killed with deliberation, overwhelmed by numbers, roused from slumber at the murk midnight, in the hall of public assembly, upon the river-brink, on the lonely woods-road, in simulation of the public execution—shot, stabbed, hanged, drowned, mutilated beyond description, tortured beyond conception. And almost always by an unknown hand! Only the terrible mysterious fact of death was certain. Accusation by secret denunciation; sentence without hearing; execution without warning, mercy or appeal. In deaths alone, terrible beyond utterance; but in the manner of death—the secret, intangible doom from which fate springs—more terrible still; in the treachery which made the neighbor a disguised assassin, most horrible of all the feuds and hates which history portrays. And then the wounded, the whipped, the mangled, the bleeding, the torn! men despoiled of manhood! women gravid with dead children! bleeding backs! Ah, the wounded in this silent warfare were more thousands than those who groaned upon the slopes of Gettysburg."

'Horace Greely said in the New York Tribune (June 16, 1871): "The real leaders of the Klan are the court-house and tavern politicians, and the rank and file is composed of the idle, ignorant, worthless, poor white element, which is unquestionably the worst class of people to be found anywhere in the United States. They are deplorably ignorant, but have no desire for education for themselves or their children. They are wretchedly poor but the desire for wealth never stimulates them to steady labor. They are without ambition to better their condition. They are coarse, cruel and vindictive, and in every way deserve the appelation of "low down" people."

'When the klansmen were brought to trial the ablest counsel in the South were provided for them. Reverdy Johnson, U. S. Senator from Maryland, and a bitter foe of Negro suffrage, was senior counsel. During the trial occurred one of the most astonishing spectacles that has perhaps been witnessed in a court of justice. So atrocious, so staggering and revolting were the cruelties proven against, and confessed by, the knasmen, that Reverdy Johnson, not only refused to plead for them, but denounced his own clients in the severest language in open court. Addressing the prosecution, he said:

"I have listened with unmixed horror to some of the testimony which has been brought before you. The outrages proved were shocking to humanity, they admit of neither excuse nor justification, they violate every obligation which law and nature impose on man; they show that the parties engaged were brutes insensible to the obligations of humanity and religion." Some forty to fifty thousand persons were put to death by the Klan and a greater number outraged.'

Is there any reason at all to justify the existence of these midnight moccasins and prowling hyenas of 1865 to 1872? And do you, gentel reader, expect to permit fifty thousand men, women and children to be murdered by the present Klan before it is checked?

While we ar ebitter opponents of the present Ku Klux Klan, we do not hesitate to say that when compared with the venomous viper of Re-construction it is "a shining angel of light." Which is saying nothing good for either of them!

SANTA BARBARA, CAL

We had a delightful service all day last Sunday at Mt. Olive Baptist church, also St. Paul A. M. E. church. The pastor of Mt. Olive church Rev. H. B. Thomas selected for his morning discourse; "The Morning Watch" —it was beautifully portrayed as the pointed out the many snares that the Christian is caught in through the neglect of prayer on rising in the morning. Ex. 34:-2: furnished this wonderful text. Amos 4:12. The evening subject; "A solemn warning" was spiritual food full of the awakening truth that God will have us know, the choir through the chorister Mrs. H. B. Thomas was present and did justice to the service with gospel songs.

The B. Y. P. U. has taken on new life, Mr. C. C. Price the assistant of Mr. H. Alexander has been a great factor in the meeting as well as his wife. The subjects are growing in interest each Sunday which is proved by the attendance of those who come and join us. The Sunday School continues to grow spiritually and numerically. Start the day right by attending Sunday School.

Mr. H. Alexander spent a few days in Los Angeles last week where he went to join his wife, Madam Bessie Alexander, who operates a hair dressing parlor at 402 E. Haley Street.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Marshall at 16 E. Montecito street last Monday, Jan. 24th was the scene of a very pretty affair, the occasion being in honor of the fourteenth birthday of Mrs. Marshall's sister Miss Vera Moten Gaines; dancing was indulged in until a late hour, refreshments being served. Those present were Misses Rosalie Lincoln, Edith Lincoln, Evelyn Davis, Florence Payne, Ruth Payne, Elizabeth Herring, Clyde Green, Marvin Seymour, Lester Cruise, Henry Johnson, Liggins McGown, Pierce Moten, John Davis and the guest of honor, Miss Vera Moten. All report a jolly good time, wishing Miss Moten many happy returns of the day.

Mr. S. Bushy left Monday morning for Fresno, California, where he expects to look the city over with intentions of staying indefinitely.

Mr. A. L. Montgomery of Los Angeles is a sojourner in our city where he has accepted a position at the Arlington.

Mr. Edward May of Ventura, Calif., was a visitor in our city over Monday returning Monday night.

Mrs. C. Chapman and her little daughter, Dorothy, have been ill with colds for the past week but both are reported better.

Mrs. Spencer has been confined to her home with a slight attack of la grippe for a few days but is feeling better at this writing.

Mrs. E. J. Alexander has also been sick with a severe cold and cough but is able to be out again.

EL CENTRO

The San Diego-Imperial Counties Convention of the Western Baptist Association held a most successful meeting last week—beginning Thursday and continuing thru Sunday. There were messengers present from all the valley churches and one church in San Diego. The meetings were largely attended and great impetus given the work because of the sessions. The workers who attended the Convention and delivered helpful addresses and sermons were: Mrs. Eva Overr Solomon, Director of Religious Education; Dr. W. R. Carter, Supt. of Negro Work; Rev. R. H. Wade, General Missionary; Rev. W. H. M. Dickerson, Corresponding Secretary.

Mrs. Solomon conducted model Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. meetings and put before the workers the several objectives and methods of these organizations. Sermons by Rev. Wade Thursday and Sunday evenings, by Rev. Dickerson Friday evening and by Dr. Carter Sunday morning, were inspirational, full of wholesome advice and teemed greatly with optimism.

A chorus of twenty-five voices rendered special music during the meetings. Too, the financial returns were gratifying. The District's apportionment to date are paid and a sum remains in treasury for the work of the District.

Last Friday closed the First Semester of the City Schools. The teachers and pupils of the Eastside School were host to parents and visitors. During the morning session a number of persons visited the class rooms and observed the work of the pupils. During the afternoon a large number of visitors including messengers and workers to the District Convention visited the school and inspected the work of the several departments. There were exhibits from the school room, art department, manual training domestic science Departments.

Following this review the throng assembled in the Auditorium and witnessed the following program:

(1) Selections by School Orchestra.
(2) Selections by Girls' Glee Club.
(3) Reading—David Campbell.
(4) Spanish play by pupils of 9th year class. The Comedy "El Sacoque Cantaba" was splendidly rendered and reflected due credit in the teacher of the class, Miss Catley. Following the program parents and visitors were served refreshments by the teachers.

Mrs. Louise Faulkner, of Phoenix, Arizona, is the guest of Mrs. Mary L. Dobbins.

C. E. Ware, Commissioner 12th District U. N. . A. delivered an address to the citizens of El Centro last Saturday evening. He made a brilliant address and very logically presented the claims of his organization. The meeting was held in the C. M. E. Church.

Dr. Whittaker of Pasadena was a valley visitor last Friday. He visited the business section during the morning, the public schools and in Calexico during the afternoon, and delivered an address before the Convention during the evening.

Dr. W. R. Carter spent a very busy week in the valley. He inspected the building of the new church in Imperial; the checking up of plans for a new building in Brawley; needed repairs for El Centro and received applications for assistance in Calexico. The people of the valley are very enthusiastic and greatly encouraged by reasons of this assistance that is forthcoming.

FRESNO, CAL.

By Miss Elizabeth Davis.

Madame Florence Cole-Talbert charmed her hearers in Recital at the Civic Auditorium Monday night, Jan. 29th, with Mrs. L. J. Davis as her accompanist. The program was a varied one of classics, folk songs of India and Africa. Many of the selections were written by men of our race.

"Thinking" by Eugene Page of Sacramento was very well taken by the Fresno citizens. Assistants on the program were Misses Helen Wolfe, Ruth Hannibal and Elizabeth Davis. The concert was taken over the radio and was doubtless heard in Los Angeles.

All those wishing Madame Cole-Talbert's records which are made by the Black Swan, send your orders or give them to Mrs. L. J. Davis 1623 F Street.

Charles Gilpin presents Emperor Jones this week in our city. He is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, 1401 F. Street. His presentation was a howling success in this city.

Mr. Eugene Roberts is a visitor of our city, coming here for the purpose of establishing a permanent branch organization of the International American Welfare League in our city.

Steps were taken in that direction Sunday afternoon at the Second Baptist Church. Results will be announced later.

Miss Hazel Jones has returned to her home and is feeling much better.

There will ben a banquet giveen Thursday night under the auspices of the N. A. A. C. P. in honor of Fresno's new colored doctor and wife Dr. and Mrs. Watts. All come out and welcome these new citizens.

The Young Ladies Art and Industrial Club met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Porter Dixon, 1930 F Street.

SACRAMENTO, CAL.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."

Prof. John E. Allen of Shiloh Baptist Church left Monday afternoon for Denver, Colo., where he will hold a series of meetings in the Central Baptist Church of the above named place, returning here he will hold meetings in Bakersfield for the Baptist Church. Rev. Allen has served his present pastorate for past three years and has a building project under way which when completed will give Sacramento a modern plant which the Baptists have long needed here.

The National Association here is fostering a plan whereby a monster meeting can be held at the coming of DuBois, Association lecturer.

Rev. G. H. Blocker, formerly a member of the California Annual Conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering his wife, has been adjudged insane by the State Sanity Commission of Nevada and transferred from the state prison to the insane asylum, says a news dispatch from Reno. Blocker's wife was the daughter of Mrs. G. L. Trigg, the wife of Rev. G. L. Trigg, who was superannuated at the San Francisco session of the California Conference.

The combined units of the Odd Fellows held a social session Tuesday night at their hall for the membership and their immediate families. Many unique stunts were pulled off for the pleasure of those present. There was also a short literary program. One of the features of the entertainment was the presentation of a gold fountain pen to Mrs. F. C. Brooks, showing appreciation to her for past services as head of Household of Ruth. James Buchanan had charge of the program.

Mme. Florence Cole-Talbert, primadonna, sang to a large and appreciative audience at St. Andrews Church Thursday night, and Assemblyman Roberts said many people had paid large admissions to hear concerts that had no comparison. Mme. Talbert was the guest of Mrs. H. O. Johnson while in the city and left for Oakland Friday morning where she was to appear Friday night at Fifteenth Street A. M. E. Church.

The graduates from the Grammar Schools at the mid-winter graduation were: Audrey Dunlap, Cleo Clay, Irene Williams and Inez Campbell; from the High School: Misses Mabel Scott and Sarah Holman.

AT THE LEGISLATURE

To date Assemblyman Roberts has introduced nine bills, two of which have been run in this column. Three of the bills have gone to the Committee on Education, four to judiciary committee, one to Public Health and Quarantine Committee and one to Roads and Highways Committee. His latest bill known as Assembly bill No. 517 authorizes school districts to run day nurseries for children between the ages of two and four and a half, in connection with their kindergartens, and to establish a tax to support such nurseries. Roberts said the larger cities are now doing this, but that there was no direct authority of law for it and the bill was designed to make the activity regular.

A State Constitutional Convention is urged by two measures which were introduced in the Senate Monday.

The first bill signed by the new Governor was Senator Eden's bill for the validation of plans in the levee bond law, so that the Palo Verde Valley of Riverside County might go ahead with its flood repair work and get a crop this season.

Senator Sample's bill amending the Civil Code, opposes discrimination and is known as Senate Bill No. 113. By this bill owners of ice cream parlors would be forced to cater to all persons regardless of race.

Senator Hurley of Oakland introduced bill seeking the employment of American citizens only on all public state works. He said "while American citizens are walking the streets looking for employment, aliens are being employed on state jobs and being paid from funds put up by the tax payers; this is not right, its a white man's country and white men are entitled to such work as is available. The Stranger says what good is a cow that gives a good bucket of milk then kicks it over?

MACEDONIA BAPTIST CHURCH—Rev. John A. Fleming.

Sunday was a great day in Zion.

Both Services were largely attended. The pastor mounted the rostrum 11:00 o'clock and took for his text, the 17th Verse of the 15th Chapter of Luke. The words being "and he came to himself." It was both helpful and inspiring to a large audience. The choir rendered a very interesting program at the evening hour. Under the leadership of Prof. Frederick Skinner the boy wonder. Visit this church once and you will come again. Everybody welcome.

Our Trustee helpers are composed of some of the most loyal members of the church—Mrs. Beekman, Mrs. Bronson, Mrs. Castle, Mrs. Prince, Mrs. Lockett, Mrs. McLain, Mrs. Greene, Mrs. Hodge, Mrs. Roach, Mrs. Fisher. Brother Hall and Brother Elkins, Sister Greene and Sister McLain are our class leaders. Brother Williams of Monrovia was elected our District Steward.

We have had many visitors to attend our services, from Long Beach; Rev. and Mrs. Milligan and friends; also a family from Santa Ana.

The Pastor occupied the pulpit both morning and evening. Morning text, Luke 14-15. "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the Kingdom of God. At 3:00 p. m. we had with us Rev. William, Pastor of the Baptist Church at Alhambra. At night "Love" was the subject. Luke William McLain, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. McLain, was baptised.

The entertainment given by the five young women of Class No. 5, assisted by their superintendent, Miss Lockett, was a splendid success. They cleared $10.00 for the piano fund, making $40.00 paid by the Sunday School on their piano within two months. We desire to thank Rev. Davis and his members for coming over to help us.

The surprise party given for the Pastor at his residence in Pasadena was a complete one. At 8:30 he heard a splendid bass voice singing, "Steal away, Steal away." He went to the door, and to his astonishment, discovered about thrity-five friends from Monrovia and Duarte, led by his good friend, Rev. Clark of A. M. E. Zion Church, and Mrs. Annie Greene. Prince Brothers orchestra furnished music, and abundant and delicious refreshments were served. A delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

THE ANNUAL BREAKFAST OF THE FRIDAY MORNING CLUB

With no oregard for superstition or down home sentiments about Friday the members of The Friday Morning Club with their invited guests gathered at the residence of Mrs. Currie Graves 930 E. Pico St. last Friday morning and sumptously enjoyed the annual breakfast given by the club.

The invited guests were Madam Lelia Walker Wilson and secretary; Mr. and Mrs. A. T. H. Williams of New York and Atty and Mrs. Lewis K. Beeks.

From eleven o'clock until two the appetizing viands prepared by mesdames Wright, Brown, Graves, and Bowman were relished to everyone's satisfaction; Dunbar describes it—"It was a scrumptious affair."

After breakfast Mrs. Stewart acted as toast-mistress and words of ecstasy were spoken by the guest of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams formerly of Los Angeles warmly expressed their appreciation.

Mr. Lewis K. Beeks, a recent graduate of the college and law departments of Howard University, and bride Mrs. Madeline Beeks, spoke in the highest terms of praise for the club and swore their allegiance.

Madam Lelia Walker Wilson was absent owing to the death of a relative.

This club is civic and social in its scope. It maintains a membership of twenty-five and was the organization that was influential in the stationing of a traffic officer at 12th and Central Ave. It meets each Friday.

The motto of this club is "We lift while we climb" and under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Bynum, we may expect a living up to the letter of the law.

BOOMERANG WORKING.

Two men, one of whom, said to have been a victim of hallucination that he had been ordained to clean up vice conditions, with wheels buzzing in his head, shot down a policeman in cold blood—is now in jail awaiting trial for murder; the other, so they say, desirous of closing up on everything, for his own self aggrandizement, is now awaiting trial on a felony charge. It cannot be gainsaid that both of these gentlemen got a "kick" out of the situation—even though it was a back-handed kick!

GOVERNOR RICHARDSON DELIVERS.

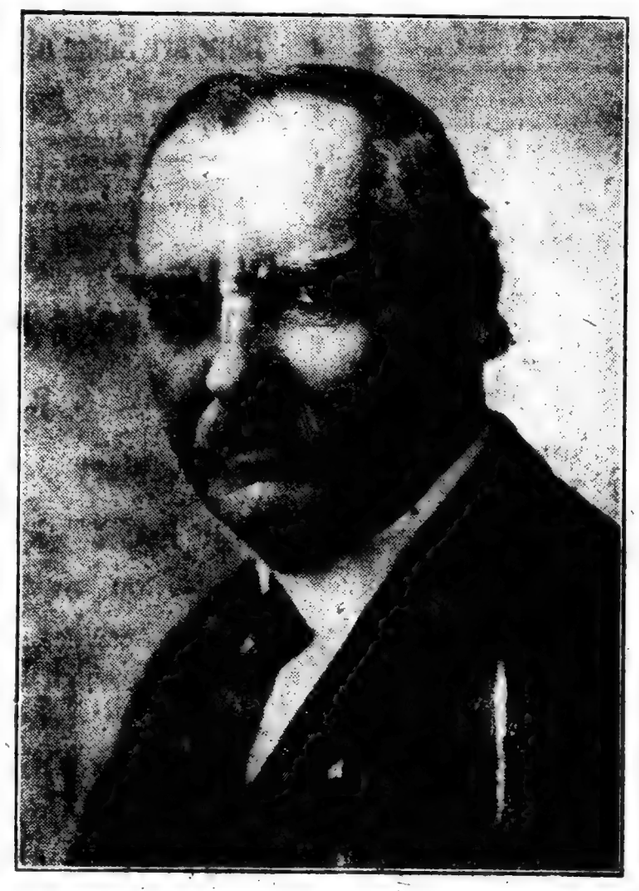
The biennial budget that has been so eagerly awaited, and which has had all the statesmen in Sacramento in the air for the last few weeks, has at last been given out by Governor Friend W. Richardson. The budget discloses the fact that he is living up to pre-election promises and is cleaving to the line of real economy. Right off the reel he cuts off more than twelve million dolars from the budget of two years ago. Instead of economy upward, the new governor hands out a program of economy downward.

At first glance it will be discerned that he not only saves the taxpayers real money, but in so doing he impairs none of the vital institutions of the state. Especially is this so as regards our educational institutions. Jut how far-reaching this program will be, with reference to the individual, remains to be seen. At any rate, many state employees are just now in fear and trepidation—lest they be separated from their jobs.

ON THE RIGHT TRAIL

When the Superintendent of Negro Baptist Work, W. R. Carter started his campaign against the Soaring Eagle, he failed to measure his distance, and reckon with the fact that we would fight back, to his discomfiture. But now he surely has another thought coming. The score or more of letters, to says nothing of the personal commendations we have received, suffice to make us sure of our ground, to assure us that we are rendering a real service to the Race. Next week we will publish letters from Baptist Divines, along the line of the Superintendent's methods in California and elsewhere. This week's letter from Ira Smith, "Who's a Cat's Paw?" is also interesting reading.

TWO LINES OF PRODUCTION.



The Forum on last Sunday departed from the frivolous practice of allowing itself to be entertained by frivolous discussion and refusing to express its stand on law and order, and really listened to and witnessed a practical demonstration along lines of actual production. The J. A. McCall Company, recently organized coffee and spice company, exhibited a display of its wares, and laid before the people assembled a genuine proposition, which, if followed up, will mean a real organziation, which will stand for much in this community. There is absolutely no reason why such undertakings as this should not receive the heartiest support of all of our people. We have within us the power to build up ourselves, if we can only be brought to realize the same. There are forty thousand people here, it is said, and if but half that number can be made to see the point—by patronizing such a concern as this, and by purchasing stock in the same—the success of the enterprise wil be assured—alk to the glory and credit of a people that hitherto have failed to function as they should function along the lines of production.

Ira Smith Stages a Comeback

WHO'S A CAT'S PAW?

(By Ira Smith)

The Mother Bird asked the question "What's the matter with the Superintendent of Negro Baptist Work?" We are unable to diagnose the case and will have to answer the query by asking another, "What is NOT the matter with the Superintendent of Negro work of the Baptists of Southern California?" Glancing down the comment under the above caption of the article which appeared in the California Eagle, we note that this writer was referred to by the superintedent as being used as a cat's paw, which accusation we not only sternly deny but brand as being wilful and malious. The article which appeared in a recent issue of The San Diego Eagle was penned by us and represents our sentiment in regard to Negroes playing the role of "Friday" for the white man. The article was written without the knowledge or consent of any one and we venture to say had it been left to the owner of the Eagle, no doubt the mask never would have been lifted from the face of the energetic superintendent, as she has always pleaded his cause and has thrown the mantle of charity around him on numerous occassions when we were employed on the old Bird in Los Angeles, notwithstanding the fact that Prof. Carter has gone out of his way fight the California Eagle and delighted in taking work to white printers and to shops that contributed nothing to the Baptists and their cause.

The writer has known Prof. Wm. R. Carter for a number of years. We were in Kansas when he came and we were there when he left. We saw him and his Alabama method of dealing with white people bring to the State of John Brown, jim crow schools and saw him squirt his poison of discrimination into the minds of the white people until they became so inoculated that the colored people had to maintain a strong lobby at each session of the legislature in order to keep their children from being legislated out of the state schools and compelled to attend an institution set up by Mr. Carter. He went so far as to write letters to members of the legislature asking them to make his institution the state school for Negroes and thus bar race boys and girls from the other institutions which they paid taxes to maintain. We wrote against his ideas then as we are doing now and will continue to do so long as he travels over the country grinning in the face of the Negro and whispering into the ear of the white man to segregate him and give him institutions of his own. We want to serve notice on the people of California here and now, that if they do not in some way talk this fellow out of his Jim Crow ideas or muzzle him, in the next four years, you will in my opinion, see a Negro school inaugurated in California with W. R. Carter prancing up and down the legislative halls button-holing and begging white men to pass a bill carrying a gigantic appropriation for the maintenance of same.

Yes, we were in Kansas when Carter came, we were bred and born in the state and we were there when he left. We left two years ago with a record clean as a hound's tooth, and a big welcome awaits us on our return, but we can't say as much for the distinguished superintendent of Negro work. We were for twenty-two years manager and associate editor of Colonel Nick Chil's Topeka Plaindealer and can claim as friends such men as Senator Capper, Congressman Dan R. Anthony, Ex Mayor J. E. House and the present mayor of the city of Topeka, Hon. Herbert J. Corwine and any reputable business man in that city to whom we would delight in having someone write and make inquiries as to the character and standing of the writer and the superintendent of Negro work. The life we lived in Kansas is an open book and we have never had any threatening court proceedings against us. We have never given any checks to keep from being brought before the public for any act, word or deed and we venture the assertion that it wouldn't be well for any man or woman to go to the city of Topeka and accuse this writer of being a cat's paw.

Mrs. Bass, the owner of the two Eagles is one of the finest and best women it has been our good fortune to come in contact with, and the only criticism that we might find of her is the fact that she, the owner of a splendid newspaper like the California Eagle, would close up like a clam and permit Kansas to dump her unmentionables upon the unsuspecting people of California. She should have had the courage to remove the mask and demand of the men and women who came to Cali. with the avowed purpose of leading the people, that they present a clean bill from the land from whence they come.

We do not know how the members of the church to which Mrs. Bass is a member received the attack made upon her by Prof. Carter, but we do say this that it is high time that our people recognized people for their moral worth, true character and that which they are contributing to the race as a whole and the community in which they live. The man who made this attack upon this woman has never contributed ten cents to the uplift of the race. He hasn't even promoted as much as a peanut roaster, but in Kansas as in California, he traversed from one end of the state to the other begging and panhandling that he might feather his own nest and thereby live in luxury and ease, while those of his race about him could sink or swim. We believe however that his remarks fell like a wet blanket upon the members of Second Baptist Church. This highly cultured congregation is under the leadership of that talented and splendid divine, Dr. T. L. Griffith, and they are fully aware and fully capable of understanding, and know of the contributions of each of these individuals to hte uplift and advancement of the race, hence we feel that in the minds of these people, the Professor has made several steps to the rear.

We hope that the Professor in the future when he thinks of cat's paw will reflect back and look over our pedigree and that splendid record that we left behind us in Kansas and compare this with that of his own and if he is not satisfied or if he still thinks we are acting in the capacity of a cat's paw, we will drop a line back home, get both pedigrees and with his consent have them read before the same congregation before whom he attacked Mrs. Bass and this writer.

NATION WIDE INTEREST SHOWN

IN ORGANIZATION'S CALL FOR UNITED FRONT

Many Newspapers Editorialize on Significance of Event—Equal Rights League Praised for Initiating Move.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1, (Crusader Service.) The act of the National Equal Rights League in initiating a movement toward the achievement of a United Negro Front by inviting to a preliminary council the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the International Uplift League and the African Blood Brotherhood has constituted one of the principal topics for editorial comment during the last fortnight. The invitation to a preliminary conference, sent out in the month of December and made public early in January, has won praise from all sources, and many editors express the opinion that a new era in race statesmanship is dawning.

The plan is to have the four or five leading Negro organizations meet in a preliminary conference to lay out plans for the issuance of an invitation to all Negro organizations for a General Conference to be held at a time and place to be decided upon.

So far two hundred dollars has been subscribed to the Fund, according to the current issue of The Negro World, which carries an article calling upon "everybody" to subscribe to this fund.

RANGOON BOYCOTTS POLLS AT ELECTION

Burmese Back Ghandi's Non-Co-operative Movement Against British Misrule.

RANGOON, Feb. 1.—(Crusader Service.) Lack of violence and lightness of voting marked the first election of the Burmah Legislative Council held under the Burmah Reforms Act. Early reports from various parts of the province indicate that less than one-tenth of the registered voters went to the polls.

Although a split in the ranks of the Nationalists prevented the carrying out of an organized boycott, several attempts were made to prevent the people from casting votes. Manifestoes signed by boycotters were distributed among the people and posted in many parts of Rangoon.

ATTACKS ALIENS, REMINDED OF NATIVE MORONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(Crusader Service.) Charging aliens with much of the lawlessness in the country, and demanding rights of citizenship be denied to immigrants until they are fully fitted to understand and discharge the duties of citizenship involved, Judge A. T. Clearwater of Kingston, N. Y., speaking before the New York State Bar Association, caused Louis Marshall, associate of Samuel Untermyer, to challenge the superiority of native-born citizens.

"What about the outrage at Mer Rouge, La. ?" demanded Mr. Marshall, after Judge Clearwater had got rid of his tirade against foreigners. "What was the nationality of the men involved in the slaying of innocent citizens"

"And what about the members of the bar and bench who trample underfoot the Constitutions of the States and the Nation?

"Why don't we have something to say about native-born citizens? What about the morons of New England?" followed up Mr. Marshall, as His Honor crumpled up, speechless, in his chair.

THE CENTENARIAN

Some time while motoring out Pomona way, I stopped at the little old white washed cabin nestled closely under the fig and walnut trees that cast their shade over the drooping eves. It stood at the very extreme end of South Main Street. It was the Master's will that they, the occupants, should have a clear view towards the South, the land of their birth.

Come with me now if you will, as I saunter along. South Main Street. I can go no further without jumping a fence. Not choosing to do that I turned east, about fifteen paces.

There sitting to the left of me, silhoutted against the old cabin is a figure, such as I suppose Miss Mary Creamer, the sculptress, speaks of. I stop. She is not looking my way. I fear to speak lest I wake her from a dream that is no doubt sweet. For fully five minutes I stand with my arm resting on the fence. Then she turns. I am now in her line of vision. I doff my cap.

"Good evening ma'am."

She answered in a decided southern accent, "Good evening!"

I tried two or three more leads to draw her into a conversation, but without success, and I wondered why. She is no different from other Grandmas I have known, but away out there at the end of the road she seems different. She gets up with great effort and with greater effort walks to the door, leaving me standing there thinking that she considered my room better than my meddlesome company. I turn and am about to be on my way, when, lo, I hear that same voice say, "Grandpa!" Therein lies the secret of her reticence. Suffrage means nothing at her. Grandpa will solve all her problems. In answer to her call a gruff voice answers, "Yes! what is it?" Next a shuffling within, as though somebody was making speedy preparations for something sinister. I stood there, not knowing whether I had violated the sanctity of their home by daring to stop at the fence. Expectantly I stood with my imagination working over time as the appearance of Grandpa. I did not have long to wait, for the shuffling transferred itself to the front of the house. I turned in that direction. There coming around the house is Grandpa, on his face a smile, hair a pale yellow, eyes seemingly bright, slightly bent and walking with the aid of a hickory stick. "How'dy, Sir. my name's—." "Mine's George Washington." "Pleased to meet you Mr. Washington." After formalities I asked "Been here long?" "Since 87." From where" "Texas." How old?" I'm 110 and I remember when the star's fell, fit in three wars and never was sick a day in my life except when I could not get a toddy." (And I might mention in that he is not unlike the venerable Mr. C. F. Ames of Altedena, who is 105 and still going strong.) "Grandma and me have been together for over 60 years and don't intend to ever die." To these and many more questions that were put to him he answered astoundingly. I said goodbye. For about the length of time Grandpa followed me around the fence, looking after me. I'm down the road some distance when he calls: "Hey! never look for trouble, it'll find you!" And I go my way thinking what an inspiration I had had.

BARTLETT SCHOOL OF MUSIC IN RECITAL

Twenty pupils of Elmer C. Bartlett appeared in a piano recital, Sunday afternoon January 28th at the Bartlett studio, 936 East Pico Street.

One of the main events of the program was a major scale spelling contest, away from the piano. Two prizes were offered for scale-spelling and one prize for the pupil rendering his solo the best.

Mary Jane Clark won first prize and Willie Polk, second prize for scale-spelling. Sarah Wilson took the prize offered for the best performance of a solo, playing "Bohemian dance" by Tschaikowsky, "Mazurka" by Handel and "The Poupee Valsant" by Poldini.

One of the requirements to appear on program was that all pieces had to be memorized since the opening of the winter term in October.

Pupils of the Bartlett School of Music are required to appear on programs, as that helps to cure pupils of timidity and stage fright. Viola Norton and Thelma Valentine rendered very lovely vocal solos. Many of the pupils parents and guardians were present and enjoyed the program.

FORD IN SYMPATHY WITH KLAN, SAYS KING KEAGLE

Catholic Editor and Walter White Warned by New York Klan.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(Crusader Service.) Henry Ford is to let the world know his sympathy for the Ku Klux Klan at a big meeting in or near New York in the near future, according to an address by Wilson D. Bush, King Kleagle of the Invisible Empire hereabouts at a secret meeting held by the Klnxers in the Bronx Friday night.

At the same meeting, declaring that "we took an oath to protect our order with our lives," the King Keagle issued warning to the Klansmen against several individuals, including Mr. Scanlan, editor of the Catholic Tablet; Mr. Walter White of the N. A. A. C. P. and a Mr. Bell.

The King Kleagle boasted of the success of the Klan in having the "Birth of a Nation" revived in New York recently, and declared "Later on we shall get everything we want in the same way. As soon as we fill a few more seats in the hall of legislation we shall strike in forty-eight States at once. Then let us see who can or will dare to stop us."

EURROPE NEAR CHAOS, SAYS SIR ROBT. HORNE.

France's Action in Ruhr May Wreck White Civilization, Ex-Chancellor Asserts.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(Crusader Service) A collapse of European civilization (in colored countries known as European syphillization) such as the world has never known may be the result of France's action in the Ruhr, said Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the British Exchequer, in an address yesterday at a luncheon of the English-speaking Union.

Expressing his personal view of the present situation, Sir Robert pointed out that what was necessary was to make German capitalists believe Germany was a country safe for them. No confidence in Germany could be created, he said, "if you begin to seize by force any of the material upon which Germany depends to carry on her trade."

"Now that is my point of view," he said, "and I am glad to say that point of view is shared in this great country of practical people. We may both be wrong. I hope we are wrong. But if we are right you are going to see very soon in Europe a collapse of the organization of civilized society on that continent such as the world has never known."

LITTLE ROCK, Feb. 1.—(Crusader Service) Two men were whipped at Heber Springs yesterday and ordered from town. The men are white and alleged strike sympathisers. Another white man was lynched here several days ago, and a number of strikers beaten up by irate mobs organized and incited by the capitalist press.

Los Angeles, Jan. 25.—The Motion Picture industry is going to have a real Queen, elected by popular vote. Her autonomy will extend over the Premiere of the American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition to be given next summer as a great international celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. She will probably share her regal honors with President Harding, who is expected to be present for the formal opening of the Monroe Doctrine Centennial.

Since the Motion Picture Industry is sponsoring the Revue and Exposition, it has been decided to let those of the industry select the Queen of events for the opening night. The lucky girl winning this honor will ride in state in the electrical parade preceding the opening; she will preside at the opening ball and lead the grand march with the Governor or some other high dignitary; she will have a prominent part with President Harding in the official opening ceremonies; and she will preside at the Exposition breakfast to be given at dawn following the night of festivities that will mark the opening to the public of the 30-day celebration.

A great deal of rivalry is expected among various beauties of the local film colony for the honor of presiding it is thought each studio will have a at the Revue and Exposition Premiere, candidate and the keenest competition is anticipated.

The Vesper Services at the East side Mother's home were very interesting. Mrs. J. M. Shackelford was the speaker and brought words of wisdom and encouragement to the children of the home. Quite a few visitors were present and all joined in to make the meeting a success. Mrs. Alice Pattis will be the next speaker, the last Sunday in February. All are welcome.

The High Standard of Negro Professionals

By Dr. E. B. Lewis, Physician and Surgeon, 1918 1-2 E. 9th St. L. A.

Amongst the highest functions of the higher education of men and women, may be mentioned that function of teaching the self-preservation of the body from the various human distempers that creep insidiously into the vitals of the human system.

For this reason, the Negro Physicians, Dentists and Pharmacists, must measure up to the standard of the professional requirements than any other calling among the Negro race.

The above named body of men and women must exemplify the scientific requirements of their office, both by scholastic training and by public examinations. They are subjected to precisely the same test as their white confrere, and must also stand the contrets test of practical results.

If the Negro practioner could not grapple with all manner of diseases, and effect a reasonable per centage of cures, he would be eliminated from the profession by comparison. Race prejudice may indeed have some compensating advantages to off-set its many disadvantages. The Negro physician may, to a degree, be preferred by his patient on account of race sympathy, but after all has been said and done, the physician who effects the highest per cent of cures will be preferred and the one who falls below the average will be left out.

Appeal to race prejudice will not serve him. The physician must diagnose and prescribe for disease; the dentist must treat the teeth; the druggist must compound prescriptions according to the scientific formulas of his calling or be detected and discredited by the disclosure of results. The simplest vindication of the higher education of the race is here afforded. There no longer exists the slightest doubt that Negroes in requisite numbers do master the more intricate phases of knowledge and apply them to the practical issues of life.

Negro physicians dominate the professional needs for the race. While it is true that white physicians still treat many Negro patients, the more prosperous and intelligent of the race patronize their own color for medical treatment. In many communities a colored family would have to apologize for employing a white physician. The number of Negro physicians, dentists and pharmacists is not nearly large enough to meet the demand.

The young Negro collegian is now reviving into the medical profession at a disproportionate rate. Not only is the remuneration attractive, but the dignity of the profession is also appealing. There is little need to fear that the field will become over-supplied. When the quota has been filled so as to bring the honor and reward to the level of other callings, the tide will naturally turn in other directions.

The function of the Negro physician is second to none in importance. Health lies at the basis of all human attainments. The lower economic and industrial state of the race renders it an easy prey to disease. The health of the Negro is an important factor in the public health of the nation. To the Negro physician is entrusted the physical well being of a part of the population which exists importantly about the whole.

The thoroughness and efficiency of [illegible] cannot be limited, to any compartment of race. If one member suffers, all the members suffer with it. The disease of the Negro improperly diagnosed or treated, may spread to the whole community. Disease is proof positive of the kinship of man. One touch of nature makes the whole world akin. There is not much room for fundamental, everlasting, and inescapable difference here.

The service of the Negro physician is largely uncompensated and altruistic. The neglected and rejected element of the race are the easiest prey to disease. Those who stand in greatest need of treatment have least ability to pay. The Negro physician gets paid for only a fraction of what he does. But after all, the highest reward does not consist in the coin of the realm, but in the conscientious performance of duty.

Each week I shall attempt to bring to your attention through this paper various articles on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that will be of general interest to the public.

MURDER CHINESE LAUNDRYMAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(Crusader Service.) George Ton, forty, a Chinese Laundryman, died in Harlem Hospital at midnight from a bullet wound inflicted by one of two race men who attempted to rob his shop at No. 274 West 143rd Street at 11:00 o'clock last night.

A passerby saw Ton lying behind a little wicket gate in his place, and summoned the police.

"The Negroes—they shoot," Ton said and relapsed into unconsciousness. Police say he evidently slammed the gate in his assailants' faces, and then was shot.

THE VALENTINE CASE

Chicanery and trickery were resorted to, as might have been expected, in the now well-known Valentine case. According to Mr. Valentine, the case was set for January 12th, in Judge McCormick's Court, Department 12. Mr. Valentine and his witnesses duly appeared at that time and place; it seemed that another trial was in progress; and when, after some time, Mr. Valentine inquired when his case was to be called, he was informed that it had been transferred to Department 14. When he went thither, he was further informed that the case had been called, but, inasmuch as no one had appeared on behalf of Valentine, the case had been thrown out of court!

Mr. Valentine wishes to express his most sincere appreciation to his friends and well-wishers and the public for aid and co-operation during this litigation.

BOOK REVIEWS
BATOUALA
Winner of the Prix de Goncourt.
By Rene Maran.

It has been some time since Batouala, the book by Rene Maran, which won the Prix de Goncourt as the best novel of the year in France, was published. And there have been reviews in periodicals throughout this country and abroad. Nevertheless, we will add another with the hope that more readers will become familiar with this famous work.

M. Maran is a native African who was educated in France. In his book he shows a breadth of knowledge. He is a philosopher, poet, and master writer. His work depicts life as it is in the particular region where the scene of the novel is laid. The work is written impersonally, but in the preface M. Maran makes a very strong protest against the atrocities committed by the French against the natives. Technically speaking, this book is not a novel, but rather "a series of etchings." Yet, there is woven a story so strange, pictures so pathetic and beautiful, that it will live forever in the hearts of all readers.

"Civilization, civilization, pride of the Europeans and charnel-house of innocents, Rabindranath Tabore, the Hindu poet, once, at Tokio, told what you were!

"You have built your kingdom on corpses. Whatever you wish, whatever you do, you move in lies. At sight of you, gushing tears, shrieks of agony. You are might prevailing over right. You are not a torch, you are a conflagration. You devour whatever you touch.

"My book is not a pplemic. It comes, by chance, when its hour strikes. The Negro question is of the present. Who made it that? Why, the Americans. Why, the press campaigns on the other side of the Rhine....."

The scene of the novel is laid in Ubangi-Shari, one of the four colonies comprising the French Congo, or French Equatorial Africa. It is bounded on the south by the Ubangi River, on the east by the watershed of the Congo and the Nile, on the north and west by the watershed of the Congo and the Shari. Thus, the author gives us the background.

There is much description in the first part of the book; the hut where Batouala lives; of Yassiguindja, his favorite yassi or wife; of Djouma, the chieftain's dog, chickens, ducks and goats. With the description of Batouala's peaceful village and his awakening, and thoughts, Maran includes this bit of philosophy, when the mokoundji chief arose:

"Scratching is a splendid exercise. It sets the blood in circulation. It is a pleasure, and it also points to something. One only needed to look about. All living creatures scratched themselves on waking. It was a good example to follow, since a natural one. It is a bad waking up for a man who doesn't scratch himself.

"But, if scratching was good, yawning was still better. It was a means of chasing sleep away through the mouth.

"This supernatural manifestation was easy to account for. In the cold days, didn't everybody breathe out a sort of smoke? Which proves, among other things, that sleep is only a sort of private fire. He, Batouala, was sure of it."

In the description of the ceremony of the circumcision, M. Maran shows himself a master of words. The preparation, the people, the dance, are handled as very few writers can. Note this: "Little by little the sky had turned an ashen grey, then the color of laterite.

"The wind blew up, sudden, sultry. The flies began to buzz, the flies, the flies, everywhere.

"One by one the birds fell into silence. One by one the kites disappeared.

"Great wan clouds rose from behind the kagas. They came blown at the will of the aerial currents, piling up, gathering in denser and denser masses.

"Presently, a hidden force drove them toward the Bembe.

"They hurried on, blacker than coal, tangled at the edges, jostling, thronging, straddling one another, galloping like buffaloes fleeing before the brush fires.

"Forked streaks split the whiole mass of them. And the echoes rumbled with the detonations of the thunder."

It is during the dance that Batouala learns that Bissibingui, a "handsome, young man, strong, well-built," was being encouraged by his favorite Yassguindja. So Batouala decided to kill the youth by "making the panther."

That is to say, like "Moures, the panther, the cruel beast that roamed the brush, especially on moonlight nights.

"With fang and claw he slowly ripped his victim open, and tore it to pieces....."

But the chief never carried out his intention. It was during a great hunt, customary at that time of the year, when huge fires ran the beasts from their abodes, that Batouala is struck by a fleeting panther. The mokoundji is rendered helpless by the weand.

For days Batouala lies in his hut suffering from the slit in his stomach made by the panther's paw. The concluding pages contain much that is sympathetic, as will as pathetic. His friends, high-men, wives, all took his possessions in their flight. And at last Bissibingui and Yassiguindja deserted him. All, save Djouma, his little faithful dog.

Batouala in delirium talked incessantly: "And for the last time, in his delirium, he told over all the things he had against the whites—their lying, their cruelty, their illogicality, their hypocrisy. There were neither Bandas nor Manjias, neither whites nor blacks. There were nothing but men. And all men were brothers,"

BOOK CHAT

By

MARY WHITE OVINGTON, CHAIRMAN, BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

"Libraries and Book Lovers' Clubs."

With the new year we are all making resolutions and a resolution that I wish the readers of Book Chat would make, is to read more books. Newspapers and magazines are all very well in their way, for recording of transient happenings we could not do without them, but after all the challenge to thought comes chiefly with the leisured, deliberate turning over of the pages of a good book. In a good light, settled back in a comfortable chair, we take our time mulling over the reasoning of the essayist or following the fate of the hero. There is no loneliness to one who knows the companionship of books.

I have, for over a year now, pointed out the important books upon the Negro question and urged my readers to buy them, when they could. I like to think that the book shelves in many homes are growing in number and that publishers are learning that there is a purchasing Negro-public. But there are other means of getting at books than the buying of each one desired. There are book clubs and libraries.

To take the public library first. It should be the business of the colored citizen of a town that has a free public library (a really free one) to see that new books on the Negro are bought for it. This, I think any one will find who has tried, is not usually difficult. First, you want to be a good borrower. I mean a steady borrower of books who does not let the volumes become overdue but returns them on time. Having established yourself as a responsible reader, you have only to call the attention of the librarian to the book you want to have her anxious to buy it for you. Librarians are only too glad to find intelligent borrowers. The stories the librarians can tell of unintelligent borrowers are legion; so when they find someone who reads book reviews, who knows of the latest volume on an important subject they want to oblige that person if they possibly can. Back of them is a Board that may prove parsimonious, but be sure the librarian counts as meat and drink the intelligent demand by the public for serious literature. The N. A. A. C. P. will shortly publish a list of the books that I have reviewed in Book Chat. By sending a two cent stamp, this list will be mailed to you. Why not take such a list into your public library, see what books the library has purchased and what are missing, and endeavor to have the missing books ordered? It would help you and the reading of the books would educate the public.

The second method of getting books is through Book Lovers Clubs. I imagine such clubs have existed ever since books were printed. Book Lovers pool their resources, and buying books, exchange them one with another. People are especially given to this who live in small places. Supposing this past year, you have lived where there was no public library, have wanted especially to read "Dark Water," "The Book of Negro Verse," "Birthright," "White and Black," "The Soul of John Brown," and "Harlem Shadows," and have had only two dollars in your pocket book. The way to compass your desire is to get five other people, equally desirous of reading these volumes and equally impecunious. Then let each buy a volume and your library is complete. It is a lending library, only one volume remaining with you at the last, but it has given you what you desired and has added to the education of six people. Incidentally it will lead to much good fellowship.

No one should be invited into a Book Lovers' Club who does not value books, and who does not appreciate the sacredness of their ownership. To borrow a book and not return it, this is one of the seven deadly sins and the most common of the seven! Keep such people out of a Book Lovers' Club,—that is, if there are enough people left in the world to form a club with. Sir Walter Scott's old squib still holds true. On lending a book he said: "And please return it, for I find that while many of my friends are poor arithmeticians, they are nearly all of them good bookkeepers."

CHARGE ARKANSAS SUPREME COURT RAILROADED NEGRO PEONS TO DEATH SENTENCE AFTER RIOTS. MOORFIELD STORY FILES BRIEF WITH U. S. SUPREME COURT ON ARKANSAS RIOT CASES.

Moorfield Storey, former president of the American Bar Association and now president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on Tuesday, January 9th, appeared before the United States Supreme Court to argue appeals in behalf of Negro peons condemned to death in connection with the Arkansas riots of 1919.

In the course of the brief appealing against sentence of death imposed upon five of the Nefiroes, sensational charges are made involving the Courts of the State of Arkansas; newspapers; leading citizens; Rotary Club; Robert L. Kitchens Post, American Legion; and other organizations of Helena, Arkansas; all of whom are charged with having tried to railroad the Negroes to death, torture being employed to make the prisoners testify falsely, mob hysteria dominating their trial which is alleged to have taken place in less than an hour.

The cases arose out of an attempt by Negro farmers to organize and obtain legal redress against peonage or debt slavery under the share cropping system prevalent in Arkansas. The Negroes were accused of a "plot to massacre whites" and, according to the brief, "a large number of white men armed themselves and rushed to the scene of the trouble and to adjacent regions and began the indiscriminate hunting, shooting and killing of Negroes."

"We have distinct evidence," says the brief, "that all Negroes at that time were in danger of their lives, and that two hundred or three hundred men were killed.—There can be no question that the citizens of Helena were determined that these men should be convicted, and that they manufactured the evidence for the purpose; and for the court (Arkansas Supreme Court) to say that they cannot assume that they necessarily did not have a fair trial shows clearly that the Supreme Court of Arkansas was itself influenced by the same feeling that influenced the leaders of society throughout the region where these tragedies occured."

The brief further recites that the conduct of the case against the convicted Negroes constitutes a series of outrages "than which it is hard to imagine worse."

Testimony is cited of H. F. Smiddy and T. K. Jones, the former deputy sheriff of Phillips County, Arkansas, the latter a special agent for the Missouri Pacific Roalroad, both white, who were members of the sheriff's posse and swore that the white man, for whose murder the Negroes were convicted, was killed by members of the posse, and that Negroes had nothing to do with the murder. They further swore that they personally whipped the prisoners with straps studded with metal, put strangling drugs in their nostrils and forced the Negroes to sit in an electric chair to force testimony in the manner desired by the mob.

The summary of the conditions under which the Arkansas trials were conducted is as follows in the brief:

"We have the whole community inflamed against the defendants, prepared themselves to lynch them, only refraining from so doing because they are assured by leading citizens that the trial should accomplish the same purposes, a condition of things where no man who was on that jury and had ventured to vote for acquittal or delay could have lived in Phillips County, according to the testimony of one of the men who engaged in the business of manufacturing evidence for the State. We have false statements printed in the newspapers; we have society substantially organized to convict these people; and more than that, we have witnesses deliberately terrorized and forced on pain of death or torture to give false testimony. We have the testimony of the witnesses themselves that they were so terrorized and that their testimony was false. We have the testimony of the men who inflicted the torture; we have a mass of evidence which shows, if evidence can show anything, that the defendants never had a fair trial and in fact that they are innocent. As to some of them there is no evidence as to any act or word except that they were with a gang of Negroes assembled to all purposes for self defense."

Among the organizations named as fomenting the state of feeling in which the Negroes were convicted are: Richard L. Kitchens Post American Legion, the Helena Rotary Club, Lions Club of Helena, and the Committee of Seven appointed at the time of the riots by the Governor of Arkansas.

Associated with Mr. Moorfield Storey before the Supreme Court, is Mr. Scipio A. Jones of Little Rock, Arkansas. Mr. Jones has been in charge of the cases from their inception.

The Negroes in whose behalf appeal is being made were first sentenced to death in 1919, their cases passing through four State and Federal Courts. The men have been twice sentenced to death and the date of their execution has been fixed on five occasions. Twelve Negroes in all were sentenced to death and 67 received prison sentences varying from a few years to life. The defense of the men has been conducted by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, 70 Fifth Ave, New York.

NEW WORLD WAR SEEMS CERTAIN.

Europe, Seething in Race Hatred, Fast Approaching Edge of Precipice. White Dominion Near End. Negro Has Nothing to Lose and All to Gain in Coming Conflict—White Imperialism Tottering—New Day Dawning.

By C. Valentine for Crusader Service.

PARIS, Feb. 1.— Europe seems about to repeat the blunder of the Peloppenesian war. Already suffering from almost utter exhaustion and loss of prestige on all fronts, the white races of Europe do not seem able to contain their hatreds nor resist the pressure of economic events and conflicting interests.

Not only in France's move to occupy the Ruhr district but from Memel to the Black Sea trouble is brewing, and there is still enough gun-powder lying around in Europe to cause a loud explosion.

With the attention of Western Europe concentrated upon the Ruhr, the Lithuanian uprising against the French in the Baltic port of Memel passed with comparatively little notice, but this was only one of a series of disquieting incidents along the line from the Baltic to the Black Sea indicative of the storm clouds blowing up from eastern and southern Europe.

These incidents all indicate the general unrest and the bitter hatreds and conflicting interests with which the Versailles Peace and some former peace treaties have afflicted Europe.

Opinion here is that the French action in the Ruhr alone is likely to precipitate a conflict that, beginning with France and the German workers, will soon take in Soviet Russia, who will undoubtedly come to the rescue of the German workers should the latter show an inclination to do away with the present petit bourgeoisie government. With the entry of Soviet Russia, the conflict is likely to narrow down to a class conflict that will spread through all the nations of Europe as the European proletariat rising to arms under the leadership of the Communists line up behind Soviet Russia in the "final conflict" between Labor and capitalism. On the other hand, the coming conflict may follow purely nationalist lines.

In any event, the colored peoples of the world have everything to gain and nothing to lose by such a conflict. Should it proceed along class lines so much the better, for then the white workers of Europe will be in a mood to make common cause with the oppressed peoples of the "colonies" and thus will accelerate the Liberation Movement in the colonies. But even should the war take on purely nationalist lines, the colored races of the world must benefit from the resulting exhaustion of the white imperialist nations, whose author, they will find it much easier to shoulder. In a word, the colored races have everything to gain and nothing to lose in the approaching conflict.

"THE MOB SPIRIT"

A race riot was staged by a mob of whites at Sapulpa, Okla., a few days ago and about an equal number of white and colored people met their death in the melee. The Advocate does not endorse race riots or mob violence in any form, however, since the white mob is usually guilty of starting the trouble, we are proud to see colored people who are attacked by the mob reach the sensible conclusion that it is better to stand, fight and die like brave men than to run and die like dogs. Amongst those killed in the riot at Sapulpa were two colored women, who, according to news reports, faced the cowardly mob like their husbands and sons, and died fighting for the protection of their homes and loved ones. We wonder if it will always be thus, protection for American citizens in foreign countries but no protection for the black man in this country.

DOES THE COLLEGE MAKE THE MAN?

Thomas A. Edison has remarked, substantially, that a college education does not always fit a man for success in life, and that a larger proportion of college men's failures was because they were too proud to work; they had regarded education as a means of lifting them beyond the necessity for work; they had educated themselves beyond their intelligence, and had acquired an academic equipment for professions for which they had no natural equipment.

Mr. Edison's position has been felt by others looking for competent assistance. The characteristics of efficiency are absent in too many cases. Willingness to begin at the bottom and climb through merit is lacking. In too many cases the experienced man is expected to step aside for the college graduate.

A of which is preliminary to the introduction of a criticism of Mr. Edison by The Associate Reformed Presbyterian, which insists that a college education has proved the chief factor in carrying men to the front. Of course, the criticism has no bearing on what Mr. Edison really holds, but the logic is so poor it may as well be controverted. Accepting the figures compiled by "Who's Who in America," it says that while but one per cent of the American people are college bred, that one per cent furnishes 73 per cent of those who, because of ability, notoriety, riches, supremacy in the fields of sport and the arts, or what not, have been accorded mention in that book of reference.

Is a man an educator, an author, an artist, a scholar, a lawyer? Naturally he is prominent enough to be admitted to the roll of prominence maintained for reference by delvers into life. Even of the 27 per cent not included among the college-bred, one may find the lineage of any stage or screen celebrity.

The question is, not the proportion of college men to non-college men who succeed, but what proportion of college men are failures, and why. That a college education is a great advantage is very true, but it is also true that the man himself must have the mental equipment essential to success, the absence of which no college education can replace. College can, and sometimes does, discipline brains, but cannot create them.

BLANTON BEATS PREJUDICE

Not satisfied with the record of his state in lynching, Congressman Blanton brings all his spleen to the Capitol and vents it against every phase of legislation which might in any way benefit the Colored population of the city.

Every student of social problems knows that the Colored people play their part in the economic life of America by rendering service of a necessary kind and a loyal quality.

Not alone do they absorb goods of which they produce, manufacture and exchange little, but they render service in numerous ways at low pay. They are an essential part of the general life in the District of Columbia as they are of most of the sections of the nation.

Every public improvement, every civic need must be supplied for the Colored people exactly as it is for the whites, and if government means any thing, it means that more must be supplied to the citizens who have least and especially to those who have no part in arranging the terms of that supply.

NEWSPAPERS

It is safe to say the newspapers have been largely responsible for the rapid educational growth of our group. No home so poor or so isolated that it could not afford to have at least one so-called Race paper come as a weekly visitor. If the old folks could not read the children could and did, with the result that our literacy average is now one that, under the circumstances, we should be ashamed of. Most of us who live in large cities read, or at least glance at one or two newspapers a day. They are the eyes through which largely we see the life of our time, and the news that they print is in a great measure the raw material of our ideas.

Newspapers have an important part in human life. From the primitive vogue of mere news letters recording the "back fence gossip" they have become international documents covering every phase of world thought, endeavor and development, announcing the aspirations and politics of governments and advocating or decrying leagues, treaties and covenants by which nations are bound. Newspapers have been instrumental in changing habits of human life all over the world. For millions of men and women who are unable to take a college or university course, many of whom are prevented from advancing beyond the grammar school, the newspaper promotes a broad education, providing instruction in politics, literature, business, music, art, sanitation, hygiene, and every phase of life today.

Choice of Foods Asset to Health

By Wilalyn Stovall.

Hopes for the Colored cinderpath artists are not gone with the passing of Stapler, Norman and Myles. A repetition of last year's performance in the 100 yd. dash for city prep school athletes is not impossible.

Three of the four places were copped by Colored sprinters last year, and in 1921 Stapler and Norman took first and second places respectively. But what have we lined up for this year?

When we read what Charley Paddock has to say things don't look so bad after all. "Right now," he says, "It appears that the high school sprinters of Pasadena have an edge on the prep 100 yds. unless little Archie Woodyard, the Jefferson high school find steps in upon them. The latter is just about the fastest thing in this neck of the woods at the present writing for high schools."

Paddock ought to have the dope on the sprints, being the holder of many world's records. When we remember that Bill Hurlic of Pasadena has been stepping off some fast 100 yd. dashes, and recall also that Whizar also of Pasadena, stepped off a 10.1 hundred in an inter-class meet last year, it looks like these fellows are Pasadena's best bets.

Archie Woodyard will no doubt come in on the money and bring home a point or two for Jefferson. Then, there's Charles Diggs, a veteran of L. A.'s winning relay team who is quite likely to figure in the distribution of medals. He is handicapped with a bum leg, but there is hope, nevertheless.

Out on the hill at the Railsplitter's institution in smoky Lincoln Heights, George Duncan, the versatile athlete, writer, scholar, humorist, etc., looks like the best race sprinter on the hill. He is to run Lincoln's last lap in the eight mile relay.

At Manual, we have Brothers, a member of last year's squad. Brothers should also place in the 100 yd. sprint. So with this group of athletes for the 100 yd. city high school event, a repetition of last year is not impossible.

CHANCE FOR RACE LADS IN A. A. U.

By Wilalyn Stovall.

It has been said that most diseases of the human body arise from malnutrition or improper combinations of foods. It has been the cause of most cases of rheumatism, stomach acidity, mental depression, headache, nervousness, etc.

The list of foods which coaches instruct their athletes to eat the simple foods which are of high nutritive value. A little discretion in eating while out of training as well as in the midst of the contests is not a bad policy. Paddock never eats pastry or greasy foods. What is best for the athlete is best for everyone. Rich foods overtax the digestive system and in the long run will reduce the vitality and power of resistance.

Some consider fruit and nuts as luxuries; but both have a high nutritive value. All fruits have certain salts of inorganic acids which have a stimulating action on the kidneys. Nuts are the adequate and natural source of proteins and fats.

The question is raised as to whether meat is a better source of protein than nuts. It appears that man in an uncivilized state lived principally on fruit and nuts. Many people imagine that eating nuts results in indigestion. That conception arises from neglecting to thoroughly masticate nuts.

Personal observation seems to bring out the fact that the strongest men come from the middle class. The menu at the table of the wealthy is often too elaborate. They cater more to the taste than to the requirements of the body. On the other hand the poor do not know how to select the most nutritious foods. The middle class includes the professional, business, men, clerks, etc.

This fact is especially noticeable by the showing made by the novice athlete. The rich man's son is often poorly developed because he has not had to work, and has had the money to buy the unnecessary food articles, which tend to weaken the constitution. Strong bodies are built by eating simple foods and living simple lives.

HOLLYWOOD COACH JUDGES ATHLETES ON ABLITY

By Wilalyn Stovall.

Hollywood High is supplying her quota of race athletes in three of the four major sports. One of the principal reasons is that coach Fred Johnson head coach at the foothill institution believes in giving every man a fair chance. While at San Bernardino Johnson turned out several star colored athletes, and at no time in his coaching career has he judged an athlete on any other basis than his ability.

For the past two seasons Ralph Johnson has been a sub on the varsity football team. This basket ball season he has played in several practice games and is a sub on Hollywood first squad. Ralph is the first athlete of color to try to make the basket ball team. Besides being a football and basket ball player he is also tossing the discus something over 100 foot mark.

Ralph's younger brother George is helping establish the family name by being somewhat of an all around athlete. George was the nucleus of Hollywood's light weight football squad. As a result of his smashing line plunges and tackling at the fullbacks position he was pitcher for the all-city mythical light-weight team.

His lack of weight is all that prevents him from being one of the greatest football players of Southern California, for he surely has the nerve and grit. George Johnson is again member of the varsity track team. Last year he specialized in the high jump and shot, but this season he is trying the sprinting game.

Woodson Wickliffe of 440 fame is donning his abbreviated costume again to represent Hollywood in the annual A. A. U. Relay Carnival. Last year Wickliffe along with his team-mates copped a gold medal in the 440 relay event. But due to the ruling of the California Inter-Scholastic Federation (C. T. F.) he will be ineligible for inter-scholastic competition. Hollywood needs him but his loss can not be helped.

HOW DO THEY DO IT?

How is it, do you imagine, that Italians have so many banks in this city? How do the Jews manage to invade and eventually dominate every field of commercial activity in this great metropolis? It is due primarily to the fact that their own people make the sacrifice not only of distance but very frequently lack of equal returns that has enabled the Jew to become the power in the modern world that he has become; that has enabled the Italian, whose illiteracy when he comes to this country is greater than that of the black man, whose poverty in a strange land is manifold greater than that of the colored citizen, to break into every line of industry and commerce. The black man at the South patronizes colored men in business, and the colored race there has waxed good and strong; but the black man at the South has to patronize his brother in business. When, however, he comes to the Northern States he forgets the vital service that he alone can and has rendered to his ambitious brother. As a consequence colored men in business are left alone in the cold, without a friend and without an especial patron. Out of a self-sacrificing and steady support whenever and wherever possible for our race as a race in business are the issue of our progress and our future standing, civilly as well as commercially, in this country. Let us, then, patronize the colored man in business, even though for the time being we do so at some sacrifice. We are helping not only him but ourselves, our children and our children's children.

HENRY M. BROOKS STUDIES AT GARDNER ART SCHOOL

A visitor to our office this week was Henry M. Brooks, whose striking and attractive posters have become a feature of the highest class local advertising. He is now a student at the Gardner Art School, Third and Spring Streets, this city, and we had the pleasure of seeing a number of beautiful pen and ink drawings, made by him from pictures of certain noted motion picture stars, and which Professor Gardner had posted on the walls of his school, as excellent examples of this type of art. The professor predicts a brilliant future for our popular "Hank," and the latter's many friends and admirers have no doubt that his prophecy will come to pass. Incidentally, Miss Hazel Brown, Mr. Gibbs, and the "Wizard," the splendid work of all of whom is well known locally, are former pupils of Professor Gardner. He takes the keenest personal interest in his students and in their progress, and his highly commendable attitude and liberal policy prove the truth of the saying, that Art is universal, and knows no distinctions of race or nationality.

LADIES! BE BEAUTIFUL

So says Madame Edna Fay Bisbee, who has just established herself in a handsomely appointed store at 1474 Central Avenue. Every woman owes it to herself to be as beautiful and charming as possible; an attractive appearance is an invaluable asset, in the home and in business alike. It is folly to envy other women their beautiful hair or lovely skins—when YOU may have them, says Madame. The purpose of the beautifier's art is to improve upon nature, and Madame Bisbee has mastered that art.

She studied dermatology and cosmetology in the great chemical laboratories of Milan, Italy, and she has establishments in Paris and in the City of Mexico. Besides an extensive line of aids to beauty, Mme. Bisbee is an expert in the blending of perfumes, which she learned from those unsurpassed masters of that exquisite art—the French. She blends individual odors to order, and among her pleased patrons of many years are some of the world's greatest singers and actresses, noted for their taste and discrimination; prominent among these is Miss Luisa Tetrazzini, Agostinelli, Giovanni Russo, Giovanni Zenatello, Chas. Dalmores, Aramondi, Venturini and other celebrities.

Madame Bisbee has dedicated a great deal of time and exhaustive research to the matter of cremes, lotions and powders appropriate for the many and varied shades of cream, tan, olive and darker browns among the Colored race, and it is only now, when she at last feels that she possesses a knowledge of the secrets of beauty sufficiently extensive to do actual good in this field, does she come forward and bid for our interest and patronage.

A few of the articles specially prepared by Mme. Bisbee are advertised in this issue; many others will be added at once. Mme. Bisbee is desirous of establishing a chain of schools throughout the country, in which her matchless system of cosmetology will be taught, and a branch will be established in this city.

Where to Attend Church

FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH—
Eighth Street and Towne Avenue.
Rev. A. Milton Ward, Minister

Phone S. 3780—Res. 1466 Griffith Ave.

Presiding Elder James Washington will occupy the pulpit of historic old Eighth and Towne Avenue First A. M. E. Church, preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. respectively Sunday, because it is our second quarterly meeting day for this conference year. Holy communion will be celebrated morning and evening. Special music by the choir, directed by Organist Elmer C. Bartlett, will be a feature of each service. Come and worship with us.

The Rev. Dr. W. C. Williams of old St. John's A. M. E. Church, Omaha, Nebraska, delighted the vast audience with a good gospel sermon last Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock on "The Exalted Name of Jesus." He stressed the fact that the name of Jesus stands for God's love, truth, righteousness, and He stands for these absolutely. Six new members were added to our fold; and there was great rejoicing throughout the audience. Prof. Bartlett and the choir inspired the audience wiht good gospel singing, including the rendition of a beautiful anthem.

Brother Emanuel Hall preached a good sermon Sunday night after singing in a most touching manner "I cannot Drift." The singing by the choir was very good at both services. The audience was very pleased with the sermon and solo by brother Hall. Pastor Ward, like the people, was elated with a Sunday well spent.

The Womanless Wedding given under the auspices o fthe "Welfare Club" at the church last week was a big success.

THE FIRST A. M. E. ZION CHURCH—
Corner Pico and Paloma Streets.
Rev. W. E. Shaw, Pastor. —Residence 1217 Paloma.

Rev. W. E. Shaw held the rapt attention of his large audience on last Sunday morning for nearly an hour as he delivered the word of God from St. John 4:39. "Christian Experience" was the subject used and while the bread of life was being broken, hearts were made to rejoice.

At 3:00 p. m. Rev. Shaw delivered a sermon on "Love" at the Hamilton M. E. Church. His text was—"This is my commandment: That ye love one another, as I have loved you." John 15:12. The Zion Choir sang.

At 8:00 p. m. Rev. Shaw delivered one of the most earnest, soul-stirring, plain talk sermons ever delivered in a Los Angeles pulpit. His subject was "The Fast Young Woman"—Prov. 11: 22. "As a jewel of gold in a swine's snout, so is a fair woman which is without distinction."

The choir sang as though inspired under the leadership of our dear Prof. Bynum. He deserves much praise for the service his choir is rendering.

Sunday Feb. 4th at 11:00 a. m. the pastor will preach on "The Cup of The Lord and The Cup of Devils." 1 Cor. 10:21 verse. A great sermon is in store for you. Holy Communion.

Rev. Chatters will preach at the 8:00 o'clock service. Come out and hear one of his gospel messages.

Bible Class 6:00 p. m. C. E. 7:00 p. m. Fine program each Sunday evening. Prayer and Praise Service Wednesday evening.

Keep off the Fair and Anniversary date March 4-11. Biggest affair ever held in Los Angeles.

Cordial welcome to friends, visitors and strangers. Our doors stand ajar.

WARD CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH—
1252 E. 25th Street.
B. R. Guy, Pastor.

At this church last Sunday, we had a good Sunday School attendance, 45. and an interesting session. Services at 11:00 a. m. Our Pastor spoke from the text, "Preach the word." The attendance was good and all the visitors were cordially greeted and kindly invited to return. The Endeavor was very interesting and helpful. At night Rev. T. J. Ross recently from the Puget Sound Conference, preached from the text, "And he went forth unto the spring of waters, and cast the salt in there, and said, "Thus saith the Lord, I have healed these waters; there shall not be from thence any more death or barren land." The sermon was profound and spiritual and when he made the altar call 5 persons came and knelt for prayer. One person united with the church at the morning service.

WESLEY CHAPEL NOTES

The old timers came out Sunday and captured the day with a collection of $159 while the new-comers were close behind with $128.

It was a well celebrated anniversary and the results are that both pastor and congregation are stirred to put forth greater efforts for the continued success of Wesley.

Rev. Shaw has been at Wesley six years and the well groomed congregation each Sunday, the remodeled edifice, a singing choir, an organ constructed with beauty of tone and note are some of the tangible evidences of his unparalleled success.

He has lost himself in his work. He has found however a haven of rest for his hundreds of worshippers.

With unselfish devotion we must say just a tribute to Mrs. Shaw, the wife who has chosen the better part and throws her energy into the works as truly as her beloved husband.

Rev. Prowd recently of South America, preached from a most interesting subject, Sunday evening. The Failure of Compromise.

Next Sunday 400 is the number requested to commune. Be one of that number. Each Sunday evening, Mrs. Markum charms and enlightens the audience for fifteen minutes with the peals and strains of the magnificent pipe organ.

It is a rare treat to hear Each Sunday at the beginning of the services those chords of harmony from the great masters.

You will enjoy worshipping at Wesley, the choir, the spirit, the atmosphere. Try it and be convinced.

MT. ZION BAPTIST CHURCH—
3rd and Trinity Avenue.

Sunday was a glorious day in this House of Worship. The "Doctrine of Baptism," as preached by Rev. R. B. Porter, pastor-elect, was made so plain that truly the wayfarer, though a fool, need not err after having heard. Truly the Old Baptist Church will come into her own on the coast if Zion succeeds in landing this stalwart leader. The ordinance of Baptism was observed after the services and four youths of the most promising teen age, took on the full armour through Baptism.

Sunday evening's sermon "The Divinity of Jesus Christ" was a strong defiance of the stand that the Rev. Mr. Grant of the Episcopal Church, New York took in his sermon as printed in the "Times" denying Christ's Divinity. Rev. Porter called on the church as a body to be ever watchful of the strange doctrines promulgated by would-be great preachers; that they shall resent as Christians such an attack on their Saviour.

Monday evening the church assembled to show their appreciation to the Pastor-elect, Dr. Porter, on the eve of his departure for home via North and Middle-West. A good short program was rendered by the choir. Remarks of encouragement were made by Dr. Porter. Refreshments in abundance were served.

The spiritual life of the church was truly at its height. They are all with one accord entering upon the work of the church with great hopes of putting over a big program this year.

TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH—
West. 36th St. and Normandie Ave.
Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge, Pastor

The services at Trinity were wonderful. We had a glorious time, the pastor was at his best. Preaching from text taken from Romans 15th "The strong must bear the infirmities of the weak." A great lesson this was to all present. How glad were we to hear this glorious sermon; many visitors were present. Were you there? If not, you missed something that you should have heard. From this sermon Sister W. Starks united with us. A letter to the church from Dr. Thomas, San Diego, telling us of the wonderful success of their revival service conducted by Rev. Eldridge from the 8th to the 19th of January helped us to pray that our pastor will become a wonder in winning souls for Christ. A greater success certainly awaits him in Seattle. Will you pray? Who said Brother B. Stanley was so quiet that he couldn't entertain the pastor's aid society? The waitresses, Sister Stanley and Sister Bradford knew just what the host wished them to do.

One new member, I Harold Henry, Jr., with the consent of Henry, Sr., his name was enrolled not yet two years, beginning to work for the Master. February 4th 4:00 p. m. Sister D. Hill will be the hostess, 1446 W. 36th Place. I wonder if they will be on time? You know who they are. Who is in that new coupe? I don't know, I didn't see it. The B. Y. P. U. is doing splendid work. Watch us grow. Sister Mamie Green, Chairman of program committee gave to us a wonderful sacred program at 7:00 p. m. All numbers were a credit to the participants. Young men's quartette was good. Mr. Guyton, you are burying the talent. Uncover it to the glory of God. Did you say Mr. Smith—Yes, Mr. Walter Smith, a new star, gave an instrumental number on a new kind of instrument. He responded twice to ETAOIN SHRDL E audience. Let us have another Home Mission evening.

Rev. Johnson from Independent Church was a visitor with us also Rev. F. R. Davis from Watts. Oh! Don't forget the heart social Feb. 14, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Holliday, 35th and Budlong. Have you a heart?

J. I. DYSON, Reporter.

The Sunday School is still in the Progressive Column. Each Sunday adds to the membership new scholars. When are you going to join? The pastor is intertaining the Progressive spirit in every department of the church. Preaching last Sunday from Roman's 15-1. Two additions to the church. One for Baptism. The concert at 7:30 rendered by the Home Missionary Society was one Worthy of Praise. Feb. 4, preaching at 11:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Rev. J. A. H. ELDRIDGE, Pastor.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH—
Maple Avenue.
Rev. T. L. Griffith, Pastor.

Services Sunday were very much inspiring. After the usual opening of the morning services, Prof. and Mrs. B. H. Graham rendered one of Herbert Johnson's selections, "Oh May My Walk be Close with God." Following this wonderful duet the pastor came forward. The text for the morning services was found in the 12 chapter of Hebrew, the 14th and 15th verses. The subject—"How to get along with your neighbor?" It was brought out very plainly, the envy, malice and jealousy, which is found number of illustrations were brought before us, such as the lives of Cain and Abel, Daniel in the lions' den, Joseph and his brothers, and many others.

There was a glorious lesson and plenty of spiritual food to be gotten from this well prepared sermon. After the sermon the doors of the church were opened and five were added.

Sunday night the pastor preached the installation sermon to the elected and re-elected officers, who are to carry on the work for the year 1923.

The program which was rendered by the members of the Second Baptist Church on last Tuesday at Philharmonic Auditorium under the auspices of Temple Baptist Church was not only a credit to Second Baptist but to the entire race.

Services very Sunday at Second Baptist. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, A. B., D. D.,

Dr. N. A. Mackey of New York was the speaker at the morning service last Sunday. A splendid audience was in attendance, as the speaker gave "A vision of the Judgment."

At the evening hour the Choir held forth in an excellent musical program. The choir was ably assisted by the Vox Humana male quartet which rendered several numbers to the great delight of those present. We are glad to note the return to the city of Mrs. S. E. Hancock, who has been on an extended visit back East. Among the visitors at the morning service were Mrs. Bryant and Mrs. Collins both of Springfield, Ohio.

This Sunday February 4th is Communion Day. The Pastor will occupy the pulpit at both hours and administer the Lord's Supper. It is urgently desired that one hundred percent of our membership will be present at one or both services. Let not your seat be vacant at the Lord's Table. Visitors cordially invited to all our services.

BIRCH ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
F. C. Cothran, Minister.

The time spent in the worship of this church, last Lord's Day was infinitely glorious. Brother Cothran spoke at 11:00 o'clock a. m. upon the "function of faith," using for his text, according to your faith be it unto you." Matt. 9.29. The sermon was one by which both the church members were enlightened. When the invitation was extended, a young man came forward and made the good confession. Among our visitors was Dr. William H. Foster of New York City. He and wife are the house guests of Mrs. A. C. Richardson.

Meeting of the business men's league, held in this church in the afternoon 3:00 o'clock, was quite interesting and was food for thought. Messrs Alexander and Bass, made speeches of telling effect. Mr. Porter responded with an original poem and the Bilhrew quartette thrilled all hearts by their matchless music.

Elder I. J. Williams preached an inspiring sermon at night, upon the concluding reasons for believing in Jesus as the Christ God. Baptismal services next Sunday night 7:00 o'clock. You are cordially invited to attend. A hearty welcome is extended you to attend all of the services of this church.

ANNUAL CONVOCATION

The first Quarterly Convocation of the Church of God in Christ in Calif., of 1923 met with the Church of God in Christ of Fresno, January 11-21.

The meeting was a success from every angle. The enlarged church building was crowded to overflowing. Every nation in the city attended the meetings. Each day was a great day for the church. Dr. E. R. Driver, Presiding officer, used righteous diplomacy in conducting the meetings.

The Young People featured the importance of the meeting. The art work was also splendid from the Woman's Auxiliary.

The future of the Church in California is as a clear sun. Our next quarterly meeting convenes with Center St. Church of Oakland, Rev. Wm. H. Harrison, Pastor. A great meeting is looked for.

Rev. E. R. Driver, Chairman.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

In the Kindergarten—The Grammar School-The High School—The University.

Once every yearth the mind of this nation turns Lincolnward. Persons distinguished in private, business and social life pause to pay homage to the sacred memory of the man who gave this life in defense of what he believed was just and right.

Wrapped in the swaddling garments of martyrdom, vested in robes of National honor, embalmed in the bitterness of a nation's tears, the human side of his life was brought to a close. Cessation from the great political paradox of human slavery, closing one of the most eventful epochs in the history of the world, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, the man, the mortal, was laid to rest; we say, to rest, but not so; these struggling and deeply injured spirits can find no rest nuless and until there shall have been a complete vindication of the causes which brought about his assassination. Though he were dead yet shall he live again. The body was offered as a burnt sacrifice upon humanity's altar in proof of those principles which he had enunciated ever since reason had seized his imagination and JUSTICE claimed him as her HIGH PRIEST and PROPHET. WHY SEEK WE THE LIVING AMONG THE DEAD? If a man dies shall he live again? Though his body has been interred, his bones dismembered, his hair, waving and long, lost every resemblance to human hair, those eyes that once penetrated the depths of human iniquity, that hand that signed the EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION, entered into combination with the common fertilizers of earth to enrich the plains whereon his comrades fought, bled and died in response to his call "to arms," still his spirit, ever triumphant, pervades today every nook and corner of American history and becomes the key-note of impending woes and dangers.

Years reduced to days, days to hours, hours to minutes it is safe to say that hardly one minute passes without someone's having whispered the name of LINCOLN. In the kindergartens little children learn to lisp his name. They are unable to associate with it the wonderful life, the deeds of heroism and valor, the personal sacrifices, the self-abnegation that entered into and mixed in such proportion as to enable him to round out a life, though blighted by a stroke of political provocation, was, nevertheless, most agreeable to him and his CREATOR. Thus from the cradle to the grave little children and ripe old age shall learn to reverence LINCOLN because of his greatness.

Boys and girls of the Grammar schools look forward to the twelfth of February as the day set aside by the Nation for the observance of LINCOLN'S birthday without taking into consideration the real significance of the occasion. The importance of such events does not always reach the mature mind. In order to understand these feelings one must be able to penetrate the veil that divides the real from the unreal, the true from the false, the temporal from the eternal, a searching out of causes which make men choose rather to die than disavow their principles or submit to the wrong when they diametrically oppose it. The immediate and transitory effects are all that can be registered, understood by the academic abstract. Many mature minds are lost in historic reflection when trying to divine the inconceivable consciousness of LINCOLN. Reading, writing and arithmetic belong to the academy.

High School students are possessed with unusual fervor for hero worship. Patriotism takes an early hold upon them. We behold them discarding the blouse and kilts of childish speculation that they may don the breeches of a higher intellectuality. How happy they are when they can spread the ideas of Byron, Bacon, Shelly, Homer, Shakespeare, Virgil and Dante over quires of dropsical hexameters and flatulent alcaiques. They have been taught that constant application to a set of studies as outlined by the corriculae of his school will fit and prepare him for the great struggle that is to ensue; thus, void of the necessary reflection and calculation, they are thrown broadside into the arena of life. Herein he is confronted with problems as interminable as the process of EVOLUTION itself. The axioms of Algebra, the theorems of Geometry, the idioms of Language, the Philosophy of Life become the working tools of his profession. By their use he masters the arts and sciences of life; builds great empires; formulates creeds and doctrines; converts the world into a speaking gallery; changes the course of rivers; mountains interposed between nations be-

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH CENTRAL AVE?

In public and in private, on the highway, in the pulpit, and in spreading headlines across the big dailies, slurs are cast, at the slightest excuse, upon Central Avenue. Every dog-fight, any sort of untoward happening that occurs within a radius of twelve blocks of Central Avenue, is played up to take place ON Central Avenue!

Central Avenue Is All Right

Right here and now we hurl these charges back into the teeth of those who would disparage us, and we are prepared to say it all up one side and down the other, that Central Avenue is just as clean and orderly as any other district of our city which happened to be traversed by a business thoroughfare. Certain it is that more constructive work along business lines among our group is going forward on Central Avenue, than there is elsewhere in the entire state, among our people. It is out Central Avenue way that the ambitious man catches the inspiration to do business, and capital is constantly attracted to this busy mart. Out Central Avenue way one sees the busy printing press in action, and hears the hum of linotype machines, operated on 24-hour shifts. One sees prosperous and handsomely appointed stores and shops, huge garages teeming with activity, busy tire and accessory establishments, eating houses de luxe; in short, evidence of economic progress and success in endless variety.

Proof of the Pudding in the Eating.

In legitimate commercial enterprises the territory on Central Ave., from 8th Street south to 14th Street, the monthly volume of business done is conservatively estimated at $100,000 or one million two hundred thousand dollars per year. This is not only a conservative, but a low estimate of the business done by the following firms and persons: Harris and Carr, 823 Central Avenue; Baumann's Drug Store; Independent Rubber Company; Mrs. Minor, BeBauty Specialist; Colorado Electric Supply Company; California Eagle; Chauncey, News Dealer; Morton's Grill; J. W. Lee's Barber Shop; George Williams Barber Shop; Christian's Cola, Feed and Ice Comyany; Arnold's Cafe; Mme. Massey's BeBauty Parlor; City Brother's Real Estate; Austin's Cigar Stand; Briggs' Cafe; Duhue Cafe; Wilson Brothers Eating House; Sampson-Brooks Beauty Parlor; W. Waters Lunch House; Boyd Shining Parlor; Tanksley and Spellman Taxi Company; Warren the Jeweler; Worsham's Drug Store; Smith's Drug Store; Henderson's Haberdashery; W. A. Minor, Cleaner; Johnson BBros. Pool Hall; Frank Tibbs, Cleaner; Miss Picard, Cafe; Elite Beauty Parlor; Fred Saw's Place; Spiller Grocery Company; Johnson's Cafe; Spikes Brothers; Ross China Store; Duncan's Barber Shop; Thompson's Barber Shop; Warren's Gasoline Station; R. W. Baker's BBillard Parlor; Abyssinia Barber Shop; May's Real Estate; Prentice Dry Goods Store; Smith and Williams, Undertakers; Ideal Bakery; Evy Brothers Garage; C. J. Williams, Contractor; McClelland's Lunch Room; Wilkins Academy of Music; Shackelford and Loggins, Realtors; BBlanton's Lunch Room; Lamar Realty Compahy.

This will Hold the Critics.

Now, these lines will beyond peradventure silence the critics of Central Avenue. The only way to squelch the knockers is to DEMONSTRATE—and the above array of facts and figures should hold them for evermore.

On Central Avenue, the people are attending to business, and its citizenship stands without a peer, always alert to do the things worth while, closing their eyes and ears to knockers, and heeding only the clarion tones of those who boost.

ROYAL BIRTH IN LOS ANGELES

There was born this week in the City of Los Angeles at 749 Ceres Avenue in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Johnson, A New Baptist Church. At the head of the New Organization is the Rev. Dr. Henry Darius Prowd, a man of learning and experience in Baptist Doctrine, Polity, and Practice. Dr. Prowd has been the Founder of two Baptist Churches, and the Builder of Five regular Baptist Churches. One of these Churches is located on Mound Street in Cintinnati, Ohio. This was the first Colored Church in that City built from the ground throughout, and thoroughly equipped with every thing new, and with a new Pipe Organ. To this day the people of Cincinnati regard with just pride the laudable and successful effort of Dr. Prowd.

Dr. Prowd, as a citizen, has identified himself with every sane and safe object looking to the advancement of his Colored brethren—especially his denomination for which he has made many sacrifices—yet on the other hand his heart embraces fellow Christians of other denominations. And in this particular he can truly say, "The World is my Parish." Dr. Prowd is a 32nd Degree Mason and hails from St. John's No. 3 of Cincinnati. He is also a Pythian, and an Odd Fellow, and connected also with The Heroine of Jerico, and The Good Samaritan. He is a Christian, and lover of his fellow man.

This new movement grows out of the great need of additional Spiritual provision for the abundance of our people who are literally pouring into Los Angeles from all parts of the country. And Dr. Prowd acceding to the requests of a great number of Church, and non Church people has started out trusting in JESUS CHRIST—the GREAT HEAD OF THE CHURCH—and inviting the sympathy and assistance of the good people of Los Angeles to his aid.

The Church will have Temporary Quarters in The Y. M. C. A. on Ninth Street Corner of Hemlock. Services will begin there this Sunday, at 11:00 a. m. Subject: THE CHURCH OF THE LIVING GOD. FLIES ALL OVER EUROPE

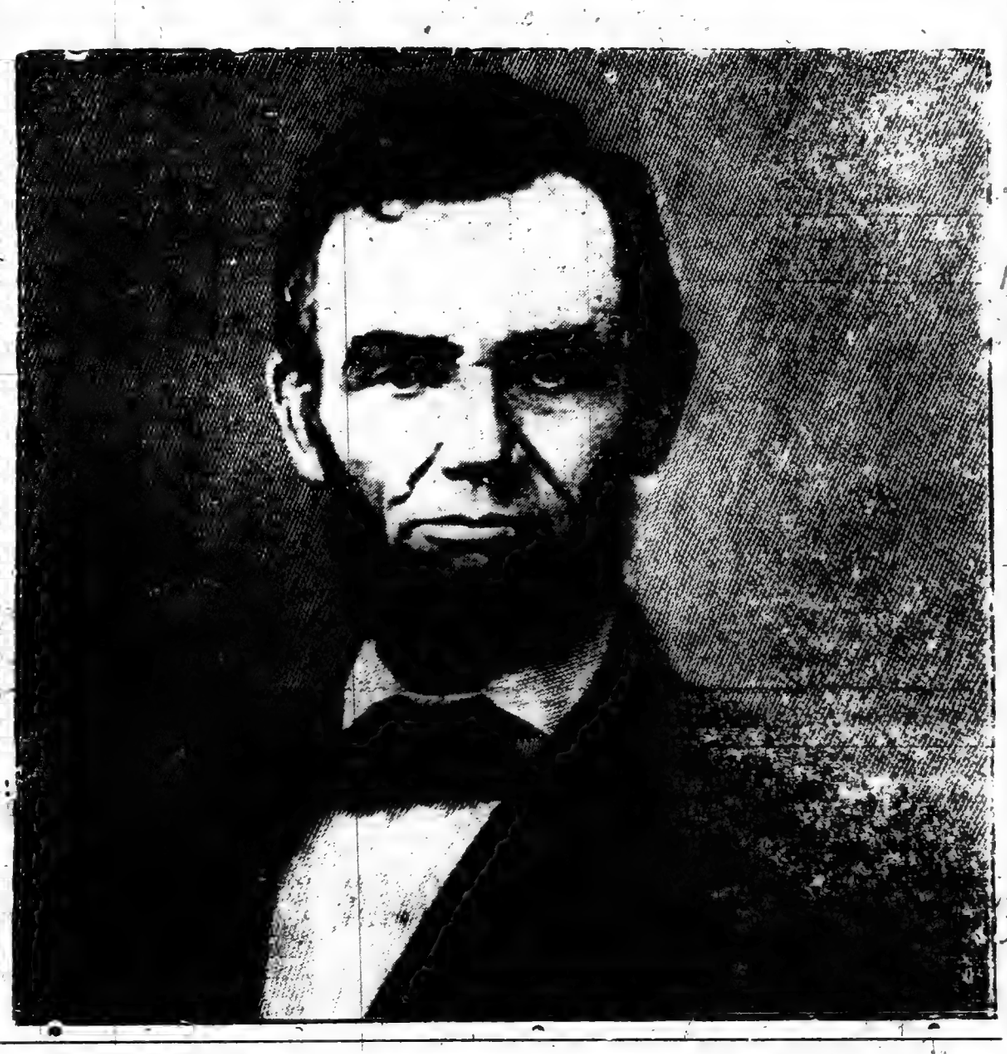
MAKES DEMONSTRATIONS IN NEW YORK AND CHICAGO---MEETS WWATERLOO IN CALIFORNIA

FALL LAID TO DEFECTIVE PLANE

By Dora L. Mitchell.

Just after starting from Santa Monica for Palomar Park, where she was scheduled to give exhibition flights on Sunday afternoon, February 4th, Miss Coleman's plane fell a distance of some hundreds of feet to the ground, and she was seriously injured. She was carried at once to St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica, where it was found she had sustained a broken leg, three fractured ribs, bruises and painful cuts about the eyes and chin. Miss Coleman's plane was completely wrecked, and it has not been learned for a certainty just what caused the accident. The machine however, was one purchased by the aviatrix since her recent arrival in California; her own plane, which she used in Europe, is in Chicago.



Just how "game" the little aviatrix was to the last, was evinced by the fact that while en route to the hospital, she dispatched a verbal message to her field-manager, Mrs. Bass, to the effect that she would "be on later"—that is, as soon as she could be patched up—a plan which was, needless to say, wisely frustrated by the hospital authorities.

The crowd that had assembled at Palomar Park to see Miss Coleman was keenly disappointed by her non-appearance, the real reason for which, unfortunately, was not learned until late Sunday night, too late to controvert the wild rumors tha twere flying from tongue to tongue.

And it is with shame for our own people that we must say that the general tenor of these rumors and expressions of opinion was such as to

COLORED CASH AND WHITE SUPREMACY

By Chandler Owen

We have constantly stressed the importance of economic relationships. We have repeated the statement of Alexander Hamilton: The power over a man's subsistence is the power over his will. The American Unity League, an anti-Ku Klux Klan organization composed of Jews, Catholics and Negroes, has been securing the names of all business men in Chicago, Cleveland and several other large cities and then publishing those names to the public. The result was a run upon one Chicago bank—a run so disastrous that the board of directors of the bank had to require the Klansman member to resign in order to save the institution. The Unity League also charged that Mr. Wrigley (of Wrigley chewing gum fame) was a member of the Klan, whereupon the boycotting of the Wrigley chewing gum became a menace.

In New York the Friends of Negro Freedom learned unofficially that the Klansmen were alleged to be meeting at the home of Mr. A. Edward Wupperman of Angostura Bitters fame. Immediately we heralded the news urging Negroes not to buy anything touched by Klan influence. One of our representatives was called in by the Angostura Bitters Corporation. It is a tremendous drug syndicate, rich and powerful. Yet the president, treasurer, secretary and the chief officials presented themselves and spared no pains in protecting their innocence of Ku Klux connections. They not only explained but had waiting for our representative when he arrived the following sworn statement which speaks for itself:

"TO AMERICAN COLORED PEOPLE
From
"ANGOSTURA BITTERS"

"The January Messenger published an editorial which seemingly connected "ANGOSTURA BITTERS" with the Ku Klux Klan. This was unfortunate. I take this opportunity to emphatically affirm that "ANGOSTURA BITTERS" is in no way connected with the Klan, and that it is still the best medicine of its kind.

"I have a colored cook who has been with me for eight years, and a colored chauffeur drove my car all summer and fall. I have given the preference to colored people whenever possible and have contributed money to their organizations. I will furnish absolute proof of the truth of my statements to any one who will take the trouble to call at my office.

"I do this also to relieve Hon. Geo. W. Harris and Mr. Sol Butler of any embarrassment which the editorial might have caused them.

(SIGNED) A. EDWARD WUPPERMAN.

12 East 46th Street.
New York."

Here is a clear case of Negro cash pitted against white supremacy. Men's hates of somebody else are seldom as great as their love for money and wealth. This company does not hate Negroes less but it loves Negroes money more. We want Negroes to keep in mind the tremendous force of their economic power. Spend your money with your friends; boycott your enemies—even your supposed enemies until they explain their position. And you can bet your life that in nearly every instance colored cash will triumph over white supremacy.

Mrs. Myrtle Mussendem of 1518 E. 22 Street is improving from an attack of illness.

Mr. George Malone passed away Tuesday at the Norwalk Sanitarium, Norwalk California. Mr. Malone was badly beaten up at the time of his demise. He had been an inmate of this institution for about six months. It is asserted that the bruised condition of Mr. Malone's body at the time of his death was due to a battle between Malone and one of the inmates. The funeral was held from the Bethel Church of Christ Monday, Rev. Wm. Washington officiating. Mr. Malone leaves a widow, Mrs. Annie Malone of E. 39th Street.

BESSIE COLEMAN, GIRL FLYER, MEETS WITH SERIOUS ACCIDENT

indicate a most deplorable derth of chivalry among our men and an utter lack of womenly feeling and sympathy among those of Miss Coleman's own sex. In short, Miss Coleman and her managers were loudly accused (and even abused) for promoting a "bunco game," and the later were assailed by clamorous, and even insulting, demands for a refund of admission money then and there. In other words, a brave little Race girl was condemned without a hearing while she lay on a bed of pain, unable to even send a message that would have cleared the situation—although such message would doubtless have been received with sneers and incredulity. In this connection, we might add, by way of appropriately capping the climax, that certain people, on Sunday night, when announcement of the accident was made at various places, declared this poor girl's cruel injuries to be a punishment from on high for the sin fo attempting to fly on Sunday—a declaration of sentiment not only un-Christian and inhuman, but positively childish!

come as specters in a river's mist; and nations shake hands across the seas; and notwithstanding all that DESTINY, like Tennyson's "little brook," goes on for ever. He finds that he just as impotently moves as the molecule that dances at the behest of a sunbeam. Hence, the High School student learns that there are laws that outrun those of Chemistry, Physics or Trigonometry. The infinite relation of these laws becomes man's imperfect apprehension of the ordination of DESTINY.

Eac year sees thousands of men and women issuing from Universities. They, too, have a reverence for LINCOLN. They can attribute to him more motives in a single minute than could be recorded by an expert stenographer in a fortnight. Because they can weigh the problems suggested concerning Light, Heat, Electricity, Magnetism, Physiology and Geology; because they know when these sciences were discovered they profess a natural right to declare when they are liekly to be exhausted. DESTINY plays no part with them. Everything is a scientific fact. Though the mind calmly, genially apprehends one after another the physical laws it trembles when ushered into the counsel of the CREATION. Moreover, there is a secret behind human WILL.

Passing from the time of the child's successive possession of his five senses up to the time when he thinketh as a man, speaketh as a man, saying, "Not my will, but thine," he is learning the secret and thereby is enabled to conform all facts to his knowledge of material things.

SO IT WAS WITH LINCOLN.....

DESTINY was looking for a MAN. There was a problem to be solved. Two factors were involved. To denounce one and establish the other would have proved inconsistent with he life of both. An inversion of terms would lend no prospect of solution! The exponent of LIBERTY as a MONOMIAL must prove his philosophy by his willingness to die for the propogation of his faith, his ideals. And LINCOLN died to prove the truthfulness of his declaration, that "NO NATION CAN HOPE TO EXIST HALF FREE AND HALF SLAVE." Because he died millions have been benefitted thereby, receiving their rightful share of the ransom made possible by the martyrdom of the world's greatest STATESMAN— 'ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

COLORED PHYSICIANS OVERCOME HANDICAP

JUST WILL HAVE HOSPITAL

Undaunted by obstacles that have heretofore held them back, a trio of our most prominent and progressive physicians and surgeons now announce the erection of a thoroughly modern and up-to-date hospital on East 15th Street, between Central and Hooper Avenue.

This enterprise is promoted and fostered by Doctors J. T. Whitaker, R. S. Whitaker, and Charles S. Diggs. Dr. J. T. Whittaker and Dr. C. S. Diggs, with Dr. Frank Gordon, were associated together in the promotion of the Dunbar Hospital, but were denied the opportunity to develop the enterprise by the zoning ordinance. Dr. R. S. Whittaker is a brother to Dr. J. T. Whittaker; both are now engeged in the practice of their profession in Pasadena. Dr. Diggs has offices in Los Angeles.

Dr. J. T. Whittaker hsa had a rich and varied experience in medicine and surgery, and gained considerable fame in the Middle West and East. He also saw service in the army in the Spanish-American and in the World War! Since coming to California has has made wonderful strides, and is especially lauded for his skill in surgery. Likewise, his brother, Dr. R. S. Whittaker has followed in his steps, and is one of the leading physicians and surgeons of this day. Dr. C. S. Diggs, before coming to California, was recognized as one of the leaders of his profession in the South; since establishing himself here, he has not only maintained his high reputation, but has added to his medical laurels.

The new hospital is now in course of construction, and the doors will be thrown open to the public on or about April 1, 1923. While the above doctors are its promoters, its facilities will be at the disposition of all reputable physicians. In connection with the hospital, there will be a nurse training school. In addition to the hospital staff of physicians, there will be six nurses in the institution. The dimensions of the building will be 36 x 70, with sixteen rooms, and accomodations for from 25 to 30 patients.

Without doubt, the people of Los Angeles will show their appreciation of this great forward step, by sustaining this new institution to the utmost, in order that it may at last mark the beginning of what will prove to be one of the greatest establishments of its kind in the entire country.

PRICE BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION AT FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH SUNDAY NIGHT, FEB. 11. ATTORNEY W. O. TYLER TO DELIVER ORATION

The birthday of Joseph Charles Price, foremost race orator and educator of his time, will be celebrated at the First A. M. E. Zion Church, corner of Pico and Paloma Streets, Sunday Night, February 11th, with an elaborate program. Attorney Willis O. Tyler, matchless orator of the West, will be the speaker. The music, under the direction of Prof. Wm. M. Bynum, will be especially fine, featured with choruses, vocal and instrumental solos by prominent musicians of Los Angeles.

The Price Memorial is an annual occasion in Zion Churches everywhere which lays emphasis upon educational progress of the race as promoted by the Church. Dr. Price was the founder of Livingstone College, the principal institution of the Zion Connection, and was the apostle of higher education for the Colored race.

The exercises will begin Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

URSURLINE BANNISTER SHAW RECITAL GGREAT SUCCESS. MRS. SHAW WINS HIGH PRAISE AS DRAMATIC READER.

Ursuline Bannister Shaw captivated the large audience that gathered at the First A. M. E. Zion Church last Friday night to witness her initial recital in Los Angeles as a dramatic reader. Mrs. Shaw presented a program of an unusually high character. Her repertoire offers plenty of variety and is well adapted to her splendid talnets. Indeed, the versatility which Mrs. Shaw displayed was especially striking. It easily eliminated any possibility of lagging interest on the part of the audience. Whether in light or serious vein, delineating Roman tragedy or Dunbar's lyrics, Mrs. Shaw gave convincing evidence of her gifts and training in the art of elocution.

The musical numbers of the program are also deserving of high praise. Miss Ethel Billups and Mrs. Bertha Miller Spurill were heard in soprano solos, beautifully sung. Mr. Malcolm Patton, the popular baratone, sang, "Just You" with such thrilling effect upon the audience that he was repeatedly encored. Professor Bynum's Choir sang well up to its reputation, and Miss Hazel Gottschalk's piano selection was delightfully received.

According to the plan of the campaign, the two highest candidates for mayor who receives above fifty votes will be the nominees for the general election. The 18 high number of candidates for the city council above 25 votes will be the councilmanic nominees at the general election.

COMMUNITY CENTER

During this era of slumbering Christian consciousness it is indeed a source of deep and profound gratification to note the great work of real up-life being performed by Bishop Johnson and his church in the Eastern side of the City of Los Angeles at the Neighborhood Community Center. One has but to pay a visit to this active center to observe the boiling of the "melting pot." Ninth and Wilson streets have long been the scene of active settlement work by this great and good organization, bat the work in former years seemed of slow growth. Today however finds the various departments enlarged and crowded to their full capacity and administering to the health, care, and comfort of the homogeneous population of which the East Side is composed. Words are inadaquate to express the true significance of this great work at this particular period of our country's history. We fear that the public generally is somewhat tardy in recognizing the permanent good accomplished by this truly Christian organization. Bishop Johnson and his co-workers certainly have the key to our municipal problems. It is indeed to be regretted that denominational lines cannot be so thoroughly obliterated that all desiring the peace and happiness of the community and the permanency of our government, could not unite in one harmonious effort for the uplift of the needy masses. Long live this grand organization to push to a successful consumation the great work at hand. May the good sisters who have the brunt of constant and immediate contact with those seemingly insolvable problems of race and religion have strength and patience for each day's trials.

CHARLES ROBINSON

The above is a good likeness of Charles Robinson, formerly of Georgia. Mr. Robinson is one of the few members of our race who has not felt the weight of his years, being 80 years of age and still working daily for the support of himself and wife. Mr. Robinson readily encourages every effort looking toward race advancement and is indeed a most substantial race man.

Watts, That Progressive and Growing Community

R. PEERY

The above named was formerly a police officer in the city of Watts and for two years served in that capacity. Mr. Peery is now conducting a store of general merchandise and can be rated as one of the successful business men of the race. His place of business at 923 South Compton Avenue is of easy approach and is well patronized by the residents of that immediate locality regardless of race or color. Mrs. Peery is a great help to her husband in the management of his business.

GREAT IS THE WORKING OF THE LORD IN WATTS

All the people of Watts and the surrounding territory are being stirred over the results of a great revival that is now in session. Souls are being saved and baptised into the body of Christ. The sick are being healed. The feeble minds are strengthened. Pastor Patrick is behaving himself in a Godly way. He his with him as helpers Sister Carrie Scott, of Texas, and Sister Pearl Hogans, of California, with a long line of workers, all of whom are doing their part to build up the kingdom of Christ in Watts. Let us all pray for the work.

"JACK" SHIELDS

One of the largest and most successful business enterprises conducted by members of our group is the New and Second hand furniture business conducted by J. Shields, familiarly known as Jack Shields, at 216 W. Main Street. Mr. Shields has built up an extensive business by a strict application to business principles and this well conducted establishment is a high reflection of his business sagacity. With a few more enterpises conducted along these lines our place in the business world would be fairly won.

C. C. LEAKE

No race man has kept in closer touch with the industrial development of Watts and immediate vicinity than the above named. Mr. Leake might be classed as one of the pioneer cinity coming here from Furlong business men of our group in this vi- Tract, Los Angeles some 15 years ago, when all of our race industries were in their infancy. His steady efforts and careful movements along business lines have given to this section the Beautiful Leake's Lake and its environs, an ideal summer resort, enjoy their summer outings. Mr. where the residents for miles around Leake is keenly alive to business and commercial interests of the race and the community in general and keeps in close touch with those who are seeking to make Watts a modern, up-to-date municipality. Mr. Leake cooperates willingly with every movement which has for its object the permanent development of Watts as a commercial and residential section.

The state has placed a valuation of $20,000 upon the fish breeding business as conducted by Mr. Leake in his fast growing enterprise.

COCHRAN'S CASH AND CARRY GROCERY

Among the successful business firms conducted by members of our group, is the above well-known firm. Mr. and Mrs. Cochran are business people in the truest sense of the trem and have a vision of a co-operative mercantile establishment conducted by members of our race. They are a pronounced success in their business as their successful establishment at 918 South Compton Avenue can attest. If the desires of the Cochran's can be accomplished, the day is not for distant when Watts will have a race enterprise which is an absolute necessity.

MONTGOMERY AND HOUCHINS

Among the worthy business ventures by race women is the above named firm. These enterprising race women are carrying a line of Dry Goods and Notions which clearly indicate a knowledge of the needs of our race. They should be encouraged, every member of the race should feel it his or her incumbent duty to give these enterpriseing women their support. In a measure their success is our success.

MADAM DORAM

As the late Madam Walker paved the way for successful business enterprises among our people throughout the country, so we trust this deserving little race woman may be the pioneer, for successful business race women in this community. Modam Doran is thoroughly prepared to serve in her capacity and can be found at all hours at her establishment 925 South Compton Avenue.

H. TEEMS

Two and one half years ago the above named race man embarked in the lumber business with a capital of something less than one hundred dollars. His business grew as if by magic till today Mr. Teems is carrying a stock of lumber valued at $75,000.00. It has not been the proverbial luck that is responsible for this phenominal business success but bull-dog tenacity and pluck that has added this successful business enterprise to our credit, we use the possessive pronoun, our, for when one member of the group succeeds, we all in a measure share that success. Mr. Teems is very enthusiastic as to the future of his business during this season of development and expansion and the members of the race who possess the vision are giving him every encouragement in the way of active co operation. It is indeed a most worthy enterprise and should succeed.

ANONYMOUS POLICE LETTERS

Passing through the police department, we were shown a sample of some of the anonymous communications which filter into the station from time to time. We read one which attracted our attention because it referred to matters which are right under our observation.

Now, in the first place, to our mind, the person who would write an anonymous letter is about the lowest and vilest form of animal life that infests the earth, and would not scruple to commit any base or villanious act; this type of creature is side partner to the assassin who slinks behind his victim and stabs him from the back. It is an enigma to us why the police would give credence, much less consideration, to such epistles.

If a man is a real MAN, and is cognizant of crime or wrong-doing being committed, he walks right into the station or elsewhere and openly states his case. If it were otherwise, no citizen, no matter what his position in society, would be safe from these hyenas.

The letter in question was written and signed on a typewriter, the typewritten signature was that of R. H. Sampson, of the Y. M. C. A. The communication bore all the ear-marks of the handiwork of a crook bearing a personal grudge against Sergeant Bert Massey, Officer Frank White, R. W. Baker, and Officer McClanahan in particular. Now, as a matter of fact, all the officers mentioned have repeatedly given practical demonstration and irrefutable proof of their bravery and integrity in their effort to keep down crime east of Main St. Frank White is one of the most gentlemanly and diplomatic officers one could meet; Arthur McClanahan, though young in the service, is a credit to the force and sergeant Massey has stood squarely behind the boys an dhelped to make their efforts a signal success and it will take more than cowardly attacks in the form of anonymous letters to deprive them of the credit due.

As To R. W. Baker

We at once decided that if the charges against R. W. Baker and his place of business were true, the place should be looked into. Suiting the action to the thought, we made a painstaking investigation, which disclosed the following facts: That Mr. Baker operates a pool room on Central Avenue, between Pico and Fourteenth Streets: in the pool room is also located the Abyssinia Barber Shop, operated by Harry Southard and George Ellerby, two clean-cut, upright business men who maintain one of the finest shops in the city. We stopped not here, but went further. We inquired at every place of business across the street and adjacent to the establishments mentioned, and each and every one gave the place a clean bill for being orderly in its inside management and for not permitting loafers to congregate before its doors. Moreover, we did not stand on the outside and look in, but went inside and looked out, and with fully a dozen tables going we heard not a word of discord, nor even an oath, from any of the men assembled.

It was evident that the casting of aspersions against this establishment was done in accordance with those principles (or lack of principles) that so pervert men's conscience as to allow them to fail low enough to resort to anonymous letter in an effort to achieve their contemptible purpose.

We truly believe that the police department and the Federal Government should run down the originators of this base propoganda and put them behind the bars---for they are a menace to society and more pernicious than the Ku Klux Klan.

For Law and Order

This paper stands fairly and squarely for Law and Order. We are against all dives; we denounce no particular place for vicious practices, for all vice is wrong. But we do believe in a square deal for all legitimate business, and it is a sad commentary on prevailing conditions that any business or any citizen can be made the victim of a vile, creeping, crawling, insidious character-assassin who would not scruple to destroy a man's reputation or ruin his business, to satisfy a personal grudge.

R. H. Sampson, of the Y. M. C. A. stand up! And we will point to you as the master-crook of all crooks.

(Sampson is a myth known only to anonymous letter writers.)

ABRAHAM LINCOLN FAVORED THE COMMON PEOPLE— SO DO WE

No greater man ever lived than Abraham Lincoln. He is loved today by every race and creed, and he lived a simple life. His whole thought was of his fellow men. His sterling character portrayed two great traits—honesty and kindness. He had a feeling that everything should be done to help the common people. His thoughts were always of them. Now this store is laying the same foundation. We cater to the wants of the masses, the people who have to work for their living and work hard, and we have a real message for them. It is this—you can dress better for just half what you have been spending on dresses, coats or hats. We mean this, and are proving it daily to hundreds of satisfied customers who are continually coming back to us for their clothes. You may rightly ask how can we do this. No we'll tell you——

1.—It costs us less than one per cent for rent.

2.—You don't have to pay for fancy fixtures or shop in a marble palace.

3.—We have other stores throughout the East and combine our purchases. No quantity is too large for us to buy.

4.—We undersell other stores because we are satisfied with a low margin of profit, depending on volume for our profits.

5.—We do not buy cheap merchandise. We buy good merchandise at a lower price than other stores.

6.——We buy for cash and sell for cash only.

All these things help us to keep down overhead charges, all of which you have to pay for when buying from stores that deliver merchandise and have charge accounts, fancy fixtures, etc.

Practically every hat sold in our millinery department is made right here under our own roof in our own factories. No wonder we can save you from $5.00 to 10.00 on every hat you buy. No middleman's or jobbr's profit —only one profit and a small one at that.

ATTEND OUR EMPLOYEES BENEFIT SALE-END SATURDAY—ALL OUR EMPLOYEES RECEIVE A PERCENTAGE OF OUR GROSS SALES

REGULAR $45.00 WOMEN'S COATS ON SALE AT 14.98

Most everyone is talking about these wonderful coats. Many have wondered how we can sell garments that are actually worth up to $45.00 at $14.98. This is the reason —we purchased the entire stock of a certain manufacturer at a price that will average a loss to him of over $15.00 o nevery coat. So you can readily see the saving that awaits you at this remarkable sale. Coats made of the very finest materials with luxurious fur collars and cuffs. Splendid all silk linings and many models to select from. Without a doubt, the greatest coat values of the year.

THE NEW SPRING HATS PRICED AT 3.98

Hats made in all the new wanted shades and materials. Hats that would sell elsewhere for at least $10.00. We have our own factories and practically all the hats we sell are made under our own roof. You save the profits of the jobbers and middlemen. Do you know that many prominent movie stars whose business it is to dress well buy their hats from us? They know style and are naturally eager to save money on their clothes.

SHOWING A WONDERFUL DISPLAY—SPRING DRESSES 14.98

Taffetas, canton crepes and satin combinations and many new silks, delightfully new. Many styles to select from. We know positively that these dresses are being offered elsewhere at prices as high as $27.50. It is just an example of how we sell ready-to-wear. Do you know that you can dress well for just half what you have been spending if you buy your clothes from Scott's? When you buy Scott's, you are saving half the usual overhead charges. We are more than willing to prove these assertions. Our low prices tell the story.

CAPTAIN H. Z. OSBORNE

On Thursday of this week after a protracted illness Congressman Henry Z. Osborne passed away. Mr. Osborne was a strong character and beloved by all who knew him. He was a staunch friend and supporter of this publication, and was noted for his interest in the great common people. We join in with his family and friends in mourning his loss.

AVIATRIX HAS HOPES FOR FUTURE

Miss Bessie Coleman, aviatrix excellentissima, lies incumbent in the St. Catherine's Hospital at Santa Monica, as a result of injuries sustained last Sunday.

With a leg broken in two places, three broken ribs and injuries about the face she still holds an optimistic outlook for her future career, as an exponent of the science and art of a eronautics.

Miss Coleman's regular mechanic had not arrived from the East, but advised her not to fly until he came to test her plane. But as she had an engagement to display her ability before her own people Sunday, she allowed local mechanics to work on her plane.

On entering her machine to fly she noticed that her clock was gone. She invited the mechanic who had worked on her plane, as well as others nearby to ride with her on her first flight. After they refused she climbed into her plane alone.

The leather belts which were used to hold her in were too large and could not be easily loosened. When she reached an altitude of about three hundred feet she lost control of the machine. But before the crash she was able to right her plane so that it would not strike the ground at right angles. This lessened her injuries a great deal.

She believes that it was due to an inefficient examination of her machine. All of her friends and admirers hope for an immediate recovery so that she may be able to inculcate some of her spirit of daring into her people.

"TELL THEM I'M GOING TO FLY"
Bessie Coleman's Message to the General Public.

Aviatrix Bessie, now at St. Catherin's Hospital in Santa Monica, sends this message to all friends and well-wishers, and all who loyally turned out to witness the exhibition flight last Sunday that ended so tragically for the star-performer: "TELL THEM ALL, THAT AS SOON AS I CAN WALK, I'M GOING TO FLY! AND MY FAITH IN AVIATION AND THE USEFULLNESS IT WILL SERVE IN FULFILLING THE DESTINY OF MY PEOPLE ISN'T SHAKEN AT ALL. And I mean to carry out every plan I made for establishing a school here, where our boys may acquire the mastery of the air."

WILL CELEBRATE LINCOLN AND DOUGLAS DAY AT THE FORUM SUNDAY

The Anniversary of both Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglas will be observed Sunday at the Forum. A splendid program has been arranged by President McKinney. Addresses will be made by Prof. J. C. Moore and by Editor J. B. Bass. Prof. Moore will speak on Lincoln, while Mr. Bass will take Douglas for his subject. Among other numbers there will be selections rendered by a miae Quartett, singing songs in keeping with the occasion.

LINCOLN AND DOUGLASS

Two men one of them white the other one a black. Two great men one born free the other one a clave, yet the lives they lived stand out in such bold relief that the whole world must take cognizance of their greatness, and the month of February therefore is one which all who stand for real humanitarian principles and recognize men for their real worth will join in the tribute which is paid to these two great characters on the respective anniversary of their births.

Both of these great characters were the son of a destiny unseen, Lincoln without the weights which held Douglass down reached the Presidency and served faithfully and well for freedom's cause. Douglass with the chains of slavery broken, but not off his limbs, reached the highest pinnacle of fame which it was possible to reach. His effort, his personality and power of speech was the motive power to aid the immortal Lincoln on, and it is therefore eminently proper and denotes a spirit of real democracy for all to join in the celebration of the anniversaries of these two notable and great characters.

SOARING EAGLE'S SPECIAL

We are sending forth this issue an effort along the line of diversity in the functioning of a newspaper. Our Mr. Dorsey has caught the inspiration and presents to Eagle readers a practicle demonstration of the activities of our group in the realm of real estate and from the showing made the people from far and near cannct gainsay but what this people answers roll call along this particular line of effort.....Of course along all the other lines ..of ..effors ..our ..regular force sets a hot pace in exploiting all the efforts worth while and all lines of effort are set forth.

TWO LINES OF PRODUCTION

The Forum on last Sunday departed from the frivolous practice of allowing itself to be entertained by frivolous discussion, and refusing to express its stand on law and or, der, and realy listened to and witnessed a practical demonstration along lines of actual production. The J. A. McCall Company, recently organized coffee and spice company, exhibited a dispay of its wares, and laid before the people assembled a genuine proposition, which, if followed up, will mean a real organization, which will stand for much in this community. There is absolutely no reason why such undertakings as this should not receive the heartiest support of all of our people. We have within us the power to build up ourselves, if we can only be brought to realize the same. There are forty thousand people here, it is said, and if but half that number can be made to see the point— by patronizing such a concern as this, and by purchasing stock in the same—the success of the enterprise will be assured—all to the glory and credit of a peope that hitherto have failed to function as they should function along the lines of production.

DANGER LINE OF PROGRESS

The goal which all desire to reach is real progress. The path to this goal, however, is sometimes beset with great obstacles and deadly snares—so much so that there is a danger line in progress. The danger that menaces so many persons is the fact that when they reach the borderline of progress, they become overwhelmed and cannot stand to farther go. We have observed men and their wives who, struggling against poverty and in the depths of despair, would calmly counsel together, give each other due credit for their views, and side by side fight it out to the bitter end and overcome the obstacles in their way—but as soon as the borderline of progress would be reached, one or the other would become unreasonable, family counsel would be thrown to the wind, and real progress would be a thing of the past. The same applies to individuals or organizations. Therefore it is well to watch for the danger line of progress, and remember the bridges that carried you safely over the yawning gulf of despair.

THE POLICE SITUATION

We are eminently satisfied with the police situation in this City, and the manner in which the present Chief of Police, Louis Oakes, conducts the same. Never at any time has more just and impartial consideration been given to all men, than is now being accorded by the present chief of the police force of the City of Los Angeles. The opportunity is ours: now, make good!

There are some forty Colored officers in the police department, and they are indeed some of "the finest"—men of whom we can be justly proud. There are some half dozen detective sergeants, besides veteran patrolmen and those who are serving their probation. Valiant service has been and is now being rendered the city, by this corps of officers. The Purity Squad is the one delegated to deal with the vice situation, and the hobo squad looks after the "won't works" and gives all new-comers the once-over, to the end that the community may not be overrun by criminals and vagrants from other parts. On the detective force, some of the most effective work in stamping out crime is being constantly done by the especially well-quaified officers in that branch of the service. We do not hesitate to accord the highest praise and commendation to these our splendid defenders of Law and Order.

WANT NO BLACK MAMMY MONUMENT

Nevel H. Thomas has opened up a vigorous campaign against the erection of a statue in Washington on government property in honor of the "black mammy" by the United Daughters of the Confederacy. "Why, should our inveterate enemies suddenly want to do something for us," he says. "The same section of our country that wishes to raise this monument raises mountains of obstacles across the path of Negro progress." He as addressed an open letter to the Washington Star in reply to its espousal of the project, to the leaders of the United States Senate, the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the New York World. "The white people who pay such glowing tribute to the divine virtues of loyalty and truth which the "black mammy" possessed in abundance, overlook that other divine virtue which was hers namely, a divine love for her offspring, Mr. Thomas continues. "Her patient sacrifice of self was in the hope that the conscience of her country would awake and give justice to her posterity. Every "black mammy" who looks down from Heaven upon this disordered world is pained at the ingratitude of her mistress and master, and the infinite suffering her offspring must endure in their struggle upward to better things. She delights to see her beautiful offspring aspiring and attaining unto the beautiful and the true in spite of the handicaps which the Southern spirit that seeks to erect this monument has thrown about them, filling positions of usefulness, taking honors in the leading universities in the land, and reigning over cultured homes, not as "black mammy," but as devoted wives and loving mothers. Democracy is the monument that the noble "black mammy" wants erected to her, and not this marble shaft which can only be a symbol of servitude to teach white and black alike that the menial callings are the Negro's place in the scheme of things."

"We fear the Greeks, though bearing gifts."

OPEN LETTER

January 22, 1923.

Mrs. C. A. Bass, Editor,
THE EAGLE,
324 Central Ave.,
Los Angeles, Cal.
My dear Mrs. Bass:

I feel that you will be interested in letting the public have a brief resume of the achievements of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History during the past year. I am, therefore, sending you today an extract setting forth the most important facts in the annual report of the Director. Anything which you may do to give this publicity will be greatly appreciated by the undersigned.

Very truly yours,
C. G. WOODSON,
Director.

The appropriation of $35,000 obtained from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial requires the employment of investigators to develop the studies of the Free Negro Prior to 1861 and of Negro Reconstruction History. The annual allowance of $5,000 is devoted altogether to this work, inasmuch as special instructions received from the Trustees of the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial prohibit the use of this money for any other purpose. The Association has, therefore employed Dr. George Francis Dow to read the eighteenth century colonial newspapers of New England, C. G. Woodson to make a study of the Free Negro Prior to 1861, A. A. Taylor to study the Social and Economic Conditions of the Negro during the Reconstruction, and a clerk serving the investigators in the capacity of a copyist.

At present Mr. A. A. Taylor is spending only one-half of his time at this work, but after the first of next June he will have the opportunity to direct his attention altogether to this task. During this year it is expected that he will complete his studies of the Social and Economic Conditions in Virginia and South Carolina.

In the study of the Free Negro the Director has spent the year compiling a statistical report giving the names of free Negroes who were heads of families in the South in 1830 showing the number in each family and the number of slaves owned. Within a few months that part of the report dealing with Louisana, South Carolina, and North Carolina will be completed.

The Association is also directing attention to the work of training men for research in this field. The program agreed upon is to educate in to best graduate schools with libraries containing works bearing on Negro life and history at least three young men a year, supported by fellowships of $600 from the Association and such additional stipend as the schools themselves may grant for the support of the undertaking. One of these students will take up the study of Negro history, one will direct his attention to Anthropometric and Psychological measurements of Negroes, and one to African Anthropology and Archeology in this undertaking the Association has not only the cooperation of [illegible]

GEORGIA GOVERNOR SPEAKS OUT

GOVERNOR OF GEORGIA URGES THE KU KLUX KLAN TO UNMASK

It has become known that Gov. Hardwick of Georgia is not a Klansman as many thought when he was running for office. He approves of the order but objects to their regalia, especially their masks.

He has suggested to the order that they change their robes, leave off their masks and keep a list of the names of their members.

Now it is said that unless the Klan unmasks he will recommend to the legislature that the wearing of masks be made unlawful in the State.

"There is no room for an invisible government in this State," said the Governor. "So long as I am Governor and can prevent it we shall not have it either from the Kimbal House or Klan palace, or the U. S. Capitol at Washington."

The following letter was written by the Governor to W. W. Rainey of Columbus, Georgia and made public July 10th. Itl was written in reply to a letter from Mr. Rainey indorsing Mr. Hardwick for another term.

The effect of Governor Hardwick's opposition will be watched with much interest.

Already it has called forth some cirticism.

Dr. Caleb H. Ridley, a preacher of the sensational type, who likes to take part in any discussion that will bring him into the limelight announced Tuesday, July 11 th that he intends to answer in his sermon next Sunday night, Governor Hardwick's letter in which he calls on the Ku Klux Klan to unmask.

Dr. Ridley leaves Atlanta next Monday for a two month's tour of California and Oregon in the interest of the Klan.

"My Dear Mr. Rainey:

"Pressure of public business and a slight illness have combined to delay my reply to your letter of the fourth instant. Please accept my excuses for the delay, which has been unavoidable, in the circumstances.

"First and foremost of all, let me assure you of my deep and sincere appreciation of your letter. It is the letter of a real man, and I value it and respect it as such.

"So far as past differences of opinion between us are concerned, they do not count at all with me, and I am so glad to see that they do not with you.

"Individual judgment is the crown jewel of liberty, and it is the glory of this republic that its citizens may honestly differ with one another without losing either respect or regard for each other. I never have bitterness of either mind or heart on questions of this sort. I am never concerned about honest past differences of opinion. The question with me is, not the quarrel of yesterday, but the duties of today and the responsibilities of tomorrow.

"I quite agree with you laso that we should not be intolerant, even towards honest, law-abiding members of the Ku Klux Klan. There are many honest people who are in it and who went into it with the highest and most patriotic motives for its creed and principles are patriotic and unassailable; outrages by mobs of masked men are growing in number in this state, however, and these performances must be checked. Itl is my earnest hope that the leaders of this organization may promptly realize the necessity for discarding the mask and for removing all secrecy about their membership list.

Law Threatened

"Unless they do, it will be necessary in the interest of the public and of law and order, to take stroag steps to make the wearing of mask criminal in this state and I shall unhesitatingly advise and recommend such a course to our general assembly.

"We have no room for invisible government in this stato. So long as I am governor and can prevent it we shall not have it, either from the Kimball house, or the klan, or the United States capitol at Washington. At any rate, I shall do all in my power to combat it from whatever source it may come. Whatever were the excuses for the first Ku Klux Klan—and they were strong and numerous—there are none for any klan of a similar character operating to enforce their own opinions and to execute their own desires, outside of the law not be tolerated by the honest men and women of this state and I do not believe it will be tolerated by them.

"Permit me, in conclusion, to again express my earnest and sincere appreciation of your letter and of my earnest purpose to continue to make Georgia the very best governed of which I am capable, to stand for law and order and decency, and safe business methods in the administration of our state's affairs, at any personal risk, absolutely regardless of all mobs and consequences.

"Very sincerely yours,
(Signed)
"HOKE SMITH HARDWICK,
"Governor."

NATIVE UPRISING

NATIVE UPRISING IN TRIPOLI
Italian Column Wiped Out in First Clash With Revolutionists. Senussi in Field. Taking Advantage of Muddled Situation in Europe, Tripolitians Strike Blow For Freedom.
(Crusader Service)

ROME, Feb. 16.—Italy is faced with another colonial war in Tripoli. During the World War, owing to the pressing demand for troops on the Austrian front, Italy was obliged to withdraw a large part of her forces from Tripoli, thus gradually losing her hold on the colony, and having to content herself with the possession of the coast towns.

The first column, which advanced from Taguira, has been wiped out by the native revolutionists and the rest of the Italian forces are menaced as a result of this initial disaster.

A second column is advancing from Homs. The third column is advancing from Elazizim directly to Tarhuma. The fourth must guard the right flank of the whole expedition and is advancing from Gharian.

All four columns have encountered considerable resistance, but especially the first nad third, which have been engaged in several bloody encounters with the Arabs. The first column was annihilated near Cahr Carebal. The third column attacked the Arabs in entrenched positions near Sidi Bu Argua and obliged them to retreat after a hot fight, leaving thirty dead.

The extent and ramifications of the Senussi, the militant African brotherhood which for decades has caused European statemen sleepless nights, can be gauged by the wide scale upon which rebel operations are being carried out.

RUNS DOWN GIIRL; NEARLY LYNCHED

Colored Driver Saved by Two Spectators from Threatening Crowd.
(Crusader Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.— After he had driven an automobile upon the sidewalk and run down a four-year-old girl last evening, James Mall, 29, colored, of 525 West 147th Street, was threatened by an angry crowd whose attack was staved off only by the prompt action of two men who protected him until the police errived.

Mall was locked up in the West 135 Street Station, charged with felonious assault and driving an automobile while intoxicated. Mary Morris the child whom he ran down, was not seriously injured and was taken to her home, 247 West 130 Street, after Dr. Cohen of Harlem Hospital had examined her.

The child was playing on the sidewalk in front of her home when the automobile struck her. Mail is said to have jumped from the machine and attempted to escape. He was seized by several bystanders, who were threatening to beat him when John Cogen of 135 West 128th Street and John Pracey of 204 West 121st SStreet interfered and stood off the crowd until patrolmen John Tooker of the West 135th Street Station arrived.

French Communists Aid Africans in Fight for Liberty

See Strong Revolutionary Movement in North Africa—Rap French Imperialist Policies.

(Crusader Service)
By C. Valentine.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The following article sent to you translated is from the "Tribune" of January 13. The "Tribune is the slogan of the Dutch Communist Party. The article indicates the vast extent on which Communist work among the Negro population of the world is being planned: WHO ARE "COLONIAL SOLDIERS"

The new program of action of the French Communist party includes an intensive propaganda among the Colonial peoples. Our comrade A. Ker writes:

"The colonial peoples were called upon by France and England to fight for right and Freedom. France has spoken in strong terms to its human reserves of N. Africa, Senegal, Soudan, Madagascar and French-India. She has made beautiful promises to her colonial slaves. The peoples of Asia had even hoped to secure citizenship. But all these illusions were greatly damaged. The yoke of the Mother-land has become more oppressive. North Africa especially is under a reign of terror; the Communists are outlawed, their mail is opened, their press is often tied up, their era personally maltreated.

"But in spite of this the general movement of the Colonial peoples has become one of great revolutionary power. The party must aid the proletarian masses in their national, political and trade demands.

"In Algiers, Tunis, governed by France in 1830, existed for fifty years under a French military governor, the "Arabic Bureau." With no voice in their relations, and sometimes for mere pleasure his natives were whipped and shot indiscriminately in masses. The [illegible] is a citizen, all political [illegible] According to the [illegible] of his color, the land and even the wife of the native passes from hand to hand.

"In this manner they stole the best lands of the natives, turned them over as concessions to colonists or gave them to private companies having great political influence: the Geneva company, for instance 40,000 acres of the best land.

"Revolts occurred repeatedly, the most violent in 1871, when the natives made attempts to throw off the yoke, but unorganised, these rebellions were drowned in blood and the oppression became worse.

"In 1910-11, the distress was so great that part of the natives migrated to Turkish-Syria. But the administration stopped the migration of many by means of violence, because these cheap slaves had no right to leave their masters. Besides, the outside world must not know that France is an oppressor. But the facts speak for themselves. Then came the great World War, which was to have freed the oppressed peoples!

"The unhappy natives, from the ages of 17 to 30 years were compelled to serve the 'Mother-land' France, and without any counter-performance, to execute the hardest duty of a citizen.

"In spit of their religious beliefs they were, insofar as it concerned wearing the knapsack and offering themselves to be shot, fullfledged French citizens, but this equality is unknown in regard to education and voting.

"Yet all this wretchedness had one good feature: Many natives, soldiers and laborers, once in France, came immediately in touch with the workers there, and learned something of the idea of the class struggle and learned to realize their own interests and rights, which they will soon assert."

Chicago Millionaire To Sue Ku Klux Klan

(Crusader Service)

CCHICAGO, Feb. 16.—William Wrigley Jr. announced tonight that he will take action tomorrow against Tolerance, the organ of the American Unity League, which is fighting the Ku Klux Klan by publishing lists of the Klan's members. The league organ had published a supposed application for membership to the Klan by the millionaire gum maker, an application bearing a signature which Mr. Wrigley says is a "rank forgery and about as near like mine as is the North Pole like Vesuvius."

KLAN NIGHT RIDERS PRECEDED RULE OF MOB

Victim of Flogging by Ku Klux Klan Thought He Recognized 3 Who Joined Anti-Labor Committee of 12.

HARRIS, Ark.Feb. 16.—(Crusader Service) Although members of the Committee of Twelve have persistently denied any connection between the Ku Klux Klan and the expulsion, hanging and whipping of railroad strikers, it was learned today that the Klan flogged a man here at night two and a half weeks before the committee suddenly came to life, Jan. 15th.

About midnight of December 28, four men, completely covered by white hoors and robes, which bore the black circle and red cross of the Klan on the breast, entered the bedroom of L. M. Davis, a cook in the restaurant of W. W. Wilson here.

There followed a rough, wild ride for two and one half miles. At an old railroad embankment he was dragged out.

"They said they was the Klan," said Davis today. "They told me to take down my clothes, and then they laid me over the embankment and whipped me. Each of 'em took a lick. They had a leather strap. It hurt aplenty. After they got through whipping me they told me to go on back to Letonia as fast as I could get there, and then turned me loose. I walked back to town.

"I didn't recognise any one in the crowd that whipped me for positive. There was a number I thought I recognised by their build and the way they acted. So I took the paper and showed it to some of those I thought I recognised. They was Clay Holt, who runs a grocery; Jack Holt and a man named Freeland in the meat shop.

HOLT DENIES IT

"I showed 'em the paper and they didn't look a mite surprised. They didn't say nothing. But since that day I ain't been bothered any more. I thought I recognised Walter Snapp and Dr. Coffman in that crowd, but I couldn't be sure."

Clay Holt, Dr. Coffman and Snapp were all members of the citizens' committee which it came surprisingly to life two weeks later. Snapp is Chairman and Dr. Coffman is Secretary of the permanent organization of the citizens committee which evolved out of the committee of twelve established overnight to kill the [illegible] along the railroad.

MAN KILLED IN POLITICAL FIGHT

Charles Watson, Threatening to "Kill Off" Jersey Democrats, Shot to Death.

(Crusader Service)

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 16.— When Charles Watson, thirty-five, Negro, while playing cards in the rear of a cigar store at No. 614 Communipaw Avenue, Jersey City, announced that, as a good Republican he proposed to "kill off" some of the Democratic Negroes of the city, and reached to his pocket apparently for his revolver, Charles Jackson, Negro, one of the owners of the store, fired three bullets into him, according to the police. Watson died a few minutes later.

After the shooting Watson staggered to the street, where the Negroes in the neighborhood were threatening Jackson and Wm. Brady, Negro, the other owner of the cigar store, when police arrived. Jackson was arrested on a charge of murder, and a score of Negroes were held as witnesses.

TUBERCULOSIS AND LEOPRASY

ESPECIALLY QUORANTINABLE

By Dr. E. B. Lewis, B. Sc. M. D.
1518 1-2 East 9th Street

Tuberculosis and leprosy are the sneak thieves of man-acquired maladies. Any health commissioner who fails so utterly in his plain duty to err—if at all—on the safe side, in those things that might secure his community against these two infections, deserves to be exposed as a marplot against health and as an egoist, who would jeopardize his people for his own selfish and dangerous opinion. or servitude, the bacilli of tuberculosis and leprosy may find a lodgment

Irrespective of race, color, climate in the human tissues. A single germ of either may find its way mysteriously from the tuberculous or the leper to your child, your mother or to your lips, there to encyst itself for years, awaiting the inevitable moment when you are out of sorts or run down, to flourish in the fertile soil thus provided.

Maladies which owe their unpleasant origin to the slow and insidious vegetation called bacteria are known as chronic infections. Tuberculosis and leprosy are of this number, and their victims owe their visitation to the indifference of school commissioners and others with authority to do their utmost to isolate those who have these diseases.

If each and every sufferer with tuberculosis and leprosy were completely shut off and quarantined from all communication with the healthful inhabitants of this country, these two dread acourges could be abolished. Tuberculosis and leprosy are communicable diseases, all the more vicious because the tracks they leave behind—the pathway of infection between a laundress, a waiter or some one's chance handclasp and the second victim—are long forgotten ere the outward evidence of the decade incubation is seen.

In fine, the consumptive and the leper that is now in your neighborhood scatters one or two invisible bacilli on your neighbor's dishes, towels, lips or finger-nails, and the neighbor has forgotten about it fifteen years hence, when the great-granddaughter bacilli hatch out and multiply in your tissues. The health commissioner responsible cannot be hung now, because he died years before, confirmed in his terrorizing decision that leprosy cannot be transmitted to others in this climate.

Once the germs of tuberculosis gain lodgment in the animal fabric, it propagates itself slowly until enough of them are born to prove the poisonous effects of their products on the lungs, kidneys or other structures.

Then a mild fever, cough, a little spittle or some loss of weight pay indicate that some mischief is brewing in the textiles of your vitals. If every person on earth ill with tuberculosis or leprosy were removed to the islands of Madagascar or Molokai there is logic in the assurance that these two purple plagues would be disposed of for all time. Moreover, a large part of those sent away would in due time be healed and restored to health. They could be sent to an intermediate point for tests to free them of any bacilli undisposed of by their own powers and finally returned to their original habitation.

Such a method is feasible, but I fancy that the "take-a-chance-let-things-drift" attitude of modern pseudo-civilized political human beings would allow sympathy and sentiment to interfere with the plan. Better, you think, to continue to spread these diseases that to send the sufferers away from their homes.

Dr. Lewis will endeavor questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest to the people. He cannot always undertake to give advise or other advice for individual cases. Where the subject is out of general interest, letters will be answered personally, if a stamped addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. E. B. [illegible] 1518 1-2 9th Street.

CORRECTS DU BOIS ON GARVEY STATEMENTS

Says Garveyism Gained No Foothold in the Islands—Gives Other Interesting Facts.

(Crusader Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Mr. W. A. Domingo, former editor of the Emancipation was asked to give a statement of the article entitled "Back to Africa" by Dr. W. E. D. Du Bois, in the Century Magazine for February.

Mr. Domingo said:

"The article is very ably and cleverly written but shows a great ignorance of many elementary facts. Dr. Du Bois is at is best when he philosophizes on the causes that made for GGarvey's rise but is hopelessly at sea in many of his conclusions.

"Illustrative of the factual mistakes of Dr. Du Bois, for whom I ihave the highest regard intellectually, he states that Garvey roofed over his dismal dungeon, Liberty Hall. This is not true, as this place was formerly Metropolitan Baptist Church under the pastorate of Rev. W. W. Brown. He speaks of "potentates" when as a matter of fact Gabriel Johnson of Liberia, who did the "Knighting" is the only "Potentate" of the U. N. I. A. The impression that one gets is that Emmet Scott, Booker Washington's Secreatry, knelt down and was "Knighted." Mr. Scott denied being present as far back as last September.

"Dr. Du Bois gives the impression that the West Indians began to travel since the Great War and that the demand for their labor at Panama began after Garvey was articulate in Jamaica. The veriest tyro in West Indian matters knows that West Indian laborers flocked to Panama during the DeLesseps attempt to cut the canal and again in huge droves around the time of the American operations in 1905. The immigration to Panama began to subside in 1910. The later West Indian immigrants to the United States came principally from Panama, Cuba, Costa Rica, Guatemala and other Central republics. Comparatively few came directly from the islands. And those who came were not all "laborers and servants."

It is safe to say that fifty per cent of them were artizans and found employment in building cantonments and ships, besides working in ammunition plants and in the machine shops of many railroads.

West Indians have long been travelers. Port Limon, Costa Rica, is practically a West Indian town, and most of the construction work in Haiti, Eucador, Brazil and Panamas was done by British West Indians, not to mention the fact that Jamaicans man the banana industry of Central America. These are but a few of many, very many, mistakes of fact.

One point has proved me to be a good prophet. It is this: As far back as 1919 I predicted that when the Garvey debacle became a reality the attempt would be made to fasten the responsibility upon West Indians, particularly Jamaicans. This was inevitable; but fortunately I anticipated this and in the interest of truth will make the facts available to those who are interested in accuracy.

Garveyism never gained any kind of foothold in the islands. Such West Indians who have embraced this egregious folly are those who are living abroad or have lived abroad and those gained racial consciousness. The best proof of this is the fct that Garvey failed to make good in Jamaica and was laughed at by the "peasants" as a huge joke. It was in the 20th Century America that his insane ideas fructified numerically and financially. Here he raised money and hired his paid intellectual assassins. Especially was his success great after the two articles by Truman Tally in the "World's Work Magazine" had boosted the black Moses sky high. Colored newspapers copied the articles and white newspapers handled Garvey's lying releases as though they represented the hopes of the race. This resulted in Negroes everywhere flocking to the red, black and green standard.

"Before that, his chartering of the Yarmouth had, as Du Bois says, an 'electrical' effect upon even his apponents.

"If a calm examination is made of the various funds of Garvey, it will be noticed that since 1920 the most of the money was subscribed in the United States and most of that amount from points west of the Atlantic Seaboard.

"As most West Indians (and 34,000 out of about 60,000 in the U. S. live in New York) live in the cities on the Atlantic ocean it is a mystery to me how Dr. Du Bois concludes that West Indians are the principal sufferers!

"Regarding the nationality of a majority of Garvey's members, I believe that Dr. Du Bois is gravely in error when he asserts that they are West Indians largely Jamaicans. Not that Jamaicans are not fools (for isn't Garvey a Jamaican?) but they know their man.

"In the January Crisis, Dr. Du Bois quotes Garvey in the Jamaica Gleaner as saying that one half of his active members were in America. An analysis of Garvey's figures first made by me and later verified by Dr. Du Bois fixed the maximum membership of the U. N. I. A. at 80,000. That gives America 40,000. Garvey claims to have 10,000 members in New York City.

"Leaving aside his known penchant for lying, and accepting his statement, let us suppose that 90 per cent of the New York members are West Indians—that gives 9,000 or 9-44th of the total West Indian population in that city. If the proportion of West Indians in the U. N. I. A. is no greater than the proportion in New York then the total West Indian membership in the United States is 15,876 which leaves the American members at 24,124.

"Bearing out my contentions which does not take into consideration the probability of Garvey's exaggeration of his New York membership, I quote Marcus Garvey's words in the Boston Chronicle, Jan. 27th, 1923:

"He (Dr. Du Bois) has when he tries to make out that the Universal Negro Improvement Association is more West Indian than American. can gather ten times as many American Negroes anywhere in America as Du Bois can."

'I think that the above should settle the question of West Indians being the principal sufferers. The last convention of 200 or less delegates was overwhelmingly American.

"I have no objection to the word 'peasant'—it is much more pleasant and indicative of a higher social and economic order than 'peon.' The French are a nation of peasants which means that the land is owned in small freehold by the population. The article is on the whole amusing and beautifully written but very much at variance with easily ascertained facts.

A RARE INCIDENT

Even in the Southland, once in a while something will happen to lighten the black woman's burden and give her strength to go forward if she does not allow herself to see all the bad and close her eyes to the good.

Such was the case the other day when I was coming home on a suburban car.

As I stepped into the car I saw at a glance that the white people had arrayed themselves one on a seat from rear to front—both sides with the exception of one short cross seat.

Now ten miles is a long distance to stand, especially when out and I was about to get grouchy when two young men in uniform,—on the opposite cross seat, arose and the one nearest the door—touching his cap, said, "Have my seat," and proceeded to the front of the car.

He was not talking to me but being one of the two women standing I shared the seat with the young woman to whom he was talking. If looked at her and she looked at me. We looked at each other long and hard. Then I said, didn't he touch his cap? She nodded. What was that he said? I continued. "He asked me if I'd have his seat," said the girl.

Involuntarily I looked to the front to get a good look at a young white man who would touch his cap to a black woman. He couldn't have thought her white as sometimes happens in the South.

A woman was standing—a gentleman never sits and allows a woman to stand was bred in that young man so thoroughly that he arose and mechanically touched his cap.

The girl whispered, "Northerners from the Fort." Reckon so? Asked I, for II am loyal to my folk and my section and while they are not angels still some of them are as thorobred as are found in any section.

When the young men got off and the girl had later left the car, I kept thinking: that was a little thing to do but it's so unusual.

mittee on Fellowships, but also the assistance of Professors Franz Boas and E. L. Thorndike of Columbia University and of Professor E. A. Hooten of Harvard University.

Closely connected with these plans, moreover, are certain other projects to preserve Negro folklore and the fragments of Negro music. In this effort the Association has the coperation of Mrs. Elsie Clews Persons, the moving spirit of the American Folklore Society. She is now desirous of making a more systematic effort to embody this part of the Negro civilization and she believes that the work can be more successfully done by cooperation with the Association. As soon as the Director can obtain a special fund for this particular work, an investigator will be employed to undertake it.

The interest manifested in the study of Negro History in clubs and schools has been very encouraging. Most of the advanced institutions of learning of both North and South make use of The Journal of Negro History in teach social sciences. The Director's two recent works, The History of the Negro Church and The Negro in Our History are being extensively used as textbooks in classes studying Sociology and History. The enthusiasm of some of these groups has developed to the extent that they now request authority to organize under the direction of the Association local bodies to be known as State Associations for the Study of Negro Life and History.

Respectfully submitted,
C. G. WOODSON,
Director.

GAPING FORESTLAND
The Story So Far

Jack Contier, graduate of a leading Negro university, and student of history, is financed by a rich friend and several universities, sails for Northern Nigeria, where he meets the Fringes, missionaries there for many years. He also meets and forms a friendship with Anelo, the Fringes' daughter. Contier is taken to a neighboring village. Here he is shown about by Mantuba, chief of the descendants of a once highly civilized people. Mantuba tells Contier of a secret trail which leads to an ancient buried city where are to be found a great treasure of elephant tusks and gold and diamonds. The chief introduces Jack to Jamba, his son, who is in love with Anelo. Contier and the Fringes are invited to a feast, and in the midst of the celebration Juba, loveliest of the native girls, dances. Her love has been spurned by Jamba since the coming of the Fringes biri. Contier is pleased with the girl's dancing and talent. She mistakes his interest for love. Meanwhile, Jamba realizes that Anelo does not care for him, but encourages the newcomer. Several days after the feast, Contier plans a trip to the buried city where he expects to make excavations and shed light an ancient African history and culture. On the night before the trip Mantuba is taken ill, and notifies Contier. Juba learns of Jamba's plan of revenge and hurries to inform Contier. He does not heed the warning at first, and the girl believing that she is ignored, and loved neither by Jamba nor Contier, goes away. Shortly afterward, Jack follows in her wake.

VI.

Contier crept quietly to where the girl stood. She was uttering something quite unintelligible to Jack. In her hand she clutched a knife. She did not hear Contier as he had approached.

Jack, perceiving her intention, seized the burnished weapon. Juba started. She gazed into Contier's face, as if amazed, and afraid. She tried to smile in her cunning way. Now she offered resistance, but her strength was fast waning. The girl fainted; and was carried away helpless in the strong arms of the man to the Fringes.

Dawn found Contier at Mantuba's hut, where he told of the experience of the night before. Jack had had an eventful night; nevertheless, fired now with new enthusiasm and his old ambition, he seemed fresh and in high spirits.

"Father is very ill this morning," Jamba told Contier as the chief's son came upon him in front of Mantuba's hut. "I have persuaded him to permit me to accompany you."

"But where are the plans and the code?" Jack asked half in perplexity and disappointment.

"He has turned them over to me. I know where the secret trail is and can interpret the code. We have been preparing for the trip and will be ready to start shortly."

With these last words Jamba left Jack and went about giving orders to the men and making every moment count. They liked him and were glad to go again on a trip with him. His fame was known throughout that part of the country as the best elephant-hunter and the strongest of the young chiefs. And the women all admired him for his prowess, but had become jealous of Juba to whom he had shown preference. But Juba was not in the village, so they thought they would seize this opportunity to make him happy and win his favor by bestowing gifts, and other tokens of love upon their hero, when he was ready to depart for the forestland.

Although Jamba showed Contier the utmost hospitality and courtesy, Jack had not forgotten the message given him by Juba the night before. He had, among other things, a revolver for the treacherous young chief, should he attempt to carry out his plan of revenge. Contier was not satisfied to leave on such an important journey without first seeing Mantuba. John Fringes, the missionary, had been unable to accompany him, and he was therefore, reluctant to go with men in whom he could put little trust.

He gained entrance to the chief's hut. Attendants led him to the mat where Mantuba lay. "Mantuba," Jack began, seating himself on a small stool made from a log. "I am sorry that you are ill and can not direct us. Why did you not let me have the plans and explain the code to me, instead of Jamba?"

"You can depend on him. He always takes my place when I am ill. Do not fear."

"Of course, I do not fear him," Jack assured the chief. "I fear no man. But Jamba is jealous, and has set a trap for me. I have been praying for the success of the excavation, and wish to work in peace and harmony."

So Jack had explained the cause of his worry and entrusted Mantuba to make provisions accordingly.

Mantuba summoned Jamba when Jack had retired from the room, urging him to put aside his anger for the present. He told him of Contier's intentions and what they would mean to everyone, if carried out, especially to himself—his only son—and Jack. The chief added that if the great treasure of ivory and diamonds could be found, it could be traded for money with which he could go abroad and acquire an education. Then there was Juba, queen of the village whom he, Jamba, had of late slighted. She had talent. She could be sent abroad and under a proper chaperon, and efficient tutelage in the art which was indeed a part of her life, she would become famous. But Jamba was indifferent still. Deep down in his heart he was determined to carry out his purpose, in spite of his father's wishes.

The excavation party was ready. Jamba retained the designs and promised Contier that he would have no reason to doubt the success of the undertaking.

Jamba had almost everything appropriate to chieftainship, including trumpets, horses, drums, arms, and equipment. There were in all thirty men mostly scantily-clad and armed. The forestland had been familiar to them and they loved it; but there had always been one trail unknown to them. Today they would know. These warriors had been on many tours with the missionaries and European explorers, so that they could well be depended upon to take care of themselves and others in any emergency.

When Juba awoke she was surprised to find herself in Anelo's room with the girl bending over her. Her anger and jealousy were aroused at first at the slight of her whom she blamed for her sorrow. She would leap at her and then put an end to her life. She was in a dilemma. Anelo tried to quit her.

Juba had received instructions from the missionaries and had never forgotten some of the principles of Christ. She remembered one of the verses by the apostle Paul: "And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity." Juba knew that charity meant love. No, she concluded; it was not right to be ungrateful. She thought of the past night—then of Contier's danger.

"Forgive me for my words, my actions, there is something I would do. I must leave. Contier is in danger. Jamba will kill him surely. I must go—" But the beautiful dancer was in a weakened condition and very nervous and unable to leave her bed.

"No, Juba," Anelo urged, "Let me go to his rescue."

Juba gave the girl directions as to the place where the trap would be effected. Anelo hurries with two natives, to the rescue of Contier. She must save him now or find her life a continual round of unhappiness.

(To be continued next week.)

SAFE FROM INTIMIDATION

There is no surer way for the steady growth of state than the keeping alive those elements of harmony among its inhabitants. It is a waste of funds to advertise our advantages, when, fears for ones own safety of property and even life creates unrest among the people of any community. We admit that disgruntles are in every place, but in general, every element of citizenship of any consequence, must be looked after, so that they will also sing the song of harmony and praise, or else the readers of these advertisements will conclude that there is too much smoke to be no fire.

It is this rigorous policy of exclusion, however, that means better fraternities, and better and bigger men in the college and in the world of affairs. Kappa Alpha Psi Greek letter fraternity was founded in 1911 by Elder Diggs, Byron K. and Irvine Armstrong at the University of Indiana. It is a national organization, and has established 12 alumni branches, nd 13 undergraduate chapters, as well as the Institute chapter.

RACE RELATIONS SUNDAY

Sunday, February 11, is agreed upon by the Federated Churches of Christ in America as the day that there should be a general interchange of church courtesies between races. Especially is this apparently an effort to promote a better feeling between the black and the white races in America.

We sincerely hope, as must all right thinking persons, that it will profit much good to both races. We believe that it shall—for the churches—white and black. There has never existed very much bad feeling between them anyway. There has never appeared any ill feeling there the black people against the white churches.

We only wonder why such a movement is essential to promoting a better understanding between the masses of both races—the great host that knoweth not the prayer book.

Furthermore, we have not read, nor heard that any of the colored churchmen suggested such a move as that indicated as a means of promoting a better understanding between the masses. They know better.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

PROBLEMS—SOLUTIONS
By Leon Whittaker

As we grow older we become more and more familiar with the existing stereotyped discussion of the race problem. As we hear this problem discussed, and as we cast our eyes around us to see proofs of these discussions, we become very poignantly aware of the neglect of the preceding generation. And as these thoughts dawn upon us, as the fallacies in most existing arguments present themselves, as history becomes more understood, and as the "isness" of things looms up, we learn that there is no such thing as a race problem. There is no more, no less, than a purely economic problem.

There are those, who from the preponderance of their knowledge and from the ingenuity of their speech, will try and impress us in tones magnificently modulated that Amalgamation is the solution to the Negro problem. They will prate, these constituents, among them being southern senators, that the first white man who co-habited with a black woman solved the Negro problem forever and ever.

There are those who spout of emigration to distant shores.

Friends, we find that most of these spouters and expounders are after one thing; self-aggrandisement.

There is but one solution to the so-called problem that is practical and near at hand, and that solution is the accumulation of wealth. Wealth is the power of the present age; to be considered, you must have it, and you can't get it warming chairs and spouting your hot air.

We have professionals, musicians, intelligentsia, dressers, literati professors, and all those classes that go to make up the lighter and, yes, spiritual ide of life. We have a multitude of thinkers. But where are the doers?

Stop spouting problems, thinkers who don't do. Spring from the womb of void, unborn black economists and business men. Be fair with your customers, black merchants. Trade with your own, you 40,000 buyers of commodities with your spending power of millions per year; said millions being capable of commanding any favor or stopping any injustice imaginable, if properly used. Do these things individually. Do these things by towns and cities.

When you do these things you have solved your mythical race problem, that is no more, in its last analysis, than an economic problem.

It was, we believe, John Ruskin who said that the material side of life is but the servant of the spiritual as we observe our social condition, with its wonderful parties, magnificent dances, houses of brothel, pool-halls of the lower classification, self-styled professors, and a most remarkable system of caste, we think that we have done a most worthy thing. We have developed a spiritual side without having to bother with the material side. Aren't we wonderful? No, we are fools, too lazy to paddle against the current.

Jeff Brown is improving day by day in this matter of pugilism, and when the day of the big time comes around, Brown will be there. We say there, boy, there.

This is Wednesday. Tomorrow night Jeff goes over to Cal-Tek to meet one of the toughest 120 pounders in the conference boxing circles. We look for him to bring home some bacon.

We have quite a number of new faces here. It seems as though we see a face on the campus each day that we have not seen before. We welcome quite heartily these new students, and, if possible, we should like to hear from them.

Mr. Wright, a student of science, is specializing in Physics; this is very commendable, especially in view of the fact that we need so many highly trained technicians.

Miss Miriam Matthews, an ardent student of Logic, can be seen diligently studying every afternoon in the library. She can be considered as an exemplar of study.

Mr. Edgar Johnson, of the College of Commerce, is the best dressed man on the campus everyday excepting Saturday.

Making Money

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toilsome savings of their daily wage. But I submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have reached a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.

Business requires your sole attention—Stocks mean sleepless nights and days of worry—Property works by itself for you without your care.
Select it—Set it to work—it takes care of itself and will take care of you.

A good example of this sort of investment is found in a few of my special listings as follows:

Seven room house, East 40th St., $4200.00; $1000.00 cash.
Five room house, corner Hooper Ave., $3950.00 $1000.00 cash.

Commissioner Muldoon Says Fight Not Permitted While He Is Head of Board. That May Not Be For Long. Negro Organizations Launch Fight to Have Prejudiced Nincompoop Removed From Office He Disgraces.
(Crusader Servic")

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavy weight champion, and Harry Wills, New Orleans Negro challenger for the title, will not be permitted to box for the championship in New York State while William Muldoon is Chairman of the State Athletic Commission, Chairman Muldoon made this positive declaration yesterday at his home in Purchase, N. Y.

The commercialized conditions surrounding a bout of such importance, Chairman Muldoon said, would produce an element which would jeopardize professional boxing if permitted to go unnoticed. It is this commercialism, not any discrimination against either Dempsey or Wills, which prompted Chairman Muldoon's decision, he said.

Immediately upon this prejudiced announcement the Negro organizations with headquarters in this State launched a campaign to have the present head of the State Boxing Commission removed.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD

By John A. Gray.

The following clipping from Musical America is interesting.

"The S. Coleridge-Taylor Musical Society, formed about a year ago in New York, already has a membership of 1000, and hopes to present in public concert in New York at an early date a symphony orchestra of 100 players and a chorus of 100 voices. This society, which was instituted to perpetuate the memory of Samuel Coleridge- Taylor, aims to foster the works of the famous Negro composer, to encourage Negro artists by assisting them to obtain engagements, to promote and preserve Negro art and to encourage orchestral playing and choral singing. It plans to keep a look out for all promising young aspirants among the Negroes and to assist them in furthering their musical education by providing scholarships. One of its activities will be to promote Sunday afternoon concerts, at which artists from various parts of the country will appear.

It is the aim of the organization to have 10,000 members and to rank as one of the leading musical associations among colored people in the world. Gwendolyn Taylor, daughter of Samuel Coleridge-Taylor, has written from London that she's very much interested in the movement started in America to honor the memory of her father.

The founder and president of the society is David A. Donald, a young Negro musician who has been influenced by the works of Coleridge-Taylor. Mr. Donald, who is a violinist, has been a resident of New York for fourteen years. He began his musical career under David I. Martin and later took up the study of the violin under Jean Munkacsky. He is now a pupil of Carl Tollefsan. Mr. Donald has interested many Negro musicians in the society, and, to further its work, is editing a magazine, Musical Activities, which is devoted to the development of Negro music.

The other officers of the society are G. R. Falconer, vice-president; Gertrude Mae Hill, second vice-president; Dr. Alma Hankins, treasurer; Cornelia Fishburn, assistant treasurer; Beatrice Jempson, recording secretary; Carrie Evelyn Williams, corresponding secretary; W. Arthur Calhoun, musical director; P. B. Waples, assistant director; Rudolph Grant, choral leader, E. Gilbert Anderson, orchestra leader; James E. Mallit, assistant orchestra leader; Cecelia de Silva, chairman reception committee, and Blanch Dean-Harris, chairman of program committee."

Where to Attend Church

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

Not to be baffled by the constant downpour of rain, appreciative audiences worshipped at this church at both services the past Sunday. The pastor occupied the pulpit at the morning hour using as his subject: "World Demands." At the evening hour the service was a celebration of the birth day of Abraham Lincoln. Prof. E. J. Moore delighted the audience in a splendid address on: "Lincoln, the Humanitarian." Prof. Moore in select language, gave a brief History of the life of Lincoln, and of his great service in freeing over four millions of slaves. Lincoln was declared to be not only a friend to the Negro Race, but he was a friend of humanity. A Lincoln program was also presented in the Sunday School.

This Sunday being the first Sunday in the Lenten season will have good things in store for us. The Pastor will begin a series of special Lenten Sermons at the morning service. In the evening the Rev. Dr. J. M. Young will be the speaker. You should not miss these services. Strangers cordially invited to all meetings.

WARD CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH—
1252 East 25th Street.
Rev. B. R. Guy, Pastor.

Divine services at this church last Sunday were praisworthy. It was quarterly meeting. Rev. H. B. Gantt, Conference Evangelist, preached an able sermon at 11:00 a. m. from the text, "Is it any thing to you?" About 20 persons took communion. The Sunday School was quite interesting. The Endeavor was led by Mrs. M. Henderson and the information was first class. Rev. Gantt preached again at 8:00 p. m. from the text. "There was no room for them in the Inn." The sermon was very instructive and the applications were practical.

The congregation in the morning had quite a number of visitors, one from Watts, one from San Diego besides those from other places.

SPECIAL INVITATION

All pastors are cordially invited to come to a Pastors' Fast and Prayer Meeting at this church Friday, March the 2nd at 10 a. m. to 12 noon. Please fast and pray from Thursday evening March 1 until Friday noon, March the 2nd. Come from Altars of prayer Friday to the Special Pastors' Prayer Meeting at 10 a. m.

Hear Lawyer Tyler on African Methodism Sunday Night!

Founders day will be observed in historic Eighth and Towne Church next Sunday the 18. It is the 163rd anniversary of the birth of Richard Allen, the first bishop of African descent ever consecrated in America and the founder of African Methodism. Pastor Ward will deliver a special sermon at 11 a. m. A big platform meeting is to be held at 7:30 p. m. under the auspices of the A. C. E. League.

Lawyer W. O. Tyler will be the principal speaker of the evening. The choirs under direction of Organist Elmer C. Bartlett will furnish special music at both services.

Interesting services were held in historic Eighth and Towne Avenue A. M. E. Church last Sunday. Pastor Ward delivered the sermon at both services. There were three accessions at each service, giving a total of six men and women added to our membership for the day. There included one man converted at the 11:00 o'clock service. The singing lead by the senior and junior choirs, under direction of Prof. Bartlett was inspiring and good.

Because of the rain last Sunday "The Mutual Aid Society of the First A. M. E. Church did not turn out in such large numbers as on previous occasions. The Society was organized January, 1894 under the pastorate of the Rev. David R. Jones. Its object was to care for the sick and aged members of the church; and when it was started had no age limit. The society has a membership of 290, and it has a substantial bank account. Mr. A. W. Wilson is the president.

The second quarterly conference of Eighth and Towne Avenue A. M. E. Church was held on Tuesday night. The reports showed that during the past quarter 73 persons were added to the church membership, eight conversions and a total of $2451 was raised for church and benevolent purposes. Trinity four hundred twenty one dollars. Major G. W. Prioleau, Rev. W. C. Williams, D. D. and Rev. T. J. Ross were prominent visitors.

WESLEY CHAPEL NOTES—
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor

In spite of gloom and the absence of sunshine the good size crowd that attended Wesley Chapel Sunday morning got a full ray of light as the pastor preached a most thoughtful sermon from the subject: "The Power of Encouragement." It was a powerful message and the encouraging exhortations had their effect, for when the pastor made an irresistible appeal for souls four quickly responded to the invitation and united with the church.

The Choir sang most spiritedly and deserves pertinent mention for its rendition of one of Nathaniel Dett's spirituals. The organist, Mrs. Markham very effectively rendered the "Rosary."

The appearance of the Choir before white audiences is creating much favorable sentiment. Lately the Choir sang at Bryant Auditorium and Sunday evening at the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church. Next Sunday the pastor and Choir visit Hamilton. Here is a combination worth hearing.

The rain did not stop church goers from attending Zion on last Sunday. Both morning and evening a very appreciative audience was present.

Rev. Shaw took for his text at the 11:00 o'clock service, "Let a man examine himself." 1 Cor. 11 Chapter and 28 verse.

If you wish to get close to God hear Rev. Shaw.

The Bible Class and Varick Christian Endeavor Society held interesting sessions. Dr. Ruth Wade D. S. C. talked on "Improving the Community." Each Sunday a short program is rendered.

At 8:00 p. m. Attorney Willis O. Tyler one of Los Angeles' greatest orators as well as one of her most prominent lawyers gave an address on "Education." This address was given in commemoration of the birthday of Rev. J. C. Price founder of Livingston College. This address was a great tribute not only to the honored Price but to all those men who have fought and labored for higher education for the Negro Race.

Preceding the address of Hon. Willis O. Tyler, Mrs. J. C. Banks read the biography of the life of Rev. J. C. Price which made us realise what a wonderful orator, thinker and race man he was.

A violin selection by Atwell Ross and a vocal solo by Mr. Emmanuel Hall could not have been excelled.

The choir under direction of Prof. Bynum rendered excellent music.

A neat offering was lifted for educational purposes.

WEST SIDE MISSION A. M. E. CHURCH—
West 36th Street, near Bunker.
Major G. W. Prioleau, Pastor

The Missionary Society was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Wm. Robinson West 37th Place. The reports for behalf of our local church were very encouraging.

The rain did not hinder a large attendance at Sunday School and a splendid offering. The afternoon communion service and service was conducted by Rev. Gantt. He preached an excellent and acceptable sermon which was highly appreciated by the friends and members of the Church. One member of the Sunday School joined the Church, little Alice Murphy. She is one of the most active members of the Sunday School whose training both at home and in the Sunday School is distinctly seen.

At the evening service we had a few but cheering worshippers and listeners. The [illegible] Christians should join hands in fighting the devil instead of fighting the churches. The Presbyterian, Trinity Baptist and the A. M. E. Mission are here to stay. This is no time for church fights. The pastor has not time and it takes two to fight and quarrel.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
8th and Wall Streets.
Rev. M. Mitchell, Pastor.

We enjoyed a very appreciative service at the Christian Church, both in interest and attendance. The Pastor filled his pulpit Sunday morning. Sunday evening the pastor and choir were invited to conduct services at the University Christian Church (White). Untold good is accomplished in our visits to the white churches. We welcome such opportunity because a better understanding and appreciation of the colored man's virtues is ascertained by the white churches we go into. Special services next Sunday. Sermons. You are invited to be present.

SECOND A. M. E. CHURCH—

Subject, "A Faithful Servant."
Junior A. C. E. League 4:00 p. m.
Senior A. C. E. League 6:30 p. m.

Subject, "An Idol God."

A cordial welcome to worship with us.

THE BIRCH STREET CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
Corner 14th and Birch Streets.
F. C. Cothran.

Dear Brother:

I feel it my duty at this time to give you this information in order that you may act wisely in adjusting your affairs so that you may not embarrass yourself. Your statement yesterday about giving more time to church work doe not harmonize with my remark made in your presence and also the board last meeting. In view of the fact that I am having some difficulty in getting the board to agree on whether they will continue your service at all, makes your statement very much out of place at this time, and also nullifies my efforts, in that it would seem that you at least had some understanding and called for explanation that I am unable to make.

I have been trying to get the Board to agree to a definite call for a year of your service, but they thus far have only agreed to six months. So you see it is not wise for you to figure on the church continuing your services indefinitely. I had planned to have a talk with you before the next meeting, to lay the matter before you. However, your statement draws me out before I reached my decision. All members of the Board look upon you as a good Christian man, and all love you, but they do not think you have done or can do the church any concrete service.

Faithfully submitted in His name,
(Signed) R. R. TURNAGE.

Elder Cothran was called to the pastorate of the Birch Street Christian Church indefinitely by a unanimous voice of the congregation January, 1922.

His public announcement to the congregation Sunday a. m. January 21st, 1922: "That he was arranging his business relations so as o give more time in building up his church revealed the conspiracy of some of the members of his official board to discontinue his services as minister.

Thus his resignation:

Los Angeles, Calif.
1105 E. Pico Street.
Feb. 11th, 1923.

Official Board and Members of Birch Street Christian Church.

Dear Co-Laborers:

My resignation as minister of this church, to take effect sixty (60) days hence, as per the custom governing church and minister, is based upon the position of the official board. revealed in a letter of January 22, 1923, which I received from Elder R. R. Turnage, and upon a public statement of the said Elder Turnage, in our last Board meeting of February 6th, 1923.

That notwithstanding my good Christian Character, unblemished reputation and exemplary life, I cannot preach to the members constituting the Birch Street Christian Church.

The above position and statement, I take it, represents the sense and spirit of the membership of this Church. Therefore, I deem it best for all parties concerned, that the alienation of said church and minister be effected.

In accepting this resignation, please take notice that you will kindly grant me a letter of recommendation and likewise, to each member of my family.

That success may attend your efforts and that peace may reign supreme, is the sincere prayer of,

Yours Fraternally,
F. C. COTHRAN.

Address changes must be reported immediately to registration department.

Private garages must report tenants.

Public garages must start keeping records of cars stored over 12 hours.

Loads carried on cars allowed six inches past hub caps on right side, nothing past hub cap line on left side.

Commercial vehicles must have windshields.

No turns can be made except at street intersections.

Residential turns are permissible in light traffic.

Speed trap evidence on state roads will not stand in courts.

New weight law for trucks.

(Truck owners should secure copies of the law from the motor vehicle department and adhere to it.)

Tire law for trucks also effective with new stipulations.

Hand signals must be given and from the left side of the vehicle only.

Any vehicle with a rear vision obscured must be equipped with a rear view mirror of some sort.

A new embezzlement law is also effective.

After Saturday the Motor Vehicle Department will close on Saturday. New car and used car dealers can issue blue slips to buyers during that period so that the cars can be operated until certificates are made out.

AUTO SHOW BIG SUCCESS

The Auto Show which was held at Pearl's Garage on 9th Street, August 18th and 19th proved to be a big success both from a point of attendance and a sales standpoint.

Hundreds visited the show and intense interest was shown. Many handsome cars were on display and the space given over to the show was appropriately decorated for the occasion in potted plants, streamers and flowers. Among the cars on display, and they were all spick and span bran new, were a Pierce Arrow Brougham, special built, this high priced pice of automotive machinery being bought by Dr. Nelson.

Durants on Hand—

Durant-Steves Motor Sales Co., located on South Grand, had two designs on hand. One a sport touring, special equipped and the other a high powered six. Accompanying this outfit was one of their salesmen, Mr. Chas. Thomas. Every body knows him and the Durant otufit made a big hit. It was one of the most popular cars on the floor. Several sales were reported.

Chandler and Cleveland—

J. Revelle represented W. P. Herbert Co, agents for these well known makes and he was constantly on the go, showing and advancing information desired . The Company had three cars on view.

Paige Display—

The Paige cars were in direct charge of Mr. Pearl, and they received their portion of visitors.

Independent Rubber Co.—

While they did not have a space display owing to the short notice, several cars on the floor were equipped with tires handled by them.

Chevrolets and Fords were in evidence also and too there was an accessory department fully equipped, and Vestra Battery also had display space.

All in all every one that visited the show is alive with interest and still talking about the smooth manner in which things went off.

Special Display—

Owing to the fact that the N. B. Convention is meeting in the city this week there will be gathered for display a few of the cars that made the show famous.

Visitors and friends are invited to look them over.

Paving the Way—

This show, our initial one, is a forerunner of what the public might look forward to in the future as occasion demands. The various automotive units are becoming thoroughly organized and the next effort along these lines should find every one interested in business taking an active part.

GOOD ROADS BIG ISSUE

In summing up the automobile trends a word should be spoken for good roads. The money spent on these is not an expenditure but an investment which turns in a remarkable dividend. Where good roads go, the automobile and truck follow in ever-increasing numbers, and behind these come the builders of homes and factories.

It is the duty of every patriotic citizen to boost the movement for good roads, but for the fan in the automobile industry it is the surest way of taking the business along its proper line of development.

There are 2,500,000 miles of road in the country and not more than 800,000 are hard surfaced. Most of our hard roads are too narrow. The time is coming when trucks and passenger cars will open new country long before the railroad comes in. The time will arrive soon if each and every one of us gets behind this great movement, which means more to the world than did the coming of the steam railway. We are entering a great epoch in world development. Let each man play his part.

AGAIN

Again the California Eagle has the unique distinction of issuing another, its second classified automotive section. Mr. E. L. Dorsey, who edited the last edition is again at the helm, and shares with us what ever success or credit there is to be gained.

MGR. EDITOR

DR. EUGENE C. NELSON

A LOVER OF GOOD AUTOMOBILES

Aside from occupying a front row in the Medical profession, aside from his energetic effort to fill in the gap and bring up a solid front along organized business lines, for diversion the doctor specializes in the acquisition and maintaining of good automobiles.

DR. E. C. NELSON'S NEW MARMON

Way back yonder before autos had virtually displaced the horse, the doctor was an admirer of blooded and thoroughbred horseflesh and his highest ambition as a fancier thereof was to own and ride behind or on a thoroughbred. This penchant for speed has remained with him in this day of fine and exacting autos.

DR. EUGENE C. NELSON

The accompanying illustration gives an insight into the class of cars he prizes; the upper one is a 1923 Marmon and of which no better car is made, while below is his English creation latest model Pierce Arrow is the ral class and is indeed a classy turnout. So it can be observed that the Doctor is one fancier of speed who will not be content unless he is in on the same in all of its fullness.

DR. E. C. NELSON'S PIERCE-ARROW

He has substituted for the Four in Hand and even the "tally ho" by acquiring and maintaining the best designed automobiles which truly symbolize the replacing of King Horse when he reigned supreme.

THREATENS YE EDITOR

Last evening while The Automotive editor of the California Eagle was sitting at his desk busily engaged attending to his usual duties, a large and threatening crowd gathered in front of its quarters and demanded point blank that the automotive section of the HOWDY edition be eliminated. Can you imagine but that confusion reigned for a few moments. Doors were bolted, shades drawn and decks cleared for action. Deputy sheriff J. E. Proud who guards The Eagle constantly, was asked, prevailed upon and finally induced gun in hand to crack the door and ask the crowd to disperse. One look and John retired to the rear. Bob Anderson, the Foreman, The editor and Managing editor, the two Bass's, their assistant Mr. Kyle, supported by the office boy Adolphus and Freddie, all got as far as the door and then took the J. E. Prowd"three second course in retresting." The crowd wanted—nay demanded but one man, and on that one man depended peace or war.

When so informed the gentleman majestically rose to the occassion. Laid aside his literary efforts and darted through the door, and made the following eloquent address, while the mob listened breathlessly, and at its conclusion immediately dispersed in a quite orderly manner, for it was "some speech":

"Friends, Countrymen and Lovers: Hear me for my cause and be silent that you may hear. Believe me for mine honor and have respect for my honor that ye may believe. Censure me in your wisdom and awake your senses that ye may be the better judge.

If you ask me why I started this Automotive Section, it was not that I loved the California Eagle less but a deserving public more. Horses and other forms of dumb brutes used for transportation will never gain their full freedom until we, you and I who must depend on some sort of locomotion to meet our conveniences to and from a given starting point, become thoroughly awake and educated to the fact that horse slavery must be abolished for man's convenience and womans' too if for no other. And so with the assistance of this and other editions published by other concerns, we hope, dear friends, to properganise you back sliders who still believe in horse and mule slavery with dope, of a very good brand, and plenty of it until we see you with our naked eye go into Pearl's Garage to store your car, or the Western Supply to see Saving Sam about some needs or Trublpruf Michelin, Racine and Independent to shod your steeds.

Hensley at the L. F. C. for a battery to give you speed or the L. F. C. Garage to fix your mechanical needs.

Or until our good friend Charlie Thomas reports to us direct that the Durant Steves Motor Sales has missed a car off the floor through the channel of a purchase or Jones of Cheverolet fame brings in your name or J. Revelle of Chandler and Cleveland fame says Mr. Manager. I have his name or thousands of other concerns do the same, then and not until then will we cease the publication of our Automotive Section. I thank you.

THE AFTERMATH

Shades were raised, Linotypes were started and every body resumed work, and the "Howdy Number" with not only its Automotive Section but a Real Estate Number is before you, the judge. Speak up.

I DON'T

Most motorists are blooming fools,
They trifle with the traffic rules.
I don't.
No man should try to get the drop
On any seasoned traffic cop,
Nor fail to heed his sign to stop.
I don't.
A man should never drive too fast,
Or brag about the cars he's passed.
I don't.
For Safety First should be his creed.
There really isn't any need
To drive a car at reckless speed.
I don't.
A man should never lose his bean
When piloting a gas-machine.
I don't.
On city street or open road,
A man should never break the code,
Nor fellow-farers incommode.
I don't.
He should not scare equestrians,
Nor chase the poor pedestrians.
I don't.
In fact, I have no car to run,
I'm shy the coin to purchase one,
You'd think I wouldn't have much fun.
I don't.

—Battles.

Production of motor vehicles for the year ended July 31, ttaled 3,535,000.

The output of cars and trucks during the first seven months of this year was 3,344,000, showing an increase of 68 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

TOWING INTELLIGENCE

Never fasten a tow rope to the axle of a car when towing. The rope should be fastened to one of the front portions of the frame, so that the pull comes on the chassis. The same thing applies to the car doing the towing, except that the rope should be fastened to some part of the rear frame.

Continual dripping of oil from a car indicates leaks or worn bushings.

All brake connections should be lubricated carefully and regularly.

FOR SQUEAKY WHEELS

Occasionally wheels cause squeaking due to the hubs becoming loose or the spokes drying out. A few drops of kerosene oil allowed to work into the spoke joints will usually eliminate the noise.

YE EDITOR'S COLUMN

TRUTH

As related in our last automotive number the prime motive that moved us to action along these lines of endeavor was the fact that over Two Hundred Thousand Dollars were being spent annually by our group in purchasing cars and the upkeep of same, and we drew the conclusion that if we were to succeed in getting our share of the business it was time we were making a bid for it. Truth of the matter is we have received many favorable comments concerning the good we have accomplished.

OF COURSE

Every one knows what is to happen this month.

Two things of especial interest to the public.

One is the total eclipse of the Sun set by nature to take place on Sept. 10th, 11:00 a. m. or there abouts. The other, much more important to folks in California where one in every three owns an auto, is a two cent tax on gasoline. Of course you are saving your pennies to meet the new crisis. Your troubles never cease if you own an auto, but who can afford to do without one these days and time, when every moment must count.

THE SATURATION POINT

Supply and demand is the natural channel through which production along any line must flow.

The saturation point in production of the automobile is still years ahead.

We today who enjoy and recognize the value of the auto in business and pleasure, must admit that looking toword the future it is but passing thru its experimental stages.

It is difficult to look even five years ahead and predict.

With the public waking up to the fact that war is, as "Stonewall" said, —hell, they have decided to have less war and more of something else—Peace.

The auto has been a consistent factor in making the human race like one another and for this reason if for no other has so increased its usefulness that its saturation point is a remote possibility even fifty or a hundred years from now.

GASOLINE SITUATION STILL UNSETTLED

The gasoline situation is still unsettled. When the crack in uniform and somewhat high prices, came several weeks ago no one dared abvance the thought that those folks whose transportation vehicles required gas instead of hay would witness the spectacle along with a curious public of a Jack Dempsey and Thommie Gibbons encounter amongst the "Big Oil Consern" and "Little nIdependents."

But friends and fellow citizens it's here and oh my the fun we have been having. Just going every where this summer and practically having our gas bill paid.

Silence—

But good things never last and especially where the "big uns" and too the "little uns" are losing money.

Listen—

Don't laugh, when you are informed that the folks who make the gas are trying to fix a price of 15 cents per gal. to stabilize matters. Hope and pray that the war will soon end or someone will suffer when they finally do get together and the Price Thermomiter starts rising.

Don't Laugh—

Don't laugh for gas may go to 30 cents . One can never tell what a horse will do when he gets the bit in his mouth. Watch them.

DO YOU BELIEVE T?

Transportation is one of the biggest factors that is directly responsible for the spread of civilization to all four corners of the globe . First came the ox, then horses made their appearance along with sailing vessels. Both held the scene of action for hundreds of years until our good friend Robert Fulton started folks along the Hudson by calmly propelling a queer vessel down its stream something less than a hundred years ago.

Thousands gathered along the banks and watched with eager eyes, this queer looking vessel, as it emitted hugh volumes of black smoke, paddle its way along, not a sail to be seen.

When it finally reached its destination, a few miles down stream a comely man stepped ashore and announced to reporters who eagerly sought information, that the dawn of a new era was at hand. The value of steam had been discovered and his new creation was given the name of steamboat.

Many still live that remember that incident and the impression it made. Steam engines began to make in increasing numbers their appearance each year. Larger and more powerful they became. Then the cycle system was discontinued and the steam turbins brought into play. So satisfied was the public with the new and marvelous transportation facilities steam had given it that the first automobiles which made their appearance in the early ninties were also propelled by this power. No one ever dreamed steam would outlive its usefuness and be relegated with steam engines to the scrap heap. But steam has passed into oblivion with one or two exceptions and gasoline and fuel oil today share the honors of serving as fuel for the development of horse power.

While we have the auto today and the gas to run with, both must ere long step down and give way to the aeroplane and electricity. Both are today being used commercially and the time is not far distant, friends, when you and I must as the birds that soar the air take to aeroplanes to keep our engagements, electrically propelled and controlled. We live in a new era. Today nothing seems impossible. Tomorrow brings many changes. Do You Believe It?

Chauffeurs Asso. Doing Great Work

The California Chauffeurs Association is still doing a great work and accomplishing things amongst the drivers.

So large has become their membership that they have found it necessary to hold their meetings at the Y. M. C. A. on 9th Street.

"If you haven't been down, attend the next meeting convenient and we assure you," says Mr. Henderson, Pres. of the Association, "that you will be surprised to see just what can be done along the lines of organization.

GOING STRONG

Speaking of Tires, Trublepruf, is the best all around tire for Autos on the market today, says Mr. G. K. Fargo, distributor for this well-known and popular brand.

Hundreds upon hundreds are becoming better acquainted daily by equipping their car all around with "Lamberts" troubleproof. When ever one thinks of the pleasure to be had by dispelling from their mind the thoughts of punctures, blowouts and the thousand and one other ills of pneumatic tires, they immediately get in touch with our Trubleproof service station located in the corner of 31st and Figueroa or the Independent Rubber Co, 852 Central Ave and their troubles are solved. "This has been Troubleproof's best year. Their value cannot be enlarged upon, either from a milage basis or in quality and material used. They are in every way the best by test. Try a set and be convinced. They are by far the cheapest and best tire on the market.

MR. CHARLES THOMAS

ness way, Mr. Thomas' name was incidentially mentioned and well perhaps, we had better quote what the Manager Mr. Fanluf had to say:

"Yes, Charles Thomas is one of us, chiefly on his merits to deliver. We look upon him as an asset. Durant Sales are greater than ever before and we recognize the fact that one of his ability can do a lot toward showing the public in general and his group in particular the true merits of Durantinising the Auto Public. He stances, but as a first class salesman.

WHERE TROUT ABOUND

IND. RUBBER CO. HOLDS OWN

The Independent Rubber Company, the oldest and best patronized concern of its kind is as usual shooting on all six.

The tire business hasn't been what it should for over a year. Many failures have been reported along all lines but by constant attention to business, coupled with the fact that they handle only the best grade of tires and tubes and their repair department is strictly up to date in methods, machinery and service, they are going strong. No job is too small or large for them. "Competition kills lots of businesses" but they seem to thrive on it.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE

The battery and tire service station of Brown and Leroy is one of the best known places of its kind in the city.

Their motto is Service with a smile. They are agents for the Vista Battery and several well-known lines of tires.

Located as it is at 751 Central Ave., they have one of the best business locations to be had. Then too they handle the Vista Battery. That makes a difference too.

A SURPRISE

Dropped in at the Durant Steves Motor Sales Co. the other day and the first person we met was our good friend, Thomas. Charles by first name.

Of course every body knows him. He is hale, hearty and well met and then too don't forget that Mr. Thomas has brains. Brains of a very good brand and a nack for using them and this is how we happened to meet him where he was. The Durant-Steves Motor Sales Co. recognized this fact in itself and secured Charles' services not as a cuspidor connoisseur used for bait as is the case in many inhas many sales to his credit."

Calling on the Manager in a business way, Mr. Thomas' name was incidentially mentioned and well perhaps, we had better quote what the Manager Mr. Fanluf had to say:

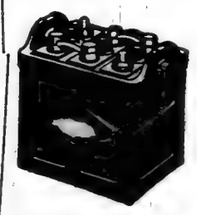
Two of this Co's latest victims are L. Pickins on E. 29th Street and B. Davis on E. 32nd. Both have purchased sport models fully equipped.

BETTER AUTOS

Better performance and longer life due to improved design and better materials distinguish the 1924 car from its predecessors. One of the healthiest signs in the industry is the uniform determination of practically every manufacturer in the field to improve the quality of his product.

There have been a great number of improvements in engines which make them more satisfactory to their users. In the first place, vibration has been practically eliminated in every engine which can be called up-to-date. Crankshafts are now so large in diameter that they cannot whip due to unbalanced forces, which has cut out the roughness apparent at critical speeds in practically all of the previous engines. These have been made possible by the use of the pressure oiling systems, which amply take care of the bearing surfaces, although the greater diameter of the crankshaft has so markedly increased the linear speed of the bearings.

The typical oiling system of the American car was up to this year a combined low-pressure and splash system . Today the typical system is the high-pressure type in which the oil is forced positively through the bearings in quantities sufficient to lubricate and cool the bearings of even the 2 1-2 in. crankshafts. With this system there is no splash used. It is posible to run three engines wide open for hours at a stretch without overheating.



L. E. C. GARAGE

The L. E. C. Garage located at 28th and Central is one of the few concerns of its kind not only operated but owned by one of the group. Mr. Craig purchased the building and ground several years ago and has built up on the principle of service a nice business.

Tire Battery Department

In connection with his garage there is a first class tire department conducted under the management of Mr. J. W. Welsh, and a battery service station operated by Mr. J. B. Hensley, who is handling his own make of batteries.

They solicit your patronage through an ad which appears elsewhere in the columns of this paper and are deserving of same.

SAVING SAM'S DADDY—NOW PROUD POSSESSOR OF FINE BUICK

"VAN" DRAWING "SAVING SAM" IN HIS STUDIO IN LOS ANGELES

Meet P. S. Van Rensejaer, better known as the "daddy" of Saving Sam, the ingenious little trade character of the Western Auto Supply Company. "Van" has recently purchased a new Buick and has it completel yequipped with fittings from his "son's" auto supply house. He calls it his "Western Auto Buick Sport."

It all started back in 1918 in the office of a large advertising agency in Los Angeles. Mr. Pepperdine, president of the Western Auto Supply Company, called upon a young artist to create for him a trade character that would symbolize the policy of his company and suggested the name "Saving Sam" for such a figure.

With pencil and paper before him the said young artist racked his "think tank" to bring about such a fellow until Saving Sam hopped out on the paper from the point of his pencil. He was at first a shy, bashful sort of a chap, with a mop of unkept black hair, but being constantly before the public he soon acquired confidence in himself and before long our bashful boy had thrown aside his timid ways. He began combing his hair, took on the air of a successful business man and for no reason at all—grew a mustache.

With a smile on his face; one hand in his pocket to suggest saving, the other extended to render service to the motorist, he is an outstanding trade character and is well known throughout the West to the man with the automobile.

Seldom do you pick up an automotive magazine or automobile section of a newspaper without seeing "Sam's beaming countenance shining forth from one of the pages. Billboards and highway markers carry the same message, always the same sunny smile that seems to invite you to smile with him.

Last year Mr. Pepperdine had a replica of Saving Sam turned out in silver and presented it to the store manager making the greatest percentage of increase in his sales record during the year.

DID YOU KNOW?

That the new state law makes it unlawful for a driver to speed up when another car is trying to pass him on the open highway.

That spring shackle play or looseness between the spring end and the shackle may give much annoyance until the seat of trouble is discovered.

A good method of taking up the play is to put shims between the spring end and the shackle. Or the play may be removed by tightening the spring bolt.

That a knock due to overheating will be noticed on a hill, but it also occurs on level roads. It is accompanied by steam from the radiator.

That a wobbling wheel may be caused by bearing wear or by a bent shaft.

That Motorists may use any one of thirty-seven headlight devices in all Eastern States without risk of detention for operating with illegal lenses. A uniform list of devices has been ratified by Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New York, Maryland, Maine, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont.

That regular changing of oil will make a motor last longer.

Tires of different sizes will unbalance a car slightly and make steering difficult. The tires in the rear should be the same size, just as they should be the same diameter on the front. The cord tire is about an inch larger than the fabric tire of the same size.

That you should when filling a radiator allow enough water to pass in to bring the level over the end of the vent pipe.

That traffic police in eDnver wear special belts with red signal lights on the front and rear of the leather straps. Small batteries are carried in the pockets of the policemen.

That the State of New Jersey has a law making the use of rear view mirrors compulsory on passenger cars and motor trucks.

That although the automobile has not reached the importance in England that it has in America statistics show an increase of more than 100 per cent.

That oversized tires on the rear wheels will give greater traction.

That a short circuit is often caused by wires becoming oil or water soaked.

That according to estimates, automobiles and motor trucks in Pennsylvania cover every day 10,000,000 miles and 30,000,000 passenger miles within the boundaries of the State.

The automobile industry, including parts and tires, had an output in 1922 of $2,725,000,000, making it the largest manufacturing industry in the United States.

That one should never mount any extra heavy equipment to fenders. Signal lamps, tires, suitcases, boxes, etc., should be attached to the frame or other rigid parts of the car. Fender brackets and sheet metal are designed to carry only their own weight.

That you should always give proper hand signals. It may save you a costly smashup.

That careful driving is a necessary precaution these days.

That draining the crankcase is done to the best advantage immediately after a run when the engine is warm and the oil is thin.

That accelerating the engine a few times is a good way to warn persons standing in the rear of the car to get out of the way.

That when timing the ignition of an engine it is necessary to know when the piston reaches the top of the stroke.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

Under the boulevard stop plan, effective September 14, vehicles entering the following boulevards must come to a complete stop before crossing or entering:

Wilshire boulevard from Westlake Park to the city limits.

Figueroa street from Washington street to the south city limits.

Mission road from Alameda street to Alhambra avenue.

15,000,000 CARS BY 1925

It is estimated todsy that there is a potential demand for 2,000,000 cars. This started to accumulate in 1918. Up through 1917, demand and supply were running a very close race, growing about uniformly and there was a fairly easy absorption of the 1,800,000 cars produced that year. It was estimated that the production for 1918 would be 3,500, 000. Instead of that but about 2,000,000 were produced, because of the war. Production totals for 1923 will be about 3,000,000. If demand had increased only as fast as normal, the 2,000,000 shortage would be a conservative estimate.

There is every reason to believe that the spring of 1924 will witness the greatest buying activity ever seen in the automobile field, just as this winter the demand for enclosed cars is, and will be, far in excess of the possible production of these vehicles.

At the present time there are between six and seven million cars and trucks on the streets and roads of the country. In 5 years there should be 15,000,000. The extent to which the truck and passenger car will displace other forms of transportation is governed by only two things First, the production of vehicles and second, the building of good roads.

ALUMINUM WHEELS COMING

Aluminum wheels are only one of the products which will soon be available from this light material. Wheels for a 3000-lb. passenger car, weighing but 20 lbs. apiece, are said to be perfectly feasible and if we are soon to have these, the unsprung weight will have come down remarkably and the resulting easy riding qualities secured.

If the war has had any influence on design, it is largely in the matter of workmanship. It is not uncommon to go into a factory, particularly one which has been on ordnance or aircraft work, and find that it is making parts to much closer limits with high-speed production methods than was deemed possible before the war . The government insisted on high standards of manufacture and put inspectors in the plants to see that they got it. In the early days of the war there was much grumbling about these inspectors, but when put to it, the manufacturer was able to meet the close limits required and it has been a wonderful lesson.

Great Increase Shown In Motor Production

According to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, 2,029,000 automobiles and trucks were produced in the United States during the first six months of this year This compares with 1,161,000 in the first six months of 1922, an increase of 74 per cent.

A REWARD

In the last ten years the United States has exported 562,000 passenger automobiles, valued at $534,,000,000, to more than 100 different countries, colonies and islands.

NEW TRAFFIC LAWS

Respect for the law is the first principle that makes for good citizenship. Laws and their enforcement comes of the necessity that the welfare of the public must be protected against a certain class of individuals and organisations that seek to gain certain definite ends through the channels of crime.

The coming of the automobile, useful and convenient as it has been found in its present high stage of development, has been something that has created a problem in every city, county, state and country where gasoline or other forms of fuel can be commercialised, or put on the market at a price which will permit the public owning and operating cars.

How to meet these many and various forms of problems, which are largely of a traffic nature, costing thousands of lives yearly and doing hundreds of dollars damage has and is causing branches of governments, organised to handle such conditions, considerable worry.

California to Front—

California ranking third state in the Union in number of machines owned, naturally is very much interested in its future, and at the last session of the Legislature much time was given to the drafting and enactment of certain definite laws that would assist in greatly reducing, perhaps to a minimum, accidents and thefts.

New Laws in Effect—

Eighteen new state laws went into effect on Sept. 1st and it might be well for each person interested to secure a copy of them either from the Auto Clubs or police department. Included in this automotive number we insert the laws in brief. Some one of them are going to fit you, Mr. Reader. Don't be fooled or led into believing there will be any laxity in their enforcement for the state has made ample and sufficient arrangements to enforce the new order of things to the letter.

Calif. boasts of having a couple of million souls and Los Angeles claims the largest individual portion of that population and also leads in number of autos, so many of us are going to have something to do to keep from having to tell the judge how it happened unless we are Mighty, Mighty Careful.

TAXI CAB COMPANY KEPT BUSY

TAXI CAB CO. KEPT BUSY

The Elite Taxi Cab Co has perhaps the largest chain of up to date Touring cars and Limousines in the West.

For over three years they have been at work inproving every end of the game. They are constantly kept busy serving the public, and hundreds are indebted to them for being able to keep their engagements owing to the prompt service they render.

CHEVROLET CAR IN DEMAND

Mr. Francis P. Jones, who is a Chevrolet Dealer, reports that the demands for this car are extraordinarily heavy this season.

REDUCTION IN PRICE

Despite the present demand for cars at the present price a new and substantial reduction in cost has been made to take effect immediately, which means this popular make car will no doubt hang up a new sales record before the season ends.

Chandler-Cleveland Cars Make Big Show

Mr. J. Revelle who is connected with the agency of the above named cars has been a big factor in making the Auto Show at Pearls' Garage a huge success . His display has been quite an attraction, and the result of several sales.

WITH REGARD TO MICHELIN

Quality has been the sole factor which has created such a demand for this well known brand.

Visit their wholesale department located on South Hope street, you will see hundreds of this popular make moving daily to the Company's many service stations scattered throughout the city.

Company's Policy.

It is our policy to try to render to our thousands of customers the best possible service obtainable. Michelin Tires have maintained a name for themselves that we are proud of and through the new system of service coupled with the fact that we have the best tire on the market irrespective of cost why we expect no let up in sales.

Worth Mentioning

Down at The ndependent Rubber Co on Central Avenue, this concern, which is exclusive agent for that district has had its biggest year and there is a reason. They handle Michelin and they sell themselves.

A RUMOR

It is reported about town that Mr. H. Osler of Osler Racine Tire Co. is retiring from business. This is one of the most popular tire concerns in the city. For years Mr. Osler has directed its destiny and its success is measured by the large volume of business it has and the thousand of tires today seen on the street in and around the city on all makes of cars.

Not Affected

The high standard of service rendered the automotive public will not be in any degree altered except along the lines of improvement where and when found necessary, matters not what else takes place.

THE EXHAUST

Mr. Bob Davis, who resides on E. 32nd Street, presented his wife with a brand new automobile last week. Wife and auto are doing fine. Yes, it is a Durant.

Speaking of Durants our good friend, Walter Low, who has the employment agency on E. 12th Street, has purchased a sport model. Walter and his car are much talked about.

Editor. Bass is packing a Packard Coupe around with him these days.

Both look the picture of health.

16TH ANNUAL OF LEAGUE.

Colored Rights Body to meet in Brooklyn Sept. 26. Calls say nationwide organization to present and push just claims a primary need. A new president of U. S. urgently calls for assembly of Race from every place at home of Beecher before Congress meets.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26, 1923.—The National Headquarters of the National Equal Rights League today issued the call for the 16th annual meeting of that organization, the oldest organization for the Race's rights now extant, to be held in the Holy Trinity Baptist Church, De Kal and Franklin avenues, Brooklyn, N. Y., Rev. T. S. Harten, pastor, Sept. 26th to 29th, 1923. Colored Americans in every com m unity are urged to send representatives for an open delegated Race assembly on the new President of the U. S. A., and on getting the Race as a group into shape to effectively present and promote civil and political justice and equality before Congress meets at a session which runs into the new Presidential year.

The call, signed by the National president, Rev. M. A. N. Shaw, and national corresponding secretary, William Monroe Trotter, with heyadquarters at 103 Court street, Boston, implores Colored Americans to rise at this hour to full Race consciousness as a numerous and politically powerful racial group in need of independent, self-initiated and united struggle by means of solid organization against strong hostility which threatens its progress and welfare.

Calling attention to the "CONCORDAT," which the League brought about last March between the League, the N. A. A. C. P., African Blood Brotherhood, Friends of Negro Freedom, International Uplift League, and National Race Congress, whereby these bodies agreed upon mutual friendliness and support, declaring active membership in one should not preclude membership in any others, the League urges the immediate and general formation of branch Leagues, or Citizens and Equal Rights Committees, to send delegates with the motive and impulse of sincere Race interest and a truly common racial cause, when a new man has suddenly become President, and a Congress which precedes a Presidential election is soon to convene.

That the Convention will be held in the home of the great abolitionist, Henry Ward Beecher, in a state politically pivotal, is claimed to be advantageous. The Brooklyn Branch League, the host, with Rev. Harten as president, offers a splendid church edifice ample accommodations for delegates, also special sight-seeing and pleasure trips on the 2nd and 4th days of the session. For accommodations prospective delegates are requested to address Rev. T. S. Harten, chairman, 443 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., and any information needed as to delegates, Citizen Committees, etc., for which no set rules obtain, may be secured by writing to the secretary, W. M. Trotter.

Wanda Julia, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Corey, was christened by Rev. W. E. Shaw Sunday, 26th, 1923, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, great grand parents of the baby. The sponsers were Mrs. H. G. Marquez, Mr. Edmund G. Peters and Mr. and Mrs. E. Ory. At the same time little Mary Jane Morris was christened by Rev. Shaw. Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradley Drake and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clark standing as sponsers for the little girl, whose parent are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clurk, 217 Cheeebro Lane.

Chicago, Aug. 31. — Congressman Martin B. Madden, chairman of the Appropriations Committee in the House of Representatives, has just returned from Europe, where he made the round trip on the great Leviathian. Mr. Madden's district, the First, is now about four to one Colored in voting strength. There has been much speculation as to the Congressman's attitude with reference to being a candidate for re-election. As chairman of the Appropriations Committee the Congressman is one of the most influential men in the government.

There has been considerable talk of a Colored Congressman from the district. Both Oscar De Priest and Edward H. Wright have announced that they will be candidates in the event that Mr. Madden does not run. Edward H. Morris has also been mentioned as a condidate by a number of his friends.

In a statement for the Associated Negro Press, Congressman Madden declares: "I have no ambitions, except to continue to do the work which I am at present doing and which I think quite as important as any in the land." This is taken to mean that the Congressman will stand for re-election, and that he will not listen to the plea that he be a candidate for Governor, Senator or President of the United States, all of which offices he has been urged to lend his name as a candidate.

WOMEN PLEDGE UTMOST EFFORTS IN ANTI-LYNCHING WAR.

Inter-Racial Commission Group Sets Out on Definite Crusade—Will Seek Co-operation of Organized Womanhood of Whole South.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—At the recent annual meeting of the Commission on Inter-Racial Co-operation, the woman's section of the Commission brought in a vigorous Paper on lynching and asked the Commission to authorize that the matter be brought to the attention of the various women's organizations of the South and that they all be asked to co-operate in a sustained and systematic effort to eradicate this great evil. The Commission, which has been constantly at work toward the same end, gladly gave its approval to the plan by unanimously adopting the resolutions presented by the women, which were as follows:

Whereas, Lynching, at one time practiced only as punishment by the mob for the violation of womanhood, is now resorted to even for robbery, petty crime, or no crime, and

Whereas, At present the responsibility for the punishment of lynchers and the abolition of the evil rests solely in the several State Governments, and

Whereas, We, the Woman's Committee of the Commission on Inter-Racial Co-operation- are overwhelmed with a deep sense of humiliation that this hideous crime is heralded abroad as the only means available to men for the protection of womanhood, and

Whereas, We likewise suffer because of the seeming impotence of our State Governments in the protection of human life and in their inability to find and punish lynchers and members of mobs, who, in the absence of sufficient law enforcement by the regularly constituted authorities, presume to assume the role of judge and jury, thus themselves becoming the greatest of law violators, therefore

Be it Resolved, 1. That we deplore the failure of State Governments to handle this, the most conspicious enemy to justice and righteousness, and the most flagrant violation of the Constitution of our great Nation.

2. That we definitely set ourselves to the task of creating such sentiment as is possible to us in each State of our territory to the end that not only sufficient laws shall be enacted to enable the trusted officers of the law to discharge their full duty, but to secure the enforcement of the laws now in existence.

3. That the Director of Woman's Work of the Commission, Mrs. Luke Johnson, Palmer Building, Atlanta, Ga., be and hereby instructed to secure the presentations of this Resolution to all our co-operating organizations and State Committees, and further to put into effect such plans as are necessary to secure a sustained effort on the part of our women to the accomplishment of this end.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 31.—(Special).—Condemnation of recent threats against Tuskegee Institute and the appointment of a committee to look further into that situation, reports of a wide range of activities in the interest of better conditions and better Race relations, the adoption of vigorous resolutions against lynching and a pledge to keep up the fight till this great evil is eradicated, and the addition of a number of leading colored men and women to its membership were among the most important features of the annual meeting of the Commission on Inter-Racial Co-operation, which was held in Asheville, N. Prayer and Praise Services Sunday Evening at 5:30 and Thursday evening at 7:30.

Our Sunday School continues to grow and we are still rallying for new members. The rally for church improvement is well on its way and many are giving their contributions. A few more weeks and the Auditorium will be finished.

Rev. E. Alexander of Anderson, Ind., preached for us last Sunday morning. Subject, "What Is Man?" The soloist for the morning was Mrs. Gilbert and Mr. Dewey Johnson. There were several visitors from out of town. They are always welcome to worship with us. Six new members were added to our membership roll. There was a collection of $90.00.

Rev. N. P. GREGGS, Pastor.

WHERE TO ATTEND CHURCH

BAPTIST DAY AT WESLEY METHODIST CHURCH—

Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

Wesley promises an unusual day next Sunday on account of the hosts of Baptists in our city The pulpit will be occupied both morning and evening by one of the outstanding figures of the great Baptist Church. Our great choir will render special music at both services. We were greatly helped by the visit and sermon of eRv. A. L. Scott of Oakland last Sunday. Conference draws near. Every member is urged to lay aside liberal offerings until conference to enable us to make great reports this year.

HAMILTON M. E. CHUARCH—

E. 18th Street and Naomi Ave.
Rev. S. M. Beane, Pastor.

Sunday services at this church were of that high order that generally characterizes them. The pastor preached at the morning hour and administered the communion of the Lord's Supper. At the evening hour the pastor began the series of sermons on "Religious Fundamentals" using as a subject, "The Bible—How We Got It; and What It Means." In the brief period alloted he covered the entire field, showing the beginning of the Bible, its evolution and development. The subject next Sunday evening will be, "What Am I to Believe about God."

The Epworth League had a very splendid program under the presidency of Mr. Edward Davey, and bids fair to do a great work. The Sunday School under Prof. Eason is going great. We have fine sessions and splendid attendance always.

The choir under the leadership of Mrs. Wortham is preparing to give the public an evening of song on the 5th of October. Keep it in mind. Its purpose is to help them in purchasing robes. You will always find a cordial welcome at this church. The singing is always fine. Come and see.

The Church where visitors are made to feel that they are among warm hearted friends. The Bible School last Lord's Day was very interesting. Brother I. J. Jacobs brought us a message from Eph. 3:14, 21. Spiritual Supremacy." Showing us that the forces of evil can never conquer over righteousness if righteousness tries to exert itself. Y. P. S. C. E. has reached a climax in its interest, and the attendance is a good credit to the organization. Brother R. Turmage gives a lecture on character reading at each meeting which all enjoy.

WARD CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH—

1252 E. 25th Street.
R. B. Guy, Pastor.

Last Sunday was another record breaker at this church. The Sunday School was superintended by Mrs. Effie White, the Assistant Superintendent and the attendance was good. The morning service was a general class and sacramental service. Rev. Bryant, the Conference Evangelist, conducted the General Class Service, and at its close four persons knelt at the alter for prayer. The two young ladies united with the church.

Both Endeavors had good lessons and the attendance was increased.

At night, the Pastor spoke from the text, "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts."

The little chapel has a new dress, and the members and friends are to be highly complimented for their work.

Next Sunday will be trustee day. Every member and friend please bring 50 cents or more for the trustee department.

Good music was furnished by the choirs and congregational singing was enjoyed very generally. Holy communion was celebrated at both services and the spirit tide ran high.

NEW HOPE BAPTIST CHURCH—

Wonderful efforts were made all day Sunday by the church as a whole and by all auxiliaries in raising funds for Rev. Lively's trip to the National Baptist Convention in Fort Worth. In addition to traveling expenses and so forth, $100.00 was alloted as representative fees from New Hope.

The pastor was presented with a beautiful gold watch by the Senior Missionary Society besides numerous other gifts presented by different organizations and individuals.

the city, Rev. Lively left Monday, Sept. 3rd to attend one of the greatest meetings ever held by Negroes. The convention is being held in the largest white church in the city of Fort Worth.

During the two weeks of absence Rev. Lively's pulpit will be filled by Rev. Johnson.

The Sunday School is doing a wonderful work under the leadership of Mr. Bolls.

On each Monday and Thursday Eve. rehearsals for the Men's chorus are being held.

Mr. Dewey Johnson, baritone, who has spent two years in Chicago, studying, sang "The Lord is My Light" in a very unusual but soul-stirring manner. "Amens" were heard from all parts of the church. Mr. Johnson is noted for his beautiful soft tones.

BETHEL CHURCH OF CHRIST—

Sunday was a glorious day. Sunday School was largely attended.

At 11:00 a. m. the pastor Rev. William A. Washington, who is divinely appointed to preach the gospel, delivered a magnificent sermon. His text was taken from Revelation 12:11.

At 3:00 o'clock we were pleased to have Rev. George Barsoom, a native of Babylonia and a foreign missionary to speak to us. Among the many things he told o fhow he was rescued from Mohammedism and accepted Jesus. He had to undergo many persecutions for the sake of Jesus. But in the scripture we find these words: "Blessed are they that are persecuted for righteousness sake for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven.

After listening to the remarkable speaker we enjoyed the communion services as we partook of the Lord's supper. Souls were marvelously blessed and the spirit was greatly manifested.

At 5:30 o'clock the B. Y. P. U. was opened by the president, Brother Clarence Jones. The lesson was discussed and a splendid program was rendered.

Our young people are wonderfully inspired with various kinds of talent.

We highly appreciate visitors.

Every Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock, we are engaged in a Bible Lesson.

If you desire to search the scripture and know the truth, meet with us.

METROPOLITAN BAPTIST CHURCH—

LOS ANGELES GREATEST CITY IN THE COUNTY

While it might seem preposterous to speak of snow where this congealed moisture is seen only a few brief week of the year, and only on the tops of the lofty peaks of the Sierras, that look down upon the golden orange groves and poppy fields in the valleys below, it would appear justifiable to liken Los Angeles to a ball of the "beautiful."

We all know, whether by experience, reading or hearsay, that a in size in a comparatively increasing ball of snow, moved by personal power or by its own momentum, will gain proportion as long as it continues on its way and doesn't strike a stone wall or some other obstruction of a substantial nature.

In this connection Los Angeles might be properly termed a ball of snow. It required an immense amount of effort on the part of those who possessed a supreme confidence in the future of Los Angeles to start the ball rolling, as it were but they persevered, although it required years of labor and immense amounts of money.

Now the ball is moving by its own momentum, to a great extent, at least, and is increasing in size in a most wonderful manner.

Thus far the ball has not struck an obstruction of any material proportion. In fact, various obstacles that threatened to impede the progress of "the city beautiful" have, at one time or another, been carefully removed, principally by or at the suggestion and aid of the Chamber of Commerce, now the greatest civic organization in the world, with a membership of more than 10,000 and comprising many of those who gave the ball its original start.

One of the first and, in fact, the greatest obstacles to the development of Los Angeles into a real metropolis, was the lack of an adequate domestic water supply. After several years of urgent agitation, the citizens of Los Angeles voted for an issue of $23,000,000 of bonds for the purpose of constructing an aqueduct 250 miles in length to the snow-fed Owens river.

That work was the greatest ever undertaken by a city of the size of Los Angeles at that time. By the expenditure of that amount of money., however, Los Angeles not only acquired a supply of pure water sufficient for a city of nearly 3,000,000 people, but it has constructed hydro-electric power stations along the aqueduct, and is receiving a revenue from the sale of both water and electricity.

Another big obstruction to the progress of Los Angeles was the lack of a suitable harbor. There was a channel and a series of mud flats at San Pedro and Wilmington, but it was evident that Los Angeles must have a real harbor.

The first step was the annexation of the San Pedro and Wilmington districts. By t he expenditure by the city of $15,000,000 and by the work of private interests at equally great expense, there has been developed a deep-water harbor that within a decade has become one of the most famous ports in the entire world.

During the present year the Los Angeles harbor has become the greatest intercoastal port of the United States, not excepting New York. It is the greatest lumber port in the world and also is the greatest oil shipping port on the entire globe.

Vessels plying between Los Angeles and the various ports of the world now are paying more than half of the tolls received by the United States government for passage through the Panama Canal.

Los Angeles harbor not only is the greatest oil-shipping port in existence, but it is either the home port or port of call of more than sixty steamship companies, whose vessels ply one or more of the seven seas and keep Los Angeles in touch with all the ports in the civilize dworld.

Still another obstruction, because of its absence, was an industrial one. The Chamber of Commerce turned its attention to manufacturing, and thru its efforts in showing the advantages of Los Angeles as a manufacturing center, it has brought many industries here .

According to a survey made by the Chamber of Commerce a total of 600 industries came to Los Angeles in 1923, increasing the number of plants of various kinds to 4200. The manufactured output of these plants last $960,000,000. There was more than $685,000,000 invested in industrial plants, with a total weekly payroll of $5,325,234.

Los Angeles is growing at a rate of possibly more than 100,000 annually. It is considered certain that the city will by the end of 1923, if it has not already reached that mark, be in the million class. There is no doubt that it is the fifth city in the United States.

Last year Los Angeles was third in construction operations, with a total of more than $121,000,000. That mark was passed by the middle of August, and the total for 1923 is expected to be close to $200,000,000.

Los Angeles is certainly rolling along and there is nothing in the road to stop it.

ORGANIZATION FOR REPUTABLE BUSINESS CITIZENS.

CITIZENS

No movement within recent years has created so much interest and received such a large membership enrollment as "The Commercial Council of this city of which Dr. Eugene Nelson is President and founder, Atty Louis K Beeks, Secretary, and S. B. W May, Treasurer.

Unlike similar organizations that have at various times been attempted this organization has started in at the very outset accomplishing things by bringing them to pass and has the ear marks of becoming even at such an early stage, one of the greatest organizations attempted to better the economic conditions of our group.

Imagine fifty years back a people hopelessly submerged in ignorance, poverty and slavery, steadily growing and expanding until in June, 1923 that same people effected an organization for the benefit of those contemplating a home, a business or an industry—and you will have a fair picture of the formation of that wonder organization—the marvel of Southern California—The Commercial Council of Los Angeles.

This organization proposes to stimulate local business and manufacturers, to induce, direct and control immigration. It will afford the most reliable medium for the accommodation and benefit of persons seeking desirable homes and rest, recreation and recuperation. Whether you want a business in the city or a simple, inexpensive home in the woods, you will find it through this organization.

One of its prime objects is to show, through pains-taking methods of classification, the many delights and advantages of living and investing in California and on the Pacific Coast. Descriptive circulars and booklets, other literature and statistics will be kept on hand for inspection and distribution to the general public.

ATTY. LEWIS K. BEEKS
Secretary of the Commercial Council

The organization welcomes the scrutiny of the shrewd investor. The man who studies the city in which he intends to locate with the same painstaking attention to facts that he devotes to his business, is the type of man that the Commercial Council wants as a future citizen. Consider the men who founded and are backing this development. They are representative of the type of men who have marched at the forefront of Southern California's progress, giving their time and material means for the advancement of this city and Southern California.

Dr. Nelson in a statement giving out for publication stated that "The needs of our group are many and these needs as well as the solution of the many problems confronting the race today can only be obtained thru a concerted or organized effort on our part in which every individual man and woman must join.

"I wish to explicitly state that this is not a one person's organization but an organization of, for, and governed by the group and until each and every one is awakened to their responsibility, just so long will we as a race trail in the dust of progress."

Since its organization the Council has built up a splendid membership, a neat treasury and the building committee has under consideration the erection of a modern three story building to cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. Here in a city which boasts of over eight hundred thousand population, forty-five thousand of which are colored, competition is keen and it is absolutely necessary that a spirit of conditions along all lines in general or ces organized, if we expect to better conditions long styl lines in general or if our boys and girls, young men and women are to be given the proper encouragement which will fit them to become worthy citizens and gain them the respect they should command.

Make inquiry.

Make inquiry—start comment, come and talk it over—start others to talking. It is the biggest thing launched in California. Watch for the erection of the imposing home of this organization with its business facilities on Twelfth street. The lot has been secured and the plan drawn for this structure.

Thus, Los Angeles is in position to boast of some fine homes and business locations owned by the Race, but if we are to keep abreast of the times—if we are to progress in the future as in the past, a change must be made, and a few of the millions held by Negro capitalists at four per cent in banks must be withdrawn and used in the purchase of ground, tracts or lots, and small sanitary houses erected to meet the present demands.

In the migration of the Negro from the South, Los Angeles is receiving its share and they are being absorbed as fast as they arrive by the many industries that Los Angeles boasts of. Those to arrive thus far have proven in every way that they are worthy of what they seek; that is a chance to make good and become one of us. Lets open up our hearts, and maialy our pocketbooks, and start a building campaign that will be a practical demonstration to those seeking relief from Southern tyranny that Los Angeles welcomes every individual that has backbone to want to be a man or woman and live instead of existing.

OUR REAL ESTATE DEALERS

The Real Estate dealers and business concerns whose ads appear in the columns of this classified Real Estate section have been carefully solicited. They are a well established and successful group that are doing more than any othres to help the new arrival who is homeless to get a decent place to live.

While Los Angeles boasts of many, we have selected the cream of this number. They are worthy and take this means of soliciting your patronage when in need of their services.

EXPANDING THROUGH FRIENDSHIP.

There is one firm in this city that can boast of doing a tremfiendous business, practically from the extensive acquaintance of its personnel. That firm is the Alexander Realty Company, of which James M. Alexander is president; Fred W. Lucas, treasurer, and Clarence A. Brooks, secretary.

"About ninety-nine per cent of our clients," said Mr. Brooks in an interview, "come to our office directly thru being personally acquainted with some member of our firm or have been recommended to us by some one who has purchased a home thru us. This is indeed a very unusual condition, but it is not in the least surprising to us when we realize the amount of personal service we render our customers along with the class of homes we sell them."

"We feel that the selection of a home is as much a serious and important matter as taking unto yourself a husband or wife. It is primarily for that reason we have always exercised the utmost care and thought in the selection and recommendation of homes to our friends and clients. It is needless to say that this principle has gained us many friends and the confidence of our clients and the general public."

HOME LIFE

By R. J. City.

Home life. Have yo uever stopped to consider the value of real home life? Its connection with your success in life; its value as to citizenship, society and social standing.

There are many angles from which one may look at the proposition of owning a home. But after all we must agree with one another that home life makes each of us an asset instead of a liability to all things that go to make us better men and women.

When Mr. G. W. City and myself decided to enter business here in Los Angeles we spent considerable time looking over avenues and conditions that would best fit us for rendering service, and reached the early conclusion, and time has proven our judgment to be correct, that we could best render service by helping others to help themselves buy homes in improved locations surrounded by a sanitary atmosphere that would insure health above anything, for after all, health is the most valuable thing we cah have in life .

And so "City Brothers" are what you might term home specialists. We confine our efforts in the main to securing at reasonable cost to the purchaser a home, a modern home, surrounded by every convenience that makes life worth living. In fact, a close investigation of our many transactions will disclose the fact that divorce amongst our customers, and we have hundreds of them, is an unheard of thing. All are happy morning, noon and night.

Owning a real home is a cure for all ills. If you don't believe it drop in and let us sell you one.

NEGRO CAPITAL

Los Angeles boasts of having some of the wealthiest Negroes in the country. Included in this group are several worth a quarter of a million or more, but so far as the interests and welfare of the Race is concerned, with one or two exceptions, they may as well be residents of almost any other city.

If the Race is credited with accomplishing anything tending towardthe betterment of living conditions here, that credit must be give nto the efforts on the part of the leading real estate concerns who have shown a helping interest in co-operating and with the small investor and working classes and procuring for them, at reasonable prices, business locations and business opportunities .

Los Angeles today is short hundreds of homes needed t ohouse the thousands of immigrants today who are coming to this city with money to pay for same . But owing to the lack of interest shown by the Negros who are really in position to furnish capital, and help their own, at the same time making a reasonable profit on their mfioney so invested, better than the three and four per cent the banks offer, these same people are forced to buy or rnt second hand houses in locations fastly becoming industrialized and undesirable for home life.

CITIZENS HOME AND INVESTMENT CO. IN NEW HOME.

No name appearing in business and financial realms is better known than the above. In our Real Estate Number of last February we attempted to give a few facts concerning the man. Much has been accomplished since then in betterqing living conditions and Mr. S. B. W. May has played his part in bringing things to pass. We frankly admit our failure trying to keep up with his activities, so swift has been his progress.

However, we cannot fail to make known the fact that Mr. May has recently completed the erection of a new building for the housing of business enterprises. Something much needed. He found it necessary to plackard the place for rent, as all space with the exception of the spacious quarters reserved for his Real Estate offices were taken before its completion. Mr. May moves into his new quarters on Sept. 1, and a visit to them will convince any and all that half has not been told.

MODERN OFFICE BUILDING FOR RACE

At last the group has a first-class office building, modern in every respect. Light, airy, hot and cold water in every room. In fact all the conveniences that go to make for what it represents.

For years many of our prominent business men and women have been forced to occupy dirty, dingy quarters and 3rd and 4th class office buildings. Unsanitary, unsightly and totally out of keeping with the volume of business and the class of clients and customers they catered to.

No more is this necessary, thanks to Assemblyman Roberts and one or two others. Today a seventy-five thousand dollar modern structure is at our command and space is being rapidly taken. No longer is it necessary to take what is left but you can have what you wish. The building is located on Central Avenue between 8th and 9th Streets and is open for inspection. Hundreds attended the opening recent, and all declared it to be the finest they had seen, with its hardwood floors throughout.

Just whether or not you, Mr. Business and Professional man, are going to be appreciative of this great effort and sacrifice made by a few, remains to be seen. Public sentiment demands you at least investigate.

LOS ANGELES?

IF NOT—WHY?

OBJECT AND PURPOSES—

The Commercial Council of Los Angeles was organized June, 1923, for the purpose of constructively applying its every energy and resource to foster and encourage commerce, to stimulate local business and manufacturers, to assist in securing a market for our product, to induce, direct and control immigration, and the subdivision, settlement and cultivation of our lands —to assist in the development of the material resources of the region, and genrally to promote the business interest of our group in Southern California, and to erect a suitable building for the use of this Association, the plan of which is already complete.

ITS METHODS—

WOOD WILSON BIG REALTY MAN

The public in general knows Mr. Wilson for his activity and his ability to do things. He is a live wire. He is a man-about-town. He is an industrious man of action.

Mr. Wilson is now conducting a successful Real Estate business at 580 Central avenue. Phone 824616. By honest methods and fair dealing he has won the confidence of all whom he has aided in securing beautiful homes in pleasant neighborhoods.

Mr .Wilson gives it as his opinion that square dealing insures success. We recommend Mr. Wilson to the purchasing real estate in and out of public as a safe man to consult when the city of Los Angeles. For general information call 824616, or write 580 Central Ave.

LOS ANGELES THE GREATEST

FIRM DOUBLES ITS SALES

The well known firm of Wm. H. Gamble & Co. has doubled their sales for the fiscal year ending June 30th, a statement which in itself speaks of the Company's ability to give service. The personal interest of their client is considered by them their first duty. Despite the scarcity of improved property to be handled, Gamble & Co. have some of the best bargains in real estate to be had. When asked by the Eagle man if they had any statement to make concerning conditions in general in their line, Mr. Gamble, president of the firm, said:

"Los Angeles is fast becoming the mecca of a large cosmopolitan city where the better classes of all races are gathering, looking and hoping for bettering their personal conditions. No city in the world offers the opportunities that our city offers, and being in constant touch and co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce, the largest body of its kind in the world, the many civic and business enterprises of the city and Race, we feel that we are in a position to secure for any and all, including the thousands of visitors gathered here for the National Baptist Convention, many of whom contemplate remaining, anything that they desire in property or business locations. IF we fail it can't be done."

We have endeavored to assist in raising the Real Estate profession to the standard of that high level which it rightly deserves. There are a good many people who think that all one has to do to become a successful realtor is to get out and find a piece of property for sale, and then secure a purchaser, but they are soon convinced that they are entirely wrong. It is just as possible for one to succeed in the realty business without the proper training; honesty, experience, and ability, as it is for him to succeed as a physician, lawyer or one of any other profession without special training in his particular endeavor. There were some people who looked upon all realty brokers as deceptive and dishonest, but those of that belief have been forced to admit that they were mistaken, that one can find just as many honest men among realy brokers as can be found among men of any other profession. We admit that there are those in business who cannot be trusted, just as there are men in every profession and business proper thing for the public to do is to to turn the searchlight on the record, reputation and ability of any and every one in the professional or business world, find out if they are qualified, dependable and trustworthy before placing business wit hthem. Those who would succeed in the business world can have but one policy, and that is to do unto their neighbor as they would wish their neighbor to do unto them. In following this policy, one's business will thrive and prosper; evade it and one's business will wither and die. I would like to call the attenton of the public to the following adv. appearing in the columns of our daily papers: "Buy from owner and save commission!' I know this adv. to be placed in the papers by certain persons who practice buying property for qiuck turn-overs. They purchase their property thru agents, raise the price above market value and deceive the public by the above adv. Many of them have purchased property thru my firm, so BEWARE!

LO! AND BEHOLD!

Walter J. Lowe & Co. are as usual living up to their reputation of giving service. Mr. Lowe stated to the Eagel man yesterday, while he didn't mind being interviewed he was so pressed at present making delegates, members and friends of the big Baptist Convention at home that he did not have time to say anything other than that he was as stated too busy just now to speak.

A LIVE WIRE

P. H. Taylor, who is in the Real Estate business on E. 17th street and doing well, is a believer in advertising. If one is honest in their methods and dealings with the public in any capacity, their chief asset is to advertise in the papers, or personal letters through a mailing list system. If Los Angeles wasn't so well advertised the N. B. A. Convention would not be with us this week.

If not for his belief in advertising, C. C. Julian, the great oil man who has sprung up over night, would not be where he is today, a millionaire himself, with hundreds of satisfied investors, and so on down.

Hardly a day passes but some one doesn't stop in on the strength of receiving a good strong letter or having seen my personal ad. in the papers.

I am expecting one-half of the ten thousand Baptists delegates here for the Convention to visit my office.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

One can feel certain and bank solidly on real estate being a safe and highly profitable investment in Los Angeles.

"As to growth oue thing is ceratin. We will grow more as a city in the next ten years than we did in the last ten years and that means growth enough for any town.

"By all means begin buying a home, but do not be contnt with paying less than 25 per cent of the price in cash.

"There is a wise psychologic value derived from owning real estate, for it is a safe profitable investment and it makes you a better citizen because of the stability which characterises ownership in land.

WEALTH, HONOR, FAME ONLY TRIFLES COMPARED TO PEP

Much has been said regarding the trite word pep, but still more may be said without stepping on any proverbial toes.

Just as a web-footed person can walk in water on rainy days without getting their feet damp, so those who are possessed of pep can bounce about, move spryly, and overcome most obstacles.

Pep is enthusiasm to the 1st degree. When Tom Jones' rooster has pep wrapped up within his tender heart and tough hide 'tis hard to keep him still. He will wake the neighborhood before day and remind Mr. Jones that it is breakfast time by his crowing; and show the world that he is boss of the cooped kingdom by the egotistical poise o fhis head and his hard-boiled walk. But when he has the pep he can hardly keep his head on his neck because of its wobbling tendency. He will lean against the door of his palace with his legs crossed as tho he were ready to cash in.

If you are able in your manifestations of pep, which you regard as a priceless jewel, to give some of it to others who need it, don't neglect doing so. Pep is like love, in that it may be given and taken. And if a man has wealth, honor, fame, and other blessings, but has not love, he is miserable indeed, isn't he? 'Tis equally true of pep.

The Pastor was at his best Sunday morning past when inspired by the fervent prayer of Rev. Lane and the sweet singing of the CChoir, he preached a soul-stirring sermon to an appreciative audience. Text: "And They Stood Every Man In His Place," Judges 7:2. After the sermon Rev. Eli Lane of the Second Baptist Church gave us a most wonderful talk which filled us full of encouragement and enthusiasm. We say to him and all such brethren "Come Again." The morning soloist was Mrs. Cora B. Toney.

At the evening service Rev. I. N. Whitten delivered an inspirational sermon Text: "Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting. Much good was derived from his interpretation of these words.

BETHEL BAPTIST CHURCH—
Holding Services in the Y. M. C. A, Ninth and Hemlock Streets.

There was increased interest in our Sunday, School. The many visitors were accorded hearty welcome and told to come again. The beautiful character of Joseph was intelligently brought to the attention of the children, and the lesson on forgiveness was driven home. Truly the word of God is ever new. At the 11:00 o'clock service we were favored with an excellent sermon from The Rev. Mr. Cohtran. Calm, quiet, and incisive our brother delivered the message, and all of us were blessed. Although many of our members were sick still our attendance was good. The President of The B. Y. P. U. being away, Mrs. Bass again filled his place and her deliverance on present day issues was remarkable and timely. At night the Pastor preached on the conversion and Missionary success of the woman of Samaria. The Master was with us, and thus we closed a delightful Sabbath. The Bethel Baptist Church gives a welcome to all.

H. D. Prowd, Pastor.

The pastor preached both sermons on last Sunday, subject of morning was found in Acts 26:28. "Then Agrippa said unto Paul; "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian."

Subject "Essentials of a Christian Life." This was a broad subject and one that could not be explained in one service. But the pastor in explaining the characteristics of a Christian life touched on habits, social and political life, character, and home life which consisted of wife's duty toward husband and husband's duty toward wife. Also the rearing of children. The pastor's morning sermons are always instructive and much good is obtained by all that come.

The evening text was found in Galatians Third Chapter.

The pastor occupied the pulpit at Christ Tabernacle, 37th and Naomi at 3:00 o'clock a soul-stirring service was held.

WARD CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH—
1252 East 28th Street.
B. R. Guy, Pastor.

There was an extraordinary attendance and spiritual services at this church last Sunday, and one baptized at the morning service. The Sunday School had a splendid attendance and three new pupils. The offering was creditable. The Endeavor was led by Elizabeth Peterson and the interest and information derived from the lesson was commendable. In the morning the pastor spoke from the text, "Come thou with us and we will do thee good, for the Lord has spoken good concerning Israel. A large number of visitors were present including three from Pasadena. At night the pastor spoke to a mixed audience of members and visitors form the text, "Wherefore seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, therefore let us lay aside every weight and the sin that doth so easily beset us, let us run with patience the race set before us looking unto Jesus who is author and finisher of our faith." One man united with the Church.

WALL ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
33rd and Hooper Avenue.
Rev. M. Frederick Mitchell, Pastor

The Pastor filled the pulpit both morning and evening. Two inspiring sermons, graced the spirit of the day. Subjects: "The Power of The Church. "The Great Salvation". The worshippers returned ot their homes with renewed strength. The choir under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Viola Harris Brandon attuned the hearts of the auditors with their sweet gospel songs. The choir is doing excellent concert work in and out of Los Angeles. Last week the choir invaded the white Christian Church, Alhambra, Calif. After the program, the pastor stated that it was the best entertainment in the history of his church. Rev. Mitchell made an address on that occasion upon the subject, "The Progress of the Negro Race in America. There will be special services next Sunday. Subjects, Man's extremity is God's Opportunity." In the evening the eveningfi "Church Inspection."

All are welcome.

WESLEY CHAPEL
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

Sunday was Pioneer's Day and we venture to say that in their twenty-five or more years of residence they have not listened to a more appropriate and well spoken sermon. Full of common sense, business advice and exhortation the pastor from the subject "Pathfinders" came into his own and pleaded with old and new alike in appealing words. Moments of intence silence were witnessed as the pastor spoke. In line with this sermon Rev. Shaw will offer some business suggestions Sunday morning, next April 22. A very liberal collection was taken by the Pioneers and presented to pastor, church and choir. Sunday evening the young people of the church held a social hour at which time they elected and installed the following officers: Attorney Lewis K. Beeks, President; H. W. Markham, First Vice President; James Warren, Second Vice President; Miss L. Payne Third Vice President; L. K. Beeks, Fourth Vice President; Miss Burnis Hill, Secretary; Wallace Markham, Treasurer; Mrs. E. Hubs, Choister; Mrs. Jessie Matthews, Assistant Chorister; Miss E. Wigley, Organist and Miss Mary Earles, Assistant Organist. It is hoped with this staff that this large fine group of young people will be satisfactorily organized and assisted.

N. A. A. C. P. DRIVE BEGINS—GREAT MASS MEETING AT SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH—ATTORNEY E. BURTON CERUTI TO SPEAK.

By J. C. Banks.

The N. A. A. C. P. Drive is now on. In all parts of the United States, in Canada and elsewhere, the various branches of the Association are making appeals for memberships to meet the quotas for year 1923. In all cases these appeals will be based on the high ground of the Association's achievements in the past and its far-reaching program for the future. The 1923 program is especially noteworthy.

The intensive campaign of the Los Angeles branch began, formally, Sunday afternoon, April 15, with a mass meeting at the Second Baptist Ch., on Maple Avenue (Rev. Dr. T. L. Griffith's church). At this meeting Attorney E. Burton Ceruti spoke Besides being an able speaker, Mr. Ceruti is one of the pioneer members of the local branch. He is also the legal adviser, being at the same time one of the National Directors of the Association. The finest talent protutable in the way of speakers, musicians and workers, make the Drive meetings very attractive. The public will do well to remember this. There will be full and authentic information always regarding N. A. A. C. P. activities.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
14th and Birch Streets.

On Sunday, April 8, the regular services were well attended. Brother Haye preached at the 11:00 o'clock hour. Brother I. J. Williams preached at 8:00 p. m. from the subject, "What Meanest Thou, O Sleeper? Arise, Call upon thy God." Showing that the church of today is a sleep but must be awakened.

And on Sunday 15th, Brother I. J. Williams who is preaching for us at present brought to us at the 11:00 o'clock hour a soul stirring sermon, using for his text, St. Matt. 13 Chap. 3rd Verse. the last clause, "Behold a sower went forth to sow, showing that the farmer first had to prepare the ground before sowing the seeds. So the heart of man had to be prepared before the "Lord Could Enter."

And at night our beloved Brother A. W. Jacobs brought us a wonderful message from the 23rd Chapter of St. Luke.

WALL ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
Odd Fellows Hall at E. 8th and Wall.

Last Lord's day we had a glorious time. All of our services were fine. A large attendance. Some of the old members were present. Strangers from Oklahoma and other places were with us and took part in the services.

Brother Hudson, Supt., of the Christian Missionary Society sent us a minister in the person of Rev. Hay. He spoke on the subject "Love, unity and union." Text 1 Cor. It was a good practical sermon. All who heard were greatly edified. The spirit manifested in our meeting points to greater things. Before a great while we will have a house of worship and a minister. We welcome all who would be pleased to worship with us. Rev. Hudson will send us a minister for next Lord's day.— Bb the Elders: G. W. Hollins, L. Booth and William Z. Hopper.

COLERIDGE-TAYLOR CLUB GAVE EXCELLENT PRODUCTION OF "A TALE OF OLD JAPAN.

On Monday and Tuesday nights of last week Coleridge-Taylor's great Cantata, "A Tale of Old Japan," was presented at Gamut's Auditorium by the Coleridge-Taylor Music Study Club, Mrs. Clara C. Hulbert, president and manager, H. Douglas Greer, musical director.

The program was an elaborate and ambitious one, well carried out, and deserving of far greater support than it received from our public. Nothing in creation stands still. All things advance, retrogress, or perish. We as a racial group are presumed to be progressing along the lines of artistic endeavor. But it must be confessed that there is little ground for that supposition, when such a great work, in preparation for so long, and produced at such heavy expense, receives so little patronage.

The Cantata was preceded by an Oriental Play, entitled "The Imaum's Revenge," a picturesque and colorful drama, in which Mr. Greer and Mr. Anderson distinguished themselves in attractive roles, in conjunction with Miss Guyton and Miss Anita Thompson. Miss Thompson is well known as an artistic dancer, and as Shalimar, the Imperial Enchantress, her superb technique and exquisite natural grace, were exhibited to advantage.

Other numbers were, "A Bit of Japanese Coquetry," a comedy song pantomime by Mrs. Sadie Ayred and Mr. George Copeland, and a reading in costume by Mrs. Letitia Collins, the Sioux chief's daughter."

In "A Tale of Old Japan," the leading roles were distributed as follows: "O Kimi San," the fragile, loveable, ill-fated heroine, Mme. Watkins, soprano of Pasadena; Cherry Blossom, narrator of the story, Miss Maud Mitchell; Yoichi Tenko, the painter, Mr. Albright, baritone; Sawara, the student-painter, and hero, Mr. Charles White, tenor.

Mme. Watkins possesses a soprano voice of sweetness and brilliance, well trained, and a distinctly pleasing stage presence, all of which made her performance a most delightful one. Miss Mitchell, on this her first public appearance, scored a decided hit, with a most creditable vocal performance, and by the grace and naturalness of her deportment. Messrs. Albright and White portrayed their responsive roles admirably.

Minor parts were well sung, and the chorus formed a colorful background for the principals.

The highest credit is due the Club's well-loved and able president, Mrs. Hulbert, and her aides, Professors Greer and Anderson, and Mr. John Gray and Miss Luvenia Harper, for this artistic achievement.

MISS HARPER PRESENTS PUPILS IN RECITAL

On Tuesday evening April 10th, Miss Luvenia Harper with her pupils appeared in their first annual recital at the Second Baptist Church, and an especially artistic array of talent it was.

Miss Harper aside from being a well trained pianist, presents a very pleasing personality as a young lady of culture and refinement, and upon the occasion of her first recital easily reflected due credit upon her own ability for assimilating the highest culture in music as well as those who were responsible for her training.

The more than twenty-five pupils that composed the program of Miss Harper's recital were all Juveniles with two or three exceptions and each was good in his and her role. Especially pleasing to the audience were the two solo renditions by Mrs. Marie Overstreet Jackson.

The prizes for excellency of a song without words, were awarded respectively to Esther Rayford and Ruby Johnson.

The usherettes: Vivian Glover, Marian Carter, Flossie Washington, Margaret Carter, Ruth Wright, Belle Patton, Rowen Muckelroy, Naomi Wright, Allie Green, Mrs. Viola Hubbard, all prettily gowned in conjunction with the exquisite floral decorations added to the attractive arrangement of the evening.

NEPHEW OF NOTED TEXAS POLITCAIN DIES.

It will be sad news to the many Texans in this city and State to learn that Mr. Norris Wright Cuney, nephew and namesake of the great Republican leader of Texas, died last month in the city of Washington, D. C., where since 1896 he had been a trusted chief in the United States Printing Office.

Mr. Cuney was a native of Galveston and at the time of his death the father of two children, twins.

Mrs. Maud Cuney-Hare, the wonderful pianist who two years ago toured the State with Mr. Wm. H. Richardson, tenor, was the first cousin of the deceased and received the sad news of "Tuts," his boyhood name, quite a while on tour through the State of North Carolina, and was very much overcome by the tidings.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD

By John A. GGray

What is artistic atmosphere and what does it mean to the student? The atmosphere used in this connection are the surrounding conditions, both physical and mental, in which the student finds himself. It is almost impossible for one to grow artistically and yet never come in contact with those things that are artistic. Students used to go to Europe for study and atmosphere. They still go for atmosphere but do not need to go for study. Since the war most of the great teachers of Europe have come to America and are teaching here. One can find today the very best instructors in the world without leaving the United States. It is difficult to find an environment, though, that is conducive to higher development. With the exception of some schools and colleges and a few places such as Greenwich village, our artistic atmosphere in a musical sense, is confined mostly to private groups. The environment that is needed for the musical student should be just as potent and universal as that which is manifested among the studios and homes of the motion picture people of Hollywood. Or, that which one finds on the stage, or in the sporting world. It means something that the majority knows about, is interested in, and at which a large number are working. That condition must prevail in order to promote a healthy growth and development in any specific line. Our music students, and especially those of the race, are more like hot-house plants that are not able to stand the scorching sun of the non-appreciative nor the withering winds of the indifferent. They soon give up the struggle and follow the crowd in its mad rush for jazz and frivolity.

All art must have patrons who can give time and money for its propagation. Unfortunately there is no element of this type among the groups of our race except the students themselves, and when the future history of the race is written, the world will be able to see what a colossal task the pioneers of our art were compelled to undertake. In simple words our students must study, pay for their lessons, give their time and talent to every organization that comes along, suffer indignities from those who don't know, and meet all deficits resulting from concerts, recitals etc. Isn't this a very encouraging condition for the young student to face?

However, it is being done and will continue to be done because the artistic urge for self-expression is greater than the forces that are trying to hold it back.

Parents of students can help by requiring their offsprings to give musicales and have programs of different kinds when the youngsters entertain. The average party consists of dancing and frivolous talk, with now and then some silly game. Students themselves should cultivate the acquaintances of those who are striving to be something. Every person takes up ones time socially is either helping or hindering. What is the use of sending your child to school, especially the high school and colleges, if, when they come out, their ideas and ambitions are no higher than the boys and girls who have run the streets all of their life? This sort of environment is not of help to any group and this atmosphere will stifle all forms of artistic growth.

IMPRESSIONS

There is Beauty in All. Are You Asleep or Awake.

Every artist takes delight in giving his impressions to those who love beautiful paintings. He devotes his life to perfecting his art.

There is a beauty in every art and every craft. No matter how humble the trade or vocation, men strive to do their very best. When they love their work they take as much interest in it as though it were the loftiest calling on earth.

If one should spend a few moments of his time noting the perfect lines and arches in a newly constructed building, he may rest assured that it is the result of the creative mind of the architect.

And what is more wonderful about the artist and the craftsman is, that he feels he is contributing to the betterment of mankind.

Learn to see the beauty in every created thing. Do not cultivate the habit of overlooking the fine points of any work. Remember the humblest work that man may do is as pleasing in God's sight as the loftiest, when it is done with willingness and sincerity.

POLITICAL DIGEST

ONE HUNDRED COLORED CITIZENS ENDORSE THE CITIZENS SCHOOL BOARD

In no department of our civic life are the Colored voters more interested than in the department of Public Schools. The education of the children is of absorbing interest and is the outstanding hope of every member of this community.

Los Angeles excells in her present school system. It must be kept intact with the sole thought of advancement towards higher ideals.

To accomplish that purpose a Citizens Committee composed of 1000 men and women in all walks of life, has been organized. 100 Colored citizens have been invited to become a part of this organization which has adopted a Ticket to be voted in the coming election, May 1—a School Board Ticket composed of school men and school women thoroughly efficient and eminently qualified to take care of the Public School situation in Los Angeles.

This Ticket stands openly pledged to administer the affairs of the Public Schools with fairness and EQUAL justice to pupils, teachers and electors alike and not in the interests of any particular faction, party, creed or group, with the desire to render unselfish and effective work for the public welfare. The Slogan is: "We have no friends to favor, no enemies to punish. Our only desire is to insure impersonal and effective school administration."

EX-SENATOR MOORE TO THE FRONT. SOUTH SIDE MAN MAY BE NEXT MAYOR

As the campaign for the nomination of municipal officers draws to its close, a remarkable switching of sentiment in favor of Edward E. Moore for Mayor is the outstanding development.

Mr. Moore came out a little late, and no money is being spent in his campaign, except for legitimate advertising, but his clean record and splendid qualifications have won such widespread support that he is now acknowledged to be in the forefront of the principal contenders for the nomination. He is not backed by any corporation or "interests," and declares he has no object or ambition but to give the city a clean, effective, law-enforcing administration.

Senator Moore is a resident of the South Side, his home being at 1728 West 48th Street. Before coming to Los Angeles he lived in Indiana, where he was a member of the State Educational Commission, and was twice elected State Senator. His candidacy is endorsed by the United Church Brotherhoods, the South West Realty Board, the South Western Avenue Business Association, and other influential organizations and individuals.

Other things being equal, the people of the South Side should naturally favor a South Side man for Mayor. And if such a candidate happens to be the best man for the job in addition, he certainly should have their heartiest support. Adv.

On Saturday, April 28th, the SOUTH WEST REALTY BOARD will lead a monster Automobile parade in support of the candidacy of EDWARD E. MOORE for Mayor, and C. W. CLEGG for City Councilman.

The people of the South Side are thoroughly awake to the wonderful opportunity of putting one of their distinguished citizens in the Mayor's chair, and a strong and capable representative in the Council.

The South Side is a mighty big and important part of Los Angeles, and demands and deserves recognition.

Hitherto one might think, so far as the powers that be are concerned, that there is no such section as South Los Angeles.

Every business man and citizen is requested to enter his auto in the big parade of Saturday, the 28th.

For further information, call F. N. Shanley, Chairman Parade Committee, Vermont 9064.

WATER ON BRAIN BAFFLES SCIENCE

By Dr. E. B. Lewis, B. Sc. M. D.
1618 1-2 East 9th Street

"Water on the brain" is not the joke that everyday speech might lead you to believe. To level this expression of opprobrium at some one who fails to see the point to some argument or joke may be very amusing. In its true meaning, water on the brain or an accumulation of lymph, serum and fluids in the cranial cavity, is a serious matter. It is termed "hydrocephalus" or water-logged brain.

External hydrocephalus is the name given when the fluid is between the skull and the brain, and internal hydrocephalus when the fluid is inside the core of the cerebrum or gray matter. The latter type is not uncommon.

The causes of hydrocephalus are not clearly understood. Many of them are present when a child is born, although the malady is not an inherited condition. Rickets and other diseases are in evidence sometimes, although a large head in a child with rickets is often wrongly due to "water on the brain."

This condition may exist with a small head. The bones often harden prematurely in these infants. Such children, if they do not die at an early age, frequently become idiots. With this exception, the hydrocephalic child is recognized by the abnormal size of its head.

At birth, the circumference of the head of a normal child measures about 14 inches. At its first birthday it is 18 or 19 inches. The head of a hydrocephalic child at 4 months measured 24 1-2 inches, another a little older 26 3-4 inches, and a third at 8 months was 32 3-4 inches.

Occasionally the head is globular, again it is pyramidal, but all are usually symmetrical. "Highbrows" receive but little comfort from these unhappy sufferers. An exceedingly broad and high forehead is not always a sign of intelligence.

In many of these infants so afflicted the condition is not manifest until the little one is three months old. Then the head begins to grow too rapidly. The child may be dull, unable to hold up its head, have weak muscles and dulled senses. Even convulsions may appear. The head enlarges and the rest of the anatomy wastes. The causes of death may be marasmus—the wasting disease—convulsions and other intercurrent maladies. Incision, puncture of the brain, strapping and other surgical procedures have hitherto been in vain.

Dr. Lewis will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest to the public. He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. Where the subject is not of general interest, letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. E. B. Lewis, 1618 1-2 East 9th Street. Phones 820-389 and 822417.

Question—My little boy nine months old is under weight, very fretful and has severe bowel troubles. We feed him only on mashed potatoes with gravy, rice and other soft foods. He has fever now and then. What is your idea about him.

Answer:—From what I can gather in our querry, your baby is not getting the right kind of diet. Rice and mashed potatoes are not to be given infants of that age. There is a great percentage of starch in either of the foods you named, and starch, is no food for babies, as the digestive enzyme amylopsin is not to be found in the digestive organs of infants at that age. This enzyme is a starch digestant.

It would not be unwise if you would have your baby examined by some one having the authority, and proper diet prescribed.

THE EASTSIDE INDEPENDENT LEAGUE LAUNCHES THE "FARMER-FOR-MAYOR" CAMPAIGN

In taking up the candidacy of Bert L. Farmer the Eastside Independent League has not done so without good and sufficient reason.

In all previous campaigns in which we have engaged we have based our argument on the high ground of fairness and general advancement of the whole people. In promoting all candidates whom we have heretofore presented to our own group we have done so believing in the sincerity and integrity of the man together with his ability to fill the office.

We are standing for the Hon. Bert L. Farmer for Mayor of Los Angeles. Bert L. Farmer, a big, capable man with many years of experience in public affairs, will go into the Mayor's office with his hands untied. Under the present city charter which must remain operative during the entire term of the next Mayor no matter who he is, Mr. Farmer sees his way clear and open to advance the City of Los Angeles along proposed civic lines and at the same time conduct his high office in a sense of fairness and consideration towards all classes of our citizens.

Unlike the present Mayor Mr. Farmer sees much that he can do for the uplift of Los Angeles while the proposed new charter is framing. And in keeping with the big, generous spirit of the man he pledges himself to all uplift movements which make for the betterment of the whole people.

We are not setting ourselves aside as a separate and distinct part of the people of Los Angeles for which special laws must be made and favors granted. We simply ask that the chief executive of this great city enforce the laws under which the city is operated in such a way as to preserve the peace and safety of all.

To that end, and firmly believing in the man we have selected to support, we ask all progressive citizens to help elect Bert L. Farmer for Mayor of Los Angeles.

MOTOR BUSSES
Have Been Tried
FOUND WANTING

Proponents of the plan to give the Bus Line a 21-year free grant to use our streets assert that the busses are NEEDED to help in the movement of transportation in Los Angeles.

THE ENTIRE PROPOSED FLEET OF 125 BUSSES WITH CAPACITY LOADS WILL RELIEVE THE PRESENT TRANSPORTATION BURDEN BY LESS THAN 5 PER CENT.

EXPERIENCES OF OTHER CITIES

Des Moines tried the busses for 17 months—and voted them out by a majority of two to one.
Spokane tried the busses—and eliminated them by a decisive vote of the people.
Baltimore forces the busses to discontinue operations before they reach the congested area of the city.
Kansas City allows busses only on streets where property owners have given consent. Thus far this consent has been refused.
Toledo permitted busses to gain a hold on the city streets. The result was demoralized transportation and at present higher fares on the car lines.
Newark, N. J., merchants have appealed to have the busses curtailed to a marked degree, following transportation difficulties and serious interruption to business.
Saginaw, Bridgeport, Conn., and many other communities have tried the busses as a public utility and found them wanting. They were fortunate in being able to eliminate and curtail the busses when their ultimate failure became manifest.

21-YEAR FRANCHISE

But Los Angeles, if it permits the busses to operate at all, must continue this permit for the life of the franchise asked for. Ths franchise will be IRREVOCABLE, and if Los Angeles has the same experience with the busses as those other cities which eliminated and curtailed them after they had been tried and found wanting, THE BURDEN MUST BE CARRIED FOR21 YEARS WITHOUT POSSIBILITY OF RELIEF, save by buying back the franchise at huge cost to the taxpayers.

News of Calitornir State

RIVERSIDE, CAL.

Mr. Felton is satisfactorily recovering from the effects of the wound sustained last Monday from the gun of Edw. Butler. The evidence shows that Felton was shot not knowing that his assailant was near as he was shot in the left shoulder from the rear. An eye witness (Mrs. Backer) says Butler when he raised his gun, aimed and fired Others had previously cautioned Ed not to do any thing desperate.

Edw. Butler who shot Felton is under Ten Thousand Dollar Bail, which he has not been able to furnish yet.

Felton is one of those extraordinary characters who has a wealth of friends among the worldly and retains the good-will and sympathy of the members of the churches. It is more commendable because he is of the world, yet respected by Christians.

The Spring is in full swing with a strong call to the lovers of the great out of doors to leave the busy streets of the city and spend pleasurable hours in the canyons and parks. Several picnic parties were formed and spent Sunday at various canyons and resorts.

Many Los Angelenos spent Sunday in Riverside. Among the number were Mr. I. W. Wallace Treasurer of the P. M Benefit Association and wife; Mr. and Mrs P. L Craig, Mr and Mrs. Collins; Mr and Mrs W. Rollins. The above named members of Prillip's Chapel C. M. E. Church, Los Angeles, and cousins of Mr and Mrs. R. D. Boyd, Riverside They were the guests of Mrs. Boyd at the family pew service at Allen Chapel A. M. E. Church at the morning service and expressed great delight in being able to hear Rev. McCorkle again as many of them frequented special services where he spoke in Los Angeles and remembered him with a desire to hear him again

Mrs. Hurd, of Needles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Miller spent the week end in the city attending business and visiting her parents. She also spent the morning at Allen Chapel.

The Masonic Fraternity was invited to worship with the Second Baptist Church Sunday, they accepted and made a splendid showing in the congregation Sunday morning. The pastor, Rev. Cooper was at his best. It is commendable how the men of the world (masonic brothers) who owe no affiliation to any church responded to the call.

The second Baptist church and The A. M. E. Church were represented at the Rally in Ontario, in the building rally of the Baptist church there. Rev. Shepherd is pastor. Rev. Davis of Monrovia preached the sermon. Less than ten members with the assistance of the three churches raised $100.00

The Feature Services at the A. M. E. Church Sunday were the best yet from a Spiritual view point Also it was well attended The pastor preached with compelling emphasis on the need of Family Religion. The program at night on the New Jerusalem also well attended and all expressed benefit and pleasure with the departure. The choir sang with elation. Special on the program were numbers by Lois Thomas, Bertha Wyley, Mrs. A. McGee and Mrs. J. E. McCorkle. Mrs McCorkle displayed some of her school day ability in rendering the Holy City. Miss Melba Allen played masterfully The oldest couple at the Feature services were Mr. and Mrs. Bryant, the sum of their ages was 173 years. He being 93, and she 80. It was a treat to see them there. The largest family was Mrs. Boyd's. There were thirteen represented in her family.

Every third Sunday, something special at Allen Chapel.

OPEN DAY AND NIGHT

BEGIN YOUR COURSE NOW

If you'll begin your course today,
Instead of making a long delay,
Begin it willingly, begin it now,
You'll son be the "Man of the hour."

Begin it now and go to the end
It is very easy to comprehend;
Do not say, "There's nothing to do,"
Employment never waits for you.

Never dd a faint-hearted person succeed,
'Tis only the brave that do the deed.
Hearts grow sad for blessings past,
Opportunities do not always last.

There's always a way where there's a will,
And always a positon for you to fill;
Success comes in when fear goes out,
Knowledge dwells where there is no doubt.

The ignorant always has an excuse,
And says, "I'd learn but it ain't no use."
The world wants and works to maintain,
A cunning hand and a cultured brain.

Progressiveness is not "To wait."
"Some future day" may be too late;
Resolve that you'll allow none to do,
Such things that'll make them more than you.

Learn to shorthand and to write,
Learn to play upon the type;
Then from the farm-house to the Senate,
If you are competent, you'll be "In it."

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Baptist Brotherhgood:

I am writing to call your attention to the special drive which the Benefit Board of the National Baptist Convention is making. This drive has been approved by the Executive Board of the National Baptist Convention and the Conference held at Memphis. The Benefit Board is putting on the drive for 100,000 members.

This would be and is an easy task for our great Baptist host, if our pastors would, on one Sunday in April, preach a sermon on the importance of our members carrying insurance and that they carry this insurance where it is possible with the Benefit Board of our Convention, which has been organized for this purpose. Our Christianity, our churches and denomination will sustain a very great loss if we allow others to have undisputed monopoly of this class of protection, which our race so much needs.

I am hereby submitting the outline of a sermon taken from "Sermon Outlines" by William Hicks, D. D., which, perhaps, will serve as a basis for a sermon which could be preached that would greatly aid this special cause. The preacher could make additions or changes as would meet his requirements and which would serve to help our cause effectively and make it a success. The outline is as follows:

'The Two Bible Insurance Companies' Gen. 41:47-49; Matt. 16:18; Matt. 6:20.

1. God through Pharaoh, made Joseph president and founder of the world's first Insurance Company, with headquarters not in New York but in Egypt. Gen. 41:41.

2. Joseph's appointment to the Presidency of this Company, and his wonderul success as the first man to 'corner' the world's grain market, was due solely to the fact that he was a Spirit Filled President. Gen. 41:38.

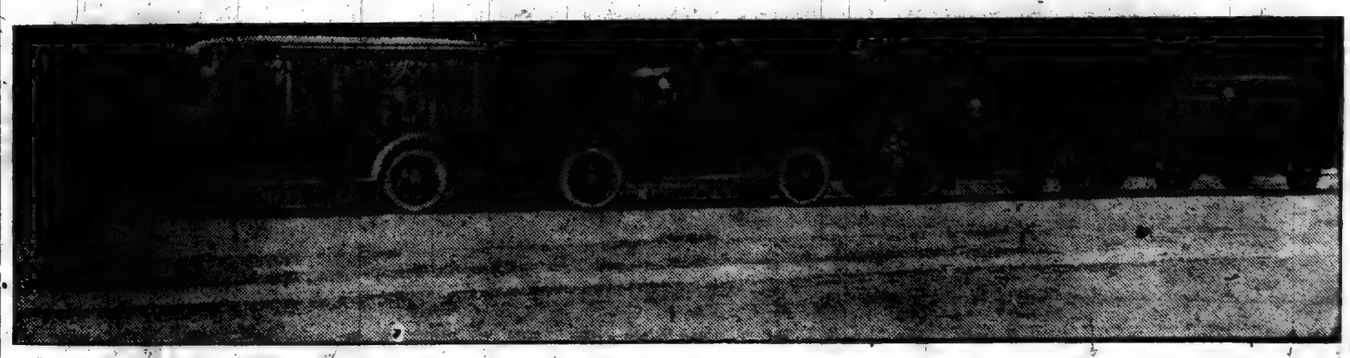
3. So much for Body Insurance, which is good and should be looked after, but we come now to a far greater Insurance, namely, Soul Insurance. Every man living should take out a policy. If the poor sinner is wise he will take one out today. A man deceived himself one time thinking that he was going to live a long time. Just about the time he got to thinking that way, God said to him, "Thou fool, this night thy soul is required of three."

He had failed to insure in the safest of Companies whose Head and founder is Jesus. Earthly companies some time bankrupt or fail in some way, but this Old Line Company that I am talking about which is, the church, can never fail. It is written that "Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Its President, Jesus, came all the way from Heaven down to a lost world to organize church insurance.

4. We repeat every poor sinner should today take out a straight-life policy with Jesus. Matt. 6:20. It is wise to lay up something with this company. Deut. 11:18; Prov. 7:1.

5. A policy with this company is more valuable than that of earthly company, because its face value is both the value and salvation of a soul. "What will it profit a man if he gains the whole world and idue his soul."

Face values: Eph. 1:11; 1 Pet. 1:4.



Policy holders who fall asleep will rise on time Judgment morning and go up and be awarded full face value for their policies."

I really hope our brethren will join Prof. Holloway in this movement and give him their unstinted support.

Yours very truly
L. K. WILLIAMS,
Pres. Nat. Bapt. Convention.

SLAYS WIFE

INFURIATED HUSBAND KILLS WIFE

Another victim paid the toll of the reign of lawlessness which seems to be prevalent on the Pacific Coast at this time, when on last Monday moruing at 4:45, Milton Taylor brutally beat up, and then shot his wife, Lucille Taylor, three times. She died instantly from the effects of the wounds inflicted upon her by her husband From what could be gleaned by the Eagle reporter, Taylor and his wife had been estranged for the last ten days.

She had left his room and board, and rented another room in the same building, but on the same floor. It seems as though they had been quarrelling for a day or two preceding the shooting, about a small trunk which Taylor claims his wife had taken from his room. He finally, on last Monday morning, at 12th and Hemlock streets, where the building is situated, waylaid his wife in the hallway, and when she came out of her room, he seized her, beat her up, shot her three times, then made his escape.

This was not the first time Taylor and his wife had had trouble, as only a few days before the shooting, he was in the act of beating her, when the police arrived and placed him under arrest. She pleaded so hard for him that he was released.

Taylor was captured by Officers Stevens and Kimbrough at about 9:00 o'clock p. m. of the same day the murder was committed. He had hidden around in the city, slowly made has way to Watts, and there had caught a Pacific Electric car for Santa Ana, whence he had hoped to make his way to Mexico. The officers were on the alert, and had a clew that his route would possibly be through Santa Ana. It happened that they were on the same car which Taylor caught, and looking around in one of the rear seats, they saw the man they were pursuing, placed him in irons and brought him back to the city, where he was placed in the city jail

Taylor at first expressed no remorse for his deed, and seemed glad that he had accomplished his brutal act. However, at the coroner's inquest on Wednesday, his spirit was broken, and he wept most bitterly. This was a cold-blooded, brutal murder, and it is to be hoped that the law will be upheld to its fullest extent.

Much credit is due to the police department for their prompt action, and to officers Stevens and Kimbrough for their alertness in bringing the murderer to bay.

BANK EMPLOYEE MURDERED

SAM McGEE FORFEITS LIFE IN DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

On Tuesday morning, February 13th, Sam McGee, acting as chauffeur for the 1st National Bank, was slain by bullets from a sawed-off shot gun, in one of the most daring daylight hold-ups in Los Angeles' crime history. Mr. McGee was a janitor at the Firt National but on this occasion was working in the place of Davenport, the regular chauffeur.

Three men in a touring car trailed the bank machine, containing a pouch of registered mail, from the Arcade Post Office, Third and Central, to Fourth and Wall streets, where the bandit car suddenly swung into the bank machine and forced it to the curb, and when McGee did not with sufficient alacrity obey the command to stick 'em up, one of the robbers fired at such close range that McGee's head was blown almost off. After seizing the mail pouch, holding the bank guards at bay with guns meanwhile, the slayers made their escape.

Every effort, stimulated by the offer of a $5000 reward from the bank, is being made to apprehend the bandits.

The funeral of Mr. McGee was held Thursday of this week. He leaves a widow, who, upon receiving news of her husband's shocking death, returned to this city from Arizona, where she had gone for the benefit of her daughter's health.

TOBOGGAN SLIDE OF GARVEY ENTERPRISES CONTINUE

Still Another Failure Marks Self-Advertised Genius of U. N. I. A. Grand Mogul.

(Crusader Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Following fast on the trail of the Universal Laundry, the Universal Doll Factory and the Universal Tailoring establishment, founded and foundered by Marcus Gervey, and conducted by the Negro Factories Corporation, was evicted from 2305 Seventh Avenue for failure to pay several months rent.

This marks a rapid period in the toboggan slide of universal failures that have overwhelmed the various Garvey business enterprises and the morale of the most fanatical Garveyite has subsided to zero as a consequence.

Fortunately for Harlem many monuments of independent and ably managed Negro enterprises, such as Hart's huge department store, stand out in creditable contrast to the much advertised but insignificant hole-in-the-wall businesses of the "provisional president of Africa," and self-styled Moses of the race.

PIANO CONTEST BRILLIANT

The piano contest held annually by the Musicians' Progressive Association, was a brilliant exposition of talent and training last Tuesday Eve. at the A. M. E. Zion church. Eight talented young players gave concrete proof of the ability of the race teachers of Los Angeles.

The first contest was won by Luella McGill, a pupil of Miss Lilias G. Hart. The second prize of this contest was won by Celestine Shambry, a pupil of John A. Gray. The honorable mention was given to Dorothy Eleanor Patton, a pupil of Miss Naida McCullough.

The second contest was won by Robert V. Edwards, a pupil of John A. Gray. The second prize of this contest was won by Bernice Stout, a pupil of Miss Lilias G. Hart. The honorable mention was given to Mattie Nelson a pupil of Elmer C. Bartlett.

The prizes were fifteen and ten dollars respectively in each contest.

Th judges were Mr. Wesley Kuhnle, Miss Winifred Hooke, and Mr. Henry A. Amiraux, all of whom are accomplished pianists and teachers. Among the visitors was Mr. Richard Buhlig, a pianist of international reputation and former lecturer for the Philharmonic Orchestra of this city.

Mrs. W. E. Shaw, the wife of the pastor, was enthusiastically received to her reading of "How Ruby played." Miss Leonidas Simmons, our golden voiced yong singer, was compelled to respond to an encore. She was accompanied by Mrs. Viola Brandon.

The large audience was attentive and appreciative. This was the third annual contest given by this organization.

(News Item) We learned yesterday that a French scientist, a Dr. Coue we believe, has invented a wonderful formula, good for what ails you, that goes something like this:

"Day by day, in every way, I am getting better and better.

Ain't but the one, Bud.

"STOOL PIGEON" LETTER TO DAUGHERTY PROVES "DUD"

Anti-Garvey Letter Fostered By Messenger Editor Gets Little Publicity.

(Crusader Service)

Feb. 16.—The much-whispered about appeal to Attorney General Daugherty to investigate the Universal Negro Improvement Association because of its alleged "anarchism" has been made public and proves to be a "dud." It has fallen so flat that even the newspapers of George Harris, one of the seven signers, failed to print it.

Illustrative of the breach in opinion between the editors fo the Messenger on the question of baiting all black aliens for the actions of Marcus Garvey, is the fact that although the appeal bears the address of the Messenger office and is signed by Chandler Owen, it is not signed by A. Philip Randolph, his co-editor.

The appeal cites instances of meetings broken up in different cities by alleged Garveyites and is blatantly exparte. Among the citations are some regarding the interruption of public meetings that were addressed by two of the signers, Chandler Owen and William Pickens.

On the whole the appeal, apart from its stool pigeon charcater, is so obviously weak that it could only secure the signatures of seven persons: one Garvey's landlord, three officials of rival organizations and two editors and publishers of rival newspapers. It is unquestionable another case of a mountain laboring to bring forth a mouse.

THE UPLIFT ASSOCIATION

This new effort for the uplift which meets every Sunday afternoon at the Christian Church corner of 14th and Birch Streets is attracting the people who flock to hear live issues discussed. On last Sunday quite a crowd came out despite the inclement weather, the meeting however was postponed until the coming Sunday when AttorneyHugh E. Macbeth will speak on: "How Many Confessions did Ealey make, and Why?" H. Douglass Greer will speak on New Leadership. The Bilbrews will sing and a glorious time will be had. 3:00 o'clock is the time.

THE COLORED VOTE OF VENICE

The Colored Voters of Venice, will vote "NO" on Consolidation becaure Santa Monica hates them and Venice has always liked her Colored Citizens of whom she is proud for they have done well there.

The Big Question next Tuesday, Election Day, with them, or with other voters, is not Consolidation but the Charter—whether Venice shall have a new Charter or go on under the same form of government it has now.

The present form of City Government in Venice was intended for little towns and villages of 500 to 3500 population and was all right when Venice was small but it will not and does not work right with Venice as it is.

With 17,000 population; $12,000,000 assessed valuation easily worth $30,000,000. A hundred men on the pay roll and required to keep up police force, fire protection, light, water, sewer, etc., etc., for not only our own people but 50,000 to 150,000 more who come down here Saturday, Sunday and holidays all year round and all days in summer, it can't be done on this little village government plan.

No five men in the world can meet one evening a week and do our city work right it cannot be done. It must have all the time of a good man trained in City management work.

The new Charter provides for this and provides for it right. It is the best Charter ever written, and it does not take away any liberties, keep a City manager in power nor open the door for extravagance at all.

Don't believe any of that bunkum, there is no truth in it.

Vote for the Charter and against annexation and Come to the Charter Boosters Club, Chamber of Commerce Building and enroll as a member.

POLITICAL POT PIE

The pot is now on the hook and soon will begin to boil. The Congressional seat in the 10th district, Mayor, Councilmen and city Attorney and Auditor will be the goal.

O. W. R. Robinson, prominent Attorney-at-Law, and one of the most prominent public men in this section, will be a strong contender for election for Congress from the 10th district. He has a clean record and has by practical demonstration shown his interest in the wellfare of the people. Mr. Robinson is well qualified and if elected would fill Congressman Osborne's place with the highest credit.

Assemblyman F. M. Roberts is back home to spend the recess in finding out the wants of his constituents, all of whom want him to keep his weather eye on the bill for redistricting the Assembly district of this city.

W. H. Oaks brother of Chief of Police Oaks, will be a candidate for the City Council. Mr. Oaks seems to be a live wire and fit timber for the duties of city father.

Ward L. Johnson, prominent realty broker is well spoken of by the people, and will enter the councilmanic race and his friends expect to put him over.

Senator Charles W. Lyons is prominently mentioned as a candidate for Congress to succeed the late Capt. H. D. Osborne. Senator Lyons is a brother of the late Henry Lyons and has a host of friends who would go behind him should he decide to enter the race.

Should ex-Governor Stephens run for his old seat in Congress he must run without getting any appreciable support from the colored voters. For Stephens above all has demonstrated in the past that he does not stand for representation of all the people.

Mayor Cryer has announced his intention to run for a second term on his record and it is a foregone conclusion that he will receive a strong and hearty support for re-election.

Titus Alexander has been highly honored by the Democrats by being elected as one of the Board of Directors of the Democratic Club of Southern California. He has so proved his worth to that party that they have no hesitancy in giving just recognition. Republicans take notice.

Mrs. Peter Davis of 14th and Paloma, after a brief illness, climaxed by an operation on last Friday evening, died Saturday, February 10. She was buried Wednesday afternoon, February 14th, from Hamilton A. M. E. Church, Rev. S. M. Beane, officiating.

THE BY-STANDER

THE FIXER

Here is the word and person that we have been looking for a long time. Someone to fix it so that our Race will become alive to business acumen and alertness as the Japanese and Jews; a fixer that will unite our intelligent and social forces so as to systematically combat race propaganda and obstacles; finally, fixer who would unite the classes in the race and cement us into a sensible, progressive group of race loving individuals. Such a fixer would be worth a fortune and $75 would be a small price on Central avenue or elsewhere for his inside information and pull.

Our Who's Who

The week passed as some of our more thoughtful celebrated the birth of the fearless, matchless, proponent of freedom—Frederick Douglass. We honor Douglass and why? Some who could not quote a single line or mention a solitary circumstance connected with any of his speeches hail the name of Doublass. It is with this illustrious character as with most men of standing, we stand aloof failing to realize and appreciate our heroes, and martyrs until the other race steps forth and proclaims, "Here is your leader, Hail him!" We are obedient people and we follow.

The time must come when we ourselves must set some standard of manhood and womanhood and not wait until some other race lands our kin and then launch forth in tardy fashion to pay homage and due respect.

To keep alive in the breast of young colored America the possibility of attaining success in spite of discouragements the life and works of Douglas, Dunbar, Washington, Sojourner Truth and others should be told and retold with such vividness that such character would be as dear to us as parents.

We know books but we are too little informed about people—especially those of our own race.

L. K. BEEKS

A Mean Proportion

Around five hundred white pupils were graduated from the High schools of Los Angeles recently. Scarcely twenty colored faces reached the coveted goal. It does not take a very efficient mathematician to figure out and reach the conclusion that with such an army of trained fighters arrayed against our depleted squad the future does not look numerically hopeful. It would take a race of Herculean strength and power to offset such odds. Producing here and there an outstanding ability is complimentary to our race but what it takes to bring victory is a continuous, crowded stream of trained man power. Encourage our youngsters to go at least through High school for everyone and more will be needed to stem the tide of hatred and oppression.

Mrs. W. M. Sanders of 1328 E. 40th Street, entertained at a lovely and real surprise party fo rher husband, Rev. W. M. Sanders at their lovely new home, where every one enjoyed themselves until a late hour. A beautiful song was rendered by Mrs. R. N. Holt, also by Rev. M. J. Gibson and the many returns by Rev. J. M. Young.

Assisting in receiving with Mrs. Sanders were Mrs. R. O. Dupree and Mrs. J. O. Booker, house guest. Among other guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. City, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woodfork, Rev. and Mrs. R. N. Holt, Mrs. S. W. Daniels, Mrs. J. J. Raggett, Mrs. Lena Myles, Mrs. J. O. Bokoer, Rev. J. M. Young, Miss O. V. Young, Mrs Myles, Mrs. C. PATTI BROWN TO SING SUNDAY

WILL APPEAR AT BETHEL BAPTIST CHURCH---Y. M. C. A., 9TH AND HEMLOCK ---FEB. 18TH, 11 A. M.

This Church is holding its services —for the present—in the Y. M. C. A. Building on Ninth and Hemlock Sts. Last Sunday was the opening, and the room was comfortably filled with devout worshippers. Dr. Prowd's Text at 11 A. M. "Solomon's Song—Chapter 2nd, Verse 17th—Until the Day break and the Shadows flee away" stirred all present to the desire for closer walk with God. The Lord gave us twelve Souls at the morning service, and one for Baptism.

At night we again had the Master's presence and approval.

Order of Service

Sunday School, 9:30: Divine Service at 11 a. m.; B. Y. P. U., 7 to 8 p. m. and Preaching from 8 to 9 p. m.

At the 11 A. M. Service, this coming Sunday, Feb. 18th, Madam Patti Brown—the greatest living singer with international reputation—will sing for us. Come early and secure seats. We request that you come praying for a blessing.

The beautiful gowned ladies added much to the beauty of the affair. The home was beautifully decorated with huge bakets of choice cut flowers in every space possible and the soft red light gave grace and beauty to the color scheme of Valentine which was being carried out in red, white and green. Small red hearts were passed to each on throughout the afternoon. Madam Royal and Douglass rendered beautiful selections throughout the afternoon. About 100 guests attended. Mr. and Mrs. Hueston have been residents of Los Angeles for more than 18 years and are well known in social and church circles.

INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY WELFARE LEAGUE NEWS "YOU MEN AND WOMEN"

We are in a position to place 500 of you in good paying positions. But in order to do so we must have enrolled upon our books in the Los Angeles Branch of the International Community Welfare League the names and addresses of 5000 men and women as members of our organization within the next ninety days.

Does this interest you? If so read of this "cold Turkey," common sense, business proposition without strings or red-tape attached to it. We are not trying to show "you" any deep points, but as "you" know everything warns you and me, to face the facts and get together and work together for our common good. The first process in getting things done is to believe that YOU can do them. The next step is to put your legs, arms, eyes and fingers to work to back up this thought of yours. In so doing YOU kill that old Goliath who keeps you where you are by making you believe, "IT CAN'T BE DONE."

As a demonstration a group of men who, knowing that you were being denied your rights, but believing that there were ways and means by which you could gain justice, banded themselves together to find those ways and means. After years of determination, perseverance, effort, and personal sacrifice they made good with the Mexican Government, and purchased and got options on land together with good will enough to insure all American Negroes who wish to go to Mexico, a refuge and a home.

With these men who pit themselves upon the altar in the interest of humanity, money was a secondary consideration. Personal gain held no place in their thoughts. Being able to see the great possibilities right here in this Garden Spot for our group they erected an international structure. The International Community Welfare League with all of the protection, advantages, and opportunities that an individual could hope to gain through organization and under organized control. All this is offered today to YOU.

YOU are common with all men and women; YOU have something to sell. It may be a house, an idea, your talent or your labor. For your labor only there is a scant demand, but there is demand for your ideas or talents. If you take membership in The International Community Welfare League it will create a market for your wares.

"YOU"

Great actors have done their turn upon the stage of action, have made history and passed out. The great event for which the world has looked forward is at hand. It is your time to appear on the stage. The Great Director writes on the wall, "Organization is your cue." The industrial, religious and educational program prepared by The International Community Welfare League which set the stage, will carry YOU to the front in full spot light.

You cannot do it alone; you must join with others and they must join with you. It calls for ensemble and team work. Concerted movement and co-operation are required to put it over the foot-lights.

By the applause from the grandstand we know that WHITE SUPREMACY is pitching hard against us. We need pinch hitters. We need to tally. We are playing a losing game. Don't sit on the bench any longer whining for opportunity. Don't look further for something better than what you have. The plan, principal and the method by which you can best profit is here before you. Why wait for it to happen? A half baked idea which is expressed and set in motion is better than a half dozen better ideas stored away. Any reasonable desire if it is strong enough will be realized. Why jog along in the same old rut? Are'nt you tired of waiting for something to happen? Then come along and lets make it happen.

Remember now that 5000 of YOU men and women of all trades and professions and every line of human activity should enroll your names upon our books within the next ninety days. If this is done we guarantee to place 500 of YOU in good paying positions where you may express whatever talent you may possess. Such co-operation will enable the League to secure jobs and positions with wages according to merit for you. It will enable the League to work out plans for industrial development; in fact we invite men and women with plans and ideas which they would like to see carried out in building right here in Los Angeles. Also we invite investors with small or large capital to invest to join with us for as we are wide awake to the needs and possibilities of the race we guarantee that with your membership we will start such activities as will safeguard your interest and make it a paying investment to you. This is of interest to each and everyone of us. As a race we are dangerouhly near to the brink of the falls. Our thin shell bark skiff made of rear, superstition and ignorance will not hold much longer against the onslaught of the Ku Klux Klan and other forces who are casting rocks of Jim-crowism, lynching, etc. Up stream is The International Community Welfare League in "The Steam Launch Will Power," anchored to the solid rock bottom right principles and Christ-like service. It cases the line of hope to YOU as an individual. Take ye hold of it and help draw those with whom you are classed and associated and those whom you love and would die for back to a land that you have really played a part in making its Democracy safe for all peoples.

In the language of The International Community Welfare League I have strength to life in hundred weights, but if you join your strength with mine our strength will increase threefold. A deed done today is better than two deeds done tomorrow. Everything which the League has done, is doing and hopes to do is done for your profit and happiness.

What you can do, YOU ought to do. What YOU ought to do YOU can do. What YOU ought to do and can do, by the Grace of God YOU must do. No better time will ever come than now, while the world of men are striving one against the other in an effort to find a solution for their problems. Now, when 12,000,000 are drawn closer together than ever by the realization of the necessity of organization, stand ready and willing to join with YOU. The idea is new to YOU but think of this: David the Shepherd used a new idea and method so effectively that the terrible old Giant Goliath lost his head.

One dollar admits you into membership of The International Community Welfare League which has thrown the door of opportunity upon to you.

ROBERT L. MOORE,
Organizer International Community Welfare League. 1400 Central Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

IT PAYS TO KEEP CLEAN HOUSE.

On last Monday, the Los Angeles Ministers' Allinace (whit) some two hundred (more or less) strong, unanimously passed resolutions aimed at the Mexican government, and to be forwarded to Secretary of State Hughes for presentation to said Mexican Government, denouncing the vice conditions which prevail at Tia Juana and Mexicali. They cited at great length the snares, pitfalls and the sinister influence of border conditions upon the American youth, as a result of the easy access to vice at the two places above named, and they are praying our central government at Washington to use its good offices at the City of Mexico to forever put a stop to these conditions at the border.

To all of the above, the California Eagle, along with all good citizens, must subscribe and endorse. But we must go further, and offer amendments to the resolutions passed and submitted and demand equally a cleasing of our body politic in our own home in the dear old U. S. A. For mob-law sometimes runs riot, lynching and burning of human beings almost a daily happening in some of the states of this Union. Therefore we ask, not only the preachers of Los Angeles, but the ministers of all cities to pass resolutions, not to the Secretary of State of the United States to present to some other foreign country, but to the Secretary of State, to present to our president and our Congress, that these conditions should not obtain.

Citing further reasons in support of this amendment, in the State of Texas, one day last month, there was a man learned in medicine, whose only offense was that he was dark and too prosperous; he owned and conducted a large sanitarium, where pationents flocked by the hundred. Yet people who called themselves citizens of Texas said that this was too much for a black man to acquire—and hooded knights, with black masks over their faces, went to this man's place of business, took him therefrom, misused him, burned off one limb at a time; stuck hot irons in his eyes—and hung him up, as an example of what others may expect if they, too, should happen to become prosperous.

Another doctor recently was taken from his place of business, in the great city of Houston, Texas, unsexed, and left in a precarious condition on the plains of Texas. He had to flee for his life, and found refuge in another city of these United States.

These conditions have been repeated in Oklahoma, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana.

Therefore, it is eminently proper that the Ministers make their stand more in harmony with law and order; that they should niclude in theri fight against vice conditions in a foreign land, a petition to this government to help all those whowho stand for law and order to clean up our own home —FIRST!

ATTENTION, ODD FELLOWS!

Grand re-union of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows will be held March 1st by Golden Rule Lodge No. 5959. This reunion is being held to bring Odd Fellows closer together, and to know each other, all over the State. Brother William A. McGary, chairman of the Committee, will see that each and every brother is cared for.

8th and Towne Church, Sunday Afternoon, Feb. 18th, Under Auspices N. A. A. C. P.

The Program Committee, Mrs. J. M. Scott, Chairman, has arranged an inspiring program. Mrs. Etta V. Moxley, former President of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and Rev. W. E. Shaw, Pastor of the First A. M. E. Zion Church, will speak on Lincoln and Douglass, erspectively.

The musical program will be one of surpassing excellence. First A. M. E. Zion Choir, directed by Professor Bynum, will sing; also Rev. Emanuel Hall. Mrs. Frederick M. Roberts will render a selection on the great pipe organ, at which instrument Prof. Elmer Bartlett will also be heard.

REV. EDWARD P. DONES APPROVES OF INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA

EVASTON, Ill.— In a statement issued here Dr. Edward P. Jones puts his stamp of approval upon the selection of Indianapolis, Indiana as the place for holding the next annual Sunday School Congress. He recites in his sattement the hospitality of the citizens of the capital of the Hoosier State. Dr. Jones says:

"The Baptists throughout the United State will find at Indianapolis during the session of the Congress in June a reception for which Hoosiers are noted. Drs. Lewis, Morris, Leonard, Young, Farrell, Seymour, Hendon, Lillard and others are all strong characters and with them are united congregations whose endeavors are to make strangers welcome. Our city had expected the Congress to come here but the choice is a wise one, and my congratulations are extended to the Board upon its wise selection. Rev. Dr. B. J. Prince and Dr. H. W. Knight are already busy securing rates and accomodations, and from Chicago and vicinity an army of inspired young men and women will come to learn and greet those coming from all quarters of the country.

IN MEMORIUM

In memory of our darling boy, Arthur Bell who departed this life, Feb. 14, 1922.
When evening shadows are falling
And we are all alone;
In our hearts there comes a longing—
Arthur how we wish you home.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Secret tears do often flow,
But sweet memories keep you near us
Though you left one year ago.
Loving thoughts of you are with us
And the happy long ago,
Still our hearts are aching for you
For we loved you, loved you so.
No more your footsteps will we hear;
No more your voice calls mother dear.
Mother is lonely since you went away
And it grieves me you are gone to stay.
We miss your loving cheerful face,
We miss your sunny smiles.
But when we meet thee face to face,
There'll be no more good bys.
JANIE E. WILLIAMS, Mother.

MEETING OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY WELFARE LEAGUE WAS HELD AT THE 14TH STREET CHRISTIAN CHURCH—

Attorney H. F. Macbeth, Chairman called the meeting to order at 8:00 p. m.. Attorney William Pose acting secretary called the roll and there were sufficient members present to constitute a quorum.

The Chairman Honorable H. E. Macbeth made the opening address, explaining with great force the object and purpose of the organization.

Mr. J. J. Jarret was elected pre[x] manent secretary of the organization.

Organizer

Mr. Moore gave a very able address as to the needs of our people and how we can by proper organization compete in the commercial world. It is the duty of every colored American citizen to get behind the great work and help make this organization a success.

There were a hundred trades called out by the Chairman and we are very glad to know that out of that number we had men and women who were competent to carry on the trades.

What made Los Angeles? The Chamber of Commerce, and the International Community Welfare League is a chamber of commerce to bring us out of the condition that we are now laboring under and place us on a level footing with all the other free men and women.

At the next meeting of the International Community Welfare League let us have a banner meeting. And I assure you that you will be more than proud of the splendid work being carried on by the International Community Welfare League.

Remember the next meeting February 28, 1923, at the 14th Christian Church, 8:30 p. m.

LEAGUE HAS ABLE ORGANIZER

INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY LEAGUE FORGING TO THE FRONT

At the first meeting of the League, held Wednesday evening, February 14th, presided over by the Hon. H. E. Macbeth, Mr. Moore, the only speaker of the evening, gripped the attention and hearts of his hearers in a manner that demonstrated that he is fully capable to perform the duties of organizer for this great and promising movement. Mr. Moore is a gentleman easy of approach, with a pleasing manner and personality. All persons interested in racial enterprise and progress could not do better than spend a few moments in discussion with Mr. Moore at his place of business, or at his desk at 1400 Central Avenue.

BISHOP ALLEN—FOUNDER OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH---MEMORIALIZED AT 8TH AND TOWNE AVENUE CHURCH

RICHARD ALLEN, FIRST BISHOP OF AFRICAN DESCENT AND FOUNDER OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH MEMORALIZED AT 8TH AND TOWNE AVENUE CHURCH.

Last Sunday was observed as Founder's Day at 8th and Towne Ave. A. M. E. Church. Rev. A. Milton Ward preached at 11:00 a. m. and the two choirs, under the direction of Organist, Elmer C. Bartlett, furnished good singing. There were nine accessions to the membership of the church, including one convert.

In the evening there was a big platform meeting under auspices of the Allen C. E. League. Lawyer W. O. Tyler the, interesting and forceful speaker of the evening was applauded again and again as he portrayed the life nd times of Richard Allen and the early establishment of the A. M. E. Church. Mr. Tyler declared that Richard Allen, who was born Feb. 14, 1760 was the first great Christian preacher to declare for religious freedom in modern times. He was regularly ordained bishop by Bishop Asbury of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the A. M. E. Church bishops have always been recognized as full fledged bishops in any Methodist or other religious gatherings. Large audiences including many visitors attended both services. Among the latter was Mrs. Lelia Walker Wilson. Other features of the evening program included a solo by Mrs. Florence Cole Talbert, a violin solo by our violinist, H. Atwell Rose, a vocal solo by Mrs. Mae Williams, a piano solo by Miss Thelma Lowery. The Senior choir gave pleaing renditions under direction Prof. Bartlett. Mr. A. A. Thomas presided. Rev. Ward conducted the opening services.

The collections for the day were more than $300.00.

QUICK RESPONSES TO UNITED NEGRO APPEAL

Splendid Spirit Displayed by Kelley Miller, National Equal Rights League and Other Organizations. N. A. A. C. P. Alone Declines. Secretary Johnson Sorry, But cannot Join United Front Campaign Until His Organization is Ready to Lead it.

Boston, Feb.—(Crusader Service) Dr. M. A. N. Shaw, president of the National Equal Rights League, reported a prompt and spirited response to the invitation sent out by his organization for a United Front Conference to achieve unity of purpose and action among the organizations fighting the Negro's battle for recognition and equality of treatment. The African Blood Brotherhood, the International Uplift League, The Negro Race Congress have promptly and cordially accepted the invitation in the spirit in which it was sent out. All of these organizations have expressed themselves as anxious to achieve a united front for the Negro Race in order that thefight against our enemies may be waged more effectively.

Of all the organizations invited to an initial conference in New York, at which plans would be laid down for a more general call, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is the only one to decline. The others have put the Negro's race interests above mere organizational interests or their desire to lead. The National Equal Rights League, because of the coincidence by which Prof. Miller issued a call for a Race Sanhedrin at about the same time that the League sent out its invitation by mail to the roganizations mentioned, has expressed itself as willing to take in Prof. Miller in the initial conferences and is at present engaged in negotiations with him. Prof. Miller, too, in his latest statement on the subject of a United Front has evinced a fine willingness to let others have a share in this important matter of advancing the interests of the Negro Race. Oonly the N. A. A. C. P. declines to have anything to do in any effort to save the race that is not initiated and lead by the N. A. A. C. P. The letter of Secretary Johnson to the President of the National Equal Rights League speaks for itself and constituents a terrible self-indictment against an organization that should be striving, with others, for the early achievement of a United Negro Front:

Copy of Secretary Johnson's Letter

January 10, 1923.

Dr. M. A. N. Shaw,
President, National Equal Rights League,
689 Shawmut Avenue, Roxbury, Mass.
Dear Sir:

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your communication addressed to Mr. Storey and myself, under date of Dec. 29, relative to the calling of a conference of representatives of the various organizations negaged in work for the rights of the colored people.

I wish to say in reply that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People began some weeks ago drawing preliminary plans for the holding of a great conference which will embrace a larger representation than merely the several organizations engaged in the specific work of securing civil rights. We feel however, that such a conference should be, carefully planned and worked out with great thoroughness. Therefore, we are not prepared to say now just how soon we can put the project under way. When we are ready it will be a great pleasure for us to invite the cooperation of other organizations and individuals who are interested in the question.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JAMES W. JOHNSON,
Secretary.

AN OPEN LETTER

J. H. KELLY, PROMINENT ATTORNEY, WRITES FROM MISSOURI

Mr. and Mrs. Bass,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Oh! I understand now, upon receipt of your Christmas number, why the shadow of the "Soaring Eagle" fell, on this side of the Rockies, and that we have heard its triumphant scream.

My wife and I have read your editorial sections with avidity, but we missed the "Hog Section".....so I said, J. B. "hogged" that one.

It truly does up proud to note your steady progress and like the noble bird adopted for your motto, may each gyration of your upward fight become wider and wider until the California Eagle shall overshadow our entire country wiht its beneficient and elevating influence, and help to mould a wholesome public opinion for the guidance of a nation. There is much inspiration to be drawn from the characteristics of the Eagle, because he, of all birds, dares to soar thru heaven's unfathomable heights, flaunts his wings in the very thunder's home, braves the northern hurricane, then poises to rest on the lofty mountain crag.

Hence his thoughts and actions are always above the fog, out of the mire and muck of swamps and valleys.

In these virtues I am glad to see the Soaring Eagle set an example for other journals, in helping to mould public sentiment and thereby aiding spiritual progress of a Race. I ento advance the economic, mental and close Postal Order for one year's subscription and may the EAGLE ever scream with righteous indignation when needful and useful. As ever,

Yours very truly,
J. H. KELLY.

LOS ANGELES FINEST POLICE ON DRESS PARADE

It was indeed an inspiring sight as the police force marched down Broadway on last Thursday which was its annual inspection day, all resplendent in their brand new uniforms and new shields, they presented an inspiring sight. Sprinkled throughout the more than one thousand officers were the colored officers demonstrating that Los Angeles is a real democratic city and that all forces are with each other to keep the city great. The procession was headed by the incomparable police and fireman's band, followed by Chief Louis Oaks, Inspector Jackson, Chief Homes and staffs followed by the several batallions of officers.

GIRL SHOOTS HER LOVER

Out on East 23rd Street (not Central Avenue) Number 1622 on last Wednesday night Irma Brown in a fit of jealous rage over the action of her lover, in keeping company with another woman, fired two shots at Richard Richmond, both of which found their mark on his body, one shot hitting him in the groin and another in his leg. Richmond is in the hospital in a serious condition while Irma Brown is in jail pending the result of his injuries.

It is said that the Brown woman is the housekeeper for Richmond and when he failed to come home at the usual time she went down town to look him up. When found, he was dining with another lady. She created a scene and Richmond ordered her home, to which place she went, but she did not relish the situation and got hold of Richmond's gun. It is further stated that she put it in her bosom and told another girl, Beatrice Morgan that when Richmond did come home she was going to kill him and from the above results it seems that she endeavored to carry out her threat. She made her escape after the shooting but was arrested the next morning by officers, Thornton, Glenn, Stevens and Kimbrough.

BLACK-FACED ROBBER SHOT TO DEATH

High School Student One of Few Caught in Popular Trick.
(Crusader Service)

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23.—His face smeared with charcoal and his body clothed in overalls and a jumper, Ray C. Bishop, nineteen, white, student and member of the Central High School football squad, turned bandit last night, robbed two gasoline filling stations of approximately $22 and was shot to death in a gun battle with a policeman after wounding the latter.

Lawrence W. Ferguson twenty-five, chauffeur at the Sheffield Police Station, wounded by the youth, is in the General Hospital with a bullet in his groin. He will recover.

Through tear-dimmed eyes, the youth's gray-haired mother, Mrs. William H. Bishop, looked at the black smudged face of her son two hours after the tragedy.

"I can't believe it is my boy," she said brokenly. "He was too good for that." The news came to Otto Dubach, Principal of Central High School, as a shock. His voice grew husky as he narrated the virtues of young Bishop, whom he characterized as "a splendid type of young manhood, rugged, bashful, athletic studious and loved by his companions."

Yet on the desk of the Sergeant at the Sheffield Police Station lies a .32 calibre revolver taken from the lad's pocket, a jumper and a pair of overalls, the former stained with blood, which he wore when he fell—and $22 in bills.

And in the General Hospital, Ferguson, bullet through his right groin and the red streak of another across his chest, testified between groans that Bishop fired first.

SUCCESSFUL REVIVAL

Mrs. Lucille Shell, that inspired and beloved woman evangelist, is newly returned from Bowls, California. In that town she has just brought to a close a rousing revival, which resulted in some sixty new members for the church, and five baptisms. Mrs. Shell's zealous efforts are always well rewarded by a generous harvest of souls.

Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois, Phd.

Dr. Du Bois will deliver his lecture entitled "The Black Man in the Wounded World" on Monday night next week February 26th at Trinity Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. No seats are to be exchanged; hence it is advisable to secure them now from Smith's Drug Store at 12th Street and Central Avenue or from Johnson's Pharmacy at Normandie and Jefferson and arrive at the Auditorium in time to secure a good seat.

The combined choirs of the city, under the direction of William Brandon, together with violinists and vocalists of renown will give an elaborate setting to Dr. DuBois' lecture.

WHITE CIVILIZATION IN DEATH THROES

No One Knows What Forces Will Rule A Year From Now, British Scholar Asserts Wells in Agreemtn. English Intellectuals Paint Gloomy Picture of White Race's Future—Capitalist Civilization Doomed.

(Crusader Service)

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Modern civilization is falling in ruins, in the belief of Professor Graham Wallas, British classical scholar and economical lecturer at London University and the latest of the intellectuals to cast a gloom picture of civilization's future.

Fifteen hundred years ago, says Wallas, ancient civilization was visibly falling in ruin Today history is repeating itself.

"Alaric had just sacked Rome; Atilla was a boy of 17, dreaming of still worse disasters that he was to inflict upon the Western world, and the vandals were pressing on toward the destruction of civilization in north Africa," Wallas said in speaking of the year 423

"All the structure of government on which the ancient world as organized by Rome had depended had come to an end. Roman law was no longer valid. All habits, all loyalties, all ideals, all philosophies, all religions of the ancient world were passinb away, and men have asked themselves at that time if the mind of man was strong and wise enough to keep the reconstruction of the world under control or whether disaster must come."

And then Profesor Wallas flicked through the ages and brought up with a sharp halt on the threshhold of 1923.

"In 1923," he declared, " a problem of more than equal magniutde is before us. The material world—the world that slowly and painfully created itself upon the fragments of the Roman civilization—is falling in ruins.

"No one knows what is government in China; no ones knows what will be the government a year hence in Russia; no one knows what will be the government in Germany, in Italy or in Spain. Right across, from the Atlantic is the Pacific, right across the great Eurasian continent, the old system has fallen in ruins, and the danger we have to face is greater and more intense than the danger with which the world was confronted at the fall of ancient civilization."

For one reason, the danger is greater today according to Professor Wallas, because our social system is definitely more complex. A few farmers amidst the clearings of forests, a handful of shepherds out in the plains have given way to millions of industrialized and concentrated factory workers. The professor continued:

"The very existence of the present population of the Eurasian continent depends upon organization means to reduce the population to something like what it was at the fall of the ancient world."

CONVICTS NEED THE LASH!

GEORGIA PRISON HEAD MAKES STATEMENT
(Crusader Service)

ATLANTA Feb. 23.—Convicts cannot be worked on the roads of Georgia without the lash as a means of enforcing discipline, according to the opinion of members of the state prison commission, expressed in a conference here with Governor Hardwick in regard to the abolition of whipping in the convict camps and at the state prison farm.

Governor Hardwick has been urged to issue an executive order putting an end to the lash.

The majority of Georgia "convicts" are Negroes picked up on one flimsy charge ro another.

LEAP FROM FLAMES FATAL TO WOMAN

Three Women and Four Firemen Hurt in Lodging House Blaze in New York Negro District.
(Crusader Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.— Mrs. Clara Wilkinson, 27, was killed yesterday, three other colored women and four white firemen were hurt in a blaze which swept swiftly throug ha four-story lodging house at 130 West 53 Street with wirlwind velocity. Flames and smoke pinned six occupants against windows, from which three jumped and were hurt and two were rescued by firemen. The sixth, a woman, remained astride a window sill until the flames had been put out. Next door to the fire 150 cats and dogs in the New York Canine Infirmary, were thrown into a panic by the smoke.

About three o'clock yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Liza Southerland, who is 85 years old, and who lived on the second floor of the lodging house with her daughter, Mrs. Clark, decided to cook herself a late lunch. She stuck a match to light the gas stove, but her unsteady hand brought the flame too near a curtain. In a moment this had blazed up, and the flames had spread to other objects. The aged woman tried vainly to put ont the fire, and then ran screaming out of the building, leaving the doors open. Mrs. Southerland's screems had been heard by Mrs. Moran, a white woman who, with her husband, managed the lodging house, and who ran to her own rooms on the third floor rear, closed the three doors and shouted "Fire" from the window.

"Closing the doors behind me was the only thing that saved me "Mrs. Moran said later in describing the fire. "I sat astride the window sill determined that I would not jump except as a last resort.

Woman Jumped From Above Her.

"As the smoke become denser I heard Mrs. Brown in the window above me scream 'Look out!' and when the smoke cleared a little I saw her lying unconscious in the snow in the yard. In the window at my right I saw Clara Wilkinson intermittently through the smoke. She cried out to me, 'What shall I do?' I replied, 'Stay right where you are'. She screamed back, 'My God, I can't! The flames are on my back!' A moment later she had thrown herself into the yard below."

Mrs. Moran described the rescue of Florine Perry from a window above her. As the flames neraed the window, Fireman Edward Dornself of Truck 2, held by his legs from the roof by Lieutenant Robert Jackson and Fireman John Tucker of the same company, reached into the fourth story window and caught the young woman and his comrades pulled him again to the roof

Flames were spurting from the second, third and fourth story windows and were seething through the hall. Fireman William Kennedy and Chief Dennis Curtin hastily raised a ladder to a third floor front window, at which Mrs. Adele Smith was crying for help, and Kennedy then brought her down.

Reserves were called out from the West 47th Street Station House to control the crowds which pressed against the fire lines. Traffic in several streets were interrupted for more than an hour. The damage was estimated at $10,000. Mrs. Wilkinson died at midnight in Bellevue Hospital, where Miss Brown is in a critical condition with a fractured skull.

BRITISH FEAR CRISIS IN NEAR EAST BY HOLY WAR

See Prestige, Built Up With Infinite and Brutal Care, Collapsing before Antagonism of Moslems. Failed in Efforts to Divide. Islam Unitedly Opposes Puppet Head of Faith by Wily Englishmen.
((Crusader Service)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—From that region of Central Arabia which is unknown to white men by reason of the fierceness of its warrior population, 300,000 Wahabites, armed with modern weapons of war, gallop toward Mecca. They want the head of the puppet king whom the British are backing as Head of Islam in the effort to divide the Faithful and dissipate the strength of a United Islam.

The success of the Wahabites would mean the collapse of a branch of English intrigue, for which several hundred natives have been murdered and many others thrown into jail in an effort at stern repression of Moslem repugnance to alien rulers. By setting up a new "Head of Islam" who was a mere puppet in the hands of the British, the latter had hoped to abate the menace of an united uprising of Islam's hundreds of millions of followers, from the Pacific Islands across Asia and Africa to the Atlantic coast of northern Africa. Therefore the chancellories of Europe are ill at ease at the failure of the British intrigue and the challenge constituted in those 300,000 Wahabites who are rushing fearlessly to meet the British forces and their puppet "Head of Islam" at Mecca, the holiest of the Holy Cities of the Mohammedan Faith.

This fear of a religious or racial war, in which the colored races of the world would be pitted against the now depleted and terribly weakened white race, inspired France's friendly policy toward all Mussulmans and her cultivation of the Negro population of her African empire. It was this fear that filled the minds of her diplomats when they made treaties with the Turks and it was behind England's time-worm policy of dividing the followers of Mohamet under the old Roman plan of "divide and rule." This fear caused France to surrender to the Turks in Cilicia and to sign the accord of Angora. But this also was the reason why England backed the Greeks in their attempts to establish themselves in Asia Minor and why she proclaimed King Haussein the Khalif of all Islam. Only in both cases the British intriguists miscalculated badly. They did not correctly gauge the power of resistance of the Turks, nor have they shown that they

SANTA BARBARA

Two splendid services were held at Mt. Olive Baptist Church last Sunday. The pastor, Rev. H. B. Thomas, filled the pulpit for both services. The subject for the morning was "The Result of a Flimsy Consideration, or "The Sin of Looking Back." Gen. 19:26. And at the evening service "Christ typefied by the handful of corn in the mount." Both sermons were full of interest and inspiration and highly enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

The Sunday School is grawing laso the B. Y. P. U.. The mid-week prayer service is grawing in interest judging from attendance. All are welcome. Come and help carry the banner for Christ.

On last Sunday afternoon at St. Paul A. M. E. Church an interesting program was rendered by the Juniors.

Mrs. E. L. Dawkins was in charge and Mrs. Harte, the organist presided at the piano. The singing was especially good and showed the care of well trained voices. The paper by Mrs. Boykins on "Our Country" was very much enjoyed by all. It pointed to the uplift work that we are all so busily engaged in.

At the close of the program Mrs. Dawkins invited her guests in the dining room where a delicious repast had been prepared by herself as only she knows how to prepare it and entertained them in her charming way. Mrs. Dawkins is in the work heart and soul and she will reap in due season.

On last week Miss Clara E. Dunbar, became the bride of Mr. Albon Herbert Meich. We wish them health, wealth and happiness throughout their wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. George Murray are recent arrivals in our city and are domiciled at the Marshall rooming house, 16 E. Montecito Street. understand the new spirit of Islam as evinced through the Turks, and in India and Africa today.

Theoretically, England's plans were excellent, but, practically, France seems to have been backing the right horse. For a moment, especially when the Sulton was ordered out of Constantinople and his nephew was proclaimed the new Khalif or head of Islam, it looked as though England

All forces are directed against one enemy—anti-Semitism and the progroms it engenders.

IS OFFICIALLY SECRET

Although it his been in existence for more than a year, it is officially secret.

For purposes of clarity is best to summerize the present stination of the Jews, especially in view of the misinformation spread in the outside world regarding their role in the Soviet Government

Anti-Semitism still exists in Russia, particularly among the peasants.

The Soviet Government has taken measures to suppress persecution of Jews, but was compelled to relinquish an apparently hopeless task.

So the worm of history turned—little less than a year ago. It was toward the end of the numerous counter revolutions in Ukrainia. Whatever else happened, the Jewish population invariably suffered most in these clashes from the anti-Soviet forces. Failing in their task of overthrowing the Soviets, the interventionists fell upon Jewish villages and tortured and killed with savage abandon. Everywhere you go you hear of these pogroms, most of them to horrible to repeat.

With rare sagacity, a group of Jewish Zionists seized the first meagre opportunity. Groups of Jews were formed throughout the country. Their leaders told Soviet officials this volunteer army would drive out the bandits and interventionists from outlying villages and thus save the Red Army the task.

Arms Are Provided Them

The Soviets agreed, arms were provided and every facility given. All Jewish men between the ages of eighteen and fifty were taught the art of shooting straight and then despatched to the scattered fronts.

The pogroms had driven the Jews out of the villages and left them stranded in the three big cities of the Ukrainia—Kharkoff, Kieff and Odessa. From these points the new warriors marched on their old homes.

They were successful. Led often by patriarchal rabbis, accompanied by their wives and children, they descend upon their occupied homes and fought with the strength of despair. What the casualties were no one will ever know, for no official record has been kept. But it is known they were heavy.

Once in possession of a village, the Jews made it an armed camp. Sentries were stationed on the outskirts. Armed men patrolled the treet day and night. At the first signal of trouble every man and boy rushed out with his weapons.

Demanded New Rights

All through that thickly populated section verging toward the Polish and Roumainian borders this was repeated. The Jews won back their homes, and as victors they demanded new rights. They no longer cringed before the peasant. They had gained new self-respect.

After the invaders had been ousted the Jews still maintained their organization. Here and there groups of drunken peasants turned upon them. Before the Jew would have submitted. Now he shot back and won.

From my interviews with members of this new army, it was apparent that they realized the Soviets inflicted the death penalty upon anti-Semitic offenders, but—the Jews could not wait for the commission of the crime and then the dispensing of justice. They had armed themselves to forestall and to prevent. Punishment after the crime was not enough, although during Czarist days the Government winked at persecution of Jews and indulged in this pastime itself.

Where to Attend Church

WESLEY CHAPEL
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

The clear typical California day was well appreciated last Sunday judging from the splendid audiences which attended the services.

Sunday morning Rev. Shaw showed his bigness of spirit and heart by yielding his customary place to Rev. J. P. Ross of the A. M. E. Church. The visiting pastor, preached from the subject "All Things Are Yours," a very interesting sermon.

Mr. Rollins, the choir tenor, sang one of those selections which have endeared him to Wesley's worshippers. Mrs. Markham rendered one of her sweetest instrumental numbers as the chimes and peals wafted to the delight of the audience. The choir under the leadership of Prof. Howard sang as usual in a soul stirring way. In the afternoon the pastor supported by the chair and congregation took possession of Hamilton the sister church.

All friends and visitors will find it an undeniable pleasure to enjoy the inviting, beautiful Sabbath mornings and evenings amidst the able preaching, touching solos and amiable folk at Wesley Chapel.

FIRST A. M. E. ZION CHURCH—
Corner of Pico and Paloma Streets.
Rev. H. B. Gantt, Pastor.
Res. 1217 Paloma

Rev. Shaw took for his text last Sunday morning, "Thou therefore endure hardships as a good soldier of Jesus Christ."

Those who have heard Dr. Shaw know the value of his sermons. They are characteristic of himself, forceful and full of magnetic power.

Rev. Johnson, visiting minister minister, preached a great sermon Sunday evening on "Love." This sterling worth pure gospel will live forever in our hearts.

The Bible Class and C. E. sedvices are to be congratulated for their Sunday evening programs. They were delighted with a solo by Miss Ollie Green U. S. C. and a very interesting talk on "How To Improve Our Community" by the talented Miss Anita Boyden.

Don't forget the Anniversary and Fair at this church March 4 to 11.

Services 11:00 a. m. and 8:0 0p. m.

Bible Class 5:30

Christian Endeavor 6:30 p. m.

Mid week prayer and praise service each Wednesday night.

Visitors and friends cordially invited to all services.

FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH—Duarte.
Rev. William Prince, Pastor.

The Presiding Elder being absent. Attending the Bishop's Council at Columbia, S. C., Rev. Gantt held our quarterly meeting last Sunday, preaching both morning and evening. Five children were baptised by the pastor. Thirty-five members and friends communed. Two united with the church. This gave us fourteen new members for the month. At three p. m., Rev. Cooper, and Junior Choir of First A. M. E. of Pasadena, conducted meeting. The excellent singing by the choir was enjoyed by all. Dr. Bryant, the Conference Evangelist, spoke for us. A great spiritual sermon. Rev. Davis, pastor of Second Baptist Church of Monrovia, and members were present, also a large delegation from the Zion A. M, E. Church of which Rev. Reed is pastor. Rev. Cooper's members were represented by a large number. Our rally in the afternoon totaled eighty three dollars. Our total collection for the day ninety five dollars.

WARD-CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH—
B. R. Guy, Pastor.
1252 East 25th Street.

Services at this church last Sunday were of much concern to all present. The Sunday School was very interesting and instructive.

At the morning services the pastor spoke from the text, "They over came him by the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony." At the close of the services one person came to the altar for prayer. The Endeavor Services were very interesting. At the evening services the pastor spoke from the text, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

The teachers meeting and chair rehearsals were observed Friday evening and the prayer and class meeting was attended on Wednesday evening. We are expecting to beautify the church in the near future.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
Eigth and Wall Streets.
Rev. M. Mitchell, Pastor.

We had two inspirational preaching services last Sunday. The Pastor held his audience spell bound. His subject was, "The Business of the Kingdom is that of Soul Saving." In the evening we were favored by an exceedingly interesting sermon by a young Evangelist of the Christian Church (white).

Next Sunday special services morning and evening. Our choir, under the leadership of Madam Viola Harris Brandon, next week has two brilliant engagements to sing.

BIRCH ST. CHRISTIAN CHURCH—
F. C. Cothran, Minister

The work was gratifying in every department at this church last Lord's day. Bible School and Christian Endeavor showed increased interest and enthusiasm. Elder Cothran occupied the pulpit both morning and evening and preached two soul stirring sermons. At 11:00 o'clock a. m. he preached upon the subject of unity, taking for his text these words, "God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honor to that part which lacked, that there should be no schism in the body, but that the members should have the same care one for another. 1 Cor.12: 24.25. He showed from this text, in a very striking and impressive manner, the anatomical relation between the human and spiritual body.

Regular services next Lord's day. All members are expected to be present. A delegation of two-thirds of the membership is expected to meet at the Broadway Christian Church, Sunday at 11:00 a. m. in a joint petition, with the other Broadway Missions for their independence. Members should meet early and go in a body.

TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH—
West 36th and Normandie.
Rev. J. A. H. Eldridge, Pastor.
Residence 1355 West 35th Street.

Last Sunday was a spiritual day in Trinity. Beginning in the Sunday School and continuing through the day love and joy reigned supreme.

At 11:00 a. m. the pastor preached from St. Matthew, 7th Chapter and 7 verse. ((Text) "Ask and it shall be given you.) When ever you fail to hear a sermon such as was delivered at this service you do your self an injustice. The Sunday School gave to the Church a convert for Baptism.

The Pastor's Aid Club held their regular weekly meeting at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Henry, 1348 W. 35th Street. After the business session the Club was royally entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Henry. So much so that every one is looking forward to the time when the Home will extend the nivitation to the Club again. The B. Y. P. U. at 6:00 p. m. was attended with the usual enthusiasm at 7:30. The Pastor again filled the pulpit. Text, "Strive to enter in at the straight gate." Luke 13 Chapter 24 verse. This service marked the opening of a 10 days revival. There was one addition to the church at this service.

BETHEL BAPTIST CHURCH SERVICES IN Y. M. C. A.
Ninth and Hemlock Streets.

We had excellent services all day on last Sunday. At 9:00 a. m. the Sunday School, under Mrs. Cornelia Evans Mrs. Gallerson, and others, was encouragingly attended. The room was filled at 11:00 a. m. for Divine Service. A number of strangers were in attendance. Dr. Prowd preached from Philippians 2:5. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." The Lord was in the word to bless us all. Madam Patti Brown, God's gift to the Colored people, as a singer, was on hand and sang two numbers for us most delightfully. Expressions of appreciation, and flowers were tendered her. Three souls joined us at this Service. At 7 p. m. the B. Y. P. U., under Mr. John Prowd was very nicely attended, and the Bible subject profitably discussed. The Night Sermon was an evident effort for sinners finding their way to the Savior. At the close, one brother connected himself with the church. Thus we closed a most blessed day for "BETHEL."

Miss Arlotta Frye sang sweetly for us at 8:00 p. m.

This Sunday, the 25th. will be our FIRST BAPTISM, for this Infant Church and we cordially invite all, and urge that you come early so as to secure seats. For the present we are holding our Prayer Services at 749 Ceres Avenue. And any one desiring to see Dr. Prowd can find him there. Prayer Services on Wednesday Evenings from 8:00 to 9:00 p. m.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Avenue.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

Sunday was an exceptionally fine day at Lincoln. A splendid audience greeted the Pastor at the morning hour as he began a series of special Lenten sermons. The subject for Sunday was: "Life Eternal." At the close of the service a fine young man in the person of Dr. F. D. Harris came forward and united with the church. At the evening hour Rev. J. M. Young brought to us an excellent message on: "Love." The Christian Endeavor is taking on new life and held a good session at the usual hour.

President F. S. Sumner, of Talladega College, Talladega, Alabama, will be the preacher for the morning hour. Everyone should hear this man of God. At the evening hour, the choir will present its regular monthly Musical Program.

You are cordially invited to worship with us at all times.

CHURCH OF GOD IN CHRIST—
Watts, California.
Rev. L. O. C. Patrick, Pastor.
John and Wilmington Streets.

Great revival will close Sunday, February 25th.

Hear Evangelist Carrie Scott, last message on HOLINESS Sunday evening 8:00 p. m. This revival will live in our minds and hearts for a many day. Truly it has been the greatest revival pentecostal in the history of Watts. Many have been brought to Christ in this meeting, and many healed. Our minds go back 15 years ago when Azuza street church was the center of attraction, and when many were baptized according to Acts 2:4 and now we can truly say God has most wonderfully blessed in this place. Our Sunday School is moving on fine with Brother L. C. Catley, our Superintendent. Every department of the church is moving along nicely.

Everybody welcome.

COMMENTS

BY: W. J. WHEATON

THE NORTHEN TREK

It is estimatet that over 50,000 Negroes have left the South in past ninety days. They have come from the rural districts of the Carolinas, Georgia and Alabama. In most of cases they have drifted to the industrial centers of the North and middle West States, which because of the wage inducements seem alluring.

The Press, both North and South, and according to the angle from which they approach it, are giving their different versions of the exodus. Political unrest. Taxation without representation. The desire for better living conditions for themselves, and greater educational facilities for their children, the South's utter disregard for their property rights and the fiendish neglect to protect them from the hands of the assassin, have, without the shadow of a doubt, been potent factors in the emigration.

RESPONSIBILITY

Whatever the cause of their emigration a responsibility for their welfare rests upon those Negroes who are conversant with the environs of the more liberal sections of the United States.

There is no denying the fact that the more illiterate class of the Negro emigrants takes undue advantage of their newly acquired liberty and fail to appreciate them at full value.

Whether it is liked or not the Negro who is acquainted with ways of the communities in which he resides, must take upon himself the task of educating the new arrivals as to their conduct. For every ten Negroes emigrating from the so-called "Deep South" there are five Whites and they are not the best class of whites either. They bring with them the prejudices of race which has so permeated their system that in some will be the only character. Not alone do they bring with them the prejudices of a subtle system of propaganda that unless it is combated with skill, will have a splendid chance of taking root in the North.

"BLACK MAMMY STATUE"

One of the most subtle means of perpetuating the humiliation of the Negro, is the bill in the Senate sponsored by Sharp Williams to commemorate in marble the loyalty of the "Black Mammies of ante-Bellum days. Such a proposition coming from such a source, is the most insulting piece of racial humiliation the Race has ever been offered.

After debauching our womanhood, who suffered the sensual attacks of their masters under duress and creating a race which struggles for a place in the sun, they would now perpetuate their bestiality by erecting a marble shaft to the women who through instinct of feminine loyalty, kept a vigil over the safety of the wives and children of the men who were striving to keep them in bondage. It was not enough to creat a mongrel race by debauching the womanhood of the helpless peoples whom they held as chattel, but now they propose to tell the world by the erection of a marble statue that they have a pride in their bestial accomplishment.

All of the bronze and marble shafts that the South might erect would not, could not atone for the tears of those enslaved women when their children, even the offspring of their masters, were torn from their breasts and sold into a distant land.

We knew that John Sharp Williams was capable of doing many things that would bring humiliation to our people, but of all the subtle forms for humiliation, the "Black Mammy" statue is the limit.

FAITH

Nothing, political, religious or otherwise, in the controversial line would be complete without the "Negro in it."

Dr. Grant, Episcopalian, shocked the Protestant faith by his declaration of disbelief in the divine origin of Christ. Then comes Rabbi Wise, Jew, douting the story of the reception of the Ten Commandments by Moses midst fire and smoke on Mount Sinai, and last but not least, Dean William Pickens who flouts the assumption that there is a Hell, a Lake that burns with fire and brimstone.

Many good Baptist and Methodist preachers will question the proclivity to "Heresy" voiced by the Dean, and we expect to see him deluged by the Philipics and Polemics that will be hurled at his devoted head. Few of us care about the origin, but we do know that if the world adhered to the Sermon on the Mount, or lived according to the precepts of the Ten Commandments it would be a pleasanter place for many of us.

TARDY RECOGNITION

In the Valley of the Kings, Egypt: They have exhumed the remains of Tut-Ankh-Amen, who ruled and was buried thirty centuries ago.

We cannot find in the history of the past where he cut so much of a figure but civilized curiosity has unearthed his burial place and brought to the light of day the treasure that was interred with him. A few weeks ago even the name was unknown, possibly one in a million, with the exception of Egyptologist or Archeologist who make special studies of antiquity. But today "Tut" as he is familiarly termed by the news writers is on the tongues of millions, even school children. Thirty centuries seem a long while to wait for the adoration and reverence of the people, but what is the paltry sum of thirty centuries in the plan of the Infinite.

Maybe in that length of time many of us will receive our "just deserts." Who can tell?

We Negroes growl because we think that we have not accomplished what we should in seventy years. It has been about that length of time since we had an opportunity to start, and seventy years occupies as much space in time as one grain of sand occupies on the seashore. Discontent is the lever of progress and it is hoped that we may ever be discontented, even thirty centuries from now.

If it is as some of us believe, and the spirit which dwelt in the "tenement of clay" can watch over the things of earth, it would be worth while if we could know just what that ancient Ruler thinks about the desecration of his burial place.

THE BYSTANDER

L. K. Beeks

Why the United Daughters of Confederacy should resolve to erect a statue in Washington in honor of the "Black Mammy" is an enigma that completes of most optimistic minds. Such strange and nervelous notions prevail at this day and time one might say, comprehension. It is beyond mere

The daughter of slave holders and Ku Klux Klanism must have a queer sense of shame and embarrassment which they hope to wash their hands of as Pilate and to this end erect such a meaningless remembrance. If these good, kind hearted ladies really wish to do something worthy of their time and effort let them prevail upon their relatives, friends and neighbors to cease lynching, abolish the Ku Klux, destroy mob violence, eradicate Jim-Crowism, stop race propaganda and race hatred. There is not a black mammy who toils nad labors here or peeps down from the pearlygates of heaven that would not gladly endorse this program as a fit and just commemoration of all that she did or attempted to do.

A Little Research

From down in good old Texas comes the news that one Roy Mitchell, a mulatto, has confessed to a series of horrible murders and rapes. This chap is either a genius for crime or a colossal liar. Should he be telling the truth it would be interesting to delve into his ancestry and find the lusty old rascal from which block Mitchell was a chip and report the same to the Daughters of Confederacy, the builders of monuments, and mayb they will formulate an idea that charity begins at home.

KEEP TRYING

Busy Central Avenue stopped long enogh to suggest a very timely idea which was very ably presented to the public by a local paper.

The proposition of buying Miss Coleman, the aviatrix, a new plane should argue itself most convincingly into the minds of most people.

This plucky young lady deserves our encouragement for her nerve and effort. She is willing to teach us a subject that attracts the world. During war trained men got the choice of ease and comfort, during peace some fly over cities and wreak vengeance on those below as they stand trembling and helpless. We need to learn and know about flying as any other race for any emergency.

If buying Miss Coleman another plane will give us access to the air, let's buy it.

MALNUTRITION MAKE CHILDREN BAD

(Crusader Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The Children's Aid Society has found by a series of investigations that children are still suffering from the unemployment crisis of two years ago. A jobless period which their elders have forgotten is still markedly affecting the children, who through the several months it lasted had little to eat, and not the right things for growing bodies when they got it.

The society, after making this interesting survey of home conditions of children in the crowded sections of the city, is therefore in a position to warn parents to find out exactly what makes Jonny throw stones, break windows, fight and tear his clothes before they use the hairbrush.

The invarisble connection between the so-called "bay boy" and undernourishment has been discovered by the society in conjunction with the city health department. They point out that animals will go any distance for salt, a boy misses his daily supply of vitamines is just as restless as any other animal out on a salt hunt. And being small and inarticulate, at least about expressing his needs, he lives out his restlessness in the only way he knows. He bothers his family, teases his little sister, and throws spitballs in school.

GAPING FORESTLAND

He discovers her in the act of taking her life. He takes her to the Fringes. Next day the party is ready and starts on the journey for the buried city, with Jamba directing because of his father's illness. Juba's jealousy and anger are aroused at the sight of Anelo, whom she blames for her sorrow, but she tells Anelo of the plot. Juba is too weak to make the journey, so Anelo hurries with two natives to Contier's rescue.

VII.

Jamba and Jack are well ahead of the procession. They have been engaged in friendly conversation. At times they would stop, when Jack's curiosity was aroused over some object, and Jamba gave explanations. The party has moved along without mishap, save when a group of natives ran across a panther and speared it to its death.

The chief's son had made his arrangements. He would put his plans into effect when the time came. He talked continually with Jack and gave Jack no cause for suspicion. Jack, however, was cognizant of his surroundings.

Meantime, Anelo has taken a short cut, hoping to reach the fatal place before the excavating party. She has with her two faithful guides on whom she feels she can rely in the event of trouble.

"Do you think he will be in time to prevent any harm to Jack?" Anelo asked one of the guides.

"If we can reach Leopard's Lair. That is a dangerous point. There are so many tricky guards who keep the gates to the colony of entrapped beasts. If Jamba takes a notion to jeopardise the lives of the men and us make futile the efforts of the newcomer."

"We must hurry," said the girl. "This terrible thing must not happen." So they sped on their steeds which they obtained from the missionary, John Fringes. The day had become intensely hot. They had before them yet, a journey of two miles. When they reached the blacks they would have to go on foot as that would retard their progress. But nothing could stop them now. The men were armed heavily so that they could cope with any of the situation.

The excavation party has moved along, and is not far from the famous place known as "Leopard's Lair." Two of Jamba's men have joined him and Jack. Jamba speaks to one of them in a native tongue an dthus sends him far ahead with a message to the guards of Leopard's Lair.

CUB CAPER

By Leon Whitaker

Jeff Brown, the lightning 125 pounder took his bout with ease when the cub varsity boxing team met Cal-Tek in the first boxing meet of the year, Friday of this week. Jeff battled to a decision over McNeil of U. C. at Los Angeles in the inter-class elimination try-outs.

Wilayn Stovall took second place in the high jump at 5 feet and 11inches in the A. A. U meet at Occidental last Saturday, defeating Alma Richards, one of the contestants in the last Olympian Games in Europe.

Edgar Johnson the debonair youth with knockout punch is working at the post-office. The coach wants Edgar out for the boxing team, but he seems to prefer this heroic task of working all night and going to school all day.

Organizations are taking a decided hold upon Branch students. We understand that there is a sorority on foot among the young ladies, and that Erskine Ragland, Sumner Thompson and Wilyan Stovall have been initiated into the Omega Psi Phi fraternity.

Speaking of men that are men, and not just parlor and tea room decorations along with the other social furniture, that is just what the majority of men at the Branch are trying to be. We take our hats off to those men who attend the University under extenuating circumstances.

Lorenz Graham is just one more of those men who are seeking higher learning entirely dependent upon their resources.

There is an 18-year old Sophomore in the Pre-Medic College in the person of Miss Hoffman. Better look to your oars, boys.

Sorry to mention the same persons so much, but, unfortunately, we can't get any scandal on any body else.

The women are studying diligently, the men are studying diligently, and all unite in saying, after Lincoln's and Washington's birthday holidays that the high-school never was like this! Visitors are welcome at the smoker next Tuesday night.

Ain't but the one, Bud.

LAMBDA CHAPTER OF OMEGA PSI PHI FRATERNITY ORGANIZED IN LOS ANGELES

The Omega Psi Phi Fraternity is approaching the cosmic vastitude of national predominance with amazing alacrity, and in this way has formulated the science of our present ideals.

Unutterably relentless this organization, established upon fundamental principle of sterling quality, not quantity, has demonstrated advantageously to thinking men, with reciprocal values, the all importance of creative effort when sustained to reach a goal of a distinctive chievement. Today, there are literally a score of men holding deserved places in the limelight of public opinion who in the sense of self-realization and self-respect, tower conspiciously above the goodly fellowship of men.

It follows therefore, that silently but closely observing these metrical strides for predominance, a group of young men with Kingly virtues and matured skill have organized the Lambda (the 30th) Chapter to cater to only socially resourceful and scholastically eminent, young men. Such a chapter organized in Los Angeles with its remarkable proximity to academy and library, where culture is appreciated, and ability commended, must recognize the individual needs of young men who seek not to arrive in the limelight of public opinion; but in the sense of self-realization. Moreover, it must establish better and higher principles in the minds of our young men. It must teach them the value of organized society, to utilize physically, mentally, intellectually, and spiritually. It must create within them a willingness, a readiness, and an ableness to render real service, and instill within them the value of self-respect.

Mr. William Peterz with unwearied enthusiasm and touching fidelity has made possible this asset to mentally alive young men. Mr. Peterz still in the hay-day of youth, is working for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, in Pathology, University of Southern California. His brilliant personality fills a deserved place in Lincoln, California, and Southern California Universities; and as Basileus we are confident that he shall bring to book, with a youthful buoyancy, the softening influence of the late Colonel Young, and the throbbing personality of Charles Gilpin, as illustrative Omega examples for his fellow-brothers.

Mr. Lloyd Griffith a pre-legal student in University of Southern California, and a lad who writes a phrase that casts a purple shadow, has been elected as Keeper of Records. With copious fountains of thought, and illiads of logic, Mr. Griffith is premonished to secure an impregnable stronghold for the organization in Los Angeles.

Mr. Erskin Razland Southern Branch of the University of California, a glorious homocast of power and enlightened judgement, has been selected to serve as Keeper of Seals. Mr Ragland is pursuing the degree of Bachelor of Science, and he is of that throbbingly vigorous character which gives men a tremendous impetus to grapple with the stern realities of life.

Wilayn Stovall University of California, an authority of contemporary athletics; and a formidable sprinter as well, has been chosen as Chaplain. With reverence and earnest supplication, Mr. Stovall shall support the cherished ideals of the organization; and as an athlete, he is precocial to kindle the imagination of his adversaries in every feat, however keen the competition may be.

Messrs. Thomas Griffith, Chauncy Townsend, and Sumner Thompson have been initiated into the chapter; and as indispensable parts of the whole they are offering a dazzling contrast to evil and undesirable influences which reciprocally lead to sterile death. Mr. Griffith glorifies the commonplace, and basks in appreciation of the philosophy of the true and beautiful in Art and Literature. As a singer, his voice is clear and flute-like, and as a scholar—the very incarnation of colossal, good sense. Mr. Townsend is of that dynamic personality who brings to every effort a keen insight, a broad understanding of life, and the fastidious appreciation of an artist.

Mr. Thompson is delictely susceptible to every towering influence which points the way to supremacy. As an industrious student surveying the panorama of Electrical Engineering in the University of California, Thompson is painstaking, and profits by his work with a joy unspeakable.

This triumphant victory over the sordid influences of life which drive our young men to perdition with unutterable relentlessness, is unwaveringly approved by the representative men and women of Los Angeles; and with clarity of every obstruction the Lambda chapter of the Omega Psi Phi shall pave the way to success with amazing precision.

Men who live on the mere surface of life; retrogrades and predestinated criminals enter not in the consciousness of this organization of young men. Excelsior is written on their brows; and with luminous insight, the feats performed by them shall be of charity uplift, perseverance, and sublime achievement.

To prepare young men for a life of usefulness, to contribute to the welfare of 14,000,000 of black folk, to readjust a misconstrued world with legendary valor and consummate prudence is the ultimate aim of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity which has augmented the transcending prosperity of its constituents. Occasionally we hear the hammering of our comrades who have gone aloft. We too shall go aloft by using as a medium, creative effort, the goal of conscious evolution.

IN THE MUSIC WORLD

BY: JOHN A. GRAY

"Music as a Therapeutic Measure" is the title of a very interesting article by Robert L. Sumwalt, C. E., which was published in the Musical Courier recently. We quote at random from his article:

"To the Greeks, music had reference to any act over which the Muses presided. In the present day the word is restricted to that special art which makes use of the phenomena of sound in order to react upon the auditive sensation of the brain. In medicine, music signifies that art which gives harmonic life to the aesthetic emotions which in turn exercise a most powerful influence over the human organism.

"The ancient Greeks thought the flute could affect a cure and they gave as their belief this quotation: 'Soul was refreshed and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him.' It was their belief that if one were bitten by the tarantula there was no way of saving life except by music. It was customary, therefore, for whole bands of musicians to traverse Italy in such efforts.

In 1892 Dr. J. Ewing Hunter made a study of the therapuetical virtues of music with a piano placed in a sick ward. He stated that the diminution of pain was very marked in many cases and that seven out of ten noted cases were benefitted in so far as a reduction of temperature was recorded.

"Dr. Beschinsky, a Russian physician, attended a three-year old child in 1896 who suffered from sleeplessness due to night terrors. He advised the child's mother to play one of Chopin's waltzes. The effect was immediate and satisfactory."

—00—

Dr. James T. R. Davison, formerly senior house surgeon to the Liverpool Royal Southern Hospital, states:

"Music exercises its influence over the human organism in the relief of pain. Pain is a special condition of the sensorium felt as distress and is due to a special stimulation of central or peripheral origin. Music is likewise a special stimulation which, traveling from the periphery by other routes, reaches the sensorium and there gives rise to sensation felt as pleasure. In the sensorium these two sensations have to struggle for existence as they cannot exist simultaneously, and whichever of the two adapts itself more comfortably to the then reigning conditions of that central organ will gain the day. When the victorious sensation is that of pleasure, pain will cease to exist, but as the conditions of the sensorium are not exactly identical in any two cases music will sometimes be powerless to dislodge pain from its stronghold."

—00—

"Our business men know the part that music plays in their lives and that it is having a wonderful effect on the people in general. A lecturer on music might shout his lungs out impressing this fact, but when the men and women of this country in love with efficient, clean dealing, with personal initiative and energy which eventually spells success, see a man like Pierre du Pont and Charles Schwab advocating musical culture and confessing to the aid it has given them in crowded hours, they begin to think of the subject from a new viewpoint."

"Much has been said and written about the value of music in hospitals, but apparently no one had ventured to prescribe definite pieces for particular ailments before Mrs Isa Maud Ilsen, director of hospital music in reconstruction hispitals for the American Red Cross. Mrs Ilsen now occupies also the chair of musicotherapy in Columbia University, New York In her own words, she is "trying to coordinate music with living and making the former the greatest possible instrument for Americanization." She had a wide experience before the war in the use of music in curative and penal institutions, and now believes that the time is near when a musical director will be as indispensible an officer in a hospital as an operating surgeon. Of her first class in Columbia University, twelve are now engaged in active musical work in civil hospitals and other institutions. In Allentown, Pa., is a hospital that requires its nurses to take a two years course in voice culture to qualify for work in the institution. Says a contributor to the New York Times Magazine, describing Mrs. Ilsen's work:

"If you are troubled with insomnia, why not try a serenade? To be really up-to-date, you should have a fling at musicotherapy. If you suffer from sciatica, or shell-shock, or lumbago, or housemaid's knee, take a harmonic prescription. A barcarolle or a sonata may bring you out of the Slough of Despondency into new life. If this has a flippant sound it is not because the practitioners of the new system of healing do not take it seriously. . . .

The value of music was demonstrated during the world war. Long hikes were seemingly shortened by the singing of songs. Weary strugglers took heart and gathered courage to continue trudging through the mud. In the recreational huts, at rest camps, into the streets, music was carried by the dough-boy, and the songs they learned as rookies were sung when veterans."

A California judge recently opened his court with music and found that the whole day went more smoothly and that everyone seemed in better mood.

We read also that a young girl underwent an operation with no anesthetic other than the soft strains of music. In the case of the insane the results have been startling.

If you should get up on the wrong side of the bed any morning try listening to beautiful music for a few minutes before going out into the world. It will make your day more pleasant for you and for those with whom you come into contact. This is easy to do in these days with the aid of the phonograph.

Making Money

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toilsome savings of their daily wage. But I submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have reached a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.

Business requires your sole attention—Stocks mean sleepless nights and days of worry—Property works by itself for you without your care.

Select it—Set it to work—it takes care of itself and will take care of you.

A good example of this sort of investment is found in a few of my special listings as follows:

Seven room house, East 40th St., $4200.00; $1000.00 cash.
Five room house, corner Hooper Ave., $3950.00 $1000.00 cash.
Three rooms East 51st St., $1750.00; $500.00 cash.
Five room bungalow, Naomi St., $4200.00; $700.00 cash.

New Fed Constitution A Pippin; Annual Championship Tourney On Our Heels

(By: WILLIAM MELLS WATSON)
1555 Court St., Wilshire 2732

If poor old man William Marshall Dunn, three years president of the Western Federation of Tennis Clubs and author of most of the Fed's new constitution and by-laws can be induced to succeed himself at the election next month let us hope and pray that the dear brother's path is not so rocky as during the past struggle, as Bill deserves a better fate. Most any other human would have hopped that job years ago, but not this tough bird. Every time a militant smacked William along side of the kisser, he smilingly turned the other cheek, which is some test.

The new law book puts a kick into the Fed's activities and doesn't stand for a lot of child's play. If a club's representative is absent, it is just too bad. If he or she is present but gets huffy and fails to vote on the issue, that is also sad, a quarter's worth, and no pay, no come next time please. If you don't like the way Mrs Huff's petticoat sags don't tell her so, swallow it until after the meeting, then meet her in the alley, or it'll cost 5 more dimes and nickles.

Five buttons is the new argot for a club's membership, and four more iron men are collected annually as dues. If said club lags three months, we are very sorry, but suspension is in order. The official Referee is the Harry Lee Woolwine of the Fed, and prosecutes serious offender with due process of law. Except during a dispensation period, granted by the Fed's prexy, no subordinate club may finger less than two dollars and two quarters ($2.50) as an initiatory membership fee, this being the minimum.

One rep in the Fed for every ten members is still law, also club are assessed according to membership. This item was as hot as a brand new bunion in summer time, and may still result in one burial. As a whole the new code of "Cushing and Roberts" adopted at the last seance is the cat's side pockets, and leads toward a wonderful and constructive future for the Federation and tennis in the West.

What About Oakland?

A rule isn't worth a dime if not enforced and Wm. M. D. is one of the best little enforcers in town, so we'll hafta wait until Wednesday, March 7 to decide whether Oakland, Seattle, Salt Lake City or Hawaiian islands gets the Pacific Coast Championship tournament 1923, but we will admit that Frisco holds about a ninety nine per cent edge on other noncontenders. Truth is the Angelenos want to see just what the Northerners who at our last event pulled but one leg of the eight championships out of the fire, can do on their home lot. A thorough cleaning is predicted for our efforts, but many doubting Thomases are still amongst us, so let's see.

The Questionnaire

Q.—Would not Miss Shorey, the president of the Oakland club be the logical vice-president in the Federation to represent whatever district the Racquette Tennis Club is placed in? And would she not be better able to appoint a tournament committee, (if Frisco is the site of the tournament this summer) than someone here, etc.?—J. C.

A.—All such questions answered at Fed's next meeting, Mr. J. C. be there!

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

With a total of fifteen candidates running for mayor and city councilmen, the [illegible] City Election is well under way, according to the information to be obtained at headquarters, 1400 E. 9th street, where the Ninth Street Branch Y. M. C. A. is conducting its annual campaign for 500 new members. The election began on Wednesday, Feb 14, and will close on March 31. One dollar casts one vote, five dollars in advance counts for six votes for any candidate. In this way, new members are taken in by the installment and full-membership plans. A fund has been set aside for poor boys who are unable to pay the regular fee for boys which is three dollars a year. All high school and college students are advised to take advantage of the new offer of a year's membership at two dollars and a half. Candidates for the council, Rev. F. M. Mitchell, Mr. C. M. Toney, Mr. E. W. Fisher, Mr. Tom Lowden, Mr. Titus McAdoo, Mr. T. W. Waite, Mr. B. C. Colly, Mr. George Williams, Mr. Jesse Kimbrough, Mr. K. C. Venerable.

The Hi Y Club considered itself fortunate in securing the services of Dr. Mills, as a lecturer on next Friday night at its regular meeting. Dr. Mills is a graduate of the University of Paris, and is one speaker whom one never tires of hearing.

From time to time the Y. M. C. A. has been instrumental in securing work for young men and boys. In fact, during the last sixteen years of its existence, it has placed 1507 men and boys free of charge in permanent jobs. There is always a desire on the part of members and friends of this branch for recommendations, and assistance in securing positions. The Y. M. C. A. is only too glad to help young men in whatever capacity it can.

We note with interest a part of a letter from P. P. O'Brien, Postmaster, thanking the Executive Secretary, Mr. Greene, for the interest shown:

"I have your letter of the 5th, instant recommending Jesse E. Harris, and you are informed that he has been assigned to duty as a substitute clerk in this office in the mailing division."

ANOTHER MAN'S OPINION

Problems-Solutions.

Leon Whitaker.

Does it require one versed in economics, sychology, philosophy, and finance to explain why Central Avenue, the representative business district of 40,000 people does not come up to the standard set by First and San Pedro, Temple and Centennial, 25th and Central, and the other outlying community business districts? No, it erquires but a few years of contact with human nature, a few years of observation, and the realization that the germ of that something that William James calls "the tendency of the physical being toward inerta," but what the common man calls lazziness, is a most prevalent germ.

We accept the fact that Central Avenue is the only logical Negro business district. We believe that it should be developed, exploited and patronized, all in a business sense.

Those places that stand out in shining brilliancy and order are milestones along the road of Negro progress. Their proprietors needand deserve all the approbation and appreciation that a struggling people can give them. In fact, any man who strikes out for himself in a legitimate and self sustaining occupation deserves just that. We need and must have more business of all kinds. Better that Central Avenue be lined with shaks wherein the fluctuating dollar passes thru several pairs of black hands before returning to its source, than it be lined with factories wherein not even a Negro laboring hand is employed than it be lined with wonderful stores built for our trade wherein not even a Negro counter clerk is seen, or that it be lined with store whose managers are patronizing enough to hire Negro clerks whose salaries are nothing compared with the income from Negro labor.

But, the point is this, why do not those enterprising proprietors, those enterprising business men to whom we have referred, paint, clean, polish, sweep and dust, even whitewash their places so that the passing street-car may not see all of their defects, and so that the casual passer-by may feel disposed to dump a few more nickels behind him?

We ask you in the name of your success, enterprise, and reputation, whether this is because of lack of time, lack of finance, labor time or ambition, or whether it is just pure downright laziness.

WELCOME, DR. DuBOIS!

The California Eagle, on behalf of its many readers, desires to welcome that eminent scholar, socialist and thinker in our midst, and to express the wish that his stay may be one of pleasure as well as revelation, as to the rapid growth of our great city, and the steady match of our people to these shores. Dr. DuBois stands at the forefront an advocate for all manhood's rights for his people. He has never embarrassed the race or did aught that could cause us to feel abashed.

Therefore, we ask that the people should hear him, and take in of the treasures he has to give. The proceeds from his lecture, after the expense is deducted from the same, will go to St. Philip's Episcopal Church. Therefore, the people have not only the opportunity of hearing Dr. DuBois, but of aiding Father Cleghorn in his march of progress as well.

POLITICAL POT PIE

C. Weicksham, prominent business man and manager of the Ambassador Transfer Co., will make the race for Congress in the 10th District. He is well and familiarly known as Wick by his legion of friends who will give him a strong backing in his race from this district.

———00———

Sidney P. Dones, who made a very good showing for Councilmanic honors and who was supported by this writer may be a candidate for the City Council. It is known that Dones has been quietly making friends for the last few years and with his record as a business man may make him a good contender for the honors.

———00———

Booker T. Washington, Jr. is mentioned for Councilmanic honors and we have been told that it is music to his ears.

———00———

Cushion head leadership is the latest frame to come forth. They say that it is the kind which seeks to fool the public into the serene thought of high ideals and the promoters go forth to get in on the grafting end.

———00———

The Forum is out to indorse a candidate for the Council and to unite all forces in the support of said candidate.

———00———

R. S. Sparks (Cupid) looks like a 100 to one shot for reelection to the Council.

———00———

Wood Wilson political wiseacre and all around good fellow says that henceforth and evermore there will be a new deal in the political arena.

———00———

We have wondered what has become of the boomlets of several of the promising candidates for Mayor, Council, etc.

The political boneyard will be full of dead birds this coming campaign, both of those who have committed suicide and those who were killed off by others.

ATITIS

Stomatitis means inflamation of the stoma, or opening. It has reference to diseases of the mouth, and is not connected with the stomach any more than gastritis—inoamation of the stomach—has to do with "gas."

There are many sorts of stomotitis. One type of inflamatory mouth comes from fever blisters, another follows injuries, a third accompanies ulcers, a fourth is called "thrush"—a parasitic stomatitis characterized by the appearance of small white patches on the tongue or cheek—others are termed diphtheria and gangrenous stomatitis.

Treatment of the three simple varieties of sore mouth requires only that the mouth and teeth be kept clean, and that cold instead of hot food be eaten. Sucking ice, snowballs and frozen foods is taken gratefully.

The mouth should be kept clean with boric acid water or some alkaline antiseptic liquid diluted. If the mouth is very sore, swollen, salivated or ulcerated, powdered burned alum mixed with an equal amount of bismuth or in solution, 10 grains to the ounce, painted on with a camel's hair brush soon cures the non-serious types.

Drugs and medicines taken internally have no real value. They are often given to gratify the traditional demand of persons who think internal medicines "drive out disease." Very offensive breath and profuse salivation at times point to ulcerative stomatitis. Spongy gums, swollen, deep red and purple in color, and which easily bleed, may be present. Deposits of lime, phosphates and lactates at the junction of the teeth and gums must be scraped off by a careful, painstaking dentist.

By Dr. E. B. Lewis, B. Sc., M. D.
1618 1-2 East 9th Street.

The swoolen glands under the jaw will disappear when the sores in the mouth heal. Once the cause is removed, whether due to calomel, lead poisoning or any other metal poisoning to defective teeth or gums, or what not, an improved diet, cleanliness of the mouth applications of peroxide of hydrogen, lime water, milk of magnesia and a good tooth paste suffices as a rule ot cure the trouble.

A mouth wash of five grains of alum or three grains of chlorate of potash to the once of water is benefical. "Thrush" is a fungus or mold which is more easily prevented than cured. Scrupulous cleanliness of a baby's mouth, its bottles, linens and anything that reaches its mouth is demanded. Kissing, ivory rings, "pacifiers" and similar abominations spread thrush as well as other life long disorders.

Severe medical treatment with powerful astringents like 3 per cent. silver nitrate, as well as borax and bicarbonate of soda, are sometimes necessary. This is apt to denude the membrane if used by non-medical hands, so never use it except under your doctor's observation.

Stomatitis from specific diseases calls for the treatment used in those maladies. Noma, however, is a spontaneous gangrene of the mouth, which may occur also in the nose and elsewhere. If not checked quickly it terminates fatally. To prevent noma or gangrenous stomatitis, alert attention must be given immediately, when simpler forms of stomatitis begin.

An operation, cauterization or use of radium is indicated as soon as a small ulcer becomes resistent. Permanganate of zinc is used as a disinfectant, since almost all type of stomatitis are infectious and communicable.

Dr. Lewis will answer quetions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanation subjects that are of general interest to the public. He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual caes. Where the subject is not of general interest, letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope isenclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. E. B. Lewis, 1618 1-2 East 9th Street.

SLAVE LABOR BILL BEFORE CONGRESS

Colt Bill Will Let in "Contract Labor" and Destroy Demand in North for Negro Workers from South.

Washington, Feb. 23.—(Crusader Service). With free immigration a possible source of political infection and restricted immigration not bring the promised freedom from the spread of radical ideas among the American working class, Senator Colt has introduced a bill into the United States Senate which is the capitalists' answer.

Today employers and their agents, the steamship companies, are prohibited by law from selecting immigrants in foreign countries and importing them as slave gangs into America. With the passage of Senator Colt's bill this last restriction upon slave trade will be swept away. Gangs of slaves gathered by the old method of force and deception will be brought to this land, held in bondage by the employers, owned body and soul.

The new bill, if passed, would also effectively stop the Negro migration from the South, by eliminating the present demand in Northern industrial centers for Negro labor to make up the shortage created by the present immigration.

BECKLEY, W. Va., Feb. 23.— Fines of $25 were imposed upon Charles and John Beckner, of this place, following their refusal to sit upon a mixed jury. During the trial of Thomas Harris, charged with selling moonshine, Pack and Harris were impanelled, but when they were called declared they wuold not sit in the case becaue a ccolored man had been called into the jury box. The court then excused them and took the matter under advisement. On the following day the two men were called before the court and were fined $25 each for contempt. It is the first instance of the kind known in this state.

"UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN"---Isa. 9:16

INTERESTING PAPER READ BY MRS. ANNIE E. JONES AT SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH

The birth of Jesus is the greatest event upon record. It is the greatest link in the world's history. The night of the Savior's nativity was the beginning of a new era to all subsequent ages. The manger of Bethlehem was the birthplace of new hopes, and a better history for struggling humanity through all time to come. Our Savior became a helpless babe; took upon himself the form of a servant and was found in the likeness of mortal man, that he might fill the world with the wonders of his grace, Heaven itself with the fulness of his glory. His birth mingles the fears of helpless humanity with the brightest expectations of future happiness. At his incarnation, the star of hope like a signal light, hung in beauty and loveliness upon the eastern horizon of a dark and benighted world. In his life the sorrows of earth ripened into the joys of heaven, and in his death the shame and agony of the cross melted away into the sceptre of power and the throne of glory.

Ancient sages had been sing for centuries of a brighter and better day that would dawn in the fullness of time upon their wretched race. The songs of Zion's seers, were rich with the thought that the coming of the Savior would usher in a golden age upon a world steeped in sin and saddened with sorrow.

The voice of inspiration had been heard all along down through the ages, telling the advent of a great Redeemer who would come as a consolation of Israel and a desire of all nations. The first link which was clasped in the consecrated cradle of the newborn king, and the last which was riveted in an empty sepulcher of the risen Savior.

Jo-ak-una and Anna, parents of the Virgin Mary, were among God's people. For twenty years or more, they had lived together in the highest estimation of man. Their lives were pure and faultless in the sight of the Lord. They become very rich, yet exceedingly charitable, but they mourned and grieved for they were without children. Yet in their advanced years, they made a solemn vow, promising the Lord, if he would favor them with an offspring, they would devote it to his most sacred service for life. After this promise, Jo-ak-una and other members of his tribe went up to Jerusalem with their offering to attend the Feast of Dedication. When he went into the presence of the High Priest, he and his offering were despised and rejected, saying that it would not be accepted in the sight of the Lord because he was of a barren family. He was also unjustly rebuked for appearing among those who were blessed with children. This unjust reproach brought him much shame and sorrow. He would not return home, feeling that his neighbors would reproach him in the same manner; but retired to the wilderness, where his shepherds were keeping watch ovr his tender flock. There he fasted foryt days and nights in prayer and supplication to his God. Now an angel appeared, stood beside him with a great light, seeing he was troubled at heart. The angel said unto him: "Be not fraid, for I am an angel of the Lord, sent to inform you that your prayers are heard and accepted of the Lord, who has seen both your shame and heard your unjust reproach for having no children. Be it unto you. The Lord is the avenger of sin, but not of nature; and when he caused barrenness or to be without children, it was that the offspring might not be the product of lust, but the gift of his grace.

The Wilkin's Music Academy Scores a Big Hit

Mr. Frank E. Benedict scored quite a hit when he presented Mr. William T. Wilkins and his pupils, assisted by Mme. Florence Cole Talbert and Mr. Claude V. Pitts, in Recital before his Lodge, the Pasadena B. P. O. E. (Elks) Lodge No. 672, in their beautiful club rooms, 400 Colorado Street, Pasadena, on Thursday evening, February 13th.

The audience was composed entirely of men, lal white, including many newspaper men, musicians, and notables, including the Pasadena District Attroney.

Our own Florence was in fine voice and held the large and discriminating audience spell-bound with her beautiful voice and superb artistry. Her selections were chosen to exhibit her mastery of bravura, and her thrills and runs were executed with ease and brilliancy. She responded to many encores and made a decidedly favorable impression when she sang a new song entitled "Pasadena," by a Negro composer.

Mr. Claude V. Pitts, who is shortly to be presented in recital by his teacher, Professor Patrick O'Neal, was also in fine form. He possesses a tenor voice of exquisite quality, ranging between lyric and dramatic. He sang "My Dream," by Tosti, and was compelled to respond to an encore. We predict a great future for Mr. Pitts, as he is a young man and unspoiled, a hard worker, with a voice of great natural beauty; and he has the good fortune to be under the guidance of an excellent teacher.

Mr. Wilkins himself created a profound impression by a rendition of his original descriptive compositon, "The Path of Destny." So vividly did Mr. Wilkins interpret this "inspiration," as Dr. Ray Hastings called it, with its ever-changing moods and dramatic effects, so realistic was the storm effect, that half the uadience, composed of strong and hardened men, rose to their feet and stood until the composition ended with its grand climax. Salvoes of applause, ending in a veritable ovation, followed, and Mr. Wilkins was compelled to respond with an encore. He has been besieged with invitations from both white and colored organizations, to render more programs in Pasadena, and subsequently filled a return engagement, on Washington's Birthday, before the ladies and families of the Pasadena Elks, by request of Mr. Benedict. This progrm is reviewed elsewhere in this issue. Incidentally, Mr. Wilkins has been engaged to play his "Path of Destiny" at one of Pasadena's leading hotels, within a week or two.

Mr. Benedict and the Elks generously entertained Mr. Wilkins, his pupils, together with their parents and friends, at a sumptuous banquet, following the program. The District Attorney expressed the opinion that Mr. Wilkins is too good a pianist to devote his time to teaching, and should travel and play his "Path of Destiny" throughout the country. A number of professors expressed a desire to interview Mr. Wilkins, with a view to learning something of his teaching methods.

All of Mr. Wilkins pupils played with consummate artistry and were enthusiastically encored, although Mr. Wilkins was compeiled to decline to allow all to respond, owing to the latness of the hour.

The following is the program as March Wind (McDowell), Hazel Robinson; Pendente Valse (Lack), Juanita Terry; La Gazelle (Wollenhaupt), Algie Collins; L'Arabesque (Leschetitzky), Fraulein Wilkins; Lark Song (Tschaikowsky), Francis Curry; Rustle of Spring (Sinding), Gilbert Allen; Sextette—Polka for Three Pianos, Twelve Hands; Vocal Solo (Selected), Claude V. Pitts; Piano Selection (Lavalle), Thelma Lowery; Rhapsody (Wollenhaupt), Delphina Jackson; Prelude in G Minor (Rachmaninoff), Samuel Brown; Scherzo, B-Minor (Chopin), Lucile Banton; Vocal Solo (Selected), Mme. Florence Cole-Talbert; Path of Destiny (Wm. T. Wilkins); Professor Wilkins; Turkish March—three pianos, Twelve Hands; Trot de Cavalier (Rubenstein), three pianos, Twelve Hands.

NEGRO DOCTOR FINDS CONSUMPTION CURE

Great White Plague Is Conquered by Discovery of Dr. D. H. Brown.

By George E. Taylor.

(Staff Correspondent Crusader Service.)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb 26.—The great white plague that has baffled medical science for centuries has at last proven to be a curable disease by the discovery of Dr. D. H. Brown, a practicing physician of this city and a graduate of Mehara Medical College. For more than ten years, Dr. Brown has prescribed his wonderful discovery with remarkable success. Having kept a record of cases treated, he discloses the fact that over seventy percent have been given relief and that a larg number have actually been cured. One case was known to have only one lung and a portion of the other in a sound condition when he began his treatment and after a year's treatment this patient was placed under the X-ray and found to be perfectly clear of any semblance of tubercular germs and what was left of her lungs were completely sound. After this revelation, the doctor placed his remedy on the market under the name "The Magnolia Consumption Remedy." His success has been phenomenal.

Recently Dr. Brown placed the sale of his remedy in the hands of the "Magnolia Sales Company," a corporation of mixed race men who propose to market the remedy as a specialty. The name of the remedy has been changed to "Creoca" and will by this sales company be advertised widely throughout the United States and Europe. Undoubtedly, the name of Dr. Brown, discoverer of this wonderful remedy, will soon become a household word and humanity will be his beneficiary. Still, the Negro Race continues to climb the ladder of fame.

N.A.A.C.P. vs Garvites

By Floyd Calvin, Author of "The Mirrors of Harlem."

The fight between the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Universal Negro Improvement Association has reached such a stage that it might not be unwise to impartially review both groups and see what should be preserved and what destroyed in each organization for the best interests of the public at large.

The names of both denote progress. One wishes to "advance," the other to "improve." One has for its objective building up the historic Motherland, Africa; the other, equality in America. If both carry out their programs, both will render a distinct service to the Negro race. But for either to forget its primary purpose for existing and devote its entire time to telling the other: "Your program is impossible," is like the pot calling the kettle black. In the first place, neither program will be realized soon. The very foundations of each denotes a continuous struggle in their respective fields. In the second place, if the public finds that the cardinal principles are suddenly forgotten and the controversary drops to the level of personalities, then both sides should be let severely alone. If members of two organizations cannot go about their business carrying out their respective programs—which are basically not programs of destruction—without being disgraced by personal fights between their respective leaders, then both leaders should be repudiated.

Now what about the charges flying to and fro? First, the followers have not anything to do with those charges—because they didn't make them. The followers joined with their respective leaders to carry out what they believed to be a good program. To be sure they have a right and ought to be loyal in a crisis. But they have no right to give their support until their cause denotes a public nuisance rather than a public service. They have no right to be worked into a frenzy until they hate every one who is not of their cult. They have no right to become suspicious of every one who is not as wild and excited as they. It is then that they become victims of personal grievances, rather than followers of constructive leaders. So that, rather than become demoralized and undermining, it is better to dismiss the leaders before the leaders destroy the unity of the people, for the people can always produce new leaders, but the same leaders cannot regain the confidence of their former supporters.

Who constitute the respective movements? What are the real differences between the two groups?

The N. A. A. C. P. has typical "American" ideas—"advancement," "political equality." The U. N. I. A. has "universal" ideas—"improvement"—"redeeming Africa." Now everybody wants to see the Negro "advance"—to political equality if he can. Likewise everybody wants to see the Negro "improve;" if he had a Motherland he would not be any the worse off.

The immediate program of the U. N. I. A. is businesses, self-respect, pride of race, race-consciousness and general uplifting. Certainly this would be a blessing to all. The immediate program of the N. A. A. C. P. is civil rights. There is nothing wrong with this. What must be done? Simply "improve" and "advance"—the "leaders" to the contrary nothwithstanding.

Ed Macon Comes To Town.

Way up at the base of Mt. Shasta at the Siskiyou lives one Edward Macon, at the lumber camp of Weed. He is known far and near for his bigness of heart and genuine hospitality. This writer has visited him at his home and we have never been better cared for at any time or place than by this big hearted and whole souled man. Everything which stands for progress he is in on, if it's a church, lodge or any organization which means the uplift, Ed Macon spares neither time nor money tohe lp it on its way. For the first time in his career he struck Los Angeles last week and was lifted off his feet by the things he saw and the entertainment which was his and he did not hesitate to say so.

Macon Head of Compact Masons

Way back yonder in Kansas in Bill Matthews time we heard of the compact of York Masons; since that time we have not heard much of them but Macon brought the news that there are over three hundred thousand of them in this country and he forcefully stated his case.

OFFICER PROMOTED

In naming the Detective Sergeants who were promoted in our last issue we inadvently omitted the name of our good friend and supporter, R. F. Green and we are only too glad to chronicle the fact that he too received the merited promotion of Lieutenant with a star just as bright as any other.

SENATOR S. SHORTRIDGE FAILED IN DUTY, HIS VIEW

The following is a letter recpived by Mr. Luke last December:

UNITED STATES SENATE
Committee on the Judiciary
December 20, 1922.

Mr. Lucas C. Luke,
1220 Birch street,
Los Angeles, Calif.
My dear Friend:

I received your recent letter and enclosed newspaper clipping. I appreciate all you tell me concerning your condition and am only sorry that I am not in position to help you.

I scarcely need to add that I was greatly distressed over the temporary defeat of the Dyer Bill. I say temporary defeat because I think this bill or one along the same lines will ultimately be passed. My views are so well known that it is not necessary for me to add that I shall continue to favor such legislation believing as I do that it is constitutional and will help those who need help, who, whether black or white; are entitled to the equal protection of the laws.

With best wishes, I remain,
Yours sincerely,
SAMUEL M. SHORTRIDGE.

PUPILS' ANNUAL RECITAL

Mrs. Belle O'Neal and Monro Tucker

Product of the Youngest and Swiftest

Mrs. Belle O'Neal's Fourth Annual Pupils' Recital will be given Thursday Evening, March 8, 1923, at Hamilton M. E. Church, 18th and Naomi street, Rev. Beane, Pastor.

Come and hear the wonder 11-year old boy, Master Monro Tucker, play. This little boy contracted infantile paralysis when 6 months old, and has never walked like other little boys. But after studying the piano only two and one-half years with me, today he is a wonderful player.

Again I say, I wish those who attended the Piano Contest Tuesday, February 13, Zion A. M. E. Church, to know that ANNA LOUISE JACKSON, who opened the program with such beautiful stage deportment, poise, time, technique and rythm, is one of my pupils. Come out and be surprised by this class of wonderful piano players for so short a time.

Program: 8:15. Admission 35c.

RAINBOW MUSICAL Club Recital

Last Friday, February 16th at Social Hall on Waverley Drive, a music and literary program was given by the Rainbow Musical Club, composed of a set of young folk of musical talent who made their initial public appearance. The object of this club as announced by their president Mr. Elwood Hunter is to give etter-entertainment among Negroes. A full house greeted them in this attempt to demonstrate to the public what they were trying to do in a musical and literary way. Mrs. Phelps, the wife of our popular young druggist acted as Mistress of Ceremonies who in her introductory remarks gave encouraging words to the young participants, commending them for this initiatory move urging them to continue to perfection. This organization has been under preparation some time, playing at the different churches and fraternal organizations but never before have they had a public recital. The occasion of this entertainment was in memory of Geo. Washington the father of our land and Abraham Lincoln, the Emancipator. The hall was tastily decorated with flags and in either side of the room were the portraits of Lincoln and Washington around which were draped the national colors all of which lent patriotism and enthusiasm to the affair. In the rear of the room was an improvised stage where sat the musicians and speakers who when the time came for the opening broke forth with the strains of "Star Spangled Banner," the audience joining them in singing. The program consisted of the following numbers all of which were most wonderfully enjoyed by the audience.

Rosebuds ..... Orchestra
The Character of Geo. Washington ..... Elwood Hunter
Mr. Vernon Bills Orchestra
Vocal Solo ..... Dave Jarves
5th Noctune—Piano Solo ..... Miss B. Banks
INTERMISSION
Talk on Purpose of Club ..... Elwood Hunter, Pres.
Our Boys ..... Orchestra
Call Me Back—Solo ..... Dave James
Lincoln's Gettysburg Address ..... S. Banks
Life of Abraham Lincoln ..... Adrian Hunter
Mighty Like a Rose—Saxaphone and Clarinet Solo ..... S. Banks and S. Hunter—Miss Banks at Piano
Address on Lincoln ..... D. Bostick
Dying Poet—Piano Solo ..... Miss F. James
America ..... Orchestra

The program as a whole was one of the best ever rendered in Pasadena by young folk, full of inspiration and enthusiasm. The addresses were par excellence coming as they were from the tongues of young men who had given much time and study in getting authentic facts concerning the life of the great statesmen. They conducted themselves manfully and we bespeak for them bountiful success along the line of oratory should they continue in paths already chosen. Upon the piano was a scene depicting the name of club, drawn by Miss Naomi Hunter. The picture is beautifully painted in colors of the rainbow which shows the art cropping out in no small degree in the mind and hand of Miss Hunter.

Miss Banks who presided at the piano, and her brother, Solomon Banks, are High School students and both are very adept in the handling of the piano and clarinet respectively. We make especial mention of the oration by Adrian Hunter on Life of Abe Lincoln which was a masterpiece well delivered and forcefully enunciated the fine points in the life of that noble man who with one stroke of the pen freed a million slaves and set the world upon a new plan and threw the Negro out to meet the inevitable until now he can sound the praises of a friend whom he shall never forget. Mr. Dave James an embryo on the horizon of singing did remarkably well. Miss Fredrica James, his sister, without a doubt demonstrated her ability as an artist. The saxaphones played by Wm. O. Solomon, Jr. and Shirley Hunter, added appreciative volume to the orchestral music and we expect of them a bright future. After the program all present gave the young folk a hearty hand shake and Good speed and asked them for a return engagement.

COLONEL YOUNG MEMORIAL

The Lambda Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity in co-operation with the N. A. A. C. P. will observe the Col. Charles Young Memorial Day, March 11, at the A. M. E. Zion Church, corner Pico and Paloma, at 3:00 p. m.

A galaxy of songs appropriately arranged for the occasion, the public appearance of celebrities, and declamations by college men, brothers of the late Col. Young, will color the programme with animation and absorbing interest.

A complete announcement, including program, will appear in next week's edition of the Eagle.

THE BYSTANDER

By L. K. Beeks.

A RARE TREAT

In a calm, suave and scholarly manner Dr. Du Bois, the fearless champion of civil rights, discussed "The Negro In a Wounded World." The speaker was in a happy but serious mood; and his subject, deeply interesting, with a most sympathetic back ground, had its appeal and scored its mark.

Everyone present knew from imagination, narration or self experience that dread and horror of the world war—it was a universal cord. As the speaker skilfully tugged at this string with touches true and certain the commendable audience sat in silent approval which occasionally burst forth. It was a treat. The wealth of study, the result of refinement and culture, long research with first hand information were the returns for those who heard this lecture.

MUSICC

The writer would feel decidedly impotent and guilty of infidelity if he failed to mention the masterful playing of Mr. Atwell Rose and the sweet, vibrant singing of Miss Leonidas Simmons. The work of these young artists, sparkling, full of tone and color brightened and cheered every one present. It demonstrates that art does not know color; it responds to concentration and labor.

FRATERNITIES

Welcome to the Alpha Phi Alpha and Omega fraternities. These bind our student life and activities to those of the East. It is stretching hands across the continent. These organizations when properly conducted promote better scholarship, foster higher moral and social ideas. Here young men are schooled for life in conducting the political, financial and social affairs of their fraternity. The writer was a member of a fraternity five years and considers such association of inestimable value. May the young men here take full advantage of this opportunity and through friendly competition and rivalry raise the standard of manhood and usefulness among colored students.

POLITICAL POT PIE

The Committee sent out by the Forum for the purpose of getting concerted action on a candidate for the City Council and presenting said candidate to the electorate of this city and expecting a strong support for him in return for their continued loyalty to all other groups is in a fair way to bring things to pass. A big mass meeting will be held during the coming week, every man who has any aspirations along that line is asked to submit his case and the candidate receiving a majority vote will be the candidate for the concentrated effort to nominate and elect.

Our pie maker got the dough mixed up wrong in this column last week, when he put Mr. C. Weickman in the Congressional race, instead of in the race for the city council, however it was no reflection but rather a compliment. Mr. Weickman will be a strong contender for one of the new members to be elected to the Council in the coming city campaign.

Titus Alexander among many other endorsements for the City Council has received the endorsement of the Interdenominational Ministers' Alliance.

Bert Farmer's boom for Mayor appeared again on the scene of action during the week along with another dark horse, who came forth to do battle against Mayor Cryer.

Mrs. C. A. Bass has been appointed as a member of the Tenth Congressional Central Committee.

They say that the uplift Association is taking up the political situation and that there is a rattling of dry bones every Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Noah D. Thompson has been mentioned as high class councilmanic timber.

Gods and Men.

The white man has taught us
For centuries old
Of a great and infinite God.
Who out of the dust of earth did mould
Man, with an immortal soul;
And when this God of the Sun and the Sea,
Beheld the work of His hand,
He said to Himself,
(For there was no one else)
"What manner of man will he be?"

He knew all the time
That man's finite mind
Could never discover the mould;
That his earthly eyes
Would never devise
The shape and size of a soul;
And the white man has said
To men, black and red,
That God is as white as the snow;
Still eye hath not seen,
Ear hath not heard
Whether God is blue, black
Red or green

He may be as white as the drifting snow.
As pure as a lilly unfurled.
But there is one sad mistak:
Which all white men make
When they say,
A white man made this world.
Now I am not a prophet,
Neither priest nor saint,
But somehow I think for myself,
And this thought comes just now,
That if all men must bow,
Let it be without force and constraint.

God
The Indian knew none,
Save his great God the sun,
Whom he reverenced by night and by day;
So when famine and fever
And pestilence stalked,
How the tribesmen fell this and that way;
E'en as the pestilence ravaged by night
And the tribesmen's blood grew cold,
Each uttered a prayer
To the God of the air;
For they knew not that they had a soul

With faces uplifted, hands outstretched,
Their suppliant voices did thrill
The caves of the winds in the mountains,
And each echo was heard
Like the trill of a bird,
Then suddenly all else grew still;
All else save the voice of the tribe's great chief,
Though wrinkled yet stalwart and bold,
Who believed in no power but Manito's
The invisible God of their fold.

"Gitche Manito, the mighty,
Thou infinite God of the Sun,
Send food, send rain, send harvest,
Ere the days of the winter are done."
This prayer o'er the mountain tops echoed,
And the tribesmen all danced as they sang,
Every warrior, great, bold, the young and the old,
Round the red blazing fire at night
Gitche manito thrice cheered,
In their shouts wild and weird,
Gitche Manito the Indian God of right.

Name the bigger light,
And how the less
The white man had taught him to do;
Two lights, though they burn by day and by night,
Yet had they proven untrue;
Poor Indian
Believed all the white God had said,
While Indian children were crying for bread,
Believed for the author was white not red;
So they turned once again to the God of their tribe,
Who knew not the Pharisee nor the scribe;
The Jew, the Gentile, Mohamed are one,
Mohamed loves Allah the Indian the sun
Gitche Manito, the Indian God of
The African knows one,
Not the great White God
Nor the God of the Sun,
But Islam, the God of the black man,
Who carries neither pistol nor gun,
No compromise even with pagans,
He speaks to the human heart
Demands more than prayer and fasting,
Islam wipes every spot off the sun.

King Radama of Antananarivo,
With the innocence that invests the child,
The blameless octogenarian,
Lost his kingdom by missionary guile,
Not until he had made this proviso,
And closed it with Kingly seal
Saying "send a few missionaries,
Be they skillful in what they do,
My people must learn to be workmen
Quite as important as that they kneel.

This proviso was loyally adhered to,
And many a useful art
Is found to-day on the island,
A Bible translated in part,
But the edict of queen, Ranavalona,
Was more than the King's mild decree
It revoked what Radama had granted,
And from white domination they're free.
The heart of the pale Anglo-Saxon,
Craves deference, power and ease,
And he wants to be King, Lord and Master,
At home, abroad, on the seas,
Uncheckde by the bonds of duty,
Unconstrained by established law,
His chief sport is race subjugation,
The imperishable speciman of war.

O Islam, thou God of Ethopia,
In plenitude now of Thy power,
Push onward the cause of Ethiopia,
While at thy shrine, Morimo, we bow
Believing that through you our victories are won,
This decadent God of the white man,
Is the fortress opposing all truth,
Lies unmitigated, succeeding,
In face of Naomi and Ruth.

O Islam! O Bible! O Koran!
Druid's temples and open sky,
Make bare thy pages for reading
Ere the black man proves the lie;
Offend not the God of our fathers,
Islam was good in the past,
If the new civilization unmade you,
Backward march for Islam's recast;
'Twas his mould that shaped you for power,
And gave you a status with men,
The white God will never adopt you,
Though you're washed without, within.

Every tribe has it's God supernal,
Superstition and fetish abound
Hold fast the traditional notion—
Again you will wear the crown—
Ah! that bulk of unwritten tradition
Salutations, songs, fables, proverbs,
Richer than the Greek Septuagent. ...
Morimo speaks, have you heard?

The idea of Islam, however,
Is clear in the ancient songs,
Though the customs and tribal traditions
Grow dimmer and dimmer along
With passing generation—
Who have strayed from Unkulunkulu,
Still a few are toiling, impassioned,
Just waiting to give you the clue.

COUGH DEMANDS TUBERCULOSIS TEST

By: DR. E. B. LEWIS, B. Sc., M. D.
1618½ EAST 9TH STREET

To paraphrase a well-known saying: a cough stopped in time saves nine. Few mortal men fear one cough, and almost as many do not fear any number of coughs. Nevertheless, if you will fear coughs in the mediaeval sense of the biblical admonition to fear God which means to have a wholesome understanding and regard for power interwoven there — you will avoid much evil.

When you are admonished to visit a diagnostician or a hospital "for a tuberculosis test," the fear that strikes your heart cold is almost altogether uncalled for. The advice is good and necessary for almost all coughs- other than whooping cough in children—that endure more than two weeks. This holds true as well for summer coughs as for those of January, February and March.

As an illustration, let me quote a young man in the twenties who fell ill on a hot day with "slight cold" as he and his friends expressed it. He coughed in various ways—there is no constantly characteristic cough of tuberculosis, bronchitis, laryngitis or pneumonia by day and by night. Wise busybodies who met him, a merchant, a money king, an editor, and a clergyman, told him by turns that he had a "stomach cough," a nervous cough," a "cigarette cough." Each meant well. But error often kills despite good intentions. Moreover, there are no such things as "stomach," "cigarette," and "pervous" coughs. These are easy-going terms of ignorance, laziness or quackery. This individual suffered from his cough for two or three weeks before he met a physician who did not jump at conclusions. He was neither incapable, ignorant nor lazy. He went to the trouble and took the time thoroughly to search the whole machine called "his patient."

By means of the various "adjunct senses" called instruments of precision, this conscientious doctor after an hour's search found that his patient had the first signs of tuberculosis. The young man, to be sure, for the time was very much frightened. But the doctor had found the real cause of his trouble in time, and he was made well.

Most coughs are not tuberculosis. Many of them pass into the limbo of memory within two weeks or so. Only when they persist, when they are accompanied by loss of weight, when you and your friends begin to get on terms of contempt and familiarity with a cough, has the danger progressed to serious proportions.

Obviously, it is wise to anticipate this by a thorough search for, and an insurance against just such contingency. To listen to, and to follow the advice of every Tom, Dick and Harry you meet is like relying on a sieve to transfer water to or from a reservoir. Only by going to a competent physician and permitting hmi to make a thorough examination, and then by following his advice can you hope to win the well being you desire.

Dr. Lewis will answer questions for readers of this paper on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects, that are of general interest to the public. He cannot always undertake to prescribe or offer advice for individual cases. When the subject is not of general interest, letters will be answered personally, if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. E. B. Lewis, 1618 1-2 9th Street. MEXICAN ANTI-NEGRO PROPAGANDA EXPOSED

WHITE OIL INTERESTS ALARMED AT ACQUISITION OF MEXICO OIL LANDS BY NEGRO SYNDICATES.

MEXICO BARS COLORED FOLKS

NEGRO COLONISTS HELD AS UNDESIRABLE

Mexico City, Feb. 7.—Colored colonists are not wanted in Mexico is the notice which the department of the interior has sent to all customs houses on the border, ordering the strictest vigilance to prevent colored persons from entering Mexico.

Several months ago, President Obregon said that he was no respecter of country or race on the question of immigration, provided that the people were moral and likely to become good citizens. In the same interview he asserted that colored people were not good prospective colonists on account of the ethnic problem.

Mexico already has the problem of assimilating vast bodies of native Indians, and the president felt that it would not be wise to increase the complexity of the question.

Talk for weeks past of extensive colored immigration to Mexico set the executive wheels in motion to prevent American colored people from turning their faces toward Mexico.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service)

☛ The above Propaganda was recently published in leading dailies.

MEXICO CITY, MEXICO, FEB. .....—Alarmed at the headway being made by the colored people of the United States in acquiring vast land holdings in Mexico, and the migration of thousands of colored farmers to the Mexican Republic; the white oil interests thru their press agency, the Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service, is sending out propaganda to the daily papers stating that colored colonists are not wanted in Mexico, and that Pres. Obregon objected to the colored people upon the grounds that they were not good prospective colonists on account of "the ethnic problem."

The opposition of the oil interests is chiefly against permitting the colored people to colonize in the Tampico and San Luis Potosi districts, which are in the heart of the Mexican oil belt.

On January 25 a colony of Oklahoma colored people started for San Luis Potosi, in the heart of tropical Mexico. Other colonies have gone to the Santa Clara Valley district on the west coast of Mexico about 200 miles below Los Angeles, Calif. In this district the Lower California & Development Co. of Los Angeles, a Negro Corporation, owns and controls a vast estate of over 5,000 acres of valuable farming, mining and oil lands.

In spite of the opposition of the oil interests, this movement to open up the fertile valleys of Lower California to the colored people, has the hearty support of not only Pres. Obregon but of the Mexican Government as a whole, the Chamber of Commerce of San Diego and Los Angeles, California, and other influential interests.

PRES. OBREGON MEETS NEGRO DELEGATION

In July 1922 Pres. Obregon met a delegation of 22 colored citizens of the United States headed by Atty. Hugh Macbeth of Los Angeles, and Mr. J. B. Key of Okmulgee, Okla., and stated in person to them, "That Mexico has no color line and the Mexican Constitution forbids Race distinction on the ground of race, color, creed or degree of wealth."

At Ensenada, Mexico, the delegation was welcomed by the Mayor who said: "Mexico offers the greatest opportunity and future to any people on the face of the earth. We are inviting the American Negro to come and cast his lot with us, not because we know that he is mistreated, and unjustly dealt with in his own land, but because we believe that in the development of commerce, agriculture, and trade in our own country, he will be fair enough to take some and leave some and not try to take all as some Americans have done in the past."

ENTERTAINS DELEGATION IN CAPITAL

Pres. Obregon received the colored delegation cordially at the "Mexican White House" and promised his support and that of that of the Government to any legitimate colonization movement that would bring a desirable element of American Negroes into Mexico. He was especially interested in the colonization plans outlined by the Lower California Land & Development Co. in building up the fertile valleys of the district adjacent to the great Mexican Pacific seaport, Ensenada, 60 miles by auto from San Diego, California.

CAPITALISM CANNOT RECUPERATE

SO SAYS H. G. WELLS, BACKING WALLAS

(Crusader Service)

LONDON, Feb. 23. British intellectuals apparently agree that modern civilization is doomed.

H. G. Wells, reviewing Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Webb's book, "The Decay of Capitalist Civilization," declares in the Daily Herald, "I now realize the stupendous instability of the Western world. The system is breaking up. It has neither recuperative nor reconstructive power."

Mr. and Mrs. Webb in their book wrote: "Capitalism will die by violence and civilization will perish with it from exhaustion."

Frederick Harrison, the patriarch of English publicists, who died last month at the age of 92, said in a letter written just before his death: "Every board in civilization is creaking. The British Empire is melting away, just like the Roman in the year 3 00, and from the same causes."

Professor Graham Wallas, in the accompanying statement, says, "The material world is falling in ruins."

THE AMERICAN WOODMEN OBSERVE LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

The Alpha Grand Lodge Hall at the corner of Washington and Central Avenue was filled to capacity last Thursday evening when the Los Angeles camp No. 1 of the American Woodmen met to celebrate Lincoln's Birthday. The programme which had previously been postponed because of inclement weather was fittingly observed and consisted of a well written and nicely delivered paper on the Life of Lincoln by Mrs. Lillian Mae Williams, and splendid addresses delivered by Mr. S. B. May and Rev. L. M. Mitchell. Commander of the camp, interspersed with several musical selections.

Before the programme began, two new members were obligated into the order. Following the programme refreshments were served and everyone went away having thoroughly enjoyed the festivities.

The State Supervisor, Mr. B. Harrison Graham announces that two more new camps are now being organized to accomodate the fast growing membership which now numbers nearly four hundred, and a membership campaign which would be announced through the press.

RED CROSS HEAD ABSOLVES TURKS OF ATROCITY CHARGE

(Crusader Service)

Col. William N. Haskell, new head of the Red Cross, expressed some vigorous and unconventional opinions on the Near East situation today.

"It's about time for the Armenians and Greeks to go back to Asia Minor and swear allegiance to Turkey, accept military service and become good Turks," he declared. "They have taken Allied and American warships to Greece and now most of them want to return. It is only fanatics who would not let them do so."

With other observers he visited Armenian and Greek orphan asylums financed by American organizations. In them were children with one or both parents still alive. He said that he wanted to get these children back to their parents but the asylum officials prevented it. He found entirely too much missionary spirit and not enough constructive relief throughout the district.

His observations do not coincide at all with the picture drawn by the churches in the United States. He said that he saw no cases of terrible atrocities by Turks. He found no American girls forced into harems and could see no clear case of "Christian versus barbarian."

MARTINIQUE WORKERS BATTLE POLICE

Several Cane Cutters Killed—Governor Sends Soldiers to the Scene.

(Crusader Service)

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Feb 23.—Striking sugar cane cutters were in conflict with gendarmes near Passigrac yesterday. The police precipitated a short but fierce struggle by opening fire on the meeting of the strikers where the question of wages was discussed. Several of the strikers were wounded and others killed. The Governor has sent reinforcements of soldiers and marines to help the local authorities break the strikers against the sugar magnates.

BAY DISTRICT BRIEFS

By Mrs. E. J. Layne.

Santa Monica is being populated with some of the best families of California. So much so that they can't find houses to live in. Most every day we meet some one looking for a house and their cry is, "We like Santa Monica and want to live here if we could only find a house." So it behooves the property owners to get busy and build more homes.

Among the Churches

Calvary Baptist is taking new activity and their Slogan is "Out of debt and over the Top, by the third Sunday in March." The Masonic Temple has opened wide her doors and the A. M. E. Church will hold their services there until they build. Rev. Simpson is the pastor. The First Baptist of Venice is having house to house prayer service each Wednesday afternoon and is doing much good.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Dudley are all smiles over the little stranger that recently came into their home. A little Miss Dudley.

We are indeed very, very proud to note that two of our Bay District girls won the first and second prizes of the Piano contest on last Tuesday evening, February 13th.. Miss McGill, the winner of the 1st prize from age up to 12 years and Miss Bernice Stout, the winner of the second prize from 12 years to 18 years. We hope some day to see them among the foremost artists of the world.

Mr. Arthur Burks, Alden Prudome, Verne Brunson and Elmer Layne entered the Santa Monica High School Monday, February 12th. The Philomathian L. A. S. Club met at the residence of Mrs. E. Linley Friday, Feb. 16th. A short business meeting was carried on and the program planned for the ensuing year.

The funeral services of Miss Willie Mae Gordon was held from Todds funeral parlors, February 20th. Rev. Jones of the Calvary Baptist and Rev. Parham of Phillips Chapel officiating. Interment in Santa Monica.

FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH, DUARTE
William Prince, Pastor.

We had three fine services on the last Lord's Day. The Pastor preached both morning and evening. At three p. m. the Women's Mite Missionary Society had a great meeting.

Representatives from the First A. M. E. Church of Pasadena and the Second Baptist Church, and Zion A. M. E. Church of Monrovia were present. Several interesting addresses were given on home and foreign missionray work.

We failed to mention Mrs. Blanche Hurst who delighted our congregation with a beautiful solo on last Sunday morning.

WATTS NEWS

Miss Grace Owens, of Watts, was recently united in marriage to Mr. Hooker. The young couple have taken up their abode in a pretty home on Manhattan Street. A host of friends wish them happiness.

Rev. Patrick brought his revival to a highly successful close last Sunday night. Many souls were brought to Christ through his zeal and eloquence.

Mrs. Sid Garner, of Thaxter Street, is confined to her bed with a severe cold.

Mrs. Smith, of Thaxter Street, whose recent illness was so severe that she had to be removed to the hospital is now improving rapidly.

The recently given sacred concert at the A. M. E. Church was an artistic treat.

The members of Rev. Fleming's church gave a most enjoyable social on Friday evening, February 23rd.

Mr. Laving has sold his home on Ruby Street; at the same time, Mr. Sauders has purchased property on Astor Street.

The Country Club Needle Workers had a pleasant meeting on Friday, February 23rd, at the home of Mrs. Lane on Manhattan Street.

CURSE OF THE COLLORED MAN

By: N. Clement

My God! My God! How can it be
That such a curse was placed on me!
Over our dear land, for ages back
The curse is on: The man that's black!

I've seen him fight the terrible Hun,
Facing death, like it was fun,
Never flinching, always true
The strong arm of the red, white and blue.

But since he's back in his own land—
Every crime that comes to hand,
No matter where the guilt lies....
To please the public—a Negro dies!

Eleven men in Georgia State,
By one cruel monster, met their fate.
Texas and Oklahoma, too,
Boast of the lynching their people do.

But since our boys came back from France,
They are striking back at every chance;
They are mowing them down like they are weeds—
The medicine that the white man needs.

In East St. Louis, Illinois,
A crowd of ruffians met our boys;
In a very short time, the papers read,
The ground was filled with Caucasian dead.

Now, I'm no fighter, but 'tis true
There is only one thing we can do;
The only way that I can see:
If I don't get him -he'll sure get me!

And when I've done my very best,
I'll trust in God -he'll do the rest.
I'll say, while steering down the track;
"Thanks be to God—my color's Black!"

GAPING FORESTLAND

By Wendell P. Gladden, Jr.

VIII.

Anelo and her guides arrived at Leopard's Lair and found to their great pleasure that they had beaten the excavation party. They approached the chief guard of the entrapped beasts, questioning him in regard to Jamba's plans.

The guard looked surprised. "I thought that Mantuba was leading the procession."

"Mantuba is ill. Jamba persuaded him to let him direct the expedition."

"I know nothing of this. The chief notified me only a few days ago of the party that would enter the buried city of our fathers."

"Are you certain that none of the other guards have been informed to release some of the animals as the men go by in order to instill fear into them and thus prevent the successful excavation?"

"Yes. I have taken every precaution against any of the party taking the wrong trail which may lead to their death."

Anelo stated that this morning had been given to Jamba who lay ill at her home. The guard assured her that there was no cause of alarm.

Leaving one of the guards at the big gate, Anelo followed the head guard, inspecting the dens where many animals typical to that and other sections of Africa, were to be seen resting lazily or pacing restlessly the soft grass covered floor of their man-made abodes.

Tigers, leopards, lions and lionesses, panthers, monkeys and gorillas all moved ceaselessly, yawning, lounging, nibbling, playing; yet, robbed of the freedom of that primitive land where they were wont to roam almost undisturbed. Occasionally, there was a long, loud roaring of one of the masters of the forest, the lion. Elephants wobbled a few paces, only to turn slowly at the end of their course. A leopard stopped in his even, circular journeyings and stared fiercely at the woman who watched beside the giant gate. The piercing gaze seemed to go through her, and thrill her.

"Why do you [illegible] things here?" [illegible] fiercely.

"It is Jamba's will. There is a secret trail just beyond this place which leads to the city. No foreign people shall ever enter without his permission. We have only to open the huge doors yonder and all intruders will be destroyed." Thus the guard told briefly the reason of the awaiting, lingering, certain death of Leopard's Lair and the mysteries which the powerful chief held for the ancient city.

"Do you not remember me, daughter? I am Bakwa. I was taken from the home of your father, the missionary, years ago when you were quite small."

"Yes," Anelo said, "I do remember you. Father wrote me while I was abroad that you were sent to America to be educated. Why did you not go?"

"Mantuba would not let me. He liked me very much and entrusted big things to me."

They were returning to the entrance. "May we depend on you to help us in the event of trouble?" The man looked at Anelo, snuffing his assurance.

A native rushed up to Bakwa, sweating, and said to him in short breaths, the message of Jamba.

"No, I can not do his bidding," said the guard. "The idea seems foolish to me. This young man Contier can mean no harm by delving into the past history of ancient Africa."

"But it is the father's wish that the plan be carried out," replied the courier, still panting.

Bakwa stood perplexed.

TO BE CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.

STARTS NEW PLAY

By the Reporter

"The Temple of Flame" is the name of the new play that the members of the Young People's Lyceum have begun rehearsing. Some of those who are taking part are Addie Hutchinson, Theodore Oliver Eddie Williams, Elinora Beavers, Faustina Scott, Leon Whataker Ruth Ballus, Charles Diggs, Edith Smith and Wilayn Stovall.

You should have attended the last meeting of the Lyceum. At least you must attend the meeting next Tuesday; that is if you want to spend an enjoyable evening.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Much progress was made last week in the annual campaign for new members. In the Primaries Jesse Kimbrough and Rev. Mitchell are leading for the city council; while Mr. J. T. Ambrose is leading Dr. A. D. Bowers by a small margin.

All members of the Membership Campaign Committee are requested to be present at the Men's Sunday Afternoon Mass Meeting, when the different candidates will address the meeting. We are arranging for some splendid singing and instrumental numbers. Come and bring your friends.

On Saturday night the Hi Y heavyweight backet-ball team will journey over to Pasadena to trounce the Hi-Y team there. The game will be played in the Pasadena Y. M. C. A. gym. 124 N. Marengo. This is the annual basketball classic between the old rivals.

9th Street Branch has been instrumental in organizing what will be known as The Inter-Sunday School Athletic League. As the name implies, teams will be made from various Sunday School groups throughout the city. Unlimited competition will be afforded in indoor base-ball, swimming, handball, and track events. Sunday School Superintendents are urged to aid in the league.

HOWARD'S CAMPAIGN

HOWARD STARTS INTENSIVE CAMPAIGN FOR MEDICAL SCHOOL ENDOWMENT.

Howard University has entered upon the most intensive part of its campaign to obtain $250,000.00 that it may claim the conditional gift of a like sum offered by the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller. This Board has agreed to give the School of Medicine of The Howard University, as an endowment, the sum of $250,000.00 provided an equal amount for a like purpose is obtained by July 1st of this year.

In making this offer the General Education Board was influenced by the fact that the School of Medicine is in danger of losing its standing as a Class A School. The American Medical Association now requires that all Schools of Medicine of Class A standing have an independent income of at least $25,000.00 over and above fees to provide for research, experimental purposes, etc. To meet this situation, it is necessary that there be an endowment of not less than $500,000.00. After a most rigid examination of the work being done by, and of the great need for, the School of Medicine of The Howard University, the General Education Board decided to assist in the endowment of the school by offering a conditional gift.

Such aid as is given by the Government cannot be applied to meet this necessity. It is given yearly, after great discussion, is not obligatory upon the part of the government, and its use is specified. That which can be applied to running expenses of the School of Medicine covers only about one tenth of the amount needed.

Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, President of the Howard University said, in connection with this phase of the offer: "Should the School of Medicine of this University lose its Class A standing it will have a more serious effect than many at first realize. Many states now require graduation from a Class A Medical School before permission is granted applicants for license to practice to even take the State Board examinations. What this means to 12,000,000 people in this country can easily be seen when we stop to think that the too few medical men now practicing will have a decreasing instead of increasing number of men to take their places when their work is over, the ministering to the needs of a constantly increasing population. This applies to Dentists, Druggists, and Trained Nurses as well as Physicians. All four classes are cared for under the direction of the School of Medicine of Howard. Already we have been forced to limit the number of entering students in each Department to fifty. This action was more than unpleasant. It meant the turning away of over 200 men eager to fit themselves for service. But it was a physical impossibility to take care of them and properly train them all."

The opening gun in the intensive campaign of the School of Medicine of Howard University was fired Wednesday evening, February 7th at a meeting in the New Dining Hall of the University. About forty of the most prominent Physicians of the city and their wives attended and laid the plans of solicitation in the City of Washington. Dr. William C. McNeill of 1423 T St., N. W., the Chairman of the Washington campaign presided.

The campaign itself opened officially Friday evening February 9th when the same group met for final instructions, supplies, etc. They met with about 130 students now in the School of Medicine, who have volunteered to assist them in the solicitation of the various districts of the city. Thus for almost a week there will be a total of 200 men and women who will seek the assistance of the people of Washington in an effort to save the standing of the School of Medicine of the University. The campaign will close officially on Thursday, February 15th.

About $65,000.00 has already been secured in cash and pledges from the Trustees, Faculty, Administrative body, Students, and a number of Alumni and friends of the University. This leaves $185,000.00 to be raised by July 1st. next. It is planned to put on campaigns in whatever cities time will permit before appealing to the wealthy men and philanthropists of the United States for the balance. This will be done through a nucleus of graduates of the School of Medicine in the various cities, who will rally to their support all friends of The Howard University and higher education in general.

Experts in campaign work are agreed that experience has proven that the wealthy and philanthropically inclined will extend their help much more readily when those who are to receive the benefit of their gifts show a hearty measure of co-operation by themselves contributing according to their financial ability. So pronounced has this tendency become, that practically all large scale giving is now being conducted on this basis, as witnesse by the Harkness gift of $10,000,00for this endowment fund secured by Dr. Scott, Secretary-Treasurer of the University.

BOOK CHAT

By Mary White Ovington, Chairman, Board of Directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Africa and the Discovery of America." Volume 2. By Lea Wiener, Published by Messrs. Innes and Company, Philadelphia, Pa. Price $50.00 Postpaid.

This is the second part of a work to be completed in three volumes; its thesis is a new one; that Negroes from Africa visited America before Columbus and left their mark here. This second volume concerns itself with evidences in America of African civilization as seen in the introduction of cotton, tobacco and shell money.

I wish that I might be able clearly to present Prof. Wiener's argument, but this is impossible because this very learned scholar cannot present it clearly himself. His book is for experts who can disentangle salient facts from a mass of evidence, a mass that shows a learning prodigious in its scope. Leo Wiener is professor of Slavic Languages at Harvard University; and in his first volume, he related his discovery of African influence in America. While working on a comparative grammar of American languages, he came upon a number of words that study told him were corruptions of adapations of words used by the Negroes in Africa especially by the Mandingoes. In this second volume he tells especially of material signs of African influences. There can be little doubt that in some things African influence was exerted before Columbus. Probably the Mandingoes first reached America in the middle of the fifteenth century, with the Portuguese voyageurs. The Mandingoes were a sturdy tribe, and if we look on the map we can see that the trip from Western Africa to Northern South America was not an impossible one, though it must have required immense courage to take it in a canoe. I remember reading in Norway the open boat like a large dory, in which the Norsemen is reputed to have made his early discovery of North America. At least the African came over milder waters.

That they did come Professor Wiener does not doubt. He shows us, among other things, two pictures, one of an African, agother of an Indian, stockade. There is indeed an extraordinary similarity between the two. One is reminded of the interesting chapters in Brawley's "Social History of the Negro" concerning the close Association of Negro and Indian in this country. Wiener has a great deal to say about tobacco, relating the story of nicotine from very ancient days to the sixteenth century. It was brought by the Arabs to the Negroes and they in turn brought it to the Indians, "possibly a century before America's so-called discovery." At first tobacco was used only by the priests in their rites. In the wampum with which the Indians first traded with the Americans, we again see an African origin. And lest the African become too puffed up with pride at this precedence he would note that Prof. Wiener finds that he got his civilization from the Arabs, those marvallous folk who have been consistently maligned by the Christians through the centuries to today.

I have spoken of the learning evinced in this book. I counted in the word index references to 12 European and 9 Asiatic languages, to 13 American and 33 African dialects, and then stopped, not through, only tired. One of my friends who is a historian tells me, that it is dangerous to base historical research on seeming similarity of language and that Wiener is looked upon as somewhat hasty in so doing. He answers this criticism in his preface where he speaks of archaeologists who "insists upon denying all but the archaeological evidence and showers upon an objective investigator a veritable deluge of abuse." We are sympathetic with the "objective investigator" and trust the the Mandingoes did bring good things to this continent, when they came here of their own free will. When the evidence is more complete it will be an interesting story for colored children, that of these brave black sailors who dared to cross the Atlantic and who carried thither cotton and tobacco that their descendants, later unwillingly dragged here, were to plow and reap.

SON GOODRICH BEATS SAILOR LEE AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN. MACK HOUSE WINS OVER BATTLING JONES. BOY WONDER THERE ALSO WITH WIN.

Fight fans witnessed one of the best cards of the season at the Madison Square Garden on last Wednesday night, when some of the best topnotchers met to test their strength and skill in the manly art of pugilism.

From the sounding of the first gong to the end of the main event, followers of the game never lost interest, as each bout offered thrills and surprises.

Son Godorich, the "Texas Hurricane" beat Sailor Lee in the main event. Goodrich punished the sailor severely in the clinches and weakened him considerably. The sailor was game, however, and got in a few good ones. Son was very deliberate. During the last two rounds Sons in fighting began to roll on Lee, and it looked as if he would go down any second. His body was red from the terrific punches, yet, he held on. Had the fourth round lasted a few seconds longer, Son probably would have dealt the K. O. punch. Lee can be commended for his good sportsmanship during the encounter when Goodrich accidently tipped and fell.

In the semi-winding, Mack House won the decision over Battling Jones. This was a hard-hitting affair. Mack landed on Jones' chin, but failed to make him take the count. Jones drew blood from Mack with a stiff jab to the nose, and later struck him on his injured eye. Mack got going strong again, flooring his opponent, but the "Fighting Irishman" came back for more and got it. Mack missed several good ones when the bout ended both men were battling, but Mack was the more aggressive.

Frank Constantino got a draw with Young Sam Langford. The Scottish boy packed a heavy right, but could not use it effectively, because of Sam's cleverness. Sam displayed clever foot-work and was hard to hit.

Cyclone Williams put the K. O. punch on Black Mask. Although the Mask showed sterling fighting qualities, it was only a question of time before the old-timer was settle things.

Boy Wonder came back to the ring greeted with cheers. Wop Flynn was his opponent. Flynn was harder and heavier than Wonder, but he had his hands full when he met the Boy. It was a great exhibition of boxing. Wonder's tooth was loosened again in the fighting, but he was never in danber. In fact, he foreced the fighting almost throughout. He showed clever foot-work and generalship. At the end of the third Flynn began to slow, and could not even touch his opponent. Boy Wonder seemed unbeatable, and gave Wop a good lashing. The decision which Wonder got was well-earned and popular.

The curtain raiser by Red Perrison and Eddie Melody was a fast affair at first, but Melody's jabs told on Red. Melody was too fast for him. He punched almost at will. Red had a very hard right, although it did not bring him very good results.

Ted Frenchie did the referee act. Blackie Rice and Baby Gans were among those at the ringside.

SAM LANGFORD RETURNING AS WRESTLER

Sam Langford, the original, famous to night fans throughout the land, has turned wrestler and will display his wares before Los Angeles grappling fans Wednesday night, March 7, when he meets Roman, the powerful, in the Lyceum Club, 231 South Spring St.

This is "Tham's" first public appearance as a grappler. He has been faithfully draning and advance reports state that he is in fine shape. It will be a strange sight to see Langford rolling on the canvass. There are only a few fighters who have ever made "Tham" kiss the canvas.

As a fighter there are few who ever equalled him as a master of ringcraft. He has stamina and strength. The fans can look forward to a few laughs in the course of the match. Langford has never ceased to see the humerous side of anything, and he probably brings out many a laugh while wrestling.

Sam's advent as a wrestler must be classified before he can be taken seriously. Many believe that Sam can do a comeback to popular favor on the mat.

On the same night Jack Ross, the Brooklyn whirlwind and Sammy Sandow will meet Jack (Tiger) Mason.

Making Money

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toilsome savings of their daily wage. But I submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have reached a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.

Business requires your sole attention—Stocks mean sleepless nights and days of worry—Property works by itself for you without your care.
Select it—Set it to work—it takes care of itself and will take care of you.

A good example of this sort of investment is found in a few of my special listings as follows:

Seven room house, East 40th St., $4200.00; $1000.00 cash.
Five room house, corner Hooper Ave., $3950.00 $1000.00 cash.
Three rooms East 51st St., $1750.00; $500.00 cash.
Five room bungalow, Naomi St., $4200.00; $700.00 cash.

VAUDEVILLE ACT WORTH WHILE

There is no Colored singing act traveling over the circuit today that excells that of the Exposition Four. Such appeared here at Pantages Theatre a short time ago. The quartet is under the management of Mr. Exell Harris, old citizen of the late Rev. S. L. Harris. The latter never wanted his son to enter vaudeville, but after seeing that the young man was determined, he said to him, "If you will go into it, I want you to make good." And Exell Harris has made good. This quartette is in demand all over the East. Mr Harris is a young man with the courage to walk into any booking office and demand work, and they respect him for his courage, as same [illegible] backed up by a high class of musical talent and the ability to put over a good, clean act. Mr. Pantages want him to double right back over the circuit so pleased was he with the act.

Many social honors were shown the popular "four" while they were in Los Angeles.

CENTRAL AVENUE.

A few issues back we published an article headed, "What's the Matter with Central Avenue?" By a marshalling of facts and a review of accomplishment, the answer was apparent—Central Avenue is all right! This particular street is one of the thoroughfares of a great metropolitan city. The crowds, including all classes of people, flock to this street from all sections of this great state. In their natural wake, comes the same amount of vice which will seep into even the City of Zion, presided over by Overseer Dowie. The only reason that more crime is committed on this thoroughfare than any other (if such is the case) is that there are more people who pass and live on the same. For instance, on Spring and Broadway, Main Street and Hollywood Boulevard, crimes by the score are committed daily—but who would be so ignorant and malicious as t oseek to malign a thoroughfare simply because some crimes are committed under these circumstances?

Police botters show there is less crime in proportion among our particular group than any other. Our people are, as a rule, law-abiding, and crime is only committed by the vicious element that sifts into the community, as was said before, from all parts of the city. This is to be deplored, of course, and we advise these who have been maligning Central Avenue to keep their own vice (if they have any) away from Central Avenue and thereby help to make it a better street.

We were down on the border line of Mexico this week and in spite of the propaganda of the Chicago Tribune, we saw Negro colonists being welcomed across the border as prospective citizens of Mexico.

PENCIL PUSHERS WILL GET TOGETHER.

Responses to our suggestion to organize a Pacific Coast Press Association have been very flattering indeed. Fully ninety percent of the Race papers published on the Pacific Coast have answered favorably. Accordingly, a call will be issued for the publishers and all correspondents of Race papers on the Pacific Coast to gather in Oakland, California, this month, for the purpose of launching such na organization. When the press really gets together, along with a united ministry, great things for progress will begin to happen on these Western shores.

THE COLOR LINE.

Over in Europe the propaganda goes forth, according to the white press, that dark days are at hand, now that France is sending her Colored troops into the Ruhr. We opine, however, that despite the inference and effort to establish race prejudice more firmly in Europe, before the thing is over, black troops will be welcomed in the end.

DELIVERS LECTURE OF SIGNIFICANCE TO THE NEGRO

"THE BLACK MAN IN THE WOUNDED WORLD."

By: D. L. MITCHELL

Dr. W. E. Burghardt DuBBois, scholar, writer, indefatigable fighter for inter-racial justice, spoke before a large and responsive audience at Trinity Auditorium on Monday night, February 26th. The subject of his discourse was the "The Black Man in the Wounded World."

Rr. DuBois began with mention of the fact that ten years have passed since he last visited the Pacific Coast—ten years fraught with epochal events in the world's political and economic history. He then pointed out, with great force and clarity, the conclusion to which the trend of these events so saliently points, namely, that the existing hatred and strife between races and nations is not based fundamentally upon whim or prejudice. The basic causes are purely economic. The world's workers, the masses of peoples, black, white and yellow, are but pawns in the far-reaching fingers of imperialistic statesmen and rulers. They, in turn, are showed hither and thither on the great chessboard by the Masters of Capital, who control the earth's natural resources, and control the masses of men—that is, the labor wherewith to exploit these resources.

The speaker then gave his audience a resume, masterly in its terseness and vividness, of the World War year by year, from 1914 to 1918.

"..... It is well to review these events," Dr. DuBois continued, "but, in addition to these well-known facts, another stands out clearly: namely, that in this war was discovered a curious world-unity. Early in the war, the consensus of opinion among Colored peoples was: 'If the white people wish to fight—let them fight. We are outside of it.' In truth, we were not outside. Had we been, we could not have remained outside. We were a part of that mighty conflict. We were in almost every phase of it.

"First, let us consider France. The French Republic wields political authority over 43,000,000 Colored people 20,000,000 blacks, 23,000,000 Asiatics. Of these, 1,000,000 came to France in the war. Of that million, some 700,000 came as soldiers. One hundred twenty-five thousand were full-blooded Negroes from Central Africa. These men came with heart-searching on their part, and on the part of France. Men said: We must not bring Africa into this war. Economic conditions in French Africa will be disorganized. New, strange, and dangerous ideas will be put into the heads of these black men.

"Therefore, in spite of the dire need of troops, the number of Africans enlisted was kept down by law, and it was confidently believed that in a short while it would not be necessary to have more than 50,000.

"At the first battle of the Marne, these African units were hurled against the German forces—as shock troops: men almost without arms, men knowing little of modern "civilized" warfare, men sent forward to be killed. The troops that followed were compelled to climb over the heaps of African dead.

"Another incident demonstrates the fanatical bravery, the unparalleled loyalty, of the black troops. A battalion of Senegalese was urged at at the head of a French force against a division of the invading army. They were not armed with modern accoutrement, but carried their native weapons. German commanders demanded surrender. Then arose a ferocious war-cry in an hundred different dialects, resounding over the battlefield. The Africans rushed full at the German foe, cut, killed, maimed . . . until, at a distance of fifty yards, the German artillery opened fire. When that fire ceased, not a black man was alive on the field.

"The same type of men showed their mettle at Gallipoli, when the allied forces were endeavoring to take the Dardenelles. One typical incident reveals them as they were—crazy, but tremendous. It was necessary for one section of the French army to communicate with another, on the opposite side of a bare expanse of plain, burning under a merciless tropical sun, and exposed to the even more cruel enemy gun-fire. A French Officer attempted to cross; he crawled on his stomach—until killed. A Senegalese soldier was ordered to take the message. He started. They told him to crawl. He walked upright. Then came a bullet—and he died. A second Senegalese essayed to cross—he walked upright until he, too, was shot down. A third man was called; a fourth; a fifth—until ten men, walking upright, had died, before that message was delivered.

"To turn from France to the British West Indies. There, Colored men offered their services to Britain in 1914. England declined; this was a white man's war. In 1916 England reconsidered, and decided it was not solely a white man's war, and invited the volunteers over. These men from the tropics arrived in England in midwinter, and were put into barracks too cold for the Scots. They died of the "Flu" by hundreds. One ship went astray and its human cargo was dumped at Halifax in the dead of winter.

"Meanwhile, in England the problem presented itself: What to do with them. They came as soldiers. England decided to use them as laborers. At the same time, German dispatches after Verdun tell of Black troops among the English at the Somme. England said she had no black troops. In truth she had no black troops; she had black targets. More men perished among the blacks, in proportion to their number, than among the whites.

"Others were sent to Egypt; there arose dispute as to what they should be used for. Eventually, some of these black troops were sent to Bagdad; others helped to capture Jerusalem and Mesopotamia.

"At the same time, these loyal subjects of the British crown were not allowed to become officers; they did not receive the pay of white privates.

"In this country, black men, as a part of the all-embracing economic organization, were automatically sucked into the whirlpool. They could not go as white men had a chance to go. The Negro had no opportunity to ask whether the war was right or wrong. As he went in, he could only say to himself: If now I do my duty toward America, it is possible America will do her duty toward me. It was so in previous wars—the Revolution, the war of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish-American war.

"At the same time, you will recall the opposition to the formation of the 15th New York Regiment. And when America entered the war, that regiment was put to drill in Harlem with broomsticks. They essayed to send them to training camps. They went—and came back. Three times they started for Europe, before they finally got there. And what then? The regiment had some Negro officers. White American officers did not want them.

"It was in December, 1917, when this regiment landed on the shores of France—at a time when one soldier was worth ten. This regiment became expatriate. It was taken out of the American army and put into the French army, given French food, French orders, French arms. And this is the regiment that at one time stood between the Germans and Paris. Although there is no record of this in the reports of the American armies.

At the second battle of the Marne, in the army under the command of Marshal Foch that hurled back the Germans, curiously enough, there were five regiments of American Negroes. The 8th Illinois—all men and officers black, except one; the 371st and 372, in the Argonne; the 368th and 372nd in the Argonne; the 368th that broke the Hindenberg defenses.

"I have dwelt on these facts, not because they are pleasant—they have to do with war, but that we may arrive at a clearer understanding of the problems coming after the war."

The problem before the leaders of the white peoples see it, is to restore pre-war conditions; to once more reduce the alleged "inferior" Colored races to their former status of instruments of exploitation for the aggrandizement of white imperialists and the enrichment of white capitalists.

"The problem before the leaders of thought and action, of these Colored races, is to see that this is not done; to protest so loudly and effectively that it cannot be done.

The solution of the problem for the Colored workers of the world lies in education and economic independence. By the light of understanding, the need for economic independence, through knowledge of the technical means of controlling the forces of nature (the means by which the "civilized" white peoples, though inferior in number, hold the darker races in subjection) will be clearly seen.

Selfishness on the one hand, ignorance on the other, are at the root of inter-racial discord. To bring about peace and harmony, men must first cease, says Dr. DuBois, to allow their greed for tea and coffee, ivory and mahogany, to stand between them and what they know to be justice to all mankind.

THE NEGRO IN A HOLY WAR

"In case the Turk declares a Holy War, the majority of the dark races, including a large proportion of the Negroes, will be involved in war with the white races," averred Evangelist O. A. Troy at the East 36th Street Church, last Sunday evening in his illustrated lecture.

Illustrated lectures were also given Tuesday and Thursday evenings by the evangelist.

"Will the Dark Races Rule the World Again" is the subject of next Sunday's illustrated lecture.

THE AMERICAN WOODMEN BEGIN BIG SPRING MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN TO GIVE AWAY $300 IN CASH PRIZES MARCH 8th TO APRIL 19th.

The American Woodmen known as the Million Dollar Fraternal Insurance Society has launched its big Spring Anniversary membership campaign, beginning March 8th and ending April 19th. This giant of Negro Fraternal Societies operating in twenty- seven states, is one of the fastest growing institutions operated by members of the race. Since 1910 the membership has grown from less than four thousand to more than one hundred thousand, and assets to over a Million Dollars.

The Los Angeles camp No. 1 was organized in August 1922 and in six months has a membership of almost four hundred.

The American Woodmen is distinctly a race institution and merits the confidence of our people everywhere. It furnishes employment to thousands of our people; it gives expert advice upon the formation of building and loan associations among our people free of charge; and lifts the mortgage on hundreds of colored homes.

Mr. B. Harrison Graham, the Supreme State Supervisor of California, has placed with the California Bank, Three Hundred Dollars to be given away in prizes to contestants as follows: $50 to the member who brings in the largest number of applications over twenty-five; $25 for the largest number over twenty; $10 for the largest number over fifteen; $12.50 for the largest number over ten and $7.50 for the largest number over five. The Supervisor has decided also to give to each contestant who does not succeed in winning one of the main prizes, One Dollar for each application he brings in during the drive.

Among the features which make the American Woodmen different as a Fraternal organization is the fact that there are no extra assessments or extra taxations to pay. The monthly rate is always the same and all clims are paid in full and at once.

A dispensation of $4.50 to join, entitling the applicant to full membership will be in effect during the campaign only.

The Campagn will be under the personal supervision of the State Supervisor, Mr. B. H. Graham, and will be under the auspices of Los Angeles Camp No. 1, Boyle Heights Camp No. 2, and West Side Camp No. 3.

The Office of the Woodmen is located at 1400 Central Avenue. Phone 20515.

SINGER HAS A LARGE FOLLOWING

Claude V. Pitts

A rare treat is in store for Los Angeles music lovers on Tuesday Evening, March 13th, when Claude V. Pitts, lyric Tenor, will be heard in recital.

For several years Mr. Pitts has been one of the leading choristers of the city and at present is head of the Voice Department at St. Paul Church. Mr. Pitts has also been leading soloist in some of the largest institutions of the country, and has the reputation of knowing how to please and charm his audiences. In short, as a lyric tenor, he is in a class by himself.

Music lovers are therefore urged to come out in force. The enjoyment in store for them will be worth many times the price of admission.

PROMINENT DALLAS PHYSICIAN HERE

Dr. Charles L. Morgan, one of the leading physicians and surgeons of Dallas, Texas, is a visitor in Los Angeles. He was hurriedly summoned to the sickbed of his mother, Mrs. S. Morgan, of West 36th Place. Mrs. Morgan has greatly improved since the arrival of her son. In the meantime, this turn for the best in his mother's condition has given the Doctor time to "look about," and he expresses himself as delighted with the climate and natural beauties of Southern California. In fact, were it not for the large and well-established practice which the able physician has in his home city, and the fact that Mrs. Morgan, his wife, is a musicia director in the Dallas City Schools, it is more than probable that he would establish himself permanently in our Southland.

OTHER RACE APPRECIATES GIRL FLYER

MISS COLEMAN SPOKEN OF MOST HIGHLY

Editor California Eagle,
Dear Sir:

Doubtless you and your readers are already familiar with the sad accident which has befallen Miss Bessie Coleman, who has attained so high repute as an aviatrix, and has done more than any woman of her race (and probably more than but four or five colored men) to raise the status of the colored race in America.

Miss Coleman has an international reputation as a flyer. She was born in Texas 23 years ago. She has recently returned from a most successful tour of France, England, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Germany. She bears credentials from the French Aero Club, and from the Deutsche Luft Reederei. She has made about fifty flights all by herself over Berlin, one of them for the Pathe News, and is the only American flyer who has flown over the ex-Kaiser's palaces at Berlin and Potsdam, and the only woman possessing an international license entitling her to make flights all over the globe. She has the distinction of flying the largest plane ever flown by any woman in the world. She was invited to fly at the American Legion Convention last year, at Kansas City, in the presence of Lloyd George, Minister Briand of France, and other world notables.

Her race should be proud of her accomplishments, as she is the only colored woman flyer of her race in the world—and there are no colored men flyers at all. And with all her hard work and her great record of accomplishment, she has always borne her race in mind and worked for its advantage. One of her plans for the future is the establishment of a school of flying especially for colored people. Arguing from the fact that the colored race is noted for furnishing a high average of skillful chauffeurs, Miss Coleman is of the opinion that, properly trained, they should also furnish a majority of successful flyers.

Miss Coleman is at present in the hospital at Los Angeles, suffering from a broken leg and other injuries incurred when her plane took a nose dive during an exhibition flight she was making for the movies near Los Angeles. The chief unfortunate part of the distaster is that her work for her race in establishing this flying school is thus delayed, as much by lack of funds as by her personal injuries. She will be perfectly recovered in health in the course of a few months, but worry over financial matters is likely to hold her back, as her return from Europe was too recent to permit of her having accumulated a reserve fund.

The Coast Tire and Rubber Company feels a personal interest in Miss Coleman, not only because she has been the instructor of Mr. Robert Paul Sachs, director of advertising for the Company, but because she volunteered to distribute Coast Tire advertising literature from the clouds in the exhibition flights she had planned throughout the Pacific Coast. On hearing of her accident and the circumstances under which she was in the hospital, a subscription was taken up for Miss CColeman in the offices of the Company, with a gratifying result.

We feel, however, that the colored people of California should have opportunity to rally to the assistance of so representative a member of their race, and testify to her their appreciation of what she has already done for them, as well as endorse her plans for the future. CCertainly no more laudable object for their testimonials could be conceived. We have no doubt but that the loyalty of the colored people will lead them to liberal contributions and give evidence to the friends of their race that they have enthusiastic solidarity of feeling and action when any representative colored woman or man needs their support.

It is important that as many individuals as possible be represented in this subscription, and it is therefore hoped that various colored organizations, churches, etc., will take the matter up and start lists. However, those who wish to contribute direct can send their contributions to Miss Coleman, herself, care of the Hospital at Santa Monica, near Los Angeles, California or to Mrs. Melba Stafford, 939 Willow Street, Oakland, California, or to the California Eagle who will forward them without delay.

Come forward Promptly, and come big!

Very truly yours,
Robt. P. Sachs,
Ex-Secretary American Truth Society, New York, former Chairman of the Friends of Peace, New York and Chicago.

HARDING HAILS CONFEDERACY

By: CHANDLER OWEN

Note well the following:

HARDING PRAISES "DIXIE" FOR RECONSTRUCTION WORK

Set Fine Example for War-Wasted World Today, He Says

New Orleans, Feb. 15.—The people of the South in accomplishing the reconstruction after the Civil War "set the finest example that could be urged upon a war-wasted world today," President Harding declared in a letter made public last night by Captain James Dinkins, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans in New Orleans in April.

"The men of Lee's and Johnson's armies went home to their tasks of reconstruction," the President continued, "with hearts of courage and purpose of determination to overcome all obstacles; to deserve the good will and the help of others, by proving their own good will and by helping themselves to the utmost of their capacity.

"They had earned the respect and regard of their opponents on the battlefield. They earned it yet more completely and emphatically by their conduct afterwards, and in earning it, they insured not only the Union's restoration, but its advance to that place which it hold in the family of nations."

One reading the preceding report would be inclined to suspect that John Sharp Williams, Hoke Smith, or James K. Vardaman was president of the United States. He would feel almost sure that it was the babbling of a Southern Democrat. What does President Harding mean by saying, "the men of Lee's and Johnson's armies went home to their tasks of reconstruction with hearts of courage and purpose of determination to overcome all obstacles; to deserve the good will and help of others by proving their own good will?" And also "they earned it completely and yet more emphatically, by their conduct afterwards."

After what, does President Harding mean? Says he, "after they had earned the respect of their opponents on the battlefield."

Let us examine the truth of this statement. What are the facts about Lee's and Johnson's armies? What did they attempt in Reconstruction? All responsible historians know that the Confederate soldiers returned to the South determined to accomplish by force or fraud, in civil life, what they were unable to accomplish on the battlefield. They were determined to overcome all obstacles, it is true. But what obstacles? The obstacles they were trying to overcome were the obstacles that stood between them and their re-enslaving the Negro. They enacted the Black Code and Vagrancy laws; they prohibited Negroes from working at skilled occupations, on the ground that this was a white-man's employment. Negroes were forced to till the fields, and to do what was known as "peculiarly slave labor." Those same Confederate soldiers organized the infamous Ku Klux Klan, which killed nearly 50,000 Union soldiers. Northern white teachers who went South to instruct the freedmen (and the Negroes themselves) were also ruthlessly murdered.

So determined were these unregenerate Confederates to defeat national will, that the 13th,14th and 15th Amendments had to be passed. Nor was this all. The South finally had to be divided into five military districts, in order to enforce some semblance of respect for life and property. So sympathetic a historian of the South as Woodrow Wilson takes complete exception to President Harding about the South's good will. He said the South was simply an "un-reconstructed rebel," inclined to do only that which it was forced to do.

Moreover the Confederates had not earned the respect of their opponents on the field of battle. They had shamelessly killed prisoners that were taken. Who does not remember the battle of Fort Pillow and Colonel Robert Gould Shaw? Does not President Harding know that the Ku Klux Klan of Reconstruction days was simply the reorganized Confederate army? Does he not also know that Congress had to institute an investigation of these unspeakable deeds, and finally disband and extirpate the whole organization. Does he not know that Senator Reverdy Johnson of Maryland, a distinguished Confederate lawyer, employed to defend these midnight assassins, was so overwhelmed by the evidence presented against them that when his turn came to address the court in their defense he severely denounced them? What justification then, can there be for praising Dixie's reconstruction work. Is President Harding catering for the Ku Klux nomination for the presidency in 1924? And is the race between himself and President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University?

UNEARTHING BLACK CIVILIZATION OF PAST AGES

EYES OF WORLD ON KING TUT-ANKH-AMEN WHO RULED ANCIENT LAND OF PHAROAHS

SCIENTIFIC GRAVE DIGGERS ENTER SECRET TOMB OF NEGRO KING OF CENTURIES AGO.

By Pedro Byers.

And now, the very stones are crying out aloud, attesting the fact that, over 3000 years before the Christian Era, Black men had originated and perpetuated the most wonderful civilization ever conceived by the mind of man.

Treasure estimated at $40,000,000, has already been removed from the vaults of the Negro king of Egypt—Tut-Ankh-Amen II. Household furniture, statues, and caskets, wrought of solid gold, ivory, ebony obsidian, and arroganite—paintings of battle-scenes which are attested to far excel in beauty and minuteness of detail, the very finest of Chinese or Japanese art.

Most important of all to the black race today is the inscription on the walls of the treasure-chambers of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, declaring himself an Ethiopian and also establishing the fact that Tut-Ankh-Amen was the grandfather of Rameses-Rameses whom caussasian writers had declared to be a white man.

The period covered by the Dynasties to which Rameses and Tut-Ankh-Amen belonged, have always been admitted by archaeologists, to have been the most brilliant of the periods of Egyptian civilization; and to have produced the finest specimens of Egyptian art yet discovered.

Everything found in this tomb, together with translations of inscriptions to be found in all of the vault-chambers of King Tut-Ankh-Amen and queen AnkhS-En-Amen, ought to be studied by black men and women all over the world who are interested in learning the truth about their ancestors.

LAW DEALS WITH THE KLANSMEN

RAID KLAN OFFICE; LOCK UP KLEAGLE

Seize Literature and Charge Klan With Riot Conspiracy—Legal Battle Expected.

(Crusader Service.)

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 26.—A legal battle is promised as a result of the arrest here of W. M. Cortner of Muncie, Ind., kleagle and organizer of the Springfield branch of the Ku Kluxers, following a raid on headquarters, headed by Police Chief O'Brien.

The records and literature of the Klan were seised and although there were a number of persons at the meeting, only Cortner was arrested, charged with conspiracy to incite a riot.

The Kluxers are threatening legal steps to release Cortner and regain the Klan records. The records include a list of 681 names of prospective memebrs, the police say, among them Chester S. Fess, son of United States Senator-elect S. D. Fess.

Thirty-four hoods and robes, with the insignia of the gang on the breast were confiscated.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

All persons who purchased tickets for my exhibition flight at Palomar Park on Sunday, February 4th, and who may be desirous of having the fifty cents expended for the same returned to them, are hereby requested to call in person to see me at St. Catherine's Hospital, Santa Monica, Calif.

"UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN"—Isa. 9:16

INTERESTING PAPER READ BY MRS. ANNIE E. JONES AT SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH

The birth of Jesus is the greatest event upon record. It is the greatest link in the world's history. The night of the Savior's nativity was the beginning of a new era to all subsequent ages. The manger of Bethlehem was the birthplace of new hopes, and a better history for struggling humanity through all time to come. Our Savior became a helpless babe; took upon himself the form of a servant and was found in the likeness of mortal man, that he might fill the world with the wonders of his grace. Heaven itself with the fulness of his glory. His birth mingles the fears of helpless humanity with the brightest expectations of future happiness. At his incarnation, the star of hope like a signal light, hung in beauty and loveliness upon the eastern horizon of a dark and benighted world. In his life the sorrows of earth ripened into the joys of heaven, and in his death the shame and agony of the cross melted away into the sceptre of power and the throne of glory.

Ancient sages had been sing for centuries of a brighter and better day that would dawn in the fullness of time upon their wretched race. The songs of Zion's seers, were rich with the thought that the coming of the Savior would usher in a golden age upon a world steeped in sin and saddened with sorrow.

The voice of inspiration had been heard all along down through the ages; telling the advent of a great Redeemer who would come as a consolation of Israel and a desire of all nations. The first link which was clasped in the consecrated cradle of the newborn king, and the last which was riveted in an empty sepulcher of the risen Savior.

Jo-ak-una and Anna, parents of the Virgin Mary, were among God's people. For twenty years or more, they had lived together in the highest estimation of man. Their lives were pure and faultless in the sight of the Lord. They become very rich, yet exceedingly charitable, but they mourned and grieved for they were without children. Yet in their advanced years they made a solemn vow, promising the Lord, if he would favor them with an offspring, they would devote it to his most sacred service for life. After this promise, Jo-ak-una and other members of his tribe went up to Jerusalem with their offering to attend the Feast of Dedication. When he went into the presence of the High Priest, he and his offering were despised and rejected, saying that it would not be accepted in the sight of the Lord because he was of a barren family. He was also unjustly rebuked for appearing among those who were blessed with children. This unjust reproach brought him much shame and sorrow. He would not return home, feeling that his neighbors would reproach him in the same manner; but retired to the wilderness, where his shepherds were keeping watch ovr his tender flock. There he fasted foryt days and nights in prayer and supplication to his God. Now an angel appeared, stood beside him with a great light, seeing he was troubled at heart. The angel said unto him: "Be not fraid, for I am an angel of the Lord, sent to inform you that your prayers are heard and accepted of the Lord, who has seen both your shame and heard your unjust reproach for having no children. Be it unto you. The Lord is the avenger of sin, but not of nature; and when he caused barrenness or to be without children, it was that the offspring might not be the product of lust, but the gift of his grace.

The sacred messenger informed him that his wife, Anna, should bring forth a daughter. They should call her name Mary. She would be filled with the Holy Ghost, and according to their vow, be devoted to the Lord from her birth. She would be blessed above all women, remaining with her parents for three years, and her service devoted to the Lord. She should neither eat nor drink anything unclean, nor have any conversation among the common people; but be reared in the Holy Temple. That she might not fall under slander or suspicion of anything wrong, she should not depart from the Holy Temple until she arrived at the years of proper understanding. But his most marvelous revelation was, that in the process of years, this same holy Child who was to be born in a miraculous manner of one who was barren, should herself—while yet a virgin—in an unparalleled way, bring forth the son of the Most High God. He be called Jesus and according to the signification of his name, be the Savior of all Nations.

The sacred messenger said unto him, "When you come to the Golden Gate of Jerusalem you shall there meet your wife Anna, who is troubled that you have no returned sooner, but shall rejoice greatly at your coming. The angel then gave him a sign as evidence of the truthfulness of his words, and quickly departed.

The angel then appeared to his wife, Anna, who mourned both on account of her barrenness and supposed widowhood. He informed her of the sacred message, the same as he had given to her husband, also giving her the same sign as an evidence of the truthfulness of his words, and quickly departed. Joachem and his wife met at the Golden Gate of Jerusalem; they related to each other their angelic vision. Being fully satisfied with the promise of an heir, they rejoiced and gave due thanks to the Lord, who exalts the humble and rewards the faithful.

In due time a daughter was born unto them, according to the promise. They called her name Mary. They made her chamber a holy place, suffering nothing uncommon or unclean to come near her. When she was three years old, accompanied by other daughters of the Hebrews, they brought her unto the Holy Temple with suitable offerings, by which their vow was perfected. They presented the little Virgin Mary to the High Priest, who received and blessed her, saying, "Mary, the Lord hath magnified thy name through all generations to the very end of time." As she advanced in years and increased in strength, she also increased in all the grace and perfection. She was admired for her purity of womanhood. Reaching the period of womanhood, there came a public order to the effect that all virgins of her age should return home and endeavor to get married. The other virgins yielded obedience to this command, but the Virgin Mary said that she could not comply with the request, as her parents had devoted her to the Lord, and she had also made the promise that she would not break the sacred vow. This brought the High Priest into a difficulty. He did not wish to dissolve a vow, neither did he desire to introduce a new custom to which the people were entirely strange. Knowing not what course to pursue, he called all the principal persons of Israel together, and counseled with them as to how he had best proceed in so difficult a matter. They were unanimously agreed to seek directions from the Lord. This resulted in a call to all the marriageable men of the House of David to come and bring their rods, that he by whom the Lord would show a sign might become the husband of the Virgin Mary. So when they presented their rods to the High Priest, a Dove, advanced in age, proceeded out of the rod of a certain window and flew upon his head—emblematical of his purity. Everyone saw plainly that the Holy Virgin was to be given to Joseph.

Joseph, the adopted father of Jesus, was the son of Jacob, a just man, the noblest of God's creation. Joseph was poor in this world's goods, but he possessed treasures of grace and sanctity of soul which fitted him preeminently for the position he was called to occupy. He was not the most powerful among men, but the safest; not the wisest, but the most worthy of the sons of Judah to become the protector of the Maiden Mother, and the guardian of her infant Son, Jesus.

Now the long looked-for period had arrived. The world's promised Redeemer, while yet in the spirit would descend from heaven to earth, be born in flesh and blood, and die upon the cross of Calvary. The time for the Incarnation of the Savior was at hand. The angel Gabriel received the mysterious message for Earth, and gladly withdrew from the shining courts of Heaven. The celestial messenger spread his vast silvery wings, and with lightning speed left behind him the golden streets, the palatial mansions, and the pearly gates of Heavenly Jerusalem. He soon reached the end of his delightful journey with the message of mercy, and a countenance aglow with angelic joy. Descending softly through the hazy air, like a falling star, he gracefully lowered himself in the humble town of Nazareth. The heavenly messenger sought at once the presence of the meek and modest maiden, and hailed her with his mysterious salutation as the highly favored of the Lord. The virtuous Virgin was much troubled at his angelic presence, wondrous ways, and marvelous words. But the merciful messenger mildly said, "Fear not, Mary, for theou hast found favor with God. The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, the most High God shall overshadow thee. Thou shalt bring forth a Son, and call his name Jesus: He shall be the Son of the Most High God, and shall reign thru eternity, for in his kingdom, there shall be no end."

She was the purest and holiest of all virgins. Believing the announcement of the holy angel, she meekly replied, "Behold the handmaid of the Lord. Be it unto thee according to thy word."

The holy angel quickly departed. A few days later she hastened to convey the news to her distant relatives, and to give due thanks and magnify the Lord for her exaltation in being chosen the mother of the world's promised Redeemer. Joseph, leaving his home in Bethlehem, went to Nazareth to marry his Virgin. As he went into her presence and looked upon her, he was much distressed in mind—grieved and sore at heart. Knowing not what course to pursue, he purposed to put an end to their agreement and privately put her away. While he meditated, an angel appeared to him in a dream, and banished every doubt of her guilt and confirmed every hope of her innocence, that she was still the virtuous Virgin; that her miraculous conception was by a supernatural power and the work of the Holy Ghost. Joseph knew that his Virgin had not been guilty of any wrong. He married his Virgin Mary, whom he kept in purest chastity until after the birth of Jesus. About six months later there came a public order from the Roman Ruler that the world should be taxed. This custom on such occasion required every man to return to his native city. Joseph, with his Virgin Mary, returned to Bethlehem. When they reached the little city they found the public inn full to overflowing. They were recognized as the descendants of David, Israel's greatest king; but they could not secure lodging. There was no room in the inn. They were forced at length to seek shelter for the night in a lonely, dismal, doorless, stony cell—a cave used for a stable. The time had now fully come for the fulfillment of the Messionic prophecy.

The night of the Savior's birth came on in all its oriental loveliness. The ashen gray clouds began to mingle with the snowy white around the distant horizon. The evening shades drew nearer, and a thin haze appeared like smoke of incense from off some vast altar. Over the honored city of David, the soft twilight, like silvery mist, melted away in the deep, blue sky, and the beautiful stars of night as if kindled by one electric flash, burst forth into flame over the broad domains of darkness. A strange light enveloped the cave, and a signal glory veiled the canopy of the heavens. Here the Holy Virgin gave birth to the world's Royal Redeemer, wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger. For unto us a child was born. He whose throne has been exalted above all kings of the earth found his first bed among the beasts, and His first cradle among the poor. But He who was born in such an humble place on earth, lives in most exalted state in heaven where He will reign through everlasting ages as the Savior of the world.

The humble manner in which this extraordinary Child made his advent into this world did not long conceal the glory of his coming. The holy angels soon made known to some honest shepherds, who were on the plains keeping night watch over their tender flocks, the incarnation of the long-expected Messiah. The celestial songs flooded the skies and rolled over the earth in richest strains and sweet melodies of heaven. The heavenly music ceased. The angelic vision disappeared. The delighted shepherds took counsel together, leaving their flocks upon the plain, they started for the search. They soon reached the cave, and beheld the new-born Babe, and offered in depeest humility, the mite and homage of the poor to the new-born King.

Yet the most profound historians, both Jewish and Pagan, looked for the Savior to come as a beacon star, shining amid the sorrows and sin of the earth. But the star which guided these men of the East in search of Israel's Infant King was not one of the fixed orbs which guided the pilgrims on the land and the mariners on the deep. Nor was it one of the wandering planets which move to and fro upon the starry plain of night, neither was it one of those transient meteors which burns its light for a moment to go out in midnight darkness. It was a supernatural star which led those Eastern Sages from heathen darkness to the light of the world. It was a star brought into existence by Divine Power for the express purpose of leading and saving all nations of the earth like the pillar of fire which led the hosts of Israel through the wilderness. As this luminous star of the Savir's birth led those wise men of the East to the cradle of the World's Infant Savior, as they journeyed t moved in advance of the sacred caravan. But when they pitched their tents for the night, it gently balanced itself over their camp like a sleeping albatross poised in the heavens. Yet strange it was that the shepherds, the humble men of toil, were informed while kings and princess were left in ignorance of the advent of the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords. Even the devout priests, honored Pharisees and learned Rabbis knew nothing of the wonderful Babe in the Manger.

When the enraptured shepherds had found and worshipped the new-born Savior, they returned to their flocks, praising God and publishing through the mountains the marvelous story of the Holy Night, and the Glory that should follow in the days to come. It ushered in an age that will be commemorated with gifts of love and songs of joy by young and old, rich and poor, great and small—being an annual event of joy to all people.

For century after century the world waited nad watched for the promised Deliverer. At length he came with the message of life and salvation; he came to pay a debt he did not owe; to relieve the world of a debt it could not pay. He came to carry the world of sorrow in his innocent heart. We may thank God for the flood of joy, which flowed from the manger of Bethlehem, is wide enough to encompass the earth with its glory; rich enough to bless every human with its mercy; deep and broad enough to roll on through all time and over boundless eternity.

Down through the portals of the sky, the angels flew with eager haste to bear the news to man. The world in solemn stillness lay and heard the angels sing.

In heaven the rapturous song began and loud the echo rolled.

The theme the joy, the song was new.

'Twas more than heaven could hold. Glory to God in the highest, peace on earth, and good will towards men!

Where to Attend Church

LNCOLN MEMORIAL CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—
34th Street and Central Ave.
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Pastor.

Sunday was truly a great day at Lincoln. President F. A. Sumner, of Talladega College, Talladega, Alabama, was the speaker t the morning service. He ws greeted by a splendid audience that listened with great interest as the speaker told of the ideals and growth of the College. Following this the president gave an excellent gospel message on: "The Added Touch." Two persons were added to the membership of the church on Confession of faith. An offering in cash and pledges amounting to $247.50 was taken for Talladega College.

At the evening hour the Choir presented the monthly musical program, which was enjoyed by all present. A large number of visitors was present at both services. Come again.

This Sunday March 4th is Communion Day. Dr. E. A. Johnson will dminister the Lord's Supper. Let not your seat be vacant. The Pastor will preach at the evening hour. You are cordially invited to worship with us at all times.

WARD CHAPEL A. M. E. CHURCH—
1252 Sast 25th Street.
B. R. Guy, Pastor.

There were a goodly number of visitors at the morning service last Sunday, including one from Bakedsfield. At 11;00 a. m. the Pastor spoke from the text, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

The Sunday School was well attended, and the offering creditable. The Allen C. E. League service was interesting and instructive. At the evening service the pastor spoke from the text, "Set thin house in order, for thou shalt die, and not live." It was a mixed congregation and some visitors were present who had not been there for a long time. The Helping Hand Club has put a new Altar railing in the church which adds much to the interior appearance. We are planning to beautify the interior and exterior of the church as rapidly as we can. Come over into Macedonia and help us. Our Second Quarterly Conference is set for March the 7th.

FIRST A. M. E. CHURCH—
Eighth Street and Towne Avenue.
Rev. A. Milton Ward, Minister.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at Eighth and Towne Avenue CChurch at the morning and evening services Sunday; and Pastor Ward will preach at 11:00 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m. respectively. Singing by the Junior and Senior choirs will be a feature of the services.

The Rev. T. Jeff Ross occupied the pulpit in historic Eighth and Towne Avenue Church at 11:00 o'clock last Sunday and preached acceptably to a large audience including many prominent visitors. The two choirs under direction of Organist Elmer C. Bartlett inspired the audience with good gospel singing. Pastor Ward preached at night when there was one accession to the church.

Mrs. Florence Cole Talbert is to appear in sacred concert recital at Eighth and Towne Avenue Church Sunday night March 11.

Preparations are being made for the third annual concert de luxe at the Philharmonic Auditorium April 30.

A baby contest is in progress at Eighth and Towne Avenue Church. For information call Mrs. A. M. Ward, South 3780.

Lawyer Willis O. Tyler was elected by a large majority by Eighth and Towne Avenue Church membership delegate to the Electoral College which meets in Fresno in May to elect lay delegates to the General Conference of the African M. E. Church which meets in its quadrenial session at Louisville, Kentucky, in May 1924. Mr. C. E. McKinney was elected alternate.

CHRIST TEMPLE CHURCH—
Charles P. Jones, Minister

Sunday's services were very good. Attendance splendid. After morning service two happy souls were baptised in Bethel pool. The evening service was also deep and moving and splendidly attended.

The pastor preached Wednesday night and leaves Thursday morning, God willing, for Chicago and various points East, to be gone several weeks. During the pastor's absence the capable and amiable Elder R. A. Garrison, will occupy the pulpit assisted by brother James Saunders, Henry Holt and others.

Elders Saunders and Holt have started a mission at Watts, holding in Oddfellows Hall Friday nights, Sunday afternoons and Sunday evenings.

Mail addressed to Pastor at329 E. Monument Street, Jackson, Miss., will be forwarded to him.

WESLEY CHAPEL
Rev. A. P. Shaw, Pastor.

The pastor filled the pulpit Sunday morning. "The Riches of God's Grace" was the subject from which he preached a most thoughtful and well prepared sermon. The usual fine audience was bountifully repaid for being present. Mr. Arthur White in sweet resonant tones, delightfully sang "The Lord is my Light."

Mrs. Markham added to the occasion by rendering a most pleasing selection on the beautiful pipe organ.

Spiritual messages poured forth from the choir under the leadership of Prof. Howard. So impressive were the services that two persons for the first time united with the church.

The church is working diligently for one hundred members by Easter. Four hundred communicants are desired for next Sunday. If you are hungry and need spiritual bread visit Wesley.

BETHEL BAPTIST CHURCH—
Meeting in the Y. M. C. A.—
Ninth and Hemlock Streets.
Rev. Dr. H. D. Prowd, Pastor.

Our services on Sunday were well attended, and the interest fully justified the effort which we put forward for the good of the People and the glory of our MASTER. The pastor being indisposed, the Rev. Mr. Lambert occupied the pulpit at both services and preached two very acceptable sermons for us. The strangers within our gates were accorded hearty welcome, and requested to come—again.

We report, most joyfully, the increase in our Sunday School: And the evident delight visiting friends take in the children. The lesson was interesting and all who took part were benefitted. We take opportunity to thank our brother ministers of the Christian and Baptist Churches who visited us and spoke words of encouragement.

Our B. Y. P. U. bids fair to be quite an attractive feature of our work. The attendance has been greatly increased, and the lesson and discussion were heartily entered into. A good impression is being made. Miss Jones our Pianiste, appears at all our services with charming music, and the smiling face. Miss Arlotta Fry again was the sweet Soloist, and all were delighted with her renditions. Dr. Prowd, by the goodness of The Master, and the help of Dr. W. C. Gordon, and Mrs. Alice Johnson and others, is now up from his recent illness and will occupy his pulpit this Sunday. He will present special messages. All are invited. Come praying for a blessing.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH—
Santa Monica, Calif.

The members were honored to have with them on Sunday, February 25th, the District Missionary of the Western Baptist Association, Rev. R. H. Wade. This divine is considered by the people of the Bay District to be one of the greatest Gospel preachers in the country. The fact that he is a great man, not merely in stature, but in mentality and nobility of character, as well, is known throughout the Southland.

The Sunday School is growing. Much joy was manifested as the able historian, Mr. H. C. Hawkins, expounded from Biblical history things both old and new, reinforced by an impressive array of facts, drawn from the lesson and instilled into the hearts of his listeners, by the enthusiastic superintendent, Mr. S. Overr, as he reviewed the lesson.

AT PROGRESSIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

Out on East 23rd at Rev. Brook's church after a forceful sermon last Sunday night, the Rev. gave Mr. Macon an opportunity to present his plea and he made a most splendid presentation of his cause. While here he set up a new Lodge and a Court of Ladies ending in a big banquet at Odd Fellows Hall on Monday evening. He left Tuesday for his home at Weed, California.

MT. OLIVE MISSIONARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Is facing the future for Bigger and Better things for Christ.

Pastor W. R. Hutchinson filled the pulpit Sunday taking for a text Ex. 3:2. 1 Acts 14:22. Subject "The Church of Christ must go through persecution to enter the Kingdom." The Holy Spirit was in our midst.

The Sunday School

Mt. Olive Sunday School held its devotional services Sunday morning the 21st. Children came forward bowed in prayer. The Holy spirit moved upon their heart as the Sunday School prayed. It was a great day in our Sunday School.

THE B. Y. P. U. SERVICES

The B. Y. P. U. is by Miss Helen Baucom who has been its head for seven years. The President was greatly inspired by the program of Group No. 4 led by Mrs. W. R. Hutchinson. The group No. 4 put time, interest, hard work, brain power, race grit. The motto of the Church is "Bigger and Better B. Y. P. U." and the Love of Jesus Christ into their topic. Negro men and women of achievement. Every member of group starred. The participants were Miss Viola Baucom, Mr. Walker Bomar, Miss Mary Smith, Mr. Alvay Schivers, Miss Floretta Willis, Mr. H. Smith.

The manner in which the group conducted their parts and moved the union into a state of ecstacy, and into enthusiasm to achieve a Bigger and Better B. Y. P. U. Pointed talks were made by Miss T. N. Willis, Miss Irona Marshall and Mrs. A. E. Cooper.

Pastor Hutchinson urged them to keep ever in mind the song they sang Go on. Go on. Go on.

The sick in Community

Mrs. Alice Blackwell, Mrs. Talbert, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Bynum, Mrs. McCowyn, Mrs. T. Dansby, Mrs. M. Wardlaw.

MISS IDELL ALBRITTON

MASTER REED HONORED

Masters George and Earl Hooper, youthful sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Hooper, of 1291 West 35th Street, recently gave an enjoyable party for Master Oliver Reed, of Louisville, Kentucky. About twenty-five youngsters feasted and made merry on this occasion.

POPULAR SOCIETY BUD ILL

Miss Roberta Dudley, of 1437 West 35th Place, has been confined to her bed for about ten days. Her host of friends will rejoice, however, to learn that she is now rapidly convalescing.

ART DISCUSSION OF GREAT INTEREST

The Married Ladies' Art, Social and Literary Club held an interesting and enjoyable meeting on Monday, February 19, at the residence of Mrs. Stella Turner, 1035 South Serrano Street. The program was in interest of the Art Section. A comprehensive and brilliant paper on Flemish, Italian and English painters was read by Mrs. Benjamin Graham. Mrs. Graham, incidentally, is a visitor from Texas, making a brief but pleasant sojourn in Los Angeles. She is a teacher in the public schools of that State. Other instructive and enjoyable papers were contributed and most pleasantly read by Mesdames Patten and White, respective. At the conclusion of the program, dainty refreshments were served, as a fitting close to one of the most enjoyable sessions of the current season.

JUVENILE STAG

On the eve of his departure for Louisville, with hs mother, Mrs. Florence Reed, Mrs. E. Monroe Beavers of 1420 West 35th Street, entertained for her young nephew, Master Oliver Reed, with an exquisitely apponted dinner in honor of his eighth birthday, Thurs., Feb. 23.

The table was elaborately decorated in keeping with the season—the patriotic motif being carried out in red, white and blue Dainty and ingenious favors in these colors were in evidence and the table was softly lighted by four red candles, in massive silver candlesticks. The centerpiece was a large birthday cake, iced and decorated in red, white and blue—a masterpiece of culinary artistry. A five course dinner, consisting of viands especially calculated to tickle young palates and satisfy boyish appetites, was served.

Besides Master Oliver there were Masters Alvin White, George Cooper, Edwin and Nathaniel Arthur, William Maxwell, Ralph Troy, Junior, and, as an extra "guest of honor," that nationally known "star-let," "Sunshine Sammy"—otherwise Ernest Morrison.

Master Reed has made many friends during his visit here, and his playmates were unanimous in wishing him a speedy return and a longer stay next time.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MASTER THEODORE JONES

Young Theodore and his parents have lived here several months. Mrs. Jones has been a valued adjunct to the choir at 8th and Towne Church, and the lad has been very active in behalf of the Penny Collection Board.

Music and games added zest to the occasion, and all expressed the ardent hope that little Theodore would again be a visitor here, where he has made so many fond friends.

Amonk those present were: Misses June Valley, D. Whaley, Naomi Greene, Mary Harper, Frankie Thomas and Alma Davis. Masters James Wynne, Wymon Thomas, Samuel McAllister, Haywood Jones, Marshall Royal, Willard Maxwell, Theodore Jones and Harold Scott; Mesdames S. M. McAllister, Rose P. Porter, A. Pearson, and Miss Lafayette Mehoney.

"Till we meet again.....
God will take care of you!"

CHARMING ST. VALENTINE'E PARTY

At the residence of Mrs. Millard Washington, 1316 E. 18th Street, on Monday, February 19th, Mr. Frederick N. Clarke and Mr. Kenneth E. Woodson were hosts at a most enjoyable affair.

The house was elaborately decorated with ferns and carnations, kewpies and hearts. The evening was beguiled in singing and dancing, and the playing of various entertaining games.

In a guessing contest two prises were awarded. The recipient of the first prize, a handsome black hardwood sewing box, was Miss Ruth Herbert. The booby prize, a pretty valentine, was won by Miss Helen Oliver. Dainty refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake and punch, were served.

All present declared the occasion to be a most enjoyable one.

ENJOYABLE ACTIVITY AT ST. PAUL SOCIAL HALL

Enthusiasm ran high Tuesday night at St. Paul Social Hall when the monthly Literary program was rendered by the Young Women's Auxiliary. These meetings are increasing in interest as well as attendance.

Refreshments were served in abundance by Bands No. 1 and 2 of the same department. These young women should be encouraged as their work is being seen also felt around St. Paul and the community.

Meet us the 3rd Tuesday night in March at the place named above where a hearty welcome awaits you, and a program second to none.

MRS. ROBERT CHISM HOSTESS

One of the prettiest luncheons of last week was the one presided over by Mrs. Robert Chism, of 1741 Newton street. Dainty Valentines marked places for twelve persons. Mrs. Julius Albritton of E. 22nd St., celebrated her birthday on Monday the 19th with a Chinese luncheon. Four guests feasted sumptuously on the delicacies prepared at the hand of Mrs. Mamie Polk, sister to Mrs. Albritton. All voted Mrs. Polk well versed in the art of Chinese cooking.

A most delightful afternoon was spent. Those present were: Mesdames Elie Jones, Herbert Albritton, Lillian Lofton and Miss Idell Albritton.

Mrs. Albritton was the recipient of many lovely tokens of esteem.

MRS. J. H. SHACKLEFORD ENTERTAINS WITH AN ELABORATE BREAKFAST

One of the most unique entertainments of the season was an elaborate breakfast given by Mrs. J. H. Shackelford on Friday morning, February 23, at her beautiful home on E. 34th Street.

Every room was gorgeous in sweet peas, carnations, roses and ferns. At times it was hard to decide which was more radiant, these beautiful flowers or the faces of the fourteen charming ladies, fortunate to be invited.

Exactly at ten thirty the folding doors were thrown open and Mrs. Shackelford with all of her grace led the guests to breakfast. Of the five dainty courses served nothing was more catchy than the grape fruit, roses with cherries.

The honored guests were:

Madame Annita Patti Brown of Chicago, Florence Talbert of Detroit, Michigan, H. F. R. Wiliam of New York, E. Topp of Detroit, Michigan; Miss Doxey of Chicago; Mrs. Ernest Flynn of Okmulgee, Oklahoma and Mrs. Cole of Detroit, Michigan. Others were Mrs. E. C. Jennings, Mrs. J. E. Porter, Mrs. J. W. Claud V. Pitts, West's Roland Hayes, to Appear in Recital

THE BYSTANDER

L. K. Beeks

Will somebody please page Senator Capper of Kansas. This great and glorious champion of the down-trodden and oppressed has introducted a uniform marriage law for the United States. As wise as this bill may be it is offensive and odorous to every person of color who loves and values womanhood. Well might this bill prohibit marriage to imbeciles, lunitics, feeble-minded persons, epileptics, paupers, etc. but when in his exuberance the Senator slips in a clause forbidding the marriage of black and white, the Kansas solon, in spite of his association with the N. A. A. C. P. thrusts a dart that causes us to wince and exclaim, "Et tu Brute?" With the adoption of such a bill would pass the last vestige of hope which colored women might have to bring despairingly whites to justice. Surely white men are not afraid of their women, whom they idolize, cherish and adore, marrying colored persons. If they are afraid they make a concession with their boasted superiority. Nature separates the ideals and customs of peoples as it does the association of ducks and chickens. Why then this law Mr. Capper?

A PREACHER

All Methodism, and especially the colored contingency, should seriously regret the voluntary retirement from active service of Dr. William Brooks, pastor for 26 years of St. Mark's M. E. Church, New York. After 45 years of good service this man of God surrenders a pulpit that will be all but easy to fill, and the situation will no doubt afford grave concern and food for thought. Such ministers are like precious stones, so few and so rare that we regret in this profession as much if not more than in any other the passing of one so genteel, useful and esteemed.

Riot Cases.

After proceeding about as far as it could adversely the U. S. Supreme Court at last handed down a decision that gives little hope and favor. In the Arkansas riot cases the Supreme court reversed the decision and ordered the Federal Court of that district to hear the matter and determine whether or not the men had received a fair trial. The N. A. A. C. P. deserves much credit for its interest in the matter. This reprieve we fear is but temporary and that sooner or later this matter will be shelved or pigeon holed as all other matters which affect Negro citizenship.

DUBOIS AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

On last Wednesday evening at The First Congregational Church before a packed house of the best white citizens of Los Angeles, Dr. C. S. Patton the broad minded and bread hearted pastor presented Rev. E. E. Lightner as an excellent pastor, an excellent citizen and gentleman. Rev. Lightner in well chosen expressions presented Attorney E. C. Jennings, who in glowing terms introduced Dr. W. E. B. DuBois as the scholar, the author, the editor and leader of the Negro race and the preserver of the constitution of the United States.

Dr. DuBois caught his audience from the beginning and although a great number of people were standing there was a death-like quietude for 1 hour while he spoke on the future of the dark races.

He gave them a heavy dose of their wrong treatment to us but despite this fact it seemed that every one was eager to shake his hand and the writer can but believe that the impression was more than momentary.

RUSSIAN EXPLAINS EUROPEAN CHAOS. ALL A "DAMNING ILLUSTRATION OF THE EVILS OF CAPITALIST SYSTEMS."
(Crusader Service)

MOSCOW, Mar. 7.—"You want an explanation of this Memel fuss. I'll give you in two words: Money talks. Or, if you prefer details, that France has just promised to inject a stream of $25,000,000 of gold into the veins of the Polish war party."

The speaker was a hardshell Communist, holding no official position in the Soviet Government, but a fighter in the vanguard of the Communist Internationale.

"It is esay enough to understand," he continued, if you look at it from the Marxian—that is the practical—economic—point of view, which by the way, does not exclude the importance of nationalist or racial influences, as some of you outsiders seem to imagine.

"When this Ruhr show began, the Poles took precautions. They moved troops to our frontier and concentrated still more on the German side. For a moment this rather startled our people, who, of course, did not know what game the French and Poles might have fixed up together. But we soon found that it was a defensive rather than an aggressive measure, and, as perhaps you noticed, the tension here suddenly relaxed.

"Almost simultaneously Lithuanians grabbed Memel, and the Poles never budged. It is quite likely, as things were then, that Poland had an advanced tip about the Memel affair, and was rather glad to let Lithuania have something to distract her attention, in view of possible trouble for Poland with RRussia and Germany.

"But as time passed, even the Poles realized that we did not want war if we could avoid it, and that Germany was sticking pretty closely to a policy of passive resistance. This relieved the minds of the nervous sections.

"Meantime the military party put through this loan from France, which you can be sure will not come in sacks of gold to Warsaw. No, the Creusot works (the great French munition factory) will get a big slice of it, and the airplane people an done or two tank factories.

"Then, too, it si possible that the Lithuanians are feeling their oats a little. These 'potato republics' are crazy with nationalism, anyway, and after snatching Memel from under the noses of the Riga Treaty and offers mediation though they could have a try at Vilna also.

"All that is conjecture, but one fact is clear; right after this gold injection General Sikorski and his army suddenly began to show activity, and fighting is already reported between Polish and Lithuanian regulars in the neutral zone near Vilna. Tchitcherin reminds them of the Riga treaty and offers mediation, but do you think they will listen? Not while the noise of $25,000,000 worth of French money drowns his voice.

"Just consider France's position in the Ruhr. No matter what their papers say, the world knows they are stuck. They have simply got the bull by the tail. Perhaps their soldiers would like to do some more occupying, but Paris ought to know that that would not help much. So why start something somewhere else? The Polish war group will always put the match to the fire—for money—and once the flames begin to shoot up, who knows what will happen in Germany? In any event, Creusot and the tanks and airplane people will do a good stroke of business, and French banks will get a fat commission. Even if Poland blows up they do not lose money, but the French public which subscribes to the loan.

"The Russian attitude towards the whole thing is rather mixed. As economists engaged in the most difficult work of national reconstruction, any further trouble in Europe hampers us. As revolutionaries we cannot forget that the whole Ruhr affair and its possible consequences in Eastern Europe, whether Memel or anything else be the pretext—are the most damning possible illustration of evils of capitalist system. People talk about Bolshevist propaganda, but we could not make such propaganda as this if we spent a million dollars.

"BLACK MAMMIES"— NEVER MORE!

By: CHANDLER OWEN

One writer has said the existence of monuments is justified on but two grounds—as works of art and that for which they stand. We do not agree with his first proposition. We do not believe a mere work of art justifies a monument. We think that a monument ought to be erected to some idea or ideal, and that ideal should be portrayed through a work of art. In other words, art should be made the hand-maiden of truth and justice.

To illustrate: at the present time the Ku Klux Klan is planning to erect in Atlanta a monument which will probably be one of the greatest works of art in America. They have secured the services of sculptors of world-wide reputation. Yet the monument they erect will necessarily be condemned by the sober opinion of the present and the future, on account of the vicious principles which the statue will be designated to commemorate.

The Daughters of the Confederacy (Jefferson Davis Chapter No. 1650) have asked Congress to grant them permission to erect a statue in Washington in memory of the "Black Mammies." They want to bring back memories of the slave days when black mammies toiled in the cotton fields, cleaned the houses, cared for the children, nursed them at their bosoms. They want to bring back what to them Bert Williams would call "those wonderful days"—days when the pay for Negro labor was the "cruel lash of arrogant idleness upon the naked back of patient "toil." They want a memorial of the Southern white's good times gone. To the Southern bourbons these memories are like the photo of a choice and fond friend who has passed away. Though we cannot bring back the friend, we may often look upon and kiss the picture.

Now we don't want any "mammy" statues anywhere. We want the children of this generation to abhor and forget those days when the white madam had leisure and the black mammy had labor—when the white lady loitered and the black mistress toiled. We want to orient ourselves—turn our faces from the dark and discouraging past and direct it toward a bright and hopeful future.

In fact, people erect monuments for things of which they are fond, and in order to perpetuate the ideas for the future. And that is just what these Daughters of the Confederacy are doing. The "black mammies" made it soft for them and they made it hard for the "black mammies." They are justified in wanting the "black mammies" to return but we Negroes are justified in fighting to say that these "black mammies" will be like Poe's Raven—"never more." What one person wants to memorialize, another person may want to forget. For instance: you will not find in Alabama, Florida or Georgia, the statues of Grant or Lincoln; nor will you find in Boston the statues of Jeff Davis, Stonewall Jackson or Robert E. Lee. It would be quite impossible to find in Paris a statue of Hindenburg or Ludendorf, nor would you find in Berlin a monument erected to Foch or Sir Douglas Haig. Why? Because in these respective cases the prsons referred to had unsed their power to injure their opponents.

The writer favors having some statues and monuments erected in this country. We favor one erected to the 200,000 Negro soldiers who fought to wipe out slavery and to unfurl the flag of freedom and let it float like a cloud over this land. We favor a statue to these men who helped to save the Union, who indeed were a great factor in crushing out the iniquitous viper—slavery—which had vitiated the entire American atmosphere with its venomous and poisonous breath. We favor erecting a monument to the New Negro, who is carving a new monument in the hearts of our people. We favor the erection of a monument to the Negroes of Washington, Chicago, Longview, Texas, Knoxville, Tenn., Tulsa, Okla., and Philadelphia, who rose in their might and said to the authorities: "If you cannot protect us, we will protect ourselves—if you cannot uphold the law, we will maintain constituted authority." We favor erecting a monument to the Negro artists and poets, the Negro inventors and discoverers, the Negro scholars and thinkers, who have gone without food, clothing and shelter, in order to lay upon the altar of progress the Negro's mead of achievement. We favor a monument to the Negro women who have risen above insult, assault, debauchery, prostitution and abuse, to which these unfortunate "black mammies" were subjected. Yes, we favor erecting a monument to these women, who have almost wiped out this chasm of caste, who have broken the cordon of chains and are now trying to throw them off.

Let this "mammy statue go. Let it fade away. Let it be buried in that blissful oblivion to which the brave sons of this nation have consigned it; and when it rises again, let its white shaft point to a lofty peak, a New Negro mother, no longer a "white man's woman," no longer the sex-enslaved "black mammy" of Dixie—but the apotheosis of triumphant Negro womanhood.

AMERICAN MUTUAL TO HOLD SERVICE

Sunday, March 18th has been set aside for the first annual services of the American Mutual Benefit Association, to be held at Peoples Independent Cchurch, 18th and Paloma Ave.

Two services will be held, morning and evening and the attendance of both services will be rewarded by a treat to the serious minded citizen, interested in Racial development, as well as t othe music loving. So large has been the growth of the Association in Los Angeles during the past year, so great its appeal to the far sighted and so vital its growth to the city that a failure of its members in the past to hold a public service has been an injustice to the people.

You must not fail to hear Rev. N. P. Greggs deliver the powerful sermon at the morning service. You must not fail to hear brilliant and intellectual Attorney Towson S. Grasty, surrounded by some of the city's best musical artists at the evening service.

Remember March 18th at People's Independent Church.

ORGANIZE FOR WIDENING CENTRAL AVENUE

To promote the extension and widening of Central avenue to the harbor, property owners along that highway have formed the "Central Avenue to the Harbor Association." E. L. Duffy, a member of the DeWitt-Blair Realty company, subdividors of Goodyear Park, was elected president.

A committee was named to wait upon the board of supervisors and advise with them as to the best and speediest methods of going forward with the project.

The association passed a resolution going on record in favor of making Central Avenue 100 feet wide all the way to Wilmington, and through the resolution the property owners unanimously expressed their willingness to pay an equitable part of the cost of constructing a 22-foot automobile roadbed.

"Central avenue," said C. F. DeWitt of the DeWitt-Blair Realty Co., "is the shortest and best drained route to the harbor. It crosses Dominguez hill at an easy grade and strikes the eastern edge of Nigger slough, where there is no danger of highwaters. From Nigger slough southward the country is almost as level as a ballroom floor."

"For a distance of almost two miles along Goodyear Park we have widened Central avenue to 100 feet in anticipation of the street's coming importance. A wide street at this point is especially desirable, because on the west side lies W. H. Daum's Southwest Industrial Gateway Terminal, including the $10,000,000 Goodyear Tire and Rubber factory."

Activity in this district has caused the sale of over $2,700,000 worth of sites in Goodyear Park since October 1, according to Mr. DeWitt.

In this district is located Central Subdivision, consisting of 281 lots, which is being opened for sale Sunday, March 18, 1923, by the EAST-SIDE REALTY COMPANY, 1437 Central Avenue.

The subdividers have made arrangements to take care of a large crowd of buyers on the opening day, and if past records augur well, the greater part of the subdivision will be sold that day.

A TALE OF OLD JAPAN

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE ORGANIZATION

Upwards of eight years ago Mrs. Clara Hulbert, then President of the Allensworth Club, assisted by Mrs. L. B. Kelso, proposed an organization to take up the study of music in a serious vein. Actuated by intelligent motives for impassioned clues to the deeper things in music we find these two persons working for the establishment of a real music society.

Their organization sprang forth. It was not out of the fashion, but out of the necessity of the time. Ragtime Music had seized our senses We had begun to walk, talk, read write and even eat of Ragtime hallucination. The future forecast was dim, foreboding—there could be seen rising upon the decadent impulses of a new music whose deadening influence threatened to be more destructive than the latter-Jazz, that nameless, unknown quantity, so frequently associated with real music, was beginning to stalk abnormally through the vast domain of the higher musical thoughts and fancies. It was feigning a primitive originality and, in a parasitic manner, was feeding upon and devouring the fondest illusions of musical intelligence and romance.

We shall leave it to the imagination of our readers to determine how effective has been the work of these two women in the interest of real musical art. We venture the statement that they are the real sponsors of the Coleridge-Taylor Music Society, which came as a result of inappreciation for Classics, particularly as they concern Negro Musicians and their works.

The first effort of the Club was to assist the Allensworth Literary Club raise money for the Old Folk's Home. The attention was directed to the Study of "The Wedding Feast," taken from the Triology of Hiawatha. Under the able leadership of Dr. Wilbur C. Gordon the Society developed a high degree of proficiency. Later Professor Robert G. Jackson was sent for that he might put the finishing touches to the work. The work was well done. The people of Los Angeles liked it. They insisted on having it repeated. With H. Douglas Greer as Director, the Club was heard in a recital of the two, first and second episodes of the Triology, namely, "The Feast and the Death.

Mr. Greer has labored with extreme zeal to hold the organization in tact. All energies have been directed to the works of Negro composers, believing that the major work of the Club should be confined to the author whose name it bears, for whom it was primarily and fundamentialy organized.

Up to the present time the Club retains a fine reputation. Many varied programs have been rendered. Los Angeles and nearby cities furnish testimony of the rich and rare contributions made in the name of the Coleridge-Taylor Music Society.

Object of the Society.

The Society has for its object the discovery and development of talent existing among our people. This talent is brought together, broadened, deepened, intensified for the ultimate expression of eager hopes and aspirations. The principal objective is the study of compositions by Negro authors, production of these works; teaching a reverence for the pure, the beautiful in Music, Art—Life. To this end the Club has dedicated itself to the task of assisting all worthy, deserving students to acquire their supreme desires along artistic lines, to establish scholarships for those who demonstrate unusual intelligence and musical ability.

A TALE OF OLD JAPAN
WHO'S WHO IN THE CAST

Soprano Soloist—
Madame Ruth Watkins—O KIMI SAN.

Madame Watkins, the leading Soprano in A Tale of Old Japan, will twinkle more than that proverbial little star that appeared on the horizon some thousands of years ago. In the portrayal of O Kimi San she will be at perfect ease. She feels the part. Her bird-like voice rings with a clearness approaching that of a nightingale. Madame Watkins studied with several prominent teachers while in Chicago. The last, and, perhaps best work, was done under the tutelage of Madame Clara A. Hutchinson.

Contralto Soloists—
Miss Maud Mitchell—Cherry Blossom.

Miss Mitchell, our Contralto Soloist is a native of California. She really belongs to Los Angeles. The deep and sonorous tones of her voice are features that mark her early entrance into the higher musical realms. Miss Mitchell comes from a musical family, a sister of Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, who was for years one of our finest Contralto singers. The family mantle h asflalen on Miss Mitchell. Her work in the Saint Philips Episcopal Chuyrch Choir has been very marked. Miss Mitchell has studied with some of the best instructors in Los Angeles.

Tenor Soloists—
Mr. Charles White—Sawara.

His voice is light, pleasing and full of promise. Church-choir singing has improved his style and done much to enlarge his musical horizon. Mr. White has sung with several quartettes; each instance was successful. He will be the real Hero in A Tale of Old Japan. Mr. White is a citation for scholarship.

Baritone Soloist—
Mr. Leroy Albright—Yoichi Tenko.

There are greater baritone singers but none sweeter than Mr. Albright. He has become indispensable to the Club. Bears the same reputation with us that is sustained in the Wesley Chapel Church Choir. Los Angeles has not forgotten his work in Hiawatha. This time Mr. Albright will sing and act the part of Yoichi Tenko, and eminent Japanese Painter.

Premiere Danseuse—
Miss Anita Thompson—Ya Na Ka No.

The Club has engaged Miss Thompson to dance both evenings. She needs no introduction. Art is reflected from her finger tips to the rhythmical contorts of her toes. Miss Thompson is easily our finest ballet dancer. Come and see he rin oriental costume, delineating terpischorean scintillations of frozen music. Assisting Miss Thompson are four water sprites and three elysian nymphs, who, behold the every caprice of the imperial danseuse importuning, hoping to win her affection and be clothed with th emysticisms of her intricate Arabesques.

Water Sprites:—Cornelia White, Corinne White, Flossie White, Le Vera White.

POLITICAL POT PIE

Our pie maker will be absent from the job for four issues. By this time there will be sufficient fruit to make all sorts of pie.

With the date for the Congressional election set by the Governor, the various aspirants will get busy until the election day in May.

The Hon. Alfred Bartlett has by his signal service to the Republican party, earned the right for the highest consideration for this position and there is no doubt but that he will be a leading contender and gather a strong support.

The Committee appointed by the Forum to bring concentration of effort on a candidate for the City Council, met last night and conducted a mass meeting for that purpose. As we go to press we have not learned the result of this meeting but will give details in our next issue.

The Hon. Bert Farmer has launched his campaign for the nomination for Mayor and established headquarters in the Byrne Building room 227.

Without waiting for the action of the mass meeting the following colored candidates have taken out nomination papers for the city council. Titus Alexander, Booker T. Washington, Jr.

It is said that to grant the Buss franchise that it will be necessary to repeal the Jitney bus law, which we all fought so hard to obtain and that brings on a whole lot more timely consideration.

W. C. Muschet the old reliable will get well and continue to give his valuable srevice on behalf of the people, he is a sure winner for re-election.

Mayor Cryer is busy getting together his committee which will work for his re-election to succeed himself.

This paper gives to everybody a chance to state their case; Lucas C. Luke asked to say something; we allowed him that privilege, but our secretary put a heading which Mr. Luke says was all wrong and wishes us to state that he had no complaint against Senator Shortridge nor did he want only the part of the letter referring to lynching published. In fairness to our noted picture star, politician, man about town etc., we make this correction.

PHARMACEUTICAL LABORATORY

PHARMACEUTICAL LABORATORY

The only institution of its kind West of the Missouri River has been established in this city, at 1525 Central Avenue, by Frank M. Eagleson, graduate pharmacist and doctor of medicine, and it will be a great boon to our local physicians and surgeons of this city.

Mr. Eagleston, its founder, has had a rich and varied experience in this avenue of scientific research. For many years he was an intern at the great Santa Fe General Hospital, at Topeka, Kansas, and for years he has been active in the innermost researches in the sciences of medicine and pathology. He is one of the less than half dozen of our race who can qualify in this line of effort. When he came to California and sought to serve in the capacity of his calling, he was admitted by the board of Pharmacy without examination, strictly on his experience of more than twenty years' actual practice. This is unusual and speaks most highly of Mr. Eagleson's qualifications.

His place of business is neat and well stocked, and fully equipped with all the modern appliances necessary in a laboratory of this kind. Another branch which he specializes in is that of pathology, which has to do with the science of diseases, and the analyzing of the blood, tissues, bacteria, and in fact, all of the manifestations of human disease.

His establishment is not only at the service of the physicians and surgeons but he conducts a high grade pharmacy and specializes in prescriptions. The public is invited to call upon him for any thing in this line.

DR. W. E. B. DuBOIS ENTERTAINED

On Wednesday evennig, Feb. 28th, at the conclusion of his well-received lecture at the First Congregational Church, a few friends decided to take Dr. DuBois out to the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Blodgett on the corner of West 11th and Serrano streets, where a most pleasant evening was spent in music and games and it was the wee hours of the morning when the guests were taken through the beautiful ten room white stucco house completely furnished down to date. It was decided that Mrs. Allensworth has the prettiest room up stairs.

The party consisted of Attorney and Mrs. E. C. Jennings, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shackleford, Dr. and Mrs. Summerville, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Robinson and daughter, Prof. and Mrs. Banks and son; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shanks; Sergeant and Mrs. Hill; Capt. and Mrs. Robinson, Attorney Barnett; Mrs. Greenlaw; Mrs. Milton Johnson; Mrs. McCollough and daughter; Miss Lewis; Miss Wheeler and our own Mme. Florence Cole Talbert.

DR. DUBOIS' BRILLIANT AND FORCEFUL LECTURE WELL RECEIVED

At the Ambassador Hotel, on last Sunday afternoon, Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, eminent author-lecturer, and Race partisan, addressed an audience, for the most part Caucasian, that packed the salon to capacity. The subject of his discourse on this occasion was "The Negro's Contribution to Civilization." Under this general head, Dr. DuBois cited Race achievements in the various fields of exploration, Economics and religion, in a most masterly way. In addition, at the conclusion of the lecture, he answered readily and comprehensively an infinite number of questions, covering a vast field of human knowledge, propounded by learned and prominent persons of the white race, in such wise as to make one proud of this distinguished Race savant.

Our own Mme. Florence Cole-Talbert sang on this occasion, with the brilliancy that has won her acclamations everywhere.

San Bernardino will virtually name its Mayor for the next two years at the Primary election to be held Tuesday March 13.

Considerable interest is centered in the mayoralty race which is between S. W. McNabb present incumbent and J. W. Catlick. Both candidates have served the city two terms as mayor.

The chief concern on the part of the citizens who encouraged Mayor McNabb to again seek re-election is that the voters may be given an opportunity to vindicate the mayor's stand for law and order during the railroad shopmen's strike of last year.

Mayor McNabb has been the object of attack in certain quarters since his declaration that the streets of the city must be kept safe for free American citizens to walk thereon and that the homes of the citizens of San Bernardino who chose to continue their employment with the Santa Fe should be protected from attack.

Despite the strife and turmoil of the past year San Bernardino has experienced unparalleled progress. More civic improvements have been made, more home building has been carried on than at any time in the city's history.

Mayor McNabb's happy disposition and his ability to harmonize interests and eliminate factionalism or cliqueism have contributed very materially toward this development.

The progressive citizens of San Bernardino are anxious for a continuation of this activity and they believe that with McNabb at the helm this can be accomplished without friction or difficulty.

Mr. Green, a long-time resident of Watts, recently had the pleasure of meeting one of his sisters, whom he had not seen for years.

Members of the A. M. E. Church are preparing a play which they expect to present some time this month.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Eller Allison "framed" a delightful surprise party on them recently, at their Manhattan Street home. There were about fifty in this charming conspiracy, and the Allisons were the grateful recipients of many useful and beautiful presents, for which they desire to express their appreciation.

Mrs. E. Smith, of Thaxter Street, is improving, after a long illness. This will be good news to her many friends.

Mr. O. Turner was recently in Watts, looking after his property interests here.

Mrs. Johnson, of South Compton Avenue, is ill as the result of a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. Moss and her husband have left Watts temporarily, but expect to return here to live.

Mrs. Wilkerson, of Alta Street, recently received news of the death of a relative, killed in an automobile accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams of Jones Street recently gave their daughter in marriage to a well known young Los Angeles man. A host of friends wish her a life of happiness.

Dr. Cummings, formerly of Los Angeles but now of North Compton, will soon establish a drug store on North Compton Avenue. Such an establishment is much needed, and will undoubtedly be well patronized.

Mr. L. Freeman was a visitor in Watts last Sunday, and was so favorably impressed with prospects here, that he is considering making Watts his future home.

The whole town is ready for this big meet and Sacramento with the N. A. A. C. P. is going to show how well she can do things up in great shape.

At the Legislature

Monday morning found the Capital again a very busy place as the session in both houses were called on. The senate adjourned after a short session out of respect to a former member, Senator Perkins, who recently died.

About the most interesting thing before the legislature body now is that much talked of budget. It has been said that it would be swallowed whole by the Senate, but if the Stranger can understand and hear good there is going to be some scrap on that budget and it isn't going to be a play fight either.

There is an opposition being developed against the ,shing bill aimed at the Japanese primarily. A similar bill was defeated at the last session and it begins to look as though this one wont get by.

MISS IDELL ALBRITTON

REV. MAXWELL LAID TO REST

Solemn and interesting funeral services were held for the Rev. Julius Maxwell at Eighth and Towne Avenue A. M. E. Church on Wednesday afternoon in the presence of a large gathering of friends. Brother Maxwell as he was familiarly called by old and young, was born in the state of Kentucky more than 92 years ago. He was licensed to preach in the A. M. E. Church nearly sixty years ago and was a devout Christian. He came to California and united with the First A. M. E. Church in Los Angeles about 20 years ago and he made many friends. The Rev. A. Milton Ward officiated at the funeral. The choir sang and Prof. Bartlett played the chimes and Vox Humana on the pipe organ that brother Maxwell so much admired.

The Mutual Aid Society of the First A. M. E. Church turned out in a body. The flowers were varied and beautiful. Brother Maxwell looked as if he had just fallen asleep as he lay in the handsome casket of steel gray. Smith and Williams the funeral directors donated the entire expense of the funeral except the burial plot. Brother Maxwell is survived by his widow and their friend, Mrs. Martin. He died two weeks after being struck down by an automobile.

ROSITA

By Wendell Phillips Gladden, Jr.

Distant purple hills were outlined against a background of vermilon, as sunset tints faded slowly. The day had been extremely hot, but now cool evening breezes brought relief to the little Mexican town. Thinly clad pedestrians went strolling about or hurrying homeward. Lights darted here and there. Mexicali lay peaceful under the mantle of dusk.

And the shadows closed about the large two-story house where Rosita lived. The girl, during her leisure, was playing her guitar and singing softly. Passers-by heard the music and stopped to listen. It was an unusual event, however, for it had been many days since she had played such beautiful melodies for them. When she had finished, the girl went over to one of the windows nad gazed out into the moonlight night. Soon she would make ready for her evening performance.

"La Casa Nueva," the notorious dance hall, teemed with activity. Clouds of smoke floated lazily above. Men and women of many nationalities, fascinated by poker, roulette, and other games, won and lost fortunes. Others danced. Hilarity and syncopation predominated.

Here King Harmon sat, down cast and disinterested. His countenance was somewhat clouded. It could be plainly seen that there had been some secret tragical event in his young life which caused him to wear that haggard expression. He sat brooding until the music began anew.

There were cheers when Rosita came out on the stage. She sang "La Vida," then the popular Castilian fox-trot. Encored again and again, Rosita danced. The girl wore an exquisite oriental costume of orchid satin. Her's was a beautiful figure. Music seemed to dwell within her. She smiled sweetly at King, but he did not see her; for she had enchanted him with her voice and her dancing. Harmon was dreaming of the East, of shuffling and tripping feet, swaying symmetrical forms, the rythm and music, and the irresistible charm of the orient.

When she had finished her performance, the girl went over to where King was seated.

"Hello, Stranger," she exclaimed.

"Oh, I beg your—" King rose quickly, half-surprised, half-choking, lost for further speech.

Rosita seated herself. "You seem not to be enjoying yourself."

He sat back in his chair, resting one arm on the little round table. "No," said he seriously. "I am a bit disgusted, yes, disheartened. I came here seeking recreation, but I am afraid I shall be disappointed."

"Disappointed?" surprised.

The girl's curiosity was aroused. Perhaps the man before her was of sterner stuff than those about the place. Who was he? And why did he come here?

"Wont't you tell me about yourself, Stranger?"

King believed that he had found a friend in the girl. He felt akward. Never had he been so amazingly bashful, nor yet so happy. He hesitated, thought. King was himself again; full of enthusiasm and hope—inspired by the lovely girl before him.

"Yes, I will tell you all," he began. "I was once a student at Northwestern Law School. My friends heaped honors upon me because of my ability in athletics and scholarship. But I loved to fight. The boxing art appealed to me. It was not long before I went in training and became successful in most of my contests. I was persuaded to return home in California where I might make a career for myself. I went. Training and fighting hard I soon reached the championship division. Only last fall I contended in a championship bout in San Francisco but my opponent retained his title. I would try again next Spring but I want to return to college. My mother's last wish was that I make something of myself. Yes, I want to return to school, only—" he did not finish.

"Only what?" Rosita asked tenderly.

"I haven't enough money."

"You have a wonderful opportunity right here in Mexicalli. A purse of five-thousand dollars has been offered to him who accepts the offer to meet Kid Jose."

King meditated. This indeed was his chance. He must accept.

"Why, that is a glorious opportunity. I shall send immediately for Jene, my manager who is in Ensenada. I must win, I must win."

Rosita admired King. He was handsome and so earnest. She had loved deeply once,—but that is another story. What did this young man mean to her? What could the future hold for her? The girl pondered over these questions until it was her time to perform again.

Harmon thanked her for the information and her interest. He wasted no time in departing. As he was leaving the hall "Doc" Sherry eyed him closely, savagely, almost greedily, and called his gang around him. Sherry was in love with Rossita, but had received no response from the beautiful queen of "La Casa Nneva."

PART II.

Came the day of the battle for the light heavyweight championship title of Baja California. King Harmon our hero of the Pacific Coast was to face Kid Jose, Mexican idol.

In the arena, which had been a rendesvous for gamblers, were posted placards and photographs of the two contestents. Throughout Baja California followers of the fistic game were enthusiastic over the coming fray. The odds, however, were aginst King.

Harmon was in the best of condition. His muscles were hardened, his eyes steady; he had taken care to preserve his weight. A series of rope-jumping and skipping and light bag-punching ended his training two days before. He was determined to stage a "comeback!"

The Mexican was also in good condition. He was an athlete of great prowess. His face showed the result of hard fighting; his whole appearance was that of the great pugilist. Kid Jose was about ten pounds heavier than his Colored opponent but not quite as tall, being five feet ten inches in height. More than this, Jose had practically everything in his favor; the best trainers, the greater share of the purse, and the odds.

Over in the training quarters the men were restless. And finally, having received instructions from their respective trainers and managers Jose and King were accampanied to the arena.

Kid Jose bowed; and was well applauded by the throng. King,too, met the audience and was greeted with cheers and "bravos."

Round one began. They rushed at each other like tigers. King was on the defensive. That, however, was not his style of fighting; he had always danced about, in and out, smashing and jabbing with unusual force and speed. Jose drew first blood with a well delivered blow to the head. King covered because of a short right jab intended for the solar plexus. The Californian came back fiercely. Then Jose forced the fighting. They fought like madmen. King was a seasoned fighter and did not exert himself too much. The round ended in a draw.

There were wild cheers from the throng, and "buenos" from the Mexicans. Men were on their feet shouting and waving handkerchiefs and "sombreros" frantically overhead.

The excitement abated suddenly All eyes were turned to the entrance where the beautiful form of Rossita filled the doorway. She was loved by all the crowd, and they rejoiced to see her. Rosita smiled, as she advanced, and seated herself near King's corner. She wanted King to win, to go back to the States and finish his studies. The girl had a greater reason; she loved him. Opposite Jose's corner were "Doc" Sherry, King of the gamblers, and his men. He was jealous of King, hated him, and was staking a large sum on the Mexican.

The gong sounded. The battlers were at it again. There was a determined look in the eyes of King. Many and loud were the cheers for him, and he smiled faintly. He saw Rosita too. His jaws set. King Harmon had found himself. He began exhibiting his wonderful foot-work. King was no longer on the defensive. Jose was still aggressive; he dealt King a blow to the face, cutting a deep gash under the eye. King recovered. The men fought viciously. King saw his opportunity; like a flash he dealt the Mexican an uppercut. Jose whirled, crumpled, and fell blindly on his face to the floor. King had scored a knockout and five-thousand dollars was his share.

While King was being raised to the shoulders of strong men, Sherry rushed to the ring near the winner, unnoticed by the throng in the midst of the excitement, and with revolver flashing. Rosita perceived the gambler's intention just in time. She screamed and struck him on the arm and thus rendered the shot wild. Sherry was overpowered by Mexican guardsmen and arrested.

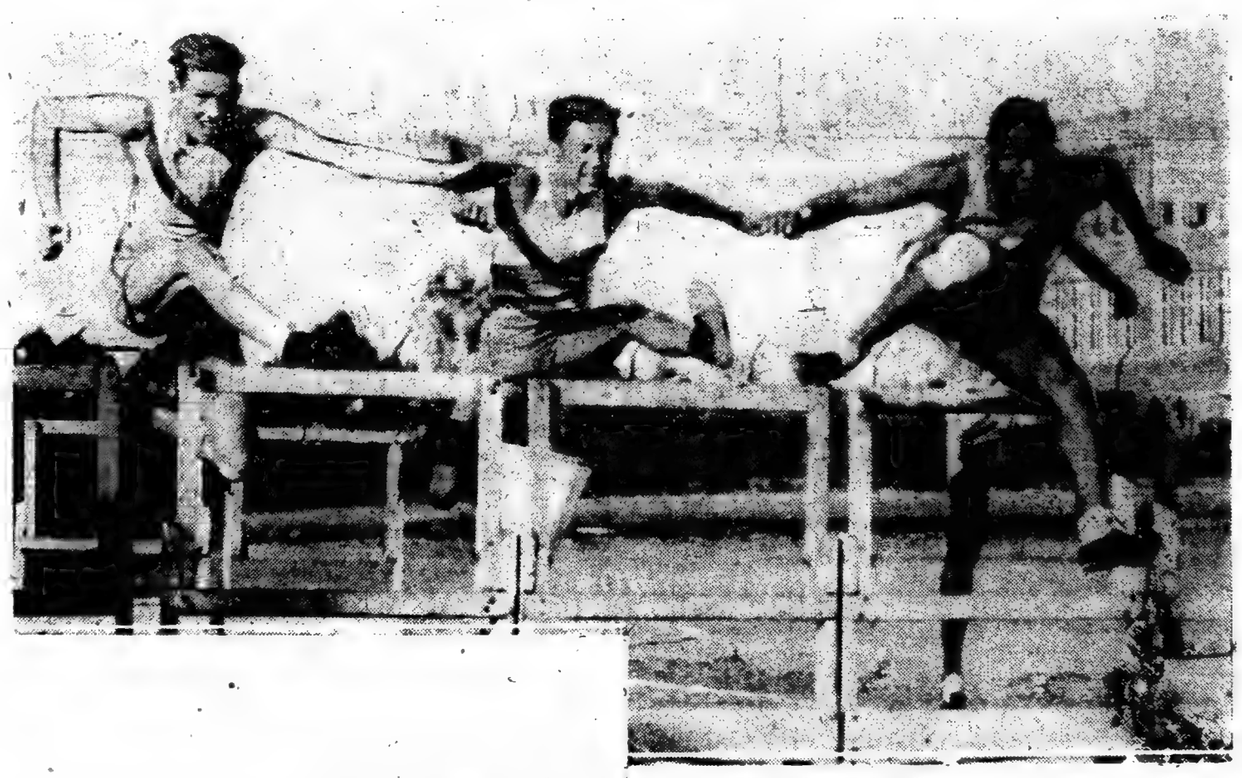
Making Money

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toilsome savings of their daily wage. But I submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have reached a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—than in any other way.



Business requires your sole attention—Stocks mean sleepless nights and days of worry—Property works by itself for you without your care.
Select it—Set it to work—it takes care of itself and will take care of you.

A good example of this sort of investment is found in a few of my special listings as follows:

Seven room house, East 40th St., $4200.00; $1000.00 cash.
Five room house, corner Hooper Ave., $3950.00 $1000.00 cash.
Three rooms East 51st St., $1750.00; $500.00 cash.
Five room bungalow, Naomi St., $4200.00; $700.00 cash.

DIGGS HAS WONDERFUL SEASON IN TRACK AT L. A. HIGH

NO COLOR LINE IN THE ATHLETIC WORLD

Young Athlete is Consistent Winner and High Point Man.

By Wendell P. Gladden, Jr.

Charles Diggs, sprinter and hurdler of L. A. high school, led the field in three events in the dual track and field meet between L. A. and Manual, held last Friday. He won teh 100 yd. dash in 10:3; the low hurdles in 27 flat; and the high hurdles in the fast time of 16:4

Those fifteen points brought his total just about to the fifty mark. He has garnered from eight to fifteen points in almost every meet. At present he is high point man at his school, and should set a new record for largest number of points gained in one season.

The work of Diggs in the high hurdles was very good. If he can travel at this rate or faster, when the city meet is held, he is almost certain to win or at least place; and if forced hard enough in the low hurdles, he should come out on top with excellent time for the half lap affair, for he is a fast stepper, and has a great fighting heart.

We are proud of his work this season. Charles bids fare to make a remarkable athletic career for himself when he enters college. He is a hard, consistent and careful trainer, and has consideration for his physical welfare, which characterizes the great athlete. Let us extend to him our wishes for continued honor and success for the remainder of this and coming, seasons.

THE MEMOIRS OF AN EX-SHIEK

By: ONE OF THE OLD MASTERS

Stealing a few moments each week from his haremites, the ex-shiek, retires to his cozy den where he seeks solitude, and sits quietly musing in his reveries. He has consented, however, on the requst of the back-biters, chewers, nibblers, and fellow-sheiks, according to his temperament inside dope of some of his maneuvers.

0——00——0

The ex-sheik speaks: I crave romance and adventure. Mine is a life of entangled affairs of the heart. My estate is handsome, my riches great, but I love the bigness and freedom of the out-of-doors. Ofttimes I journey alone on my trustly steed, black as a raven and silken; Sometimes on my young steed snow-white and linger long in the purple twilight lost in my thoughts. And there are times when the favorite of my most gorgeous harem accompanies me seeking scenes of beauty. What I desire becomes mine, whether by brute force or willingness on the lovely queen's part, and then her love belongs to me. I am kind to all, yet ready for battle when absolutely necessary. Love is life with me, for life is love.

0——00——0

In a spacious room, profusely decorated orientale with costly draperies and hangings, surrounded by a host of attendants and favorites, the ex-shiek reclines, amid the soft whispering of melodious voices. He desires dancing. His word is law. A dozen comely and graceful orientale maidens come tripping, gliding, swaying. Musicians already playing begin a new strain. What a variety of color and grandeur! Meanwhile, the patent-leather haired sheik, clad in purple and white satin, beholds the scene with an air altogether indifferent.

News Item: Already the call has come for young sheiks to do missionary work in the Soudan when it is opened, it is learned from a press dispatch. Only young and handsome men are suitable. None others need apply. No marriages are allowed before two years of residence and manipulating. Further information regarding same supplied on request.

SUNNY JIM GETS DRAW WITH SUNNY GOODRICH IN MAIN GO AT GARDEN

Sailor Smith Also Draws With Iron Man of Vernon. Huge Crowds Witness Best Bouts of the Season.

It was an excited throng that watched Sunny Jim fight his way to a draw with Sunny Jim in the main event at Madison Square Garden last Wednesday night.

Both men fought careful, but very hard throughout the encounted. Sunny Jim was the first to draw blood with a wicked jab to Goodrich's nose. Goodrich, nevertheless, was never in great danger. They exchanged hard blows which would have proved fatal to either fighter, had they landed solidly and with enough force. The draw decision given by the judges was popular.

Sailor Smith, our own coming champion, fought his way bravely to a draw with Steve Dalton, "Iron Man of Vernon" in the semi-windup. Dalton had the shade in the first two rounds, but the Sailor waded in and held his own. Next Wednesday will find these two in the main event at the Garden, it was announced.

The first bout was good. Black Mask battling Fredericks. Mask got over a knock down in the second, but his opponent came back. In the third round Black Mask injured his hand and failed to return for the last round.

Shadow Burton was on hand again, displaying has clever tactics and footwork against Kid Hogan. Shadow is one of the cleverest men who ever entered the ring is the opinion of many close followers of the game. And it seems no card will be complete without his name on it.

Mack House returned to the ring to redeem himself and did it successfully by knocking out KO Mohan, after about a minutes of fighting. Mack led and appeared to mean business from the very start.

Tiger Flores gave Lefty Floyd a lot of punishment, but was unable to finish him, however he got the decision. Floyed showed fiflashes of fighting, yet always came back for more severe punishment.

Boy wonder got a draw again from Wop Flynn in the next affair. There was very little slugging and some good scientfic work.

MR. WM. (Bill) CARROLL IN TOWN

Wm. Carroll, who will be remembered as the man who started the Alexander Giants Baseball team, and built the baseball park bearing that name, has returned to our city for a short while. Last year Mr. Carroll had the good fortune to get into the employ of some millionaires who have been cruising around the globe in their private yacht.

Mrs. Carroll arrived here from New York last week to join the party, which will sail shortly for Honolulu and Japan, returning by way of New York.

Mr. Carroll has promised to write us the story of his trip next week.

DINNER DANCE A SCREAM

Among those pretty Westside Darlings who made that Saturday night "struggle and eat-fest" a brilliant success were the charming Mesdames Bessie Davis, "Joe" Brown, Nellie Carlisle, Mable Lee, Minnie Watson, Vincent Provost, Irma Tatum, J. W. Clark, Dewey Edson, Misses Williams, Bertha Brown and a flock of other beauties.

Of course the gang of male birds that hung around didn't rank high along beauty lines but they were equipped with plenty of chicken feed. Ha, Father Clark won the cocoanut cake, but fell from grace when he softened and let a "sweet mamma" talk him out of half of it.

MACK HOUSE

LET ME DO MY WORK
By: Wendell P. Gladden, Jr.

Let me do my work today—
Whatever it may be;
Work that smooths and paves the way
To truth and honesty.
Free from schemes of brutish men,
Who bring on bitter strife;
Work of worth with plow or pen,
That gives new hope and life.

Let me do my work today—
Wherever it may be;
Whether on the bounding bay,
On land, or surging sea—
In the fields where flowers grow,
(Each kissed by morning dew)
On the sea where West winds blow
And guide each ship and crew.

Let me do my work today—
With all the heart of me.
Let me toil with spirit gay;
And ever faithful be
To my tasks both great and small;
Responding every day
To the endless Service Call,
Along the Narrow Way.

BLACK AND TAN DESERVEDLY POPULAR

HARRY SOUTHARD BUILDS UP SPLENDID ORGANIZATION

The Black and Tan Band seems to have won for itself a place in the vanguard of our local musical profession-organizations. This splendid success is due in great measure, of course, to the talent and ability of the musicians who make up the personnel of the Black and Tan, but the highest credit is to the able management of Mr. Harry Southard.

Not only is it said that the Black and Tan is in demand at the most pretentious functions given by local organizations, but the "regular" Black and Tan dances, held at Arion Hall, East Third Street, near Main, have become extremely popular. Not only are the appointments handsome, but it is said that the best possible order is maintained on all occasions by the management, headed by Mr. Southard.

The Grand Easter Ball, to be given at Arion Hall, Monday night, April 2nd, with the Famous Black and Tan Six, augmented to nine artists, will doubtless be one of the most classy dances of the spring season.

PEOPLE'S MOTOR BUS CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

210-11-12 Grosse Bldg.—Phone 823678

The part motorbusses would serve in furnishing additional transportation was told to the Western Avenue Business Association this week, by John Dickerson, associate of Wm G. McAdoo.

Mr. Dickinson in addressing the Executive Committee of the Association said in part:

"Los Angeles is growing into a great metropolis. We residents possibly don't realize that very rapidly we are approaching a metropolis of the class of Chicago, New York, London and Paris. Consequently specialized facilities of different kinds are needed especially in transportation. Now, are you in this great metropolis of Los Angeles, contented with the street car facilities? I understand there are fewer miles of street cars actually operated here today than was the case ten years ago.

"I want to emphasize that a motorbus creates its own traffic, it creates a type which otherwise is simply not carried, and by creating that traffic of course, it tends to build up communities; it tends to bring new people in.

"I have had queries put to me as to whether the motor bus will not increase traffic congestion. The present application of the People's Motorbus Company does not propose the operation of busses in the center of Los Angeles, in the so-called restricted area, between First Street and Ninth Street, and Hill and Main Street. The situation down there is such at the present time that something will have to be done about it. But we do not propose to operate in that area or to increase the tangle which exists.

We propose to take the people just as the Pacific Electric does, right down to the edge of the congested district and allow them to have easy access to the neighborhood to which they wish to go.

"A motorbus in a very little more than the amount of space occupied by a large touring car, would carry from 50 to 60 passengers. Many people who take their automobiles down town with them now and wonder what to do with them after they get them there, would use the motorbus if it were available.

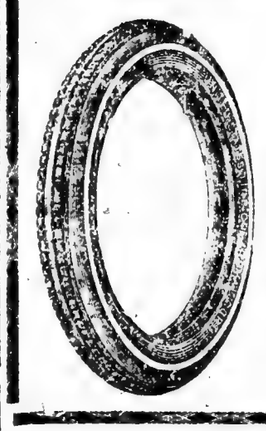
"Now, the motorbus will enable the street car to perform its service to the public more satisfactorily, by taking off some of that overload. Now, I understand the street car people say that is cream; it may be cream to them, but it is not cream or comfort to those who supply the cream. As a matter of fact, Los Angeles is growing at the rate of about 110,000 to 115,000 people per year. Each person takes 3000 rides on the street cars in a year. That means that each succeeding year there are about thirty million more people carried by the street cars, more so-called revenue passengers than the year before.

"The application for a franchise for the People's Motorbus Company has been drawn up with the desire to be as fair as possible to the city. There is a provision that the city shall receive 3 per cent of the gross receipts. There is, of course, the license tax which would have to be paid on the busses. There is the property tax which would have to be paid on the physical property of the company. There is a provision in the franchise that in the event the city cares to take over the busses, after it has been demonstrated that they are a success, they may do so for the bare value of the depreciated property at the time taken over, without any payment for the franchise or for the value of the good-will.

"This is an enterprise which is going to bring capital into the community. Los Angeles is being built up by new capital coming in. The growing city is not the city that builds a wall around itself and says, "Now we have attained our zenith, and hereafter we will be self-sufficient."

"The stability, the security, the dependableness of this enterprise is guaranteed by the fact that it has at its head, names of very prominent and staple interest in Los Angeles.

"The railroad people have been alarmed, apparently, about this application for a franchise. We are trying to help them. We are not going to be put into a position of assaulting them or keeping them from doing the duty which they owe to the public. We are trying to help them to do it. There has been some feeling on their part that they would be injured by this franchise. I believe that in a growing city like Los Angeles there is all the business for everybody to do that is in a position to do the business, and certainly, if a man or a group of men are not in a position satisfactorily to do the business which they propose to do, it does not lie in their mouths to say that somebody else who offers the facilities to do that business shall not be permitted to do so.



"I rejoice in the talk that has been going around over this city about subways and street extensions since the People's Motorbus Co. has applied for a franchise. It is competition. It is the thought of competition that has been waking things up, and if this sort of competition is converted into the reality of competition, why, we will all work forward with a great deal more energy and a great deal more efficiency to serve the needs of Los Angeles.

"The People's Motorbus Co., asks only to be allowed to serve the people of Los Angeles by adding a new and necessary element into its transportation and guarantees a seat to every passenger."

The program was conducted by Sir. Knight Percey Carter. The Allen Chapel choir furnished the music. The pastor, Rev. J. Edw. McCorkle preached the sermon. Comment has it to this fashion "The best ever heard in Riverside."

THINGS IN GENERAL

The summer visitors are keeping the trail busy from all points. The following named persons of the Voluntary Workers Club of Pasadena were in Riverside and worshipped at the Methodist Church Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. E. McDowell, Mrs. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Owens, also brother Franklin from Alhambra. Other visitors were J. E. Smith nad Son from Elkville, Ill.

The Presiding Elder made a hurried trip to Los Angeles, in the afternoon and consecrated the new A. M. E. Church on the West side. Major Prioleau is the moving spirit that inspired the achievement.

Mrs. Stone of Los Angeles, Grand Lecturer of the Eastern Star visited Queen Elizabeth Chapter, No. 8 Tuesday night in her annual tour of the State.

Mrs. Carry Hopkins, 1146 King St., Los Angeles was in the city on business.

The Missionary Club gave another entertainment Friday night, the main event was a candy pulling. My! how the old young folks and the young old folks did pull candy.

Ladies still have birth days, but no definite age. Mr. and Mrs. Middlebrooks and Mrs. McGhee served dinner in honor of the Presiding Elder and the birthday of Mrs. J. E. McCorkle. It was a brilliant affair, not only with candles but the repast and the presents, also the spirit of it.

Mrs. Nettie Jones was made to feel sad this week over the news of the death of a dear friend, Miss Lelia Rogers of Kansas City, Mo., who was murdered by her former husband Mr. David Allen. MONROVIA NEWS

March 25th Rev. Burton preached a noble sermon Sunday morning, and two members were daded to the church. This little charge is moving up the King's highway. Sunday evening, Rev. Burton came to worship in Pasadena and brought Mrs. Austin and her three daughters. The three young ladies gave a very good trio for the League Program.

The citrus groves in and around Monrovia are sending forth a sweet smelling odor, reminding us that Spring is here.

Monrovia can easily be called the Mecca of those seeking health. The climate here is about the best that can be found in California. Because of this, many are finding their way here, and are being much benefitted by coming.

Mr. Bagba, of East Huntington Drive, is proving himself to be a very thrifty man. Out of his accumulations, he is now building a very beautiful court, consisting of several concrete houses. Hunting Drive is one of the most prominent streets in Monrovia.

PASADENA

March 25th Sunday—Rev. Cooper is sick in bed with a severe attack of cold and under the care of the doctor and was not able to be up to fill his pulpit Sunday. Rev. Gantt preached a wonderful sermon Sunday morning for Rev. Cooper—Text, "The Lord will provide." One member added to church Sunday morning.

REFEREE'S CARD GIVEN JEANNETTE

First Colored Man in New York to Get License.

Joe Jeannette, one of the great colored heavyweights of 12 or 15 years ago, has been licensed to serve as a referee in New York. He is the first colored man to be thus honored, and, it is understood, will officiate at "colored" clubs.

The old-time fight fans who knew Jeannette when he was fighting the Jack Johnsons and Sam Langfords would hardly know him now.

In those days Joe was a bushy-haired individual, trimly built, and with muscles that stuck out on him like knobs of mahogany.

Now he's bald-headed and fat, a kindly man, and very popular even among the white fans.

His last public appearance as a boxer was when he served as a sparring partner for Carpentier in the Dempsey match.

Two days before the fight Jeanette created a mild sensation by saying for publication that, old as he was, he wished that he, and not Dempsey, were going to fight Carpentier.

The services of the Shiloh A. M. E. church were largely attended Sunday. The pastor preached at the morning service, his subject was, "The Devil Leaveth And The Angels Ministereth." I t was received with much joy by all present. Rev. (Major) Prioleau, Los Angeles, preached in the afternoon, to a very large audience. He being filled with the Holy Spirit, delivered a message that will long live in Monrovia. He was accompanied by his wife and children. They were the guests of Rev. and Mrs. Reed. The Zion Methodist church has on a drive to raise money to build a parsonage nad community house. $3,500 is the amount sought for. A big amount of this sum is in sight says some who know. Pastor Reed will preach at both services Sunday.

Rev. Reed spoke and Mrs. Reed, George Hollins sang and Mrs. Ella Banner recited, before the Westminister Bible class of the Presbyterian church Monday night.

their struggles to penetrate or circumnavigate, each in his own way, the oppression which confronts the black man in the South; their defeat, one after the other, like tenpins in a bowling alley; the death of Jake and his wife and Jake's bitter realization that the only place a Negro can get justice and happiness is in Heaven. It is a big theme. Mr. Wood handles it in a big way. His is the objective manner and he has mastered it amazingly. He is like an expert pipe organist who pulls out all the stops and revels in rich harmonies of bass chords—the chords of thunderous tragedy and pain and sorrow.

Unfortunately, every story about the Negro is, as yet, symbolical. Hugh Wiley writes of a carefree, dice-shooting Wildcat and his goat, Lily, and the average American is all too prone in his ignorance to say, "There is the typical Negro!" Thomas Dixon writes of a black rapist or a "good old nigger" and his untrue picture is held up as an unfailing representation of eleven million people. I do not mention Clement Wood in the same breath as those two. Yet the average American who reads "Nigger" will never suspect that, in spite of all his handicaps, the Negro in America has made more rapid progress than any other group in history in a similar period. Had Clement Wood permitted but one of his characters to catch a glimpse, however fleeting, of that vision which has enabled the Negro to live on when hope seemed gone; had he but let some ray of light penetrate the murky shadows; had he but given to his readers some slight intimation of the powerful forces which are moving the South, and especially the black South, today he would have given us a novel which, if not truly great, would have been nearer the mark than "Nigger." He knows the South, he knows the Negro eternally, and, nearer than any other white writer that has come out of the South, he knows the inner workings of the Negro mind. "Nigger" is not a great novel but it has many of the elements of greatness. Powerful, moving, convincing, it paints a dolorous and pessimistic picture. Yet, if this great problem which Mr. Wood knows so well could be seen in the stark, brutal outlines he gives, public opinion would rise in indignation to correct the evils. Thus "Nigger" is more than a novl—it is a document.—Walter White.

This article is from the Nation, March 28th, and from its tone, we opine that the white man's civilization is turning to hate—and at the rate he is going, he will soon hate himself.

MAKE READY FOR COMING OF GREAT NATIONAL BAPTIST CONVENTION IN SEPTEMBER, 1923.

At the last session of the National Baptist Convention which convened in St. Louis, Mo., Dec., 1922, that body voted to make good its pledge to Los Angeles by holding the next session in this city in the month of September.

As chairman of the General Committee and Moderator of the largest group of Baptists West of the "Cintinental Divide," I desire to call the attention of the citizenry and all the Baptists of California, Los Angeles in particular, that the coming of the convention is a matter that concerns ALL and offers no special favors to myself, or to anyone of us who made it possible for this city to be favored with the presence of the greatest body of men and women that ever assembled on American soil.

It is the wishes of the Committees as well as the desire of the good people of Los Angeles that there be a united effort on the part of all irrespective of 'party affiliation' or religious persuasion.

Persuant to systematic execution of the mammoth task of caring for the Convention, or arranging for same; and in the light of past experiences; we thought it wise to make the Executive Board of the Western Baptist Association the "Hub" in the wheel of our activities looking toward the entertaining of the Convention.

This, however, does not exclude Pastors of Churches tributary to this Association, or laymen upon whom much of the burden will depend. For the reputation of the citizenry of this state is at stake, as well as is the future of our denomination.

"Let there be no strife betwixt me and thee," this is no time for misunderstandings, nor to reward or punish enemies; the interest of our people is at stake; let each of us do our best and retake that which we may have lost.

R. N. HOLT.

THE BYSTANDER

L. K. Beeks

Out at my Alma Mater, the Los Angeles High Scool, is one Mr. Diggs. We are not aware as to what sort of an excavator this young man is in books but we can glean from the reluctant testimony of his enemies that he is some digger on the track. Last week this youngster of our fold only copped three first places for L. A. in the A. A.-Poly track meet. This is good enough for anybody. As a rule good athletes are poor students. Along with our praise we would caution our meritorious friend so that his present stamina and usefulness spent on the track shall typify him in the classroom and in after life when his school days are o'er.

EASTER

With the budding of Spring and its flowers, with the air balmy and fraggrant with the calla and Easter lily, there is so much good sense in the present arrangement of seasons until if the Creator of Heaven had permitted us with our critical and discriminating taste to choose a better and more appropriate period for Easter, it would have been an impossible task. Sunday is Easter, and whether we are followers of God, or Conscientious objectors, we can all join harmoniously in declaring such a day blessed and fittingly arranged for triumph and resurrection.

EPOCH MAKING

Howard University, the Colored man's best bet for higher education, stimulated by the activity of wide awake Alumni Associaions, has given prompt, hearty and favorable consideration to the Memorial presented to the Board of Trustees by the Executive Committee of the General Alumni Association, demanding potential voice: (a) In the election of Trustees, (b) In the election of President, (c) In all other propositions concerning the welfare of the University.

This is a steady and progressive step. It invites interest and follows the precedents of the leading colleges of our land.
